FOOT OF WATER IN SUBWAY

2 HURT IN STREET CAVE-IN Nearly an Inch of Rain Falls When Two Storms Meet Over the City.

AUTOS STALLED IN STREETS

More rain than normally falls in a week fell in ten minutes early last night when two storms blown toward the sea from the north and west met over the city. The cloudburst marooned thousands of persons in the stations of crippled subway and railroad lines, paralyzed all forms of street traffic, caused a subway excavation cave-in in which two persons were injured and led to temporary evacuation of four buildings. Lightning, which with large hailstones accompanied the rain, struck twice. A policeman was stunned by one of the bolts.

The barometer had been low all day but the sky had been clear. Few when they left their homes to go to work in the morning took with them any protection from rain. Even when the homegoing rush started in late afternoon there was no definite sign of an impending storm. It was only at 6 o'clock that the sky suddenly clouded.

At 6:35 the rain began. As the first drops came down the force of the wind increased to forty miles an hour. And the fall of rain steadily increased in intensity as the heavy clouds darkened the sky.

Cloudburst Lasts 10 Minutes.

The cloudburst occurred at 7:25. In the next ten minutes nearly half an inch of water fell. The sky, normally bright at that hour, became as dark as midnight. After the ten minutes the cloudburst itself slackened, but was followed by a series of heavy showers. The last of the rain had fallen before 8:30.

But by that time almost an inch of rain had fallen and this, combined with high river tides which backed up the water into the sewers, had severely crippled transportation systems.

At the Grand Central Station forty trains that were to have taken upward of 20,000 from the city were held at their platforms for more than an hour by a rush of water, five feet deep at some points, over the maze of tracks in the flooded terminal tunnel. One other train, with 500 passengers for New Haven, was marooned in the tunnel during the entire tie-up.

As the New York Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads were already struggling to handle the holiday exodus, this emergency disrupted all schedules temporarily. Thousands massed in the great concourse of the station, crowding it almost to its capacity. Many were leaving town for the holidays and thousands of others were commuters bound for homes in Westchester and Connecticut.

Trains coming into New York were halted along the line north of 125th Street and at the various local stations along the line in the Bronx. But once off the trains they were little better off than when on them. Very few could find means of transportation to take them from the stations to their homes or hotels.

Subway Tracks Submerged.

The worst subway tie-up occurred in upper Broadway. There water backed up from the sewers, coming down stairs and ventilation windows from the street, submerged all four tracks. Emergency squads were called to speed the drainage by removing the caps of the drain pipes and sweep water away from the platforms.

When these measures failed and water continued to seep into the excavation even after the rain had stopped the water at 9:40 caused all the power to be cut off from Times Square to Ninety-sixth Street. Passengers were sent to walk. All trains at Times Square were re-routed back

Atlanta Mayor Clears Jail, Setting 200 Free for Fourth

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3 (AP).—More than 200 prisoners in the city jail were preparing tonight to spend the Fourth of July with their families and friends as the result of an executive order issued today by Acting Mayor J. Allen Couch directing that they be freed at midnight.

The order called for freeing every prisoner possible under the laws affecting clemency by the Mayor.

Mayor Couch said the prisoners were not felons, but were held for minor violations of city ordinances which other persons pay small fines for breaking.

"There are just as many people out of jail that belong there as there are already confined," said the Mayor, adding that "all my life I have wanted to do something charitable for my fellowman."

RAILROADS TAXED BY JULY 4 EXODUS

AIR TRAVEL SETS RECORD

Roads to Beach and Country Crowded—Wide Celebration Planned in City.

Transportation lines, struggling to keep all their regular equipment moving on normal schedules while running every piece of available rolling stock to take care of an enormous volume of holiday traffic, reported last night that the Fourth of July exodus from city to seashore, mountain and lake regions was the heaviest in their history.

The movement of holiday traffic has been mounting since Thursday of last week, when tens of thousands of boy and girl campers left the city. Its peak swept through the railroad terminals last evening like a tidal wave.

Weather Forecast.

At the height of the exodus tens of thousands were caught in one of the heaviest rain and electrical storms of the season, and most of them were drenched before they could get to shelter. While thunderstorms were reported general along the North Atlantic Coast, the local Weather Bureau promised fair weather for today.

While the activity around all kinds of transportation centres and the increasing vacancy of city streets indicated the big proportion of New York City's inhabitants that had departed for the country, the millions remaining at home completed plans for patriotic celebrations throughout the city.

Hundreds of thousands of travelers clogged the Grand Central Terminal and the Pennsylvania Station, and many who were unable to buy seats on all-Pullman trains, and who found that even day coaches were filled to capacity, postponed trips out of town until today. Consequently, the railroads announced that they were prepared to accommodate extra heavy through travel today, although the bulk of travel will be from Manhattan to near-by seashore resorts and the countryside, generally speaking, in the metropolitan area.

Railroad officials who had estimated that the volume of holiday traffic would total approximately 2,000,000 passengers by rail, water, air and bus were inclined last night

CUTS ORIGINAL DECREE

RULING IS DISCOUNTED

Supreme Court Justice Phoenix Ingraham, in a decree entered yesterday in the County Clerk's Office, refused to restrain the Interborough Rapid Transit Company from pursuing its fight for a ten-cent fare on its elevated lines. He also declined to hold that the company was in contempt of court in continuing that fight.

His decision was contained in the final decree and findings of law and fact that came as a result of his decision last Spring that the Interborough was not entitled to a seven-cent fare on the combined subway and elevated system. His decision was made at the beginning of March, but because of disagreement and wrangling between counsel as to the wording of the order entered yesterday, his signature was withheld, it was learned yesterday.

Decree Sought by City.

The decree requested by the city would have restrained the Interborough from pursuing before the Appellate Division its separate application for a ten-cent elevated fare, up before that body on a writ of certiorari, obtained by the company after the Transit Commission had held hearings, and then denied the ten-cent elevated fare application.

Adjudged and decreed:

(1) That the defendant Interborough Rapid Transit Company, its successors, and assigns, and its officers, agents, directors, employes, attorneys and representatives and each and every one of them are hereby permanently ordered, commanded and directed to specifically perform and continue in the performance of contract No. 3 (the 1913 contract) and the elevated extension certificate by transporting and continuing to transport for a continuous ride over its lines all such passengers and persons as desire that privilege and present themselves on a payment of a fare of five cents, and no more, and the defendant Interborough Rapid Transit Company, its successors, and assigns, and its officers, agents, directors, employes, attorneys and representatives and each of them are permanently enjoined and restrained from increasing its fare from five cents to seven cents on the subway lines or elevated lines, or any part thereof operated by the defendant, or from charging or collecting a fare in excess of five cents on said railroads for a continuous ride in one direction or from in any way violating or ignoring the provisions fixing the five-cent fare contained in contract No. 3 and the elevated extension certificates.

Cut Proposed Decree.

Justice Ingraham cut from the proposed decree the following, which would have followed the preceding in sequence:

"And from bringing or prosecuting any suit, action or proceeding under the Public Service Commission law, the railroad law, or the rapid transit act before any court or administrative body in which suit, action, or proceeding any prayer is made for an increase of

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—Every one is asking tonight what is the sentimental value of the Prince of Wales's old panama hat with the words "New York" inside which his caddie lost for him on the Seaton-Carew links at Durham. The Prince expressed such concern over the hat that a crowd scoured the links long after dark until the hat was found near the eighth green.

"It is not very valuable as far as the cost is concerned," said the Prince after his game, "but I value it," and he asked that it be forwarded to St. James's Palace.

The caddie said it made him "go cold all over" when he found the hat he had been carrying for the Prince had slipped from his pocket.

"I dared not tell the Prince about it, so I mentioned it to one of the members," he declared. "A host of people scattered over the course when the Prince said he would like to have it back and added, 'It's got New York inside it.'"

The Prince had another adventure at Sunderland today when Charles Edward Smith, an unemployed ex-service man, dashed past the police guard and jumped on the running board of the royal car.

"I was with the Prince when he went to Bermuda," Smith afterward explained, "and I just wanted him to say, 'Hello, Smith,' to an old shipmate."

The Prince showed no concern, though this is believed to be the first incident of its kind in his long experience of public functions.

Driver Who Hit Car a Father, Smith's Son Drops Charges

Arthur Smith, son of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, refused to press a charge against a truck driver, whose machine had been in a collision with his roadster, when he learned that the driver had a family dependent upon him, it was learned yesterday.

The accident occurred Monday morning on East Avenue, near Fourth Street, Long Island City. One of Smith's companions received a laceration over his right eye and Smith insisted that the policeman on the beat take the driver to the station house.

At the Hunters Point station Smith found that the driver, Joseph Kehoe of 46-06 Borden Avenue, Long Island City, had a family, whereupon he refused to press the charge. Smith did not reveal that he was the son of the former Governor, and it became known only in a police check-up on the accident report.

MUSSOLINI DEMANDS PEACE PACT REVISION

DEFINITE ALLIED SPLIT SEEN

Italy May Now Be Aligned With Hungary, German Extremists and Minority Groups.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—Through the medium of an interview given to a news agency and printed in Paris today by the Petit Parisien, Premier Mussolini of Italy has given an unofficial reply to the memorandum of Foreign Minister Briand of France suggesting the formation of a European federation.

The Italian Prime Minister, who has hinted several times that revision of the peace treaties which ended the World War is necessary if Europe is to be pacified, has now definitely taken the leadership of European discontent and in a tone which is considered here as perturbing. The basis of his statement that the nations which came out of the war victorious are not satisfied with their victory and must have a general revision of the peace treaties, as a preliminary to any attempt at federation, is considered as a calculated inexactitude intended to cloak quite a different meaning.

While all the victorious countries have certainly failed to realize from their victory the positive benefits of complete indemnification and of security which were hoped for in the first days of optimism which followed the armistice, not one of them, unless it be Italy, is seeking any departure from the Young plan settlement of the financial issue or any further territorial aggrandizement. Premier Mussolini, the French believe, seems for his own purposes to seek to attribute to all the victorious nations the sentiments and ambitions which he alone entertains.

On the other hand, his words will doubtlessly have the effect of placing him at the head of all the discontented non-victors of Europe, thus creating for the first time a definite split in the allied ranks and aligning Fascist Italy along with Hungary, the minority peoples of Rumania and Yugoslavia and the German Nationalists.

Rebuffed by Germany.

Il Duce's open advocacy of treaty revision at this moment has perhaps been more pronounced because of the recent rejection by the German Government of certain Italian overtures. The government of the Reich, instead of welcoming his championship of the cause of revision, indicated, it is understood, quite firmly that although there still remain outstanding questions on which Germany will patiently but persistently push for revision, she is not prepared now to depart from Dr. Stresemann's policy of peaceful, co-operative searching for improvement of her situation.

It is above all question the Polish Corridor and the separation of East Prussia which Germany is anxious to have resolved and Il Duce's advocacy of revision probably will be hailed by all German Nationalists and militarists, who are critical of the government's slower and peaceful policy. The French believe that Signor Mussolini, by his expression, has constituted himself a champion and a leader of these militarist malcontents in every former enemy country. For the Prime Minister of one of the victor countries, it is a curious position.

Naturally, here the question which is being asked is, At whose expense is Italy desirous of having the peace settlements revised? It is so unusual for any Prime Minister to make such a suggestion that it is no exaggeration to say that the effect here has been one of strong resentment.

Fortunately, it is believed, his supporters in other countries for the most part will belong to the minorities. Hungary perhaps will be the only exception, and the effect of the close relations which have sprung up

They Will Stay Up Until "Something Happens," Says Refueling Plane Pilot.

BUSINESS MANAGER CHOSEN

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Friday, July 4.—The business of making a world's refueling endurance record settled down to dull routine yesterday as the flying Hunter brothers in their airplane City of Chicago kept up their wanderings over Sky Harbor, with no indication of coming down until next week, if then.

This morning Kenneth and John Hunter had been in the air twenty-two days, and no one questioned that they would be able to celebrate the Fourth of July aloft. They had 537 hours behind them at 1:40 o'clock.

Just after the 209th contact yesterday evening, a message came down from the plane saying that one of the bolts which hold the engine to its mount had broken and fallen out. A new bolt was sent up immediately and a little later, Kenneth, who last year landed safely in Davenport, Iowa, after a motor had ripped from the front of his plane, was seen crawling about the catwalk repairing the engine mount.

Then there were reports that the engine was pumping oil, but they were denied by Frank W. Clarke, Wright engine expert. As the plane flew on into the night with no more word for the ground crew, the mechanics went back to their card games and cots, confident that when the holiday crowds began to stream into the field today the City of Chicago would still be up and flying.

Aside from a brief scare yesterday, the Wright motor kept on turning over with the same even drone, and Walter Hunter, who, with his brother Albert, mans the supply plane, said that he was sure that the endurance fliers would stay up until "something happens."

"Maybe it will be Saturday or Sunday or maybe next week—I don't know. It's up to the motor now," said Walter.

Lieutenant E. L. Moon of Rantoul went up in an army plane to talk to the boys by radio, and he brought back a conversation that made it plain that the Hunters don't intend to come down for a long time.

"They said they were getting used to the life in the air by now," he said. "Their faces were clean and shaven and their hair was combed. I couldn't see any trace of the three-week strain in their smiling faces."

Oil Is Rushed Aloft.

During the day the ground crew was thrown into momentary panic when the plane dropped a note saying: "Bring oil right away or the motor will burn up." The refueling plane took off immediately. Oil was lowered and everything went well until last evening, when the army plane went up to attempt a second radio contact.

"Jockeying for position for the contact, our wire got twisted around the navigation light of the endurance plane," said Lieutenant Moon. "We had just made the contact and one of the brothers motioned to speed

CONGRESS ADJOURNS WITH HOOVER VICTOR ON LAW BOARD FUND AND VETERANS' BILL; SENATE BOWS TO THE HOUSE AMENDMENTS

President Will Call Extra Session for Monday; Treaty Likely to Be Ratified in Week or 10 Days

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Hoover in conference with Republican Senate leaders told them he would issue a call for a special session of the Senate, beginning Monday. The call, it is expected, will be sent out tomorrow morning.

Senators Watson, Reed, Allen and Walcott previously discussed with the President every angle of the treaty situation. Senators Watson and Reed told the President they were confident of their ability to hold a quorum of friends of the treaty in Washington for the period of the special session and that there was every reason to expect the ratification of the treaty after a discussion lasting not more than a week or ten days.

The President completed today writing the call for the special session. It is reported to be brief and to the point. The treaty will be called up by Senator Borah immediately after the Senate convenes and he may make the first speech in favor of ratification. If he does, he will speak briefly. He thinks that the treaty has been discussed fully and that long arguments either way will not change the result.

Senator Johnson is likely to fire the first gun for the opposition, and probably will be followed by Senators Robinson of Indiana and McKellar. Senators Hale and Copeland also will talk at some length, according to the opposition program.

Senator George, who has been listed as "lukewarm" on the treaty, announced today his decision to vote for ratification.

ASK SPECIAL SESSION FOR CITY INQUIRY

GOVERNOR CRITICIZES PLEA

But Says He Will Take Up Proposal for Investigation With Leaders on Return East.

A special session of the Legislature to empower Governor Roosevelt to investigate the New York City administration was suggested yesterday by Senator John Knight, majority leader of the State Senate, and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies in a letter to the Governor.

The Republican legislative leaders recalled in their letter that Governor Roosevelt vetoed a bill authorizing him to appoint a commission to investigate the New York City magistrates, Police Department and Board of Standards and Appeals. They added that disclosures brought to light by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had revealed a "saturnalia of graft and official wrongdoing," which made an investigation more necessary.

In his veto of the bill empowering him to appoint an investigating commission, Governor Roosevelt pointed out that the Legislature had ample power to make an investigation by the appointment of a joint committee. The Legislature failed to adopt a resolution creating such a committee, largely because of the opposition of Speaker McGinnies.

With a State election coming in November, the Republican legislative leaders are now making a second attempt to "put the Governor in a hole," and prepare the way for a charge that he is protecting New York City officials if, as expected, he should refuse to call the special session, according to political observers.

Text of the Letter.

GLASS FIGHTS IN VAIN

Senator Norris Warns of Danger to Enforcement If Sum House Voted Is Denied.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Continuance of the Wickersham law enforcement commission as an official agency supported entirely by government funds was assured today when the Senate, reversing a previous vote, agreed with the House of Representatives in voting $250,000 for the commission for the coming year in the second deficiency bill and concurred in permitting its inquiry to embrace all law enforcement.

The Senate voted on Friday to allow the commission only $50,000, limiting its work to prohibition enforcement. This action was followed immediately by an announcement from the White House in which President Hoover said that if necessary the commission would continue to function with the support of private contributions.

Senator Jones of Washington, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, won a notable victory in today's vote, he having stood alone against the recommendation of his own committee in upholding the larger appropriation.

Glass Charges Camouflage.

The victory for the commission in the Senate followed a vigorous defense of its request by Senator Norris, qualified by caustic criticism of its methods of operation.

During his speech he was interrupted by Senator Glass, an advocate of confining the commission's work solely to an investigation of prohibition enforcement, who said he was "simply opposed to spending $500,000 to afford the administration a medium" for "camouflaging its attitude on prohibition."

The vote in favor of the larger appropriation today was 37 to 22, contrasted with a previous 35 votes against Senator Jones's proposal to 30 supporting it, cast on June 27.

Seven Senators switched from the opposition to make today's victory possible. They were Senators Dale, Metcalf, Phipps and Sullivan, Republicans, and Brock, Pittman and Ransdell, Democrats.

Danger to Enforcement Forecast.

The vote came on a motion by Mr. Jones that the Senate agree to the action of the House of yesterday in voting $250,000 for the commission and extending its inquiry to embrace all law enforcement.

Immediately after the Senate had adopted the Glass proposal to limit the appropriation to $50,000, House leaders began seeking means by which the President could avoid calling on outside sources for funds, as he had announced, and in order to restore the larger appropriation they were forced to resort to unusual parliamentary tactics.

In his speech Mr. Norris favored the larger appropriation because, he argued, if it were denied the result would be harmful to prohibition en-

PRESIDENT HOTLY ASSAILED

Under Administration's Whip Senate Restores Law Board's $250,000 Fund.

WIDE POWERS ALSO GIVEN

Insurgents and Coalition Go Down in Defeat in Closing Hour of Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The second session of the Seventy-first Congress, one of the most tempestuous in recent years, adjourned at 10:38 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) tonight after President Hoover had come to the Capitol and signed the veterans' and the second deficiency bills, which had been the cause of controversy and delay in the closing days. The District of Columbia bill also was approved by the President.

The President was met on his arrival at the Capitol by Senators Watson and Walsh of Montana and Representatives Purnell and Collier, who reported that both houses were about ready to adjourn.

A small table was made ready for him in the Vice President's room while experts looked over the bills before the final ceremony.

Mr. Hoover, who was in evening dress, looked well and happy. Many Senators were introduced to him, and later he sat smoking a cigar and chatting with his friends, awaiting the final action of Congress.

The House was in recess most of the evening. Speaker Longworth left at 6 o'clock for his home in Cincinnati, and that body devoted its closing hours to disposing of minor legislation, besides the second deficiency and District of Columbia appropriation bills.

The House adjourned sine die at 10:35 o'clock and three minutes later the Senate adopted the resolution which brought the session to a close. After this the President returned to the White House.

President Wins on Legislation.

The final hours of the Senate session were marked by two signal victories for President Hoover in the face of sharp attacks on his policies.

At 9:15 the Senate passed the conference report on the war veterans legislation by a vote of 48 to 14, ending the deadlock which had held up adjournment.

Immediately thereafter the Senate adopted the conference report on the second deficiency appropration bill containing an item of $250,000 for continuing the work of the President's law enforcement commission.

The Senate then took up the final bit of legislation of the session, the conference agreement on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, already adopted by the House.

After disposing of this business the Senate was prepared to adjourn, but Senator Norris, leader of the Republican insurgent bloc, held up the adoption of the adjournment motion by delivering a post mortem oration on the recent tariff legislation.

Senator Norris's remarks led Senator Glass to indulge in a dissertation concerning political activities in the Methodist Church.

Many Requests for Tariff Inquiries.

The last hour of the session witnessed a scramble among Senators to suggest articles on which they desired tariff investigations.

A resolution by Senator Copeland of New York directed the Tariff Commission to investigate differences in production costs at home and abroad on wool and other articles for the purpose of rate changes under the flexible provision.

The Senate adopted amendments to a resolution offered by Senator Walsh, adding Northern white pine, Northern or red pine and Eastern spruce to the list of articles. One was by Senator Barkley, adding window glass, straw hats and fourdrinier wires, another by Senator Harrison adding maple syrup and

TRENTON, N. J., July 3.—Indicted jointly and individually on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of $760,000 in income tax returns for the period 1923-1927, Harry E. Hooley, Leonard B. Willits and Charles R. Myers were held in $5,000 bail each yesterday by Judge Boyd in the Federal Court in Camden. They were indicted June 18.

Myers owns the Hotel Breakers in Atlantic City, but rents it to a holding corporation, deriving 21 per cent of its profits. Willits until recently was chief representative of the United States Treasury Department in New Jersey and was a special investigator for the Abell Audit and Survey Commission, which has been conducting an inquiry into State departments in New Jersey. Hooley is a deputy collector of internal revenue.

The indictments charge that by falsifying Myers's income tax returns they defrauded the government of $171,396 in 1923; $181,495 in 1924; $212,454 in 1925; $12,417 in 1926, and $72,611 in 1927. In the joint indictment Willits is accused of preparing the false returns and Hooley of making a false report to his superiors.

One of the indictments sets forth that in 1924, when the hotel man's income tax should have amounted to $188,527, Willits misrepresented the returns so that only $7,032 was paid; in 1925, when the tax should have been $217,177, only $4,723 was paid; in 1926, when $125,998 was due, only $5,581 was paid; that in 1927, when Myers's income was $331,385, no tax was paid.

Willits is also accused of having falsified his own income tax returns over a period of years.

The only intimation in the indictments that Willits might have received compensation for making out the false returns is contained in the tabulation of Willits's 1927 net income as computed by the government. This shows an entry: "From Charles R. Myer, $2,000; miscellaneous income, $14,579; total net income for the year, $31,572." Willits reported his 1927 net income as $16,092.

Among the alleged false deductions from Myers's gross income for 1923 was one of $39,000 for a loss alleged to have been sustained by Myers in the sale of an orange grove in Florida. "Whereas," the indictment says, "Myers in fact had not suffered such loss."

maple sugar, and another by Senator Howell adding boots, shoes and hides.

Senator Jones suggested that the commission be asked to investigate all the items in the new tariff law and Mr. Harrison demanded a vote on Mr. Jones's motion. The upshot was that Mr. Jones withdrew the motion.

The Senate passed without amendment, on request of Senator Copeland, a House bill to authorize the cession to the City of New York of land on the northerly side of New Dorp Lane in exchange for permission to connect Miller Field with the New York public sewer system. The bill now goes to the President for approval.

Two Battles in the Senate.

The Senate in accepting the conference report increasing the appropriation for the Law Enforcement Commission to $250,000 surrendered to the wishes of the President, who objected to the Senate's original action in appropriating only $50,000 and limiting investigation by the commission solely to prohibition.

The great fight in the Senate was staged on the conference report on the war veterans' relief bill, and for more than six hours insurgents and Democrats fiercely attacked the President not only for his attitude on the pending bill but in a direct and personal way. The hostility to the administration marking the debate was in strong contract with the opening of the special session on April 15, 1929, when nothing but laudatory speeches were made on the policies of the administration.

House Adopts Veterans Report.

The conference report on the veterans' bill, which eliminated all of the Senate amendments opposed by the President was adopted by the House by a vote of 342 to 3 after a brief explanation of the situation by Representative Royal C. Johnson.

In presenting the report to the House, Mr. Johnson read a letter from President Hoover which had been previously submitted to the conferees and influenced them to follow the views of the President.

The original House rates with the maximum pension of $40 for veterans with 100 per cent disability was adopted by the conferees, who also eliminated the Senate amendments which would give pensions to those suffering from disease known through "wilful misconduct."

The only Senate amendments retained were those taking from the Controller General supervision over the action of the War Veterans Bureau on claims and extending the time to file claims in war risk insurance for three years.

In effect, the conferees followed implicitly the desires of the President and agreed upon the House bill as passed early in the week, which was known as the Johnson substitute.

President Hoover's letter, addressed to Senator Watson, Republican floor leader, read to the conferees this morning, and to the House and Senate later in the day had the effect of crystallizing support for the conference agreement. It made it clear that the President would veto such legislation if it carried the Spanish War pension rates.

Text of the President's Letter.

The President's letter read as follows:

July 3, 1930.

The Honorable James E. Watson,
United States Senate.

My Dear Mr. Senator:

You request my views on the effect of the Senate amendments to the new House veterans' bill.

I must say at once that these amendments again re-establish injustices and discriminations between veterans, impose unwarranted burdens on the taxpayer and perpetuate entirely wrong principles in such legislation. There are many points of criticism in this direction.

For instance, under these amendments the average allowance to veterans whose disabilities were incurred in civil life subsequent to the war will work out very close to the same average payment as that given to veterans who actually suffered from battle and in the trenches. This is an injustice both to the men who suffered in the war and the public.

The amendments reverse the House action limiting allowances to men who are exempt from income tax. From this removal of the indication of necessity, a wealthy veteran, if he becomes permanently disabled, either partially or wholly, as the result of an automobile accident next week, may draw a life allowance from the United States Treasury.

The Senate amendments seriously affect the men who were enrolled after the armistice and who never heard a shot fired. They seriously modify the clauses in respect to venereal diseases and impose a burden upon the treasury therefor, which must be condemned from the point of view of family life.

Increase in Taxes Implied.

General Hines estimates the cost the first year of this bill, as passed by the Senate, will be $70,000,000, rising to about $175,000,000 in five years and thereafter. This represents an increase on the House bill by about 250 per cent. These are sums wholly uncalled for by the need of the situation and probably imply an increase in taxes.

There are many other objections to the Senate amendments, such as renewal of certain presumptions, but perhaps this will indicate my views. The bill as passed by the House, before amended by the Senate, was in itself a generous national action, based upon sound principles.

Except for some minor technical points, the House bill met the entire approval of the representatives of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. They did not ask for any more. They have shown a sense of responsibility not only to the country but to the veterans by unhesitatingly expressing their opposition to the major Senate amendments.

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT HOOVER.

Attack "Dictation" in Senate.

When the action of the House was made known to the Senate, it became apparent to the leaders that the President's views must be accepted if there was to be any World War veterans pension legislation and early adjournment. Some insurgent Republicans and Democrats, however, strongly objected to what they termed "dictation" by the President.

It seemed apparent as soon as the Senate had acted on the appropriation for the Law Enforcement Commission in the second deficiency bill that enemies of the administration intended to attack the President and prevent if possible the adjournment of Congress.

Senator Reed briefly explained the veterans' bill conference agreement and recommended its adoption. He said the conferees had eliminated many objectionable features contained in the Senate amendments and had been forced to do so in order to save the situation.

"This, in my opinion, represents satisfactory results," he said. "The House conferees declined to accept the Senate amendments which doubled the cost of the first year of pensions. We have not only surrendered on the Spanish War rates, but eliminated the amendments giving benefits to those suffering from diseases brought on by 'wilful misconduct.'"

Senator Reed spoke only ten minutes. He was followed by Senator George of Georgia, who said that the Democratic Senate conferees, himself and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, had refused to accept the action of the majority Senate conferees in receding.

Senator George said the action of the conference was "dictated" by the President, and was without any regard to the veterans themselves, and without regard to the previous attitude of the Republican party and of the President on relief for veterans. He said the President had opposed pension legislation, but in his letter this morning had surrendered to a policy of pensioning.

"In his veto message, Mr. Hoover said it was peculiarly distressing to him to veto legislation for the benefit of the soldiers," Senator George declared. "Well he might say so. But for the war carried on by the men now broken in mind and body, Herbert Hoover would still be unknown in his native land, but would be driving pauper labor among backward peoples to add to the dividends of British syndicates."

This was followed by other references to administration policies which, Senator George said, favored appropriations for tax refunds, but never saw a probable deficit or tax increase coming until relief for veterans was suggested. He said that the President, until the last few days, had opposed pensions for the World War veterans, but had reversed himself, and, in doing so, had refused to support pensions that would raise the veterans above the level of paupers.

"Now that he favors pensions," Senator George added, "I suppose he will favor them for all men, whether injured in battle or bitten by snakes while fishing in the Rapidan on Sunday."

Refers to Unemployment.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, author of the amendment to increase the World War pension rates to the Spanish War bill levels, also attacked the President's letter of today. He referred to "increasing unemployment," and expressed the hope, as he put it, that the President would do better for the starving unemployed than for the soldiers.

The Senator read letters from the Mayor of Evansville, Ind., and a clergyman from New York City, who wrote of increasing unemployment and of hungry persons who had stormed parish houses and city halls. One working man, according to the Senator, had said, "We made the rich and we will not starve," intimating that riots might be expected. A revolt against present conditions was imminent, the Senator asserted.

"Is this situation in New York exaggerated?" Senator Walsh asked Senator Copeland, who replied:

"Just as the writer of one of these letters said, all that the situation needs is leadership. All it needs is leadership to take a mob into the centres of our cities and destroy the property of the wealthy who live there. That is all it lacks.

"There is no exaggeration. When I go down into Sixth Avenue, New York, and see the great queues of people in front of the employment bureaus trying to find some work, then I wonder what may happen sometime when we go too far in the oppression of the poor of our country."

Norris Demands Rejection.

Mr. Walsh did not suggest voting against the conference report, but thought that its adoption was the best thing that could be done at this juncture.

Senator Norris, however, demanded that the report be rejected and that the Senate remain in session until proper provisions for veterans could be made.

"Are we going to show the white feather and vote against this bill to obey the President?" he asked. "I do not blame the President. He is doing what he thinks best. It is ourselves. He is making slaves out of us. He is making us mere pawns. I appeal to the Senate to reject the report and increase the rates."

Senator McKellar of Tennessee joined Mr. Norris and for nearly forty minutes they conducted a cross-examination, apparently indulging in filibustering tactics for the purpose of forcing a recess until next Monday.

Senators Cutting, La Follette, Copeland and Thomas, held the floor during the dinner hour, all of them opposing the conference report. At 7 o'clock Senator Norris's attempt to prevent adjournment was rejected when his motion to recess until next Monday was defeated by vote of 34 to 24.

Session Began With United Party.

The session, which actually began with the Republican party united and expressing extreme friendliness to the administration, quickly became critical of the administration. As it progressed, Republicans vehemently attacked the President because of his refusal to state his views on the tariff bill and for many months this hostility has been manifest.

It was only in the last week, when the President assumed a vigorous position on veterans' relief and warned Congress that its program to award the high-rate pensions to World War veterans would cause a deficit and additional taxes, that the administration assumed a leadership in legislation.

CONGRESS VOTES PLEA FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The long session of the Seventy-first Congress made a farewell gesture in behalf of the nation's unemployed today by adopting unanimously a concurrent resolution expressing the hope that work should be expedited "to the fullest extent" possible on the public works programs which it has provided for "to the end that the unemployment prevailing throughout the country may be relieved."

Meanwhile, the Wagner bill, providing for advance planning of public works and a specific arrangement for the speeding up of construction of public works during periods of depression, goes over until the next session in conference between the two branches.

The House, according to Senator Wagner, struck from the bill the constructive and effective part of it, and left it only a "proclamation." On motion of Mr. Wagner, the Senate disagreed yesterday to the action of the House and appointed conferees. The House appointed conferees today.

Only one of the three Wagner unemployment bills succeeded in squeezing through. This would set up in the Department of Labor means for the collection and publication of adequate unemployment statistics. It is now in the hands of the President. The third Wagner bill, providing for a system of Federal employment exchanges to be operated in cooperation with State agencies, is still before the House.

The concurrent resolution was sponsored in the House by Representative Bell, Democrat, of Georgia, and in the Senate by Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia. It reads:

> Whereas various acts of Congress enacted during the present Congress have authorized the construction of public buildings and the prosecution of other public works and improvement, and provided appropriations for carrying out such authorizations; therefore, be it
> Resolved by the Senate, the House concurring, That it is the sense of the Congress that the letting of contracts and the beginning of construction under the several acts of Congress heretofore enacted authorizing the construction of public buildings and the prosecution of other public works and improvements throughout the United States and the appropriation acts enacted pursuant thereto, shall be expedited to the fullest extent possible, within the limitations provided by law, to the end that unemployment prevailing throughout the country may be relieved.

71ST CONGRESS'S ACTS COVERED A WIDE FIELD

Tariff, Prohibition Unit Transfer and Reapportionment Among Accomplishments.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The major accomplishments of the Seventy-first Congress, whose second session was adjourned tonight until December, were these:

A tariff revision law.

An act creating the Federal Farm Board to promote cooperative marketing and stabilize farm commodity prices.

A law transferring the prohibition unit from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice, and other measures designed to strengthen prohibition.

Increasing rate of pensions for Spanish War veterans and reducing period of service for pension eligibility, which bill was vetoed by President Hoover and enacted into law over the President's disapproval.

Establishing a pension system for veterans of the World War, thus deviating from the policy of confining relief to such veterans through bonuses, hospitalization, disability allowances and wartime insurance. The original World War pension bill was vetoed by the President, and after the House sustained the veto was repassed in a form which deleted the provisions objected to by him.

One per cent reduction in income taxes for calendar year 1929, amounting to about $160,000,000.

Reapportionment of representation by States in House of Representatives and providing for taking decennial census of 1930.

Provision for two new Federal penitentiaries and hospital for convicts mentally deficient and suffering from incurable diseases, and other measures for care of convicts.

Sanctioned French war debt settlement for funding $4,025,000,000 over period of sixty-two years from 1925.

Directing reorganization of Federal Power Commission.

Establishing National Institute of Health, to be supported in cooperation with State Governments and private organizations.

Provision for many notable public buildings.

It is estimated that the appropriations made by the Congress during the session which ended tonight will approximate $4,850,000,000, as compared with an aggregate of $4,665,000,000 appropriated last year.

BROOKLYN LAUNDRIES DISSOLVE ASSOCIATION

Decide Not to Fight Suit by State —Mrs. Whitney Asked to Head a New Group.

The Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association of Brooklyn voted yesterday to dissolve voluntarily, rather than face the suit for dissolution begun last month by Attorney General Hamilton Ward. The resolution adopted by the board of directors denied the charges of the Attorney General that the association's practices were illegal, and gave as the reasons for the voluntary dissolution the large expense of litigation and the desire to form a new and stronger organization.

Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, appointed dictator of the industry in May, said at the end of the meeting that she would announce next Monday whether she would accept the invitation of the laundry owners to head the new organization.

The resolution was adopted Wednesday at a general meeting of the association members. The directors voted for it unanimously after a stormy session at the association offices, 1,801 Avenue M, Brooklyn. Several directors insisted that the association fight the Attorney General's charges in court.

The board of directors approved another resolution commending Mrs. Whitney on the success of her work as dictator for two months. The resolution also appealed to her to assume control of the formation of a new organization which would seek to stabilize the industry in Brooklyn.

It was announced at the end of the meeting that a general meeting of the laundry owners of Brooklyn will be held next week, probably next Thursday, to take steps to form the new group. By then Mrs. Whitney will have announced her decision.

M'FADDEN PREDICTS LOWER PRICE SCALE

World Economic Readjustment Also Means Drop in Living Standard, He Says.

HE CHARGES MANIPULATION

Blames Morgans as Chief International Bankers—Asserts They Control Reserve System.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A gloomy picture of the economic situation in the country, with the prediction that we are only beginning to feel the effects of a gigantic readjustment, was presented to the House today by Chairman McFadden of the Banking and Currency Committee. In the course of his speech he reiterated attacks he has made on J. P. Morgan & Co. and the new Bank of International Settlements for German reparations.

Mr. McFadden said that the readjustment was being directed by a bunch of "geniuses in the management of credit," who had been attempting a "defiance of the laws of economic gravitation," but who had come to the realization that optimism could not forever serve as the basis for constantly expanding credit.

"In 1928," he asserted, "these men convened themselves and decided that a readjustment was imperative, that the world's economic, industrial and financial procedure should undergo a complete change or evolution. Since the date of that decision the machinery to perfect this accomplishment has been in full force and effect.

"We are only begining to feel the effect of this decision by economic powers. Commodity price levels are being reduced to practically the 1913 basis; wages are being reduced through the creation of a labor surplus by the slowing up of production to an extent which has thrown 4,000,000 or more of our people out of employment.

Sees Natural Resentment.

"We must realize that we are going to a new price level much lower than that which has prevailed during the past decade. We must also realize that, before this change is fully accomplished to the entire satisfaction of those who are directing it, much suffering and hardship will prevail.

"Unemployment and hardship always bring unsettlement in the public mind, sometimes to a degree which results in anarchy and revolution. It is natural and right that the average citizen should resent having his livelihood made the subject of manipulation.

"The war resulted in bringing our industrial and financial leaders into contact with the industrial and financial leaders of the rest of the world. One of the consequences of this contact was the assumption by our industrial and financial leaders of control of such affairs throughout the world.

"This control of the world business structure and of human happiness and progress by a small group is a matter of the most intense public interest. In analyzing it, we must begin with the international group which centres itself around J. P. Morgan & Co.

"Never before in the history of the world has there been such a powerful centralized control over finance, industrial production, credit and wages as is at this time vested in the Morgan group.

"The Morgan interest is able to exercise a high degree of control in international exchange, loans and commerce through the fact that the parent Morgan Company acts as fiscal agent for Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, is the dominating influence in the new Bank for International Settlements and is the most potential influence in the Federal Reserve System, which last is virtually a pool of our national assets.

Calls Reserve Board Acquiescent.

"The Morgan control of the Federal Reserve System is exercised through control of the management of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the mediocre representation and acquiescence of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

"This international association of financial organizations under a central control marks a new epoch in world financial history and is the basis of the greatest danger free government has had to face in centuries.

"Hand in hand with this financial control marches an equally potent and dangerous organization of international political and industrial control. Politically, this control has expressed itself in the United States by a control of the press and the executive departments of the government with the object of bringing about the adoption of measures calculated to make the people and the resources of this country an acquiescent part in the international plan."

Work Permits for Pupils Drop 1,700 in Year Here

The city's school children have found about 1,700 fewer part-time and full-time jobs this year than last, due to general unemployment, it is indicated by figures issued yesterday by George H. Chatfield, director of the Bureau of Attendance.

During the application period, from June 9 to 27, vacation working papers were issued to 6,166 pupils throughout the city, against 7,286 last year. Regular employment papers were issued to 4,089 pupils, as compared with 4,656 in the same period last year.

CHRYSLER SALARIES ARE CUT 10 PER CENT

PROFITABLE BASIS AIM

Labor Has Already Contributed Its Share to Saving by Working Shorter Hours.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 3.—The Chrysler Corporation has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent in salaries, the company announced today.

It was explained that the reduction is consistent with a retrenchment policy which the current depression in business demands.

The corporation issued the following statement:

"The 10 per cent reduction of all salaries which Chrysler Corporation has made is consistent with a retrenchment policy which the current depression in business demands.

"Labor has already contributed substantially, through reduced working hours, and it was felt to be only fair that salaried employes should also bear some of the burden.

"The reduction applies to all salaried employes uniformly from Mr. Chrysler down.

"It is a tribute to the morale and loyalty of the organization that the advisability of this move has been generally recognized and cheerfully accepted.

"The Chrysler organization is determined to operate its business on a profitable basis, under whatever conditions may exist, and the readiness to make all necessary sacrifices, as indicated by this move, is a factor of strength which is bound to be reflected in the ultimate success of the company and its continued progress in the automobile industry."

FISHER BODY STRIKERS CLASH WITH TROOPERS

Clubs Are Used in Riot at Flint and Several Arrests Follow —Statements Disagree.

Special to The New York Times.

FLINT, Mich., July 3.—Clubs were used today on Fisher Body Corporation's striking workmen, numbering about 1,800. Twenty-three men and two women were held after thirty-five State troopers had broken up a parade around the plant. Conflicting statements by opposing sides make it difficult to get the true reason for the disturbance.

Cecil E. Comstock, chairman of the strike committee, who said that more than 4,500 men are out, said that on Tuesday, June 24, the Fisher Body management introduced a new scale, cutting men's wages from $1 an hour to 40 and 50 cents an hour, and that women's wages in the upholstery departments were cut from 65 and 70 cents an hour to $1.12 and $1.20 a day.

These cuts, Mr. Comstock declared, are the essence of the disagreement, although the men advance other grievances, based on working conditions.

On the other hand, R. J. Whiting, plant manager, asserted emphatically that there has been no cut in wages; that the company has no reduction in contemplation; that an adjustment of wages to new types of work takes place yearly and the adjustment this year is no different from those made every year for years past, without the slightest trouble.

Mr. Whiting added that the only difference in the attitude of the men this year from what it has been in the past years is that today they are under the influence of communistic leaders who have come here from Chicago and Detroit in the hope of making trouble during the period of wage readjustments required by the changes in models under production.

HUNTER BROTHERS FLY INTO 23D DAY

up a little. Then the plane dropped down and I cut the wire, fearing that, caught as it was, the plane might go into a nose dive.

"They tried to avoid the first contact because one of the brothers was asleep, and I guess the other didn't want to bother with the microphone."

As the days roll by, new offers of money are made to the Hunter brothers, and these are relayed by Al and Walt to their brothers in the air. What effect these offers are having on the fliers' determination to stay in the air was not known, for most of the messages dropped from the plane were kept secret.

Good for Another Two Weeks.

Walter Hunter made known that there had been a handsome offer from a movie concern to appear in the talkies, and there have been other offers from vaudeville circuits, beverage manufacturers and companies in the aviation trade. The reward of $100 an hour for every hour aloft after the former record was passed, offered by an oil company, stopped after 100 "overtime" hours were passed, bringing the Hunters $10,000.

John was somewhat put out over the rumors that circulated saying that "Beans," the youngest of the flying pair, was getting tired of his lot and was ready to come down.

"That's slush," he said in a note. "Beans and I are good for another two weeks."

Fears that the plane would be brought down by a court order arising from a petition for an injunction and receivership were quite allayed when Judge Michael Feinberg decided that he would wait until the boys landed to hear the case.

In the meantime the news men, camera men, radio men, ground crew and hangers-on settled down to the routine of watchful waiting. A Loop hotel sent out a score of cots and blankets and a bellhop and a maid to minister to the needs of those who wait to record the landing of the City of Chicago.

Manager Is Chosen.

CHICAGO, July 3 (UP).—The record-breaking flight of the City of Chicago assumed the proportions of big business today and was organized accordingly.

The backers of the Hunter brothers announced today that they had elected a field marshal in the person of Bernard L. Majewski, vice president of an oil company, who has heretofore been flight secretary.

Majewski, it was announced, will have the powers of a czar. He will pass upon all financial offers, such as those calling upon the Hunter brothers to endorse the latest mattresses, underwear and the like. There have been many such offers. Majewski also will censor communications to and from the endurance plane.

Most important of all, Majewski will endeavor to prevent such untoward incidents as the one created yesterday when a Sheriff appeared on the scene prepared to summon all four of the Hunter brothers and their backers into court. The Sheriff departed without bothering the endurance fliers, but it was a harrowing affair for all concerned.

Sister Irene Hunter, chief dietitian, laid aside her frying pan, and brothers Walter and Albert of refueling ship fame forgot their job to help organize the remainder of the flight along big business lines.

Three things were agreed upon: First, that an income of around $175 an hour is not to be sneezed at, even if the night air is a bit chilly; second, that the City of Chicago simply must stay up until tomorrow or until Sunday, when a landing can be made in a spectacular fashion before the largest possible crowd; third, that if the plane won't stay up that long there should be at least twenty-four hours' notice before it descends, so things can be arranged as well as possible. All this was transmitted to the Hunter brothers aloft.

The reply of the endurance fliers was a request for a 50-cent jew's-harp to aid in whiling the hours away.

Broadcasting Contacts Fail.

A difficulty of the day had nothing to do with the success of the flight, but it left radio fans disappointed. It was the third failure of an army radio plane to pick up a broadcast from the endurance fliers by dropping to them an extension microphone.

When the army plane returned to the ground officers charged their equipment had been tampered with. Their battery, they said, had been turned on during the night and had lost its charge.

The army radio engineers on the ground then reported they found a wire had been cut and its loose ends concealed in a box. The result of the alleged tampering was that John and Kenneth talked into a "dead" microphone.

Their short-wave broadcast was to be picked up and rebroadcast by the Columbia system. For the radio service they are receiving $1 a minute.

THE SOUTHERN CROSS AT SALT LAKE CITY

By MAJOR CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH,

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 3.—We crossed the plains today in our own covered wagon.

The Southern Cross took off from the Curtiss airport at Chicago this morning at 8:45 o'clock, New York time, and after a rather bumpy trip came down with the aid of landing lights at the Salt Lake municipal airport at 11:15 o'clock, New York time, tonight. The distance is about 1,200 miles and includes about every kind of flying I have ever done except oceans.

I want to say at the start that the lads who fly the mail night and day, Summer and Winter, over that stretch do a job of work. It was the first time over this route for any of us.

Even Van Dyk, who is to have the longest air line on the K. L. M. Lines between Amsterdam, Holland and Batavia, agrees with me that the going from New York to Chicago and from Chicago here offers about every problem that flying can present. The work of the Yankee mail fliers is known wherever aviation is talked about in the world, but one has to fly here to learn just what they are doing.

I suppose that for seventy-five or a hundred years folks have been telling their friends about coming West after they have made the trip, and all we have done today is to repeat a journey that has been made thousands of times. Yet I have the temerity to attempt to tell something about it.

Farewell Look at Hunter Boys.

After getting into the air this morning, we circled about for a farewell look at the Hunter boys, who seem determined to keep flying from now on. Then Captain Saul set a course a little south of west toward Iowa City.

We had a helping wind at the start and the old Southern Cross flew over Illinois and Iowa in jig time. The Mississippi River, a disappointingly small stream where we crossed, passed beneath at 10:15 A. M., and then we began the long steady climb across Nebraska.

Here the winds shifted and we were fighting them much of the rest of the way. I have never seen the wind come from so many directions in a single flight.

Saul was busy with his drift indicator more than with his charts. The route was simple enough with airway markers and beacons every few miles. However, we did not always stick to them. We tried short cuts and then we had to dodge about when we got to the mountains to avoid the storms.

We crossed into Nebraska to the north of Omaha and a few minutes later picked up the River Platte. History was never my strongest point, but I seem to remember about the settlers starting out from Omaha and Council Bluffs and following the Platte River westward. That is what we did today.

It was just as new to us as it was to those pioneers going out with their families on the Oregon trail or following the south branch of the Platte down into Colorado.

Thrilled by Sight of Wheat Fields.

Moreover, we probably got more of a thrill, for our travel was not complicated by hardship and fear. Beneath us on every hand we saw the handiwork of the descendants of those pioneers. Miles of wheat and corn, with the fields forming a rough green and yellow checkerboard as far as the eye could see in all directions.

From the intensive farming regions we climbed into the rougher country. Along this route, the live stock must have experienced airplanes flying over many times, but today we struck some herds that acted as if they were seeing an airplane for the first time. As the shadow of our big noisy bird passed above them, they set out for the back country as fast as they could go, hundreds of them.

It was in this region of sharp ravines and round-topped hills that our fun began. Up above was the cold air, down below on the surface it was hot. These air divisions apparently were busy trying to change places and the result was that, try as Van Dyk and I did, the old Southern Cross was bobbing up and down all the way.

In the cockpit, we had our controls to hold us in place, but the boys in the back room, John Stannage and Saul and our passenger, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, just took the bumps as they came.

We were in the air fourteen and one-half hours and at least ten hours of that time we were riding the air waves, about as smoothly as a canoe in a choppy sea.

Dodged Thunderstorms.

After Nebraska, came Wyoming, and then the real scenery. We had reached Cheyenne when our first thunderstorms entered the picture. We managed to avoid their centres, but got into the fringes of four storms, one right after another. That threw us off our course and took a lot of time that we could have used to advantage.

There was little time to look at scenery. However, off to the south, perhaps in Colorado, we say snow-capped mountains and to the north the Laramie Range loomed up almost as bleu as the sky above.

It was 6 P. M. New York time when we passed over Cheyenne and Fort Warren.

It looked for a time as if we would have to come down unless Van Dyk and I wanted to attempt a little night pathfinding in the Rockies over terrain that we had never seen before. Saul assured us, however, that we could just about make Salt Lake City in daylight, so we wound up the motors and shoved along.

We were flying now at 7,000 and 8,000 feet and even then the land came up to within a few hundred feet of us at times.

Stannage reeled in his aerial here. He had a quiet day. Our radio generator went out yesterday and it was not working today. He could receive, but not send.

He spent the day with earphones on listening for messages that never came, up to the time we went into the mountains. Then, rather than tangle his wire in a scrub pine, he reeled it up.

One place in Wyoming sticks in my mind. It is called Point of Rocks, a rugged rough valley with railroad tracks and a few houses and canyon walls surrounding the settlement. Here it was that settlers were massacred by Indians. From the air it looked like a good place for a massacre.

From point of rocks we flew on over the tops of the knolls to Rock Springs. We were making but seventy-five miles an hour over the ground, although our air speed ranged from ninety to 100 miles. We left Rock Springs for our last hard climb soon after 9 o'clock, or 6 o'clock Mountain Time, and headed for the Wasatch Range.

Climb to 9,000 Feet.

On the route we took there were no landing fields and no spots that I had any desire to investigate with a three-motored ship, so we climbed to 9,000, kept a weather eye out for emergency fields and set our course southwest for Salt Lake.

Ahead the hills piled up higher and higher and the sun sank closer to the horizon. Finally it went down, a great red ball behind a blue black mountain.

Then the airway beacons did us a good turn. We picked them up on our left and followed them straight in over Salt Lake City. Up where we were, it was still twilight, down in the valley it was dark, but the beacons led us straight in to as well lighted an airport as I have ever landed on.

We got down on the long fiedl at 11:15 o'clock, and as we climbed out we agreed on one thing. Today's flight, except for the fog and the distance, was harder than any ocean.

Tomorrow the Southern Cross will finish the journey the old ship started on two years ago. It was May 31, 1928, that Charles Ulm, Lieutenant Smith, our radio man, Harry Lyons and I took off from Oakland across the Pacific. Tomorrow afternoon I will land on the same runway and that, as far as the Southern Cross is concerned, will be the end of the story.

We had a cordial reception here. Mayor John F. Bowman, Harold P. Fabian, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and some 5,000 others were at the airport to meet us in spite of the lateness of the hour. Everywhere in this country there is tremendous enthusiasm about flying.

His Wedding Set for Sept. 6.

OAKLAND, Cal., July 3 (AP).—R. H. K. Smith, brother of Major Charles Kingsford-Smith, today said Sept. 6 had been set for the wedding of the flier and Miss Mary Powell in Sydney, Australia. The couple will return to California for an automobile and airplane tour, Mr. Smith added.

Miss Deris Kingsford-Smith, daughter of R. H. K. Smith, will be bridesmaid.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTEVIDEO, July 3.—The Uruguayan Government was advised today of the serious illness in the Chaco of Major Iribar, who has been superintending the arrangements for the evacuation of the Paraguayan Fort, Bouqueron, by Bolivians in accordance with the Washington accord terminating the controversy that resulted from the frontier skirmishes between Bolivian and Paraguayan patrols in December, 1928.

Under this accord Uruguay was requested by the Commission of Neutrals to oversee the exchange of forts.

The Uruguayan Government is sending an ambulance airplane to Chaco, piloted by Colonel Berisso, commandant of the army flying school, to bring Major Iribar to Montevideo for treatment.

PLANS TO RUSH NEW JOBS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—The House of Commons passed tonight in its week-long task of making the gentle art of tax dodging a less lucrative pastime for the idle rich, while Prime Minister MacDonald outlined speedy legislation for relieving unemployment, now standing at 1,815,300 men and women. An outstanding feature of the Labor Government's plan is the reduction of the machinery for Parliamentary sanction for certain works planned by local authorities, thus saving legal costs and much time.

Simultaneously important administrative measures to ease the situation were announced by the Minister of Health and Transport, who said $2,500,000 would be made immediately available for works in necessitous areas, and that the government's trunk road plan, estimated to cost $140,000,000, was considerably extended.

COSTE UP 14 HOURS IN TEST OF PLANE

RESULTS PLEASE THE FLIER

He Now Hopes Weather Will Permit Start Within Two Weeks, Perhaps When Moon Is Full.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—In the most careful methodical and scientific fashion possible, the great French airman, Dieudonné Coste, and his assistant, Maurice Bellonte, are preparing their attempt to make within the next few weeks a direct flight from Paris to New York. It is likely that their motor finally will be in order by the middle of next week, and thereafter the tedious wait for good weather may be begun.

Captain Coste hopes, however, that toward the 15th of the month, or perhaps earlier, there will be a good spell over the Atlantic, and it is possible that he may start again this year on the 13th of July, the same day as last year when he made his unsuccessful attempt and was forced back near the Azores, making a flight, however, which was equal to the total distance from Paris to New York.

Today what may be described as the semi-final tests were entirely successfully carried out. Leaving Le Bourget Field before 7 o'clock this morning, the two airmen, with their red Question Mark, flew for fourteen hours, making a tour of Western France, and landed at the Villacoublay airdrome at 9 o'clock this evening. This fourteen-hour test was planned, like all the others which have been made, with very specific objects. In the first place, the plane was loaded with 3,600 litres (more than 900 gallons) of gasoline, making a total weight of 4,700 kilograms (10,340 pounds) to test the lifting power of the new 650-horsepower motor and the new disposition of the wings of the famous plane.

Result Very Gratifying.

The result was extremely gratifying. With its full charge the plane will weigh 6,200 kilograms (13,640 pounds), and its capacity to lift that weight was easily proved by the ease with which it took off with 1,500 kilograms less. It had left ground within thirty seconds and rose easily over Le Bourget air fieled.

When the Question Mark landed at Villacoublay this evening the motor was dismounted by mechanics, and tomorrow the pilot himself will verify every point which he is anxious to have made clear. For instance, two kinds of spark plugs, some of porcelain and some of mica, were used on today's flight, and they will be carefully examined to see which stood the test better.

Tonight the mechanics are measuring carefully the amount of gasoline and oil consumed on the fourteen-hour flight. A cursory first examination already has shown that the consumption probably will correspond very exactly with estimates.

Fuel Test Important.

This test is of the utmost importance, for Captain Coste is calculating on the possibility of a flight of about fifty hours if he should encounter head winds and fog such as Major Kingsford-Smith met with. He plans to take the usual shipping route this time, on which the weather information is better, instead of the Southern route, which he tried last year, and the length of time taken will depend entirely on the wind resistance. He hopes to push the plane to the utmost during the first six or eight hours so as to gain time right from the start, cutting down to cruising speed at great height later.

This evening, after today's trials, Captain Coste did not conceal his entire satisfaction, although, as usual, his replies to questions were laconic and he was careful about expressing any opinion.

PAIR TRY TO SPAN ATLANTIC IN GLIDER

Long Island Fliers Hope to Attach Craft to Saturnia by 2,000 Foot Tow Line.

Two young aviators from Long Island set out on the Cosulich liner Saturnia for Europe last evening to attempt the first transatlantic glider flight.

The aviators, Robert N. Lewis, 26 years old, of Flushing, and Hugh Keavney, 28, of East Elmhurst, took with them a fragile appearing little biplane with a thirty-one-foot wingspread and a flying-boat hull of duralumin, in which they hoped to soar high above the liner at the end of a 2,000-foot steel tow-line.

The tow-line was to be attached to a winch on the upper deck of the liner last evening as the vessel passed Ambrose Light and the tiny aircraft let over the side with Lewis and Keavney in its cramped little cockpit. Their task was complicated by a driving storm and the aviators finally gave up the attempt until 10 o'clock this morning.

Their hope is to remain in the air once they are aloft continuously until the Saturnia reaches Gibraltar on July 11. They admitted before their departure yesterday, however, that their success on the eastbound trip was problematical because the prevailing westerly winds will cut down their air speed. The Saturnia has a speed of 19 knots, roughly 21 land miles an hour, and the glider requires a speed of 15 miles an hour to stay in the air. Thus strong tail winds would force the little plane down.

Lewis and Keavney expected, if the attempt was successful, to fly 1,500 feet above the liner at times, and to keep in communication with Captain Roberto Stuparich by telephone. They also carried code flags for signaling by day and a flashlight for night signaling. They carried waterproof flying suits and kapok life preservers for use if they were forced into the sea.

HUSTON TEST WAITS TILL NEXT THURSDAY

But Evidence Accumulates That President Will Insist on the Chairman's Retirement.

HAS BURKE AT WHITE HOUSE

President Also Talks to Allen and Walcott, Young Guard Senators, Who Back Shake-Up.

LEADERS' MEETING DELAYED

National Committee Officers' Holiday Engagements Prevent Session Set for Monday.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Action designed to bring about the retirement of Claudius H. Huston from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, which was expected to come to a head at a special meeting of the officers of the national committee in Washington on Monday, has been deferred until Thursday at the instance of Mr. Huston.

Unable to get a full attendance at Monday's meeting because of the holiday engagements of those invited, Chairman Huston today sent telegrams to all the committee's officers and to the chairmen of the Republican Senatorial and Congressional committees informing them of the postponement.

The special meeting was called by Mr. Huston for the stated purpose of mapping plans for the Republican campaign for the Senate and House. Nothing has appeared to indicate that its purpose was other than that, but the occasion has been accepted by those members of the National Committee, the administration and the Senate who are seeking to have the chairman retire as affording an opportunity to induce him to do so.

Another Meeting Postponed.

It became known today that a meeting of members of the executive committee of the National Committee, with others prominent in the party, has been arranged for the latter part of this week in order to determine upon a course of action, but in view of the postponement of the special session for the committee officers this meeting was deferred. It will be held some day next week before Thursday.

James Francis Burke of Pittsburgh, general counsel of the National Committee, who arrived in Washington this morning and is stopping at the White House, was one of those invited to attend the meeting of the committee's officers. He conferred with President Hoover and other party men concerning the movement. This and other developments gave color to the understanding that President Hoover has determined that if Mr. Huston adheres to his refusal to retire he will pointedly make it known to him that for the good of the party his resignation is desirable.

The understanding also prevails that the members of the National Committee's executive committee, or a majority of them, when they meet here next week, will formally call on Mr. Huston to resign. Should such action fail to move the chairman, a meeting of the full membership of the National Committee probably will be called to pass upon a resolution declaring the chairmanship vacant.

Hoover Confers With Senators.

The active interest displayed by President Hoover by calling Mr. Burke to Washington was emphasized by a conference which the President had today with Senators Allen of Kansas and Walcott of Connecticut. They are active in the young guard group in the Senate, which was organized to support the President's policies, and have been foremost in furthering the demand for Mr. Huston's retirement. They are regarded as spokesmen for the President in the Huston case.

George Akerson, secretary to the President, talked both yesterday and today over the long-distance telephone with Mr. Huston, who is in New York. The subject of these two conversations was not disclosed, but, according to reports, Mr. Akerson, acting in behalf of President Hoover, sought to induce Mr. Huston to come to Washington to see the President prior to the meeting of the national committee's officers.

One report had it that Mr. Huston explained that he had engagements in New York which would prevent him from returning to Washington as soon as desired. No doubt is felt here that if Mr. Huston has an interview with the President the latter will explain that in his opinion the good of the party requires that Mr. Huston should give up the management of the party's affairs.

According to an informed source, no engagement for Mr. Huston to see President Hoover has been made but it would not cause any surprise at the White House if Mr. Huston should "drop in" there on his return to Washington.

A good deal of critical comment is being heard in Republican quarters to the effect that the Republican National Committee is not functioning. It is likely that criticism of this character will come to the front at the projected meeting of the executive committee.

New Choice Not Likely Soon.

The best information obtainable indicates that there is no prospect for the selection of a successor to Mr. Huston in the immediate future. Several prominent Republicans have been mentioned as under consideration for the chairmanship, among them Senator Fess, Postmaster General Brown, Walter H. Newton, secretary to the President; Walter W. Head of Chicago, banker and president of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and J. R. Nutt of Cleveland, treasurer of the national committee.

Suggestions have been made that Vice Chairman Ralph E. Williams of Oregon should assume the chairmanship, but Mr. Williams has not taken kindly to the idea, although it is expected that after Mr. Huston's retirement he will serve as acting chairman until a successor is chosen.

A new name brought forward today was that of Robert H. Lucas of Kentucky, United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Mr. Lucas denied that he was under consideration. Since nearly all of those mentioned as possible successors to Chairman Huston have declared that there was no foundation for the reports concerning them, it is evident that the Republican chieftains are having a hard time to pick Mr. Huston's successor.

In the identical telegram he sent today through headquarters of the Republican National Committee to the officers of the committee, Mr. Huston said:

"Because of holiday engagements some of those invited to the meetings called for Monday find it inconvenient to attend. The meeting has therefore been postponed to Thursday, July 10, at the same hour. I hope you may find it possible to be present at that time."

The officers of the National Committee invited to confer are Vice Chairmen Williams, Daniel E. Pomeroy of New Jersey and Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, Treasurer Nutt and general counsel, Burke. The others invited are the chairmen of the Senatorial and Congressional committees, Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire and Representative Will R. Wood of Indiana.

Panama Mayor Orders Arrest of Persons Using Firecrackers

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, July 3.—Americans who give vent to their patriotism in the traditional manner by exploding firecrackers or torpedoes in this city tomorrow will find themselves in the toils of the law if the police carry out orders issued by Mayor Abel De La Lastra to the chief, Colonel Ricardo Arango.

In a note dated July 1 the Mayor writes: "With the approach of the July 4 anniversary of the Independence of the United States permit me to remind you of the prohibition by this office respecting the sale and use of firecrackers and torpedoes in this city and its suburbs."

The letter directs the chief of police to instruct his subordinates to "capture without consideration of any kind, any person who may be found violating the prohibition, for the purpose of inflicting corresponding penalties."

ARABS AGREE ON PEACE AT BEERSHEBA PARLEY

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BEERSHEBA, Palestine, July 3.—All of the fierce Arab fighting tribes which served under Colonel Lawrence against the Turks during the World War have made peace among themselves. Representatives of Howietat, Maaza, Feniattia and Benisakar tribes have assembled at Beersheba under the presidency of Emir Shaker, a cousin of King Feisal and settled feuds that have created a condition of open warfare in the desert for the last decade.

Palestine was represented by A. Mavrogordato, commandant of police, and District Commissioner Campbell, Sinai by Mualai Jarvis Bey, its Governor, and Transjordania by Lewa Peake Pasha, famous warrior of the Arab Legion.

The Arab enjoys nothing as much as litigation, and the outstanding blood feuds, some of serious nature dating back forty to fifty years, were discussed with full details of raids and counter-raids of recent times. Long tallies of men killed and wounded and property ravaged were offset one against the other, and damages were assessed at the usual rate of forty camels as compensation for a life and a smaller number for wounds and disablement. The assessment involved painstaking addition and subtraction of sums to strike a fair balance.

The conference, which henceforth will be an annual institution, will undoubtedly have a far-reaching effect toward better feeling between the several tribes and ultimately improve the public security in the countries concerned, especially now that a treaty between Great Britain and Iraq has just been concluded.

PRESIDENT TO SPEND THE 4TH AT RAPIDAN

Small Party of Guests Is Invited to His Camp for the Week-End.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Hoover expects to spend the Fourth of July and the week-end at his Rapidan fishing camp, according to plans completed at the White House tonight. He will be accompanied by only a small party of guests, instead of the larger list which had been expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan, and David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aviation, and Mrs. Ingalls drove to the camp this afternoon. Mr. Hoover had hoped to go at that time but was detained in Washington because Congress was still wrestling with the World War veterans' pension bill. If all goes well, he will leave the city tomorrow morning, accompanied by Walter H. Newton, one of his secretaries, Mrs. Newton and their son, John Marshall Newton.

The President will be unable to fish on this excursion because the Virginia fishing season closed last Monday.

Mrs. Hoover is already at the mountain lodge, and her health is daily improving, according to reports to the White House. Although the weather in Washington has moderated, Captain Joel T. Boone, the President's physician, believes she should remain at the camp for some time longer, in order to benefit from the mountain air.

The President plans to return to Washington Sunday afternoon.

NASSAU ACCLAIMS BYRD ON MOTOR TRIP

Puts Wreath on Roosevelt Grave and Has Tea With Family—700 Scouts Greet Him.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd received a tumultuous welcome from the citizens of Nassau County, L. I., yesterday afternoon, when, during a three-hour automobile drive through all the principal towns and villages, he was cheered and acclaimed along the route.

The first long halt was made at Oyster Bay, where Admiral Byrd placed a wreath on the grave of Theodore Roosevelt. Inside the enclosure of the late President's last resting place Admiral Byrd stood for a minute at attention, saluting, and afterward, with head uncovered and bowed, repeated a short prayer.

Three grandsons of Theodore Roosevelt, Kermit, Theodore and Cornelius, the former the son of Kermit Roosevelt, the others sons of Governor Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico, stood near by. After the short ceremony, Admiral Byrd, Captain Ashley C. McKinley and Lieutenant Dean Smith were the guests of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. for tea at the old Roosevelt home at Oyster Bay.

Citizens Line Route of Drive.

Taking a different route for the drive back, Admiral Byrd arrived at Roosevelt Field, where he was greeted by 700 Nassau County Boy Scouts and was presented with an old Oregon Trail half-dollar. Amid cheering and flourish of bugles, the Admiral and his party, led by members of the reception committee of Nassau County, continued to Garden City, where a banquet was held in their honor.

Shortly before 4 P. M. William Enequist, chairman of the reception committee, and John F. Bermingham, vice chairman, arrived at the Byrd headquarters at the Hotel Biltmore to escort their guests to Long Island. At Curtiss Field the automobile procession was met by other county officials and a detachment of motorcycle policemen. From Valley Stream, where the citizens had turned out with flags and firecrackers, to the end of the long drive, the roadsides and houses were decorated with flags and bunting.

Nassau County policemen, directed by Chief Abraham Skidmore, looked after the traffic difficulties and assured a fast run through the county. From Valley Stream the party motored through Lynbrook, Rockville Centre, Baldwin and Freeport. At Merrick Admiral Byrd was presented with a bouquet of roses by Clarke Thompson, president of the Merrick Civic League, on behalf of the league and the Boy Scouts of Merrick.

Crowd at Roosevelt Grave.

After a short speech of acknowledgment, the trip was resumed via Bellmore, Wantagh and Massapequa. The autos branched off at this point for Hicksville and Syosset, going downhill to Oyster Bay, where more than a thousand persons were waiting at the cemetery. Admiral Byrd walked up the slope to the Roosevelt family burial place, where the three grandsons of the former President, dressed in white and bareheaded, greeted the explorer. After the simple ceremony the party drove to the old Colonial home of the Roosevelts, where a halt of half an hour was made for tea.

The trip back to Garden City was made by way of Oyster Bay Village, Bayville, Glen Cove and along Cedar Swamp Road through Jericho Turnpike to Westbury. From there the last stage was past the long hangars into Roosevelt Field, where the Boy Scouts, under Assistant Scout Executive Joseph Fleming, cheered the Admiral and his companions.

Scout William Maroney of Troop 21 presented the old 50-cent piece to Admiral Byrd. In turn, the Admiral pinned the Eagle Badge on the breast of Scout Gerard Pial, who has already received twenty-one merit badges. In a short address to the Scouts, Admiral Byrd conveyed to them the greetings of Scout Paul Siple, who accompanied his expedition.

Today Admiral Byrd leaves for his home at Dublin, N. H., where he will remain over the week-end. On Monday he will be the guest of George Palmer Putnam at a luncheon at the Hotel Barbizon-Plaza.

MEDALS FOR 3 BYRD AIDES.

Davison Announces at Dinner That Army Men Are Cited.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., July 3.—The Distinguished Flying Cross will be conferred by the War Department upon Captain Ashley C. McKinley of the Army Air Corps, who flew to the South Pole with Admiral Byrd, and upon Lieutenant Dean C. Smith of the Air Corps Reserve, one of the pilots on the Byrd expedition, according to an announcement tonight by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, at a dinner in honor of Admiral Byrd. Mr. Davison also announced that the War Department will bestow the Soldiers Medal upon Master Sergeant Benjamin Roth, Air Corps mechanic, who also was a member of the expedition.

More than 200 guests, including official representatives of all the municipalities in Nassau County, attended the dinner in the Garden City Hotel to Admiral Byrd and his associates. Mr. Davison said that the decorations would be bestowed upon Captain McKinley, Lieutenant Smith and Sergeant Roth as "a formal recognition by the War Department of the valuable and heroic contributions made by army personnel connected with the Byrd expedition." The decorations will be presented in Washington next week.

The citations by the War Department said: "Captain McKinley is awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for extraordinary achievement as an aerial photographer in connection with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. In the face of the gravest danger, Captain McKinley performed his duties in such a manner as to deserve the greatest praise. He participated in numerous flights over the Antarctic regions which culminated in the flight with three companions over the South Pole on Nov. 28-29, last year.

"Lieutenant Smith was one of the pilots of the Byrd expedition. He made several flights over the Antarctic regions.

"Sergeant Roth performed his duties as an airplane mechanic efficiently and with great devotion to duty. On one occasion, he almost lost his life when part of the Barrier cliff collapsed. He won especial commendation and promotion from Admiral Byrd for his unflinching devotion to his duties."

The dinner was given by the official reception committee of Nassau County, the chairman of which, William L. Enequist, was toastmaster. One of the speakers was Jeremiah Wood, former Lieutenant Governor and chairman of the Republican County Committee.

12 OF BYRD'S CREW STILL HUNTING JOBS

Six of Aides Have Found Work, but Others Are Getting Restless Over Idleness.

Two weeks ago yesterday the Byrd Expedition returned to New York to receive one of the wildest welcomes in the history of the city. Rear Admiral Byrd and his officers embarked on their triumphal tour of the East, and the members of the crew proceeded to the task of finding new jobs. Only six have succeeded; twelve remain on the expedition's list of unemployed.

Jesse Moulton, who is assisting Captain Ashley C. McKinley in finding jobs for the men, expressed concern yesterday over the comparatively few inquiries being received regarding these men. He said they were becoming restless, unused equally to living in a big city and to idleness.

Most of those without work are quartered at the Seamen's Church Institute at 25 South Street. Their expenses are being paid at present from the funds of the expedition, but this support, it was said, cannot continue much longer.

"Every one of these men," said Mr. Moulton, "has proved his fitness for the type of work he is seeking. None of them is trying to capitalize his connection with the expedition; none is trying to jump far from his past field of occupation. It would seem that employers would be more interested than they are in finding places for our men."

Brown, Captain Gustav L., master mariner who captained the Eleanor Bolling. Is seeking a ship or some other marine position.

Berlin, Arthur, was stoker on expedition and previously was a seaman. Is now in Chicago and wants clerical position.

Clark, Arnold, served as electrician on expedition. Had been a tree expert and electrician with Bell Telephone Company. Wants electrical job, preferably in Massachusetts.

Erickson, Sverre, was second and third officer on the Eleanor Bolling. Formerly was construction foreman and wants to return to that work.

Paape, Frank, was seaman on expedition and is son of the owner of the Grand Hotel in Dunedin, N. Z. Wants to learn American hotel methods.

Royal, Edward, coal passer on expedition, who previously had been an engineer. Now seeks work about a flying field or in engineering capacity.

Reichart, Louis, steward during and before expedition. Seeks similar position.

Robinson, Alfred B., seaman and harbor pilot, who shipped on from New Zealand. Wants work in aviation or mercantile shipping.

Woolhouse, Maurice, seaman from New Zealand.

Shrimpton, Harry N., graduate of a New Zealand college, who was a radio operator on return voyage. Wants a job connected with radio to learn more about that industry. Money no object.

In addition, three members of the crew have been assigned temporary jobs on the City of New York, but these will be of short duration, it was said. They are Arthur Fitch, Howard Kelly and Jack Bursey. All three want clerical jobs here.

BANNED CREDIT TO GREECE.

Naples Court Acted in Private Claim, Italy Finds After Protest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, July 3.—After the Greek Government had made an indignant protest through its Minister at Rome against the action of the Court of Cassation in Naples in placing a financial embargo on Greece, the Italian Government immediately took action to end this outlawing by a district court of a whole foreign nation and discovered it had been based on rather far-fetched grounds.

Count Caponi of Naples, who claims to be a descendant of the former Greek ruling house of Comnenos, sent a communication to the Greek Government renouncing his pretensions to the throne, but claiming property worth more than $1,000,000. When the Greek Government left his letter unanswered he lodged a complaint in the Court of Cassation at Naples, which found in his favor and ordered the suspension of all credit to Greece.

GUARD TO FIRE SALUTE AT PEEKSKILL TODAY

Units in Camp Will Pause in Training to Mark Holiday—Haskell Reviews Them.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., July 3.—While the 2,200 National Guardsmen in the State military camp in Peekskill, comprising the 106th Infantry of Brooklyn and 105th Infantry of Troy and up-State points, went through combat exercises and marksmanship tests on ranges today, arrangements were made to fire forty-eight guns as the national salute in observance of Fourth of July tomorrow noon.

Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commanding General of the Guard, and Colonel Hampton Anderson, assistant chief of staff, after inspecting the 245th Coast Artillery's 800 men from Long Island under Colonel Bryer Pendry, at Fort Wright on Fisher's Island, hurried back to Peekskill to review the 2,200 infantrymen in camp this evening.

Colonel Thomas Fairservis of the 106th Regiment took the troops to the outskirts of the Peekskill camp for combat exercises against a theoretical foe. They were instructed in advancing and retreating tactics. Colonel Walter Robinson had the 105th firing howitzers, machine guns, rifles and pistols in its qualification shooting tests.

Colonel Joseph A. S. Mundy of Brooklyn, division adjutant, leaves Peekskill Saturday to inspect the 121st Cavalry of Albany and up-State cities, under Colonel Kenneth Townson in Pine Camp, and the 212th Coast Artillery of Manhattan under Colonel William Ottman in Fort Ontario.

COURT PRISONER ESCAPES.

Burglar Suspect Walks Out Unnoticed When Arraigned in Harlem.

Harvey Seigler, 32 years old, under suspicion of burglary with four other men, walked out of Harlem Court yesterday after his arraignment before Magistrate Earl Smith and escaped before his absence was noted. The courtroom was crowded and Seigler apparently took advantage of a slight commotion caused by a woman who became excited.

Seigler was arrested on Tuesday by Detective Peter Larkin of Inspector Archibald McNeill's staff with Frank Santora, 37, of 125 East Eleventh Street; Harry Newman, 39, of 1,098 Simpson Street; Samuel Friedman of 224 West 112th Street and Edward Valentine, 37, of 241 West 110th Street. They were suspected of having broken into a store at 324 Lenox Avenue. Valentine was admitted to $5,000 bail while the others were remanded for a hearing on Saturday.

Edward Tyrell, clerk of the court, said Seigler was missed when the detective led his prisoners to a door a few feet away, where they were to be turned over to a bailiff.

CHANGES NAME FOR $20,000.

Cincinnati Man Complies With Aunt's Will to Get Bequest.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 3 (AP).—Carroll Dexter Walker, 22, today became Charles Dexter and heir to $20,000.

Probate Judge William H. Lueders permitted Walker to change his name. This, under a recent decision of the Court of Appeals, gave him the right to take the money from the estate of his aunt, Miss Annie L. Walker, who died in February of 1916.

Miss Walker left a will which gave the $20,000 to her nephew provided he would assume by law the name of her father by the time he attained his majority. Otherwise the money was to go to the University of Cincinnati for establishment of a fund to be known as the Charles Dexter Memorial Fund.

Walker failed to assume the name after becoming of age and the city of Cincinnati filed suit to collect the money for the university. The city was successful in its suit in the Common Pleas Court but the Court of Appeals reversed the holding.

Commissioner MacDonald Meets Brother, Californian, at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 3 (AP).—Reunited after a separation of thirty-three years, Alexander MacDonald, State Conservation Commissioner, and his brother, Rorya, California realtor, clasped hands today in the State office building here.

Tomorrow they will motor to Montreal to meet their sister, Rachael MacDonald. Then they will entrain for the little hamlet of Blue's Mills, in Nova Scotia, where, in a huge old farmhouse, all three first saw the light of day.

PLAN A COURT TEST OF 18TH AMENDMENT

TO OPEN FIGHT THURSDAY

Case of Sussex (N. J.) Farmer for Transporting Beer Will Be Carried to Supreme Court.

A test case to determine the constitutionality of the Eighteenth Amendment will get under way in the Federal District Court in Newark next Thursday and eventually will be carried to the United States Supreme Court, according to the plans of five well-known lawyers who have volunteered their services in the case.

They are Selden Bacon, former Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, and Professor Leslie J. Tompkins, head of the law school at New York University, all of whom are members of the special committee of the New York County Lawyers' Association which held last March that the Eighteenth Amendment was ratified illegally; Junius Henry Cohen, Commissioner for the Port Authority, and Frederick M. P. Pearse of Newark adn Metuchen, a former assistant United States Attorney.

Mr. Pearse explained last night that he had been impressed by the pamphlet prepared by Mr. Bacon as a result of the committee's study, in which it was contended that the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution wiped out the power of Congress to choose between the two methods of ratifying amendments and required that future amendments should be ratified by the people of the several States in constitutional conventions.

Mr. Pearse volunteered to find a suitable test case and the other lawyers agreed to contribute their services to the fight without remuneration. The case was found when William Sprague, a farmer of Sussex, N. J., was arrested on March 3 charged with transporting fifty half barrels of beer.

"The case is a very simple one with no involved questions of fact to complicate it," Mr. Pearse said. "If it were not for the fact that we desire to make a test case of it I should probably enter a plea of guilty."

Mr. Pearse explained that when Mr. Sprague's case comes up for trial before Federal Judge William Clark next Thursday he will move to quash the indictment on the ground that it does not charge an offense against the United States in that the intrastate transportation of beer would not be unlawful save for the Volstead act, and that the Volstead act, being based upon the Eighteenth Amendment, is an unlawful act of Congress, as the Eighteenth Amendment was never legally ratified and is, therefore, not and never has been a part of the Constitution.

Mr. Pearse said that he and his colleagues hope to bring the case before the Supreme Court by next Spring.

LORD STRICKLAND BACK AT HIS POST IN MALTA

Four Political Factions Fail to Agree on Method of Settling Impasse.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VALETTA, Malta, July 3.—With the return tomorrow of the Prime Minister, Lord Strickland, after a flying visit to London, the tangled skein of Malta politics again comes under review. The suspension of the Constitution with the retention of the Ministers in office is approved by the Constitutionals, who consider it the only way out of the impasse between Church and State and the avoidance of the elimination of their party from the electoral field.

Ecclesiastical authorities declare, however, that the Bishops' pastoral indicting Lord Strickland and his followers and putting support for them in the category of "mortal sin" will never be withdrawn, even if it entails consequences such as suspension of the Constitution. The only possible solution, these ecclesiastics say, is Lord Strickland's resignation or at least his profound, sincere and public repentance to the satisfaction of the Holy See.

The Nationalists are indignant. They hold that the point at issue is that of who has the right to decide whether the question is religious or political. In England, they add, the King is head of both Church and State, and recently Parliament overrode the Bishops in the prayer-book controversy, but in Malta "matters are quite different."

England, they declare, promised respect for Roman Catholicism, which is Malta's religion, but "Protestant intolerance and bigoted prejudice against the Vatican and Bolshevist influence have made the MacDonald Labor Government discard the system hitherto followed by England in Malta in regard to religion." The Nationalists add that persecution and usurpation will only increase the Maltese people's loyalty to the Church, even if it be at the expense of another loyalty. If the Maltese have a duty toward the empire, they say, it has a corresponding duty toward them, and if one duty fails the other fails likewise.

The opinion of Labor, on the whole, favors the solution found and there is satisfaction that the Constitution has not been removed altogether. During the interregnum, however, Labor insists on its representatives being among the government's advisers.

Special measures are being taken to guard Lord Strickland, who will stay only five days, returning then to London with his wife.

Rumania to Increase Arms Budget.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, July 3.—The movement for more armaments initiated by France and Italy has now spread to Rumania, which has decided to increase its military budget by $303,000 to bring it in relation, it is declared, with the armed strength of Rumania's neighbors. The army manoeuvres will be held in the Autumn and will last two weeks.

Czechs Name Group to Study Tariff.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, July 3.—The Prague Chamber of Commerce has appointed a special tariff committee to study the workings of the new American measure. It will also be its task to establish the difference between American and foreign production costs and to propose to the American Government either a change in the tariff or a new classification.

Irish Flag Byrd Carried to Pole Given to Walker for De Valera

An Irish Free State flag carried by Rear Admiral Byrd on his flight over the South Pole was given to Mayor Walker at City Hall yesterday by Jack O'Brien and Charles J. McGuinness, members of the Byrd expedition, before the representatives of Irish societies of the city.

The Mayor gave the flag to Frank P. Walsh, prominent attorney, who said he would send it to Eamonn De Valera, the Sein Finn leader. John F. Curry, Tammany leader and a member of several Irish societies, attended the ceremonies.

SIEMS HEIRS CHARGE REMOVAL OF ASSETS

Charges that the executors of the $1,000,000 estate of Chester P. Siems, railroad builder, illegally removed most of the assets from this city, where his will was probated, to St. Paul, Minn., were made yesterday in Surrogate's Court by the testator's three minor children, who eventually will inherit all of the property. The children asserted, through their special guardian, that the executors transferred the securities composing the principal of a trust established for them in order to evade New York laws governing such funds and the fees and commissions of the trustees.

The executors, Allen G. Siems and the Northwestern Trust Company, both of St. Paul, filed an answer admitting the removal of the assets but contending that since the children have accepted the $3,000 annual income awarded to each by the Minnesota courts they cannot now object to the fund being under Minnesota jurisdiction. The executors also admitted that neither had qualified here as a trustee of the fund but declared that they had filed accountings of their activities as executors with the New York court up to Oct. 1, 1924, and with the other court for the period from that date until Dec. 29 last. They asked Surrogate Foley to dismiss the complaint.

The testator, who died on Oct. 23, 1918, left the income from half of his estate to his widow, now Mrs. Vernon M. M. Steel, for life, and the income from the other half to the children until they attain thirty years of age. At that time they are to divide the principal and on the death of Mrs. Steel they are to share the principal of her fund. The children, who live with their mother at 1,067 Fifth Avenue, are Vernon M., 16 years old; Dorothy S., 14, and Chester P. Siems, 12.

Surrogate Foley will hear argument on the case later this month.

BELGIUM DEFERS REPLY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 3.—Belgium is not expected to reply to the memorandum of the French Foreign Minister, M. Briand, on a European federation before another ten days. The Belgian Foreign Office is working on a reply, which must be submitted for ratification to the Ministerial Council and to the King, who is now in Switzerland. King Albert often acts as his own Foreign Minister and always has his nation behind him.

It is expected that Belgium will agree "in principle and within the meaning of the League of Nations" to M. Briand's proposal, but Belgian officials feel that the economic considerations are more important in this respect than the political aspect of the question.

Vingtieme Siecle, the organ of the Conservative party, says the Dutch and Belgian interests are identical in any federation of European States, as both are free-trade countries. If the object of the federation is to abolish customs barriers in Europe, both Belgium and Holland would stanchly favor it, but any attempt to solve political difficulties between nations can only end in failure, it is asserted.

SENATE RECEDES ON LAW BOARD FUND

"What will be the cry if the Senate should reject the appropriation," he asked. "It would be that Congress has killed the commission. The friends of prohibition would be divided and the result would, on the whole, be harmful.

"The question is whether the President shall be given a free hand, and I, for one, don't want him to be able to say that his hands were tied."

He explained that he took this position despite the fact that he was disappointed in the way the commission had conducted its investigation since it was created one year ago.

Senator Glass declared that the commission had not "divorced prohibition from politics," as was intended, but instead had "divorced itself from an investigation of prohibition."

SAW BULGE IN TICKING

110-Pound Convict Persuaded His Comrades to Hide Him in Bundle Awaiting Shipment.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., July 3.—Jack Levy, a Brooklyn criminal who began a twenty-five-year sentence for robbery a year ago, made a daring and almost successful attempt to escape from Sing Sing prison today sewed up in a mattress. He had passed two sets of guards when a peculiar bump in the mattress caught a keeper's eye and led to the discovery of Levy, a razor in one hand and a hammer in the other.

He was quickly overpowered and placed in solitary confinement, preliminary to his transfer to Clinton prison at Dannemora, where the most dangerous inmates of the State's penal institutions are concentrated. Levy, who would not have been eligible for parole until Jan. 29, 1950, must serve at least two years more than that because of his unsuccessful break today.

Levy, who is now 41 years old, came to Sing Sing a year ago last month, following his conviction for robbery in the Bronx. It was not his first appearance within its walls, as he had served a term for burglary ending in 1912.

His slight physique—he weighs only 110 pounds—aided his scheme to escape. He decided that if he could induce some of his fellow workers in the mattress shop to sew him up inside of one of their products he might be carried out to freedom, where a bulkier individual would have been sure of detection.

He somehow induced his pals to take the risk of added terms involved in his plan—how he did so and who assisted his scheme the prison authorities are busily endeavoring to find out tonight. Fellow convicts placed him so that little breathing spaces were left about his head and carefully sewed up the stout ticking.

The mattress enclosing Levy was placed in the middle of a bundle of six which was ready for shipment. The bundle was loaded on a truck by convicts under the watchful eyes of guards. So skilfully had the job been done, however, that they suspected nothing.

The truck, driven by Keeper Victor Brown, proceeded about 1,000 feet to the south gate in the old wall. There another keeper carefully scrutinized the contents of the truck before signalling the sentry in the watch tower above to open the gate. Only the gate in the new wall, where inspections are not so thorough remained to be passed.

As he approached it, however, Keeper Brown chanced to look around and spy the unusual bump which had developed in one of the piles of mattresses in the truck. He called Principal Keeper John Sheehy, who stooped over, jackknife in hand, and slit open the ticking of the suspicious-looking mattress. He reached within and under the feathers felt the coarse fabric of a prisoner's uniform.

Levy was disarmed before he had a chance to use the razor and the hammer. True to the prison code, he refused to reveal how he had obtained them or who had helped him.

OPPOSE HIRING KEMMERER.

Ecuadorean Papers Back President in Stand Against Advice Now.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, July 3.—The recent bulletin of the Central Bank, urging that Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer be called to Ecuador after the completion of his mission in Columbia, in order that he may advise the government on needed changes in the system he established several years ago, has aroused opposition on the part of the local press.

President Ayora's stand that services of Professor Kemmerer are unnecessary and inadvisable at the present time on account of the expense is receiving unanimous support from the press.

It is pointed out that the next Congress will revise the fiscal laws, especially the tariff, smoothing out objectionable features. It is not known whether there will be tariff increases to meet the increases by the United States.

FULL CYCLOPS 'DIARY' ASKED FOR AS CHECK

Naval Intelligence Service Will Try to Determine Its Authenticity.

THOROUGH INQUIRY STARTS

GERMAN DENIAL TOLD OF

Our Agent in Sweden in 1918 Got Message From Spy—British Admiralty Skeptical of Story.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The latest clue as to the cause of the loss of the United States naval collier Cyclops in West Indian waters in 1918, to the effect that the vessel was sunk by dynamite planted in the engine room by four members of the crew who were in the employ of a foreign government, promises to be the subject of a long and painstaking investifation by the office of naval intelligence before its value is determined.

As one of its first steps, Naval Intelligence plans to get the original of the diary which a former sergeant of marines, now residing in California, claims to have in his possession giving the details of the alleged plot as recorded by one of the reputed conspirators on the vessel.

Purported copies of the essential portions of the diary have been sent by the former marine to the Navy Department, but the officials desire the original.

In the meantime, the department has determined upon a policy of silence lest the investigation be hampered by premature announcements.

Adams Announces Policy.

"A report concerning the loss of the Cyclops has been submitted to the Navy Department and is under investigation," Secretary Adams said today. "Making public the details of the report will hinder the investigation. Nothing has been issued from the department concerning this report, and for the reason stated above I would prefer to say nothing more at this time."

That serious attention is being given to the alleged cause of the Cyclops disaster is evident from the care being taken to keep all details secret. High officials, however, have said that they regarded the evidence as important, although only circumstantial. The question has been the subject of conversation in high government circles outside of the navy for the past week.

The former sergeant of marines, whose name is being withheld by his request on the plea that he does not care for personal publicity, claims to have met the alleged diarist a few months ago casually in San Antonio, Texas, and later to have obtained the diary. Sources in San Antonio are now being checked as far as possible in view of the fact that the name of the reputed conspirator is not known.

Two things have made naval officials look seriously upon the clue. One is that the copy of the diary appears to be a genuine record. The other is that the former sergeant had an excellent record in the service, and officials reiterated that he was regarded highly for his intelligence. He has been in the hospital several times for an intestinal disorder.

On the other hand, officials realize there are several technical objections to the plausibility of the story. One is that an enemy ship which is supposed to have picked up the diarist and one other member of the quartet of alleged plotters in a small boat after the Cyclops was sunk could have escaped the allied cordon in 1918 only with difficulty to reach the West Indies.

Another is that it would have been difficult to launch a small boat from the collier when it was traveling at fourteen knots. Still another is that it would have been difficult for the enemy ship to have picked up all debris from the wreck, although it was said in the purported diary to have done so.

Explosion Theory Studied Early.

It is admitted that, if the collier was sunk by an internal explosion, many of the mysteries of the disappearance would be accounted for, and particularly the failure to receive any word from the Cyclops by radio. A heavy explosion in the vicinity of the engine room would easily have destroyed the radio equipment.

This factor was the basis of one of the earliest theories advanced at the time of the disappearance of the vessel, that it might have been blown up by enemy plotters. Some light on the investigation that was made into this possibility at the time was given in a telegram received during the day by the Washington Bureau of THE NEW YORK TIMES and signed by Eric Palmer of A. H. Grebe & Co., Inc., of Richmond Hill, N. Y.

"Among many sensational rumors regarding the Cyclops circulated in Europe during the war, the telegram said, was the one referred to in your story today. Admiral Sims from London asked all Americans to use every effort to ascertain the fate of the vessel.

"As propaganda commissioner for the United States in Scandinavia I once left a message in German in my Stockholm office for perusal by spies, who constantly invaded that place at night, but, as we had nothing to conceal in this missionary work, I never made much effort to discourage them, figuring that the revelations of America's activities told a tale unpleasant to enemy ears.

"This message asked that, if anything was known by Germans with regard to the Cyclops, would such information be conveyed through neutral channels so that the Red Cross perhaps could notify the families of those on board.

"Three nights later I found a response stating that the Germans had no knowledge of the Cyclops, the crew were not prisoners of war, there had been no naval engagement reported, &c. This response was regarded as authentic and I conveyed it to the naval authorities."

Palmer Formerly a Newspaper Man.

Eric H. Palmer, who was publicity commissioner in Scandinavia in the World War, was for a long time a Brooklyn newspaper man and has served as president of the Brooklyn Press Club. As a radio expert he was recently a mediator in disputes between Brooklyn radio stations and was vice president of the Allied Broadcasting Companies.

Mr. Palmer discussed here yesterday the information he had sent the Washington bureau of the efforts he had made as a member of the committee on public information, appointed by George Creel, head of the United States propaganda work, to see if anything could be found out about the missing Cyclops. He said that he subsequently learned from a reliable source that the German who had answered the query he had left in his office, with the hope a spy would see it, had communicated with the naval office in Berlin and had received the answer, which was then relayed. The Germans, he said, were very anxious to have it known that they were not responsible for the disappearance of the Cyclops.

Mr. Palmer said he told American naval authorities of the note and that he kept it for a while, but it was later lost. He said he discussed the matter at the time with E. B. Robinette, a United States naval attaché in Stockholm. Mr. Robinette, now a Philadelphia banker, was reported at his office yesterday to be in Europe.

The Cyclops totally disappeared without wireless message or trace of wreckage after it had sailed from Barbados for Baltimore on March 4, 1918, with a cargo of manganese from Brazil.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY SKEPTICAL.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—While reluctant to express a definite opinion until further details are received here, British Admiralty officials were skeptical today regarding the alleged diary of a survivor of the ship Cyclops.

Their attitude is that the survivor's account of the bomb explosion presents by no means impossible circumstances, but in view of the only scanty details which have been published in London, they were inclined to view the matter with some suspicion.

Vice Admiral R. W. Skelton, engineer in chief of the fleet for the Admiralty since 1928, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that he thought the story, so far as he knew it, entirely plausible until it came to the alleged destroying of all vestiges of wreckage of the Cyclops.

"Now how could they possibly destroy all wreckage?" Admiral Skelton asked. "If it were not for that statement I would be inclined to say the diary might definitely be the solution of the Cyclops mystery, but that is enough to make any one have doubts about the diary's authenticity.

"The rest of the details are convincing enough, however. There were certainly cases during the war of enemy agents doing just such things as placing bombs aboard the ships of other countries, as they say in the diary."

Mr. Skelton also discussed various instances of ships exploding for other reasons than the deliberate planting of bombs, such as inferior explosives in their cargoes and certain chemical causes. Also ships disappeared without a trace after being sunk by enemy submarines.

Says Church Can't Hold Youth If Old Folks Dictate Program

By The Associated Press.

BOURNEMOUTH, England, July 3.—Dr. Jason N. Pierce of Washington, D. C., today told the delegates to the International Council of Congregational Churches that they were "too old."

The Washington clergyman was speaking to the conference on the theme of "The Living Church and Youth." He said that among the fifty-six speakers listed on the program he believed there would not be found ten unuer 50 years old.

"This is an amazingly old people's council," he said, adding that they had "an old man program."

SOVIET SHIP'S LOG FOUND.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 3.—A ship's log recently washed ashore on the Esthonian coast has been identified as that of the Russian destroyer Voikoff, reported lost in the Gulf of Finland late in 1929. The papers are excellently preserved, appearing not to have been long in the water.

Some of the documents, signed by an Admiral of the Soviet Navy, relate both to political matters and to disciplinary measures, the latter showing that discipline in the navy had become undermined. Several officers and sailors had been convicted of theft, drunkenness and desertion. As often happened, the sailors were found without their uniforms, which they had sold to obtain cash.

QUESTIONS TELEGRAPH LAW

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 3.—In the Belgian Parliament today the commission for the coordination of the new regulations to be applied to the telephone and telegraph services asked Minister of Communications Lippens what interpretation should be placed on the first clause of the new law, which reads: "Although the government has a monopoly of the telephone and telegraph services, it could nevertheless allocate this right to other bodies."

M. Lippens replied that the clause applied to international services.

The Western Union Telegraph Company, the Commercial Cable Company and other privately owned services have already received the right to cooperate in the telegraph and telephone services. These companies have established offices at Antwerp and Brussels, and, by agreement with the Belgian Postoffice, Belgian officials work in these offices and are paid by the private companies.

MILLS TO SEE EDGE TODAY ON NEXT STEP

Paris Asserts Tardieu "Would Be Delighted to Receive" the Under-Secretary.

TO VISIT OTHER CAPITALS

Mellon Says No Agreement Has Been Entered Into on the Double Taxation Issue.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the United States Treasury, landed from the liner Bremen at Cherbourg early this morning and reached Paris this afternoon. He was met by his wife and members of the embassy staff and motored directly to the home of friends on the Left Bank.

When asked by your correspondent if he would care to throw further light upon the well-substantiated reports that he had come to Europe on an important economic mission for President Hoover, the Under-Secretary said, "I am here for a holiday, and I cannot say if I will see the French officials."

He added that he would leave the French capital on Saturday evening and would not sail homeward until Aug. 10.

It is understood Mr. Mills will visit other European capitals during his sojourn on this side, and the statement that he has come to Europe for a holiday is regarded by well-informed persons here as due to a perfectly natural desire to avoid publicity.

To Discuss Double Taxation.

That President Hoover would profit from a European trip by one of his warm personal friends and a member of his official family made to gain a comprehensive impression of Europe's reaction to the new tariff bill is held to be obvious by officials here. Moreover, the moment is propitious for learning just what the Continental countries have in mind, for the initial burst of feeling against the American tariff has subsided and cooler heads are now discussing policies which may later be adopted, such as in the case of American copper and automobiles, two great props in America's trade with Europe.

In French official circles the visit of Mr. Mills is noted with lively interest, and it was said both Premier Tardieu and Minister of Commerce Flandin "would be delighted to receive" the Under-Secretary.

Mr. Mills will confer with Ambassador Edge tomorrow morning, and it will then be decided what officials, if any, the Under-Secretary will see.

One question which Mr. Mills will discuss with Mr. Edge will be the double taxation problem for American companies in France. Negotiations for a settlement have been going on since early May and several weeks ago the draft treaty proposed by the French was taken to Washington by one of the American negotiators.

Revision of Draft Is Likely.

However, dispatches from Washington which were printed here today to the effect that a satisfactory solution had been reached are looked upon by official French quarters as rather premature. It is true the draft treaty was submitted to Washington, but the accord was by no means final and the proposed draft is likely to be revised before it is presented to the French Chamber of Deputies and the Senate and to the American Congress. The negotiations are continuing but it is held here that there is little prospect of a final issue being reached before the end of Summer or the beginning of Autumn.

As the text now stands, American companies operating in France as legally organized subsidiaries would be exempt from the present system of French taxation which authorizes the tax authorities to assess a double tax upon the dividends of foreign companies, once on the dividends declared in France and again on the probable share of the French subsidiary in the dividends declared by the parent company. The threat to apply this law generally has been a cause of grave concern to American interests in this country, which have invested millions of dollars in branch offices and factories.

The proposed agreement would be bilateral and because of this it may be found necessary to submit the project to Congress as its application would, in fact, reduce the American revenue. On the other hand, fears are expressed here that if too much time is consumed in obtaining Congressional consent, the political situation in France may change and the atmosphere may then be found to be less favorable to a solution. Meanwhile, details of the proposed settlement are being withheld by the French Government.

Mellon Denies Accord.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Following by one day an announcement from the treasury that an agreement had been reached between American and French experts which would relieve American corporations doing business in France of the double-dividend tax, Secretary Mellon today issued a formal statement that "no agreement has been entered into and no action by the treasury has been taken with respect thereto."

It appeared that an understanding had been reached and that the American and French Governments had agreed as to the details of the arrangement, but that Secretary Mellon desired to emphasize that the formal agreement had not been consummated and that nothing could be done finally until the necessary authority had been granted by Congress. This authority would come in the Hawley bill, now pending, which provides for relief from taxation of certain income derived from foreign sources where other countries grant similar exemptions.

Text of Statement.

Secretary Mellon's statement reads as follows:

"The treasury deems it advisable to correct certain inaccurate statements and quotations appearing in various newspaper articles with reference to proposed or purported agreements with Great Britain and France with respect to double taxation.

"No negotiations are pending with Great Britain, nor are any negotiations contemplated by the treasury at the present time.

"Informal and preliminary negotiations have been carried on between our representatives and representatives of the French Government with reference to the tax situation existing in France. Mr. Ellsworth C. Alvord, special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, returned from Paris about a week ago and has gone over in detail with the treasury officials the results of the preliminary negotiations. However, no agreement has been entered into and no action by the treasury has been taken with respect thereto. Inasmuch as the treasury is not empowered to enter into agreements of this nature, it can take no definite action until after legislative authority has been granted, which obviously cannot be obtained prior to the next session of the Congress.

"Any agreement by the treasury must, of course, conform to legislative authority. It is impossible, therefore, at this time to make any definite statement either as to the possibility of a final agreement or as to any of its terms."

The statement upon which the newspaper dispatches referred to were based, was made to a group of correspondents by Mr. Alvord. Mr. Alvord thought, however, that the word "agreement" used in most of the dispatches was unfortunate, the inference being that he considered the word to mean the completion of a formal pact.

Ford Inquiry Threatens Social Upset Abroad; Laborers Would Occupy Middle-Class Flats

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 3.—Preliminary soundings made by the International Labor Office for its investigation into what Henry Ford will need to pay workers in seventeen European cities to give them the equivalent in real wages of the $7-a-day minimum at Detroit have produced some vivid examples of what an increase in the European laborers' standard of living the application of this policy would involve.

Since the investigation at Detroit showed that a typical Ford worker there was able to live in a four or five room flat with a bath, one of the questions the investigators on this side will have to answer will be how much housing accommodations cost in each of the seventeen cities.

When the authorities in several of these cities, such as Copenhagen and Warsaw, were asked this particular question their mouths gaped with surprise, and they answered that no flats that size existed in their working class quarters, a workman's family usually living in a "home" of two rooms. As for flats with baths, they could be found only in the middle-class quarters—and by no means always there.

Since the investigators, however, are not concerned with the social level of an equivalent flat, but with its rental cost, they will have to figure into the European worker's budget the price of a middle-class dwelling in order to assure him what the Detroit workman gets for his money. The gradual social revolution thus likely to result if Mr. Ford carries out the policy of paying an equivalent wage everywhere is considered here as one of the most interesting phases of the inquiry.

Another indication of how much social import this inquiry carries comes from England. Two English cities, London and Manchester, are being included in the survey. The British Government, fearful lest all the workers, for example, in London should raise a hue and cry for higher wages if the inquiry shows the cost of living is higher there than in Manchester. Consequently it is opposed to the eventual publication of the figures for the two cities separately, allowing only an average for both together to be given out.

Two cities in France, Paris and Marseilles, also are to be investigated, but the French are willing to let the cost of living in each to be published.

The real field work of the inquiry in Europe has not yet begun and is awaiting the arrangement of various preliminary details, but it is expected to start within a few weeks.

CUBANS SEEK AID ON TARIFF.

Vegetable Growers Say New Rates Will Wipe Them Out.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, July 3.—Vegetable growers of the Island of Cuba and the Isle of Pines wish to invoke the flexible clause of the new United States tariff act in behalf of their products. W. G. Root, an American fruit and vegetable grower of Herradura, told the American Chamber of Commerce today in requesting the chamber's aid.

"The tariff bill recently passed means the death blow to our work," said Mr. Root. "If we get a modification of the new tariffs, effective during the months of November, December and January, it will go a long way toward helping us."

Mr. Root quoted statistics showing exports of vegetables from Cuba to the United States had jumped from more than 800,000 packages in 1926-27 to more than 1,250,000 packages in 1929-30. The increase is attributed to greater production, induced by more rain.

Last year the average profit for each package was 20 cents. In the tariff act of 1930 tomatoes and other vegetables are assessed an average duty of 96 cents a crate, while the 1929 duties were 38 cents, which means an increase of 58 per cent a package, wiping out the profit, according to Mr. Root.

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce has been appointed to cooperate with the vegetable growers of Cuba and to decide whether the United States Tariff Commission should be requested to revise the rates on Cuban vegetables.

PORTUGAL TO RAISE DUTIES.

Announces Increase Will Be in Proportion to Those in Our Tariffs.

LISBON, July 3 (AP).—The Portuguese Government intends to issue a decree raising the duties on American goods in proportion to the higher rates affecting Portuguese exports under the new schedules of the Hawley-Smoot tariff measure.

The government, it was learned today, will not officially protest against the new American rates. Minister of Finances Salazar was recently urged to take strong measures against the rates by a group of well-known industrialists, but declined to discuss the matter with them. He said the new situation would be brought to the attention of the Cabinet.

President Asks Conservative to Take Premiership—Swedish Paper Reports Red Plans.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, July 3.—President Relander today sent for the veteran Conservative statesman, Senator Svinhufvud, and asked him to form a new Cabinet, thus carrying Finland's political crisis into a new stage.

The situation provoked by the anti-Communist drive remains acute pending the arrival here Monday of 12,000 demonstrators representing the extreme section of the anti-Communist movement.

The anti-Communists still hold the whip hand over the country's political future, although liberal opinion severely criticizes their proposals for Constitutional reform. It is alleged these proposed reforms reveal strongly anti-democratic tendencies and would deprive 40 per cent of the electorate of the suffrage.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, July 3.—The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet declares that two Finnish delegates yesterday attended a secret Bolshevist congress now in session here. They are said to have returned to Stockholm after a two-day visit to Helsingfors to obtain the latest information and report on developments in Finland since the Helsingfors congress was held recently.

The newspaper says no plan of action has yet been decided, but three courses are being discussed: preventing the shipment to Finland of all foodstuffs and necessities from Sweden by means of a transport blockade; smuggling arms from Germany by way of Sweden, which the delegates consider easier than to smuggle arms over the strongly guarded Carelian frontier from Russia, and forming a Red guard of adventurous Swedish youths to join forces with the Finnish Reds.

The Communists are clearly unwilling to give up their cause without a struggle, but the Dagbladet states the possibilities of their success can justifiably be questioned.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The increased duties assessed against automotive products by the Italian Government constitute an effort to conserve the industry in that country and to relieve unemployment, Secretary of Commerce Lamont asserted in a statement today. The department does not consider that the action of the Italian Government in increasing tariffs on automobiles and trucks is in the nature of a reprisal for the rates in the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, he said.

"The increase in Italian tariffs on these products", the Secretary added, "is a part of the established protective tariff policy to conserve their own large automobile manufacturing industry and to relieve the present unemployment.

"This policy has been in operation for some years, and under its pressure American exports of automobiles and trucks to Italy had decreased in value from $4,300,000 in 1924 to $1,270,000 in 1929, the latter figure constituting less than one-half of 1 per cent of our exports of these commodities.

"The Italian protective policy has likewise affected imports of automobiles and trucks from France, Germany, Belgium, Austria and other countries and the new rates apply equally to all countries."

Lists New Italian Duties.

Mr. Lamont also said in explanation of the new Italian duties:

"The Italian Government has announced the following changes in the duties on automotive products from all sources, effective on importations beginning June 30, 1930, according to cables received in the Department of Commerce from Commercial Attaché M. M. Mitchell, Rome.

"The Ministry of Finance will issue regulations under which manufacturers in Italy may import rough parts until Dec. 31 of this year at from 20 to 25 per cent of the established tariff.

"Chassis will be assessed the rate on passenger cars, unless demonstrably useable for trucks only, and must be dutiable under the rate next highest above that called for by weight.

"Motors and parts for tractors only are apparently to be duty-free. The general rate of duty on tractors has been changed to 140 gold lire per 100 kilos from the former rate, which varied with the weight, on the same scale and rate applicable to all motor vehicles except that the additional ad valorem rates did not apply.

"Since the German treaty rate of a flat 60 gold lire per 100 kilos, regardless of weight, is still in effect and applies to imports from the United States and other countries enjoying most-favored-nation status with Italy, American tractors are not affected by this change."

14 SCHOOLBOYS HURT IN BOMBAY CLASHES

BOMB SET OFF UNDER TRAIN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, July 3.—Mrs. Perin Captain, recently elected president of the Bombay Congress committee, was arrested this morning for disobeying an order prohibiting publication of the Congress Bulletin. Mrs. Captain is the second woman leader to be arrested here since the commencement of Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign. She is a granddaughter of the late Dadabhai Naoroji, the first Indian to sit in the British House of Commons, and has taken a prominent part in organizing the Women's Service League.

Later two secretaries of the Congress committee were arrested.

The arrests gave a fresh impetus to the strike in Bombay schools and colleges. Throughout the day a steady stream of student processions took place, one of which was repeatedly charged by the police after refusing to disperse. A constable clearing Hornby Road, in the vicinity of Whiteaway Laidlaw's store, for traffic was attacked, and when the police went to his rescue fourteen schoolboys were injured, four of them seriously.

The Industries Association of which Sir Dinshaw Petit is the chairman issued a manifesto contrasting the disastrous business conditions in Bombay with the prosperity at Ahmedabad, where the present movement originated and where the most unrelenting Congress members hold sway. At Ahmedabad business not only is proceeding as usual, but enjoys increased profits, whereas at Bombay there is a political strike every other day with uncertainty and alarming want of confidence.

"Our clerks are trying to boss us," says the manifesto, which later asks, "How long will it take to reach the stage where bolshevism may let loose, once the employes begin to control their employers' conduct?"

Bomb Fails to Wreck Train.

PESHAWAR, July 3 (AP).—An attempt was made to derail the incoming Calcutta mail train near Peshawar last night by persons who placed a bomb underneath the rails. It exploded, but there was no damage.

3,302 Gandhi Followers in Jail.

LONDON, July 3 (Canadian Press)—The number of persons in India convicted in connection with the civil disobedience movement since March 1 of this year and still serving sentences at the end of May, the last month for which prison records are available, was 3,302, according to Wedgwood Benn, Secretary of State for India.

Woman Picketer Defiant.

CALCUTTA, Bengal, July 3 (AP).—The temper of women civil resistance volunteers today was shown in the trial of M. Rama Devi, an elderly Hindu picketer, before the chief magistrate.

Questioned as to whether she would re-engage in intimidating foreign cloth dealers, the charge against her, if released, the woman said she would agree to nothing, whereupon the magistrate imposed six months' imprisonment.

"Do what you like with me now, but I shall continue picketing the minute I am free again," she cried, as two jailers led her from the court room.

NINE EARTH SHOCKS ROCK EASTERN INDIA

Temblors Felt in Bengal, Assam and Burma—Fear Felt for London-Australia Fliers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CALCUTTA, July 3.—Nine distinct shocks were felt in an earthquake early yesterday morning which rocked India from the Himalayas to the Ganges and caused panic in Calcutta in a night made more awesome by a monsoon deluge. The temblors were felt in the Provinces of Bengal, Assam and Burma.

The centre of the disturbance was at Gauhati, in Assam, where the shocks lasted more than five hours. Buildings were damaged and many persons were injured. In Calcutta little damage was done, as the city is built on alluvial mud, which slides over earth tremors.

The shocks were the most severe felt in many years. The first tremors at 3 o'clock in the morning lasted three to four minutes. Thousands in Calcutta rushed from their homes in their night clothes and took refuge in the open Maidan Square, where they spent the remainder of the night. The tremors were accompanied by unearthly noises, and the terrified Indians, convinced the earthquate was due to the anger of ... shuki, their 'serpent god[dess] ... conch shells and clanged bells to appease her. For a while all was pandemonium.

A tidal wave is reported to have added to the distress at Akyab on the Burmese coast.

Anxiety is felt for the British airmen, Hook and Matthews, who left Akyab for Rangoon in the early hours of the morning in continuation of their flight to Australia. They have not been heard from. ... roads are blocked in the earthquake area and telegraph wires are down throughout India.

Shillong, the capital of Assam, felt a heavy shock but reported no loss of life and no damage. The shocks were felt at Darjeeling, ... Berampore, Asansol, Barisal, ... pur, Silchar, Tezpur and Saugor.

In Calcutta the seismograph at Alipore Observatory was de-ranged, but at Poona it was calculated the centre of the earthquake was in Western Assam.

SEEK MEXICAN INJUNCTION[S]

Five Government Employes Object to Forced Party Gifts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—In five separate courts of the Federal District applications were made yesterday by government employes for injunctions against the enforcement of a decree of President Ortiz Rubio levying a contribution of seven days' pay a year from government employes to the funds of the National Revolutionary party. All of the applications were filed without action pending investigation by the courts.

Coming on the eve of the Congressional elections, some observers see political significance in the move, ... the National Revolutionary party, which placed Señor Ortiz Rubio in office, is being fiercely attacked by labor groups headed by the former Minister of Industry and Commerce, Luis Morones. Former President Portes Gil, the head of the party, and Señor Morones may be described as battling for control of the Chamber of Deputies, and a possible upset of the political stability has been suggested.

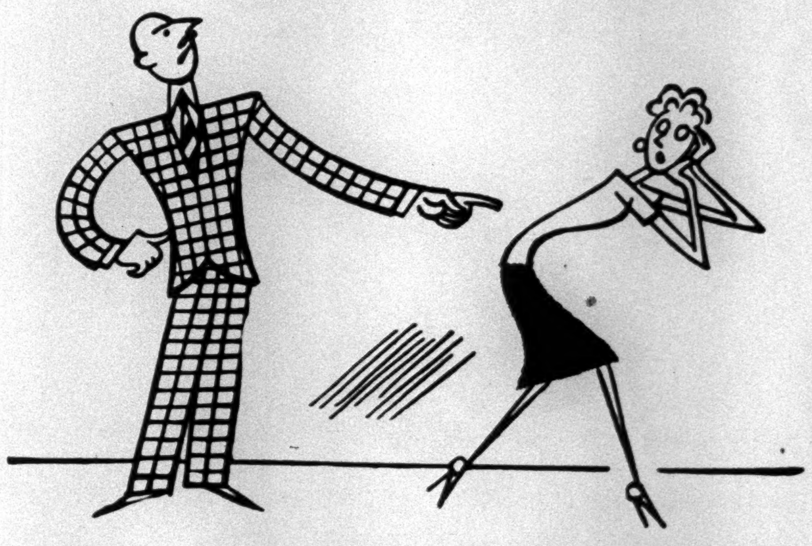
However, the general view is that the injunctions are sought merely by government employes who do not see why any portion of their wages should go to sustain a political organization.

Arctic Air Route Seekers Delayed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—The departure of the British Arctic air route expedition, led by H. G. Watkins, has been postponed until the early ... Sunday morning. The expedition will sail for Faroes and Greenland on Shackleton's historic vessel, the Quest, and will establish camp on the interior ice cap for investigation of flying conditions there.

Mental Fireworks on the Glorious Fourth



Here is an unhappy creature belaboring his family on a day which should be pleasant and exhilarating. His holiday is spoiled, because he has unwittingly allowed his wife to run amuck on the installment plan. The poor benighted lady has been charging around town at a furious rate and now the bills have started coming in.

It is to be hoped the gentleman will institute a rebellion in honor of Independence Day which will teach his helpmate a lesson about keeping her head above water, to say nothing of the head of the family. It is to be hoped he'll tell her about the excellent values to be had at Macy's where everybody pays cash. IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the Course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. —— We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. — Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world. —— He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. —— He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them. —— He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only. —— He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures. —— He has dissolved Represtative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people. —— He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within. —— He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands. —— He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers. —— He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries. —— He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance. —— He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures. —— He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power. —— He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: — For Quartering large bodies of armed troops among us: — For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States: — For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world: — For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent: — For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury: — For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences — For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies: — For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: — For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever. — He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us. —— He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people. —— He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation. —— He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands. —— He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends. ——

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. —— And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

STALIN BIDS RIGHT MAKE FINAL CHOICE

"100 Per Cent Cooperation, or What Follows Will Be Their Own Fault," He Declares.

ASKS NO UNDUE HUMILIATION

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 3.—Joseph Stalin's speech yesterday, winding up the debate on his political report to the All-Union Communist Party Congress, was short and in genial vein. He could afford to be magnanimous and indulge his somewhat sardonic humor at the expense of the former Right opposition because the whole debate had been nothing but a chorus of praise for him and his acts and policies with the exception of the interlud when the disgruntled Rights said their sorry pieces of confession and contrition.

This time M. Stalin wore a coat of white drill buttoned up to the neck and breeches of the same material tucked into high boots. He spoke entirely without notes in a somewhat jovial manner and repeatedly set his audience rocking with laughter. He began by saying he would answer some of the innumerable questions addressed to him by the delegates in writing.

"Nearly all of them begin, 'Could not you say something in your final speech about—?' " he declared. "If I answered half of them my final speech would be longer than the opening report. Don't our comrades realize that the Commissars of Agriculture and Industry also have reports to make covering specific points which I could not touch in a general statement?"

In Moderate Tone.

Then M. Stalin discussed the statements of the Right leaders, Alexai Rykoff, Mikhail Tomski and Nikolai Uglanoff in a moderate—one could almost say friendly—tone. He declared he did not want them to humiliate themselves unduly, this, perhaps, constituting a veiled rebuke to some of his noisier supporters who had shown clearly that they did want just that.

"No," said M. Stalin, "what we want is that the Rights prove the reality of their words by deeds. All three of them promised to mend their ways last November. All three failed to do so. All three recently had a chance to show the genuineness of their conversion, Rykoff in the Urals, Tomski at Tiflis, Uglanoff at the meeting in Moscow. None of them did so properly.

"Then they come to this convention and again promise to be good. They are good when you squeeze them, but when the grip relaxes they fly off again. Their real trouble is that they did not believe and could not believe in our Bolshevist tempo; that they could not think such rapid progress possible without disaster.

"They were always making bogies out of black beetles and saying, 'Yes, it is all right now, but wait till Spring, then there will be a catastrophe, or wait till Fall and everything will smash.' Spring came and Fall and nothing smashed, so they said they were sorry, but soon began again: 'Wait 'till next Spring—that will be terrible'.

What 'Rights' Must Do.

"Well, Spring seems to have passed all right, and now our Right comrades are beginning to say, 'They were only black beetles after all, and who is scared of black beetles!' So it is now up to them to be equally bold when the next black beetle runs along, and in addition to quit the habit which has accompanied their nervous state, of giving way under our pressure and saying to themselves, 'We will be good while the sun is shining and keep quiet, but wait till the clouds roll up and then we shall start our big offensive.'

"There must be no more of all that. Today the Right leaders have their final choice: 100 per cent cooperation without fear or reservation—if they give that, all right. If they don't, what follows will be their own fault."

After M. Stalin's speech the convention unanimously voted a resolution approving his political report fully and pledging the Communist party to follow the policies outlined therein. The resolution was a good deal harder on the "Rights" than M. Stalin's closing speech. It referred brutally to "the hypocritical waiting tactics" of the "Rights" and said categorically, "The attitude of the Right opposition is incompatible with membership in the Communist party.

The Probable Outcome.

M. Stalin himself used no such threat, and it is worth remembering that at the fourteenth party convention, in December, 1925, when M. Zinovieff and M. Kamineff wished to expel Leon Trotsky from the party, M. Stalin said the weapon of expulsion [which means the political guillotine in Russia] must be used only in the last resort.

In point of fact, M. Stalin is far too shrewd a politician to knife M. Rykoff if the latter is really willing to play M. Stalin's game. In that rôle M. Rykoff can be most useful. It is your correspondent's guess that the voting at the end of the convention which will determine the position of the Communist executives for the next two years will not see M Rykoff wholly fallen from his high estate.

It is possible enough that M. Rudzutak may later assume officially the presidency of the Council of Commissars of the Soviet Union which he has been occupying in reality for some time. But the chronic illness of M. Tchitcherin leaves the post of Foreign Commissar vacant, and if the "Right danger" in the party and country is really as serious as M. Stalin and other speakers at the convention would have it believed, it is obviously not unwise to enlist its former leader—or leaders—in the struggle against it, which could hardly be done if they were utterly degraded

Discusses War Danger.

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP).—Speaking to the Communist Party Congress on his favorite subject of the danger of war, Clement Voroshiloff, Commissar of War, said that the capitalistic powers were equipping themselves with bomb-carrying airplanes capable of supporting twelve tons of cargo and so formidable that 100 such machines could destroy any modern European city in one attack.

He said that Poland receives continuous aid from the imperialistic powers and has thirty-two large munition plants, where two years ago she had only eighteen.

Poland to Prosecute 33 Opposition Members For Cracow Resolution Against Dictatorship

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, July 3.—Former Premier Witos, former Vice Premier Thugutt, four former Cabinet Ministers, two vice presidents of the Sejm and twenty-five other prominent politicians and members of Parliament will be prosecuted as the authors of the resolution against the dictatorship, which was voted on Sunday at the Opposition's congress at Cracow, demanding President Moscicki's resignation.

The Cracow State Prosecutor accuses them under an article of the old Austrian code, still in force in all former Austrian parts of Poland. The article says that any persons guilty of causing public disorder and of instigating hatred or disregard of the person of the Emperor, the head of the State, the government or the public administration, will be liable to a term of imprisonment of from one to five years.

The majority of the accused are protected and cannot be arrested unless Parliament lifts their immunity. It remains to be seen whether warrants will be issued against those who are not members of Parliament.

The Opposition leaders seem to be rather pleased at this decision to prosecute them. The decision was reached at Duskieniki, Marshal Pilsudski's country seat, where Premier Slawek spent all the day in conversation with the Marshal.

M. Rataj told the press today he was very glad the case is to be brought before the court, which, he added, "since the Sejm is closed, will become the platform from which we shall explain to the nation and the world why we called this Cracow congress—as a protest against the suppression of our constitutional rights and the laws of the country."

Several hundred politicians of the Opposition are ready to sign publicly the resolution voted at Cracow and will demand to be prosecuted together with the thirty-three already on the list.

RUMANIANS EXPECT ROYAL RECONCILIATION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, July 3.—The frequent public appearances together of King Carol and Queen Helen are held to belie the stories which are understood to have appeared in many American newspapers to the effect that Queen Helen is rejecting all attempts at reconciliation and intends shortly to leave Rumania.

It is true that the Queen still lives by herself in the Palace Chausse, but frequently she has been visited by King Carol there and has visited him in the Cotroceni Palace. Your correspondent has seen King Carol driving out to the Palace Chausse, together with Queen Helen and Prince Michael. Well-informed circles state there is every prospect of a reconciliation and that Queen Helen will be crowned with King Carol in the Autumn.

Even more sensational reports to the effect that Dowager Queen Marie has been practically banished to Castle Balcic, on the Black Sea, appear to be equally without foundation. Queen Marie has spent a part of nearly every Summer at Castle Balcic, and she is now there with Princess Ileana. As a result of King Carol's return Queen Marie's political importance has waned. But the chief reason why she must stay at Balcic for some time is that at present King Carol and Prince Nicholas are occupying Cotroceni Palace and Queen Helen Chausse Palace, leaving only Victorei Palace, which is undergoing reconstruction, and therefore is unavailable as a residence.

The audience which was to have been granted by King Carol today to the Liberal leader, Vintila Bratianu, has been postponed because the Liberal party objected to some of the phraseology in a memorandum which M. Bratianu proposed to present to the King. The Liberal leader, it is learned, used some very drastic expressions about the present Maniu Government and announced that as soon as the Liberals took office they would repeal every law passed by their predecessors. M. Duca and other less extreme leaders in the party considered these statements too strong.

King Carol yesterday became a patron of Rumanian sport, and it is understood he aims to play a most active rôle in its rehabilitation. Before his banishment, Carol was an enthusiastic promoter of athletic activities, and he has let it be known since his return that he is dissatisfied with the way in which these events are being carried on. He has announced he will be present at every prominent sporting event, will travel through the country to inspect the local athletic leagues and associations and to make suggestions for the betterment of their organization in the light of what he has seen in France, England and other foreign countries.

TO ACT AGAINST RAIDERS.

Turkey Decides to Send Troops as Press Blames Persia.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ISTANBUL, July 3.—It is reported that the Angora Government has decided to send an armed force to the Mount Ararat district, near the Persian frontier, to prevent a repetition of depredations by armed bandits, who have been crossing the boundary repeatedly on raids.

Fifteen thousand men of the Moulari tribe in Southern Persia are said to make a living from banditry and the Turkish press accuses the Persian Government of winking at their activities while the raiders cross the frontier, rob Turkish towns, drive away herds and then hide in mountain fastnesses where the gendarmes are unable to locate them before they return to Persia. The arms supplied are all apparently from Persia.

The agitation in the press since the last raid on June 19, when 110 armed horsemen pillaged the village of Hanik, led the Persian Consul to state today that he understood Teheran was mobilizing an armed detachment to assist in suppressing the bandits. The papers laud the decision of the Turkish Government to send ample forces to the region, saying the establishment of security in Eastern Anatolia will soon be added to the list of great achievements of the republic.

DEPUTIES EXCHANGE BLOWS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—Blows were exchanged between two Deputies of Left parties and the Chamber had to be suspended at the night session tonight when a heated debate developed on the celebration of the fiftieth year of non-sectarian education in France. The subject is one which always arouses a feverish atmosphere in the Chamber.

With much eloquence, speaker after speaker tonight had sought to rouse the old Republican anti-clerical spirit. Unfortunately for the success of the manoeuvre, the debate turned into an altercation between Socialists and Radicals, and it was between two members of these parties that the fist fight began.

Ushers separated the contestants and the sitting was suspended officially to restore calm.

TWO NATIONS AGREE ON OPERA FILMS

Vienna State Opera and German Stadt Theatres to Enter Production.

WILL AVOID DUPLICATION

Wagnerian Operas in Germany and Lighter Ones in Austria—Agreement Also on Casts.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 3.—Announcement was made today that an agreement had been reached by the Vienna State Opera and the State theatres of Prussia, Bavaria and Saxony whereby practically all of Germany establishes a common attitude toward sound films. The agreement foreshadows the production of sound film opera in Germany and Austria. Its most important clause is likely to provide for the distribution of filmable operas among the different opera houses interested, to prevent duplication. It has been rendered necessary primarily by the recent entry of the Prussian State theatres into film production through their purchase, in cooperation with Max Reinhardt, of a large share of the stock of the German Tonfilm Company, and by negotiations between the Vienna Opera and the Austrian Selenophon Company, looking toward the production of film operas here.

It is understood that Wagnerian operas will be left wholly or largely to the German opera houses, while to Vienna will be given the choice of the lighter works, including a classic example, Richard Strauss's "Der Rosenkavalier," and Mozart operas. Rossini's "Angelina," which although almost unknown on the opera stage, is said to be excellently adapted for filming, is also talked of. Mirag, a semi-State and semi-private corporation, which controls radio broadcasting programs in Austria, may also associate itself with Vienna film opera production.

The agreement between the Austrian and German operas, however, is not only in the interest of film production, but will contain provisions regulating connection between members of the State theatre casts and sound film companies, in which the State theatres are not interested or of which they are rivals. The German and Austrian State opera houses, since they cannot destroy the sound film business, have decided to take it as far as possible into their own hands.

BERLIN ACTS TO CURB EXTREMIST PARTIES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 3.—Alarmed at the growing activity and the "dangerousness" of the two extreme wing parties, the National-Socialists [Fascisti] and the Communists, the Prussian Government today officially forbade all civil servants and Prussian officials, including police, to hold membership in or in any way support the activities of these two parties, under pain of disciplinary action and dismissal.

"Both parties can be regarded only as organizations whose aim is the forceful overthrow of the existing order," the announcement says. "The duty of an official, sworn by oats, is irreconcilable with service in a party which combats the State with lawless means."

It is believed that the proclamation is intended primarily as a warning for a large number of officials and will not be enforced strictly until these officials have had a chance to decide to which side they wish to adhere. On the other hand, many take the move as official recognition of the growing possibility that another "Putsch" may be attempted, since both Communists and Fascisti are known to be desirous of marching on Berlin and establishing a dictatorship and a "third Reich."

ASK COURT RULING ON GIFT.

Palestine Sects Agree After Two Years' Dispute Over Bequest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, July 3.—The local courts shortly will have to rule on the distribution of a charitable bequest of nearly $500,000 by a Hongkong Jewess, Mrs. Beliluis, who died four years ago. She willed her fortune to a Jerusalem synagogue for the benefit of the poor Jews of the Holy City, not specifying which sect should benefit. Both Ashkenazic and Spanish Jewish communities have laid claim to the legacy.

The dispute lasted two years. Last Wednesday afternoon rabbis and lay leaders of both communities reached an understanding whereby trustees were appointed to administer the joint communal interests until the courts decide on an equitable distribution of the bequest.

Wednesday's agreement removed a long-standing schism between Chief Rabbi Jacob Meier of the Spanish Jewish Community and lay leaders who had disagreed on the method of submission of the Spanish Jews' claims.

MOB HUNTS REFUGEE AT LA PAZ LEGATION

Bolivians Retire When They Are Told German Ex-Army Head Has Not Fled Country.

HE DENIES ACCUSATIONS

Says He Would Have Joined Foes of Siles Had He Been a Bolivian—Willing to Stand Trial.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 3 (AP).—General Hans Kundt, German former Commander-in-Chief of the Bolivian Army who took refuge in the German Legation, is still extremely unpopular.

During the night a rumor spread that he had left the legation and people from all parts of the city rushed to the avenue where the building is located. Legation officials, however, said the rumor was unfounded and that General Kundt was still there.

A naturalized Bolivian who served in the German army during the World War, he has asked Dr. Marckwald, the German Minister, to act as intermediary in the negotiations.

In an interview today the Minister said that in granting an asylum to General Kundt he had merely done his duty. He added that as Germany would look unfavorably on any unduly severe action against General Kundt he thought the question of the safe conduct could be amicably settled.

He said General Kundt would not leave the legation until he received a safe conduct. The General has denied upon his word of honor that he was "bribed" by Dr. Siles.

Herr Marckwald asserted that the German Foreign Office knew all about his activities on behalf of General Kundt, who during the great war distinguished himself as chief of staff to Field Marshal von Mackensen.

General Kundt, interviewed in the legation, categorically denied charges of bribery and butchery leveled against him in last week's upheaval. He even suggested that the military directorate place him on trial or investigate the charges. He said that, as chief of the general staff, he merely carried out the orders of the government.

He lamented that he was not a native Bolivian, for in that case, he said, he would have immediately made common cause with the soldiers who revolted against the Siles rule. He asserted he not only did everything possible to prevent bloodshed, but, when he saw himself surrounded and threatened by the citizens' army, rather than fight it out with them he ordered his soldiers to withdraw.

Newspapers published documents alleging that, of 2,000,000 bolivianos (the boliviano is nominally worth 40 cents) advanced by the match monopoly interests to the Siles Administration government auditors had found no trace of 937,836 bolivianos 41 centavos.

Colonel Oscar Mariaca Pando was entrusted with the administration of the Ministries of Interior, Justice and Foreign Affairs; Lieut. Col. Bernardino Bilboa, War, Colonization and Communications, and Lieut. Col. Gonzales Quint, Finance, Industry, Agriculture and Education. These officers will have the services of several civilian advisers and experts in handling their departments.

The directorate was augmented by Colonel José Ayora, whose task is to go to London to investigate a contract for arms entered into by the Siles Government with the firm of Vickers, Ltd.

Students who had been imprisoned by the Siles Administration are being released and are coming to La Paz. One of them, Gonzalo Saavedra, who was secretary of the Society of Law Students, said that university reforms soon would be enacted.

The "Society of the Friends of the City" have announced the intention of presenting gold medals to the Military Academy and university students "for their brilliant actions in defending public liberties."

ARICA, Chile, July 3 (AP).—Dr. Hernando Siles, former President of Bolivia, was safe here today after an overland trip from La Paz. He will remain here until his family arrives Friday on the international train, but would not disclose his intentions beyond that time.

SIXTEEN ARE KILLED IN ITALIAN WRECK

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 3.—Sixteen persons were killed and thirty severely injured when a passenger train traveling between Bologna and Florence early this morning crashed into a freight train standing in the station at Sasso. Several persons owed their lives to the presence of mind of the engineer, who had time to apply the brakes and reduce the speed of the passenger train, but even so the impact was so violent that the first three coaches were telescoped, being reduced to a shapeless mass of wreckage. The guard in one of the coaches shouted a warning of the impending crash, and as a result several saved themselves by jumping from the train. The majority, however, were asleep and had no chance.

As the wreck had occurred at the station, rescue work was promptly organized, while additional help was rushed from Bologna. Eleven doctors were soon on the scene and rendered first aid to the most urgent cases. Fifteen bodies were extracted from the wreckage, while of those seriously hurt one died later in the hospital.

Some heart-rending episodes occurred. One man, though gravely hurt, refused to move till his wife, who was lying under one of the wrecked coaches, had been taken out. She was dead when the rescuers reached her. Another man, pinned under the wreckage, bore his sufferings with admirable fortitude while a girder was cut through with a blowpipe.

Others had miraculous escapes. Sitting in the centre of the wreckage of a third-class coach a 6-months'-old baby was found, quite unhurt. Several persons were thrown many yards out of the coaches without being hurt, while many who had time to jump before the crash occurred escaped with minor injuries.

Apparently the proper precaution was not taken during the repairing of signaling apparatus, which was going on at the time. The list of dead and injured did not include any Americans.

NANKING CRUSHES REBELLION IN SOUTH

GRIM FIGHTING IN NORTH

Heavy Losses in 10-Day Struggle Said to Be Lowering Morale of Nanking Troops.

SHANGHAI, July 3 (AP).—Nanking Government armies, advancing from the north and the south, trapped Kwangsi rebels and bandit hordes in a stubborn three-day battle and crushed the rebellion in Southern China, Nanking dispatches said today.

The victory freed 50,000 Nationalist troops for use in battle-torn Northern China, where Northern alliance insurgents and government armies are engaged in a vital conflict in China's civil war.

Fifteen thousand rebels and 5,000 Nanking soldiers were killed before the Kwangsi rebels and bandits were defeated near Hengchow, Hunan Province.

Today's victory followed others at Yochow and Changsha, which were recaptured by Nanking forces after turning back the rebel march upon the sister cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang two weeks ago.

Strung forty miles along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway in Honan Province, Northern China, Nanking forces are little more than holding their own, as the Northerners fight hard to avoid being driven back to the Yellow River. Independent dispatches, contradicting government claims, asserted the morale of the Nanking troops had been lowered by the heavy losses and strong opposition.

For ten days battle lines have moved forward and back as the Nanking forces have fought to prevent the Northerners breaking through to Nanking to replace President Chiang Kai-shek's government with that of the Northern war lords, General Yen Hsi-shan and Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang. Nanking forces are reported to have suffered 30,000 casualties, 10,000 being killed. The insurgent losses are unknown.

Hospitals Crowded.

NANKING, July 3 (AP).—A picture of Nationalist China being drained of its blood and money by the civil war against the Northern alliance is disclosed by a survey of various official reports. Financial circles estimate the battle along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway is costing Nanking $1,000,000 Mexican (about $350,000) a day, not including expenditures for munitions.

A survey of the hospitals of Nanking and Pukow shows hundreds of wounded soldiers clogging the inadequate hospital facilities. Some of the wounded, unable to gain entrance to the hospitals, are lying in railway sheds and similar places. All plainly show the effects of hardships at the front.

Suiping Missionaries Attacked.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Rev. Thomas I. Lee of Minneapolis and Deaconess Thonea Sandland of Grygala, also of Minnesota, missionaries stationed at Suiping in Honan Province, China, were driven through the streets on June 23 with sticks by local political organizations identified with the propaganda bureau of the Kuomintang, according to a report received by the State Department today from Frank P. Lockhart, American Consul General at Hankow.

PLAN BALKAN TARIFF BLOC.

Rumania and Yugoslavia Agree on Plan to Include Others Later.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, July 3.—Economic cooperation has been decided on between Rumania and Yugoslavia, according to a statement of the Yugoslavian Foreign Minister, Dr. Voyislav Marinkovich, in Belgrade tonight. The plan envisages the inclusion later of other agrarian nations. According to well-informed circles here, the Hungarian Government has already been approached in this connection.

The plan is to include all European agrarian states in a sort of agrarian bloc which will then approach European industrial countries with a proposal that they abolish their tariffs on agricultural products in return for the abolition of tariffs on manufactured products by the agrarian states.

MUSSOLINI DEMANDS REVISED PEACE PACT

By P. J. PHILIP.

between the Fascist and Regency governments is likely to be shown in the reply which Hungary will soon make to M. Briand's memorandum. According to information here, the Hungarian Government's response will be negative for just the reasons which Signor Mussolini has invoked.

But whereas the Italian Prime Minister seems to be opposing the proposed federation because Italy did not get satisfaction out of the victory and still has territorial claims to present, the Hungarian rejection will be based on the plaint that Hungary was too severely treated in the treaty of the Trianon and that M. Briand's project would tend to perpetuate the status quo, against which Hungary has never ceased to protest.

In an interview which was published this morning by The London Daily Herald, M. Briand set forth the French view of the failure up to date to reach any ground for negotiation with Italy, in opposition to the case as represented recently in the same newspaper by Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy. In commenting on the two statements, Le Temps this evenings says: "France's good-will has never failed at any time in this affair. In the presence of the repeated efforts which have been made from the other side of the Alps to place other than where it belongs the responsibility for the present situation in Franco-Italian relations, it is essential that the real situation should be stated with all the authority which attaches to the words of the French Minister of Foreign Affairs."

ACCORD ON LOADLINE IS READY IN LONDON

WILL BE SIGNED SATURDAY

Convention's Details Will Be Made Public Then—New Era of Safety is Hailed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—Delegates of thirty-three countries to the International Load-Line Conference have agreed on a convention embodying all points for which the American delegates have contended. When and if ratified, it is expected to result in increased safety at sea and uniformity of load-line requirements as a boon to world shipping.

While the terms of the convention are not to be made public until after the signing by the delegates on Saturday, it is now possible to disclose its principal features, resulting from six weeks of deliberations.

There will be no material change in the loading of ordinary cargo ships, apart from decreasing the hazards of the crew through greater safety factors which the American delegates strongly advocated.

American tanker loading practice has influenced the conference so that tankers will be allowed to load deeper but possibly not so deep as some United States tankers have done in the past.

The conference has also accepted in principal American practice in timber deck loading, and deeper loading such as represents conservative United States practice, will be arranged for.

The principle of world zoning, as proposed by the United States Load-Line Committee in 1920 under the chairmanship of Admiral Taylor of the United States Navy, has been adopted and the zoning system will be planned with weather conditions based on reports of the United States Hydrographic Office, whose charts have been acclaimed by the non-American delegates to the conference for their reliability. The zone loading system provides for vessels being loaded according to the waters they travel through and the conditions they undergo in those localities. This practice is not new to the British, but heretofore always has been localized.

The outstanding provisions of the convention are considered to be these: First, permitting elastic equivalents in place of the definite requirements of the conference; second, providing for what is known as any unique type ships, where safety and economic value are increased, at the same time permitting the initiative of ship builders, owners and naval architects to be recognized and not cramped by a rigorous, inflexible law. These two provisions, the first of which applies to the details of the ship and second to ship design, are regarded as an open door through which development can continue. Various European countries have felt they have been so hidebound by their regulations that none could do anything new or not provided for in their regulations, with the result that the United States, in the usage of its ships and their design outstripped most other maritime nations. This provision of the convention not only permits the development of American shipping but opens the door for world-wide development.

The American delegation came to the conference without experience of legalized limits of loading, but, however, had the experience of most successful American operators and of ships designed to obtain the greatest safety factor with the greatest earning power commensurate therewith. Hence at the conclusion of the conference the Americans have nothing but wholehearted admiration for the fairmindedness of other countries in conference, especially the British and their readiness to submerge their own ideas in matters in which they are inexperienced, just as they were adamant in other matters in which they had experience. The American delegation particularly appreciates the hospitality shown them by England, both officially and privately.

With the conference closing its session on Saturday, most of the American delegates plan to sail homeward on the Leviathan on Sunday. Among these are H. B. Walker, chairman of the delegation; L. Prior, secretary, and David Arnott, chief surveyor for the American Bureau of Shipping. All three are accompanied by their wives. Some of the other delegates are remaining to travel abroad for a time.

BUENOS AIRES SEES PROFIT.

BUENOS AIRES, July 3.—Reports from New York regarding the amount to be loaned to the municipality of Buenos Aires by the Chatham Phenix Corporation do not agree with the sum expected by the municipal authorities, who say they are to receive the equivalent in dollars at the current rate of exchange, while the bankers apparently expect to convert pesos into dollars at par.

The loan authorized by the City Council was for 37,930,513 paper pesos or its equivalent in dollars.

The municipal treasurer announced today that the New York bankers are placing at the municipality's disposal $16,101,502.67, which is what the peso loan is worth at par. He also announced the present rate of exchange would enable the municipality to collect 45,000,000 paper pesos for these dollars, instead of 37,930,000, which is the face value of the treasury notes which are to be discounted.

The municipality is planning to incorporate the loan into a long-term transaction when it expires in six months, expecting to make a profit of 7,069,487 pesos, or more than $2,[illegible]0,000, on the difference in exchange. The newspapers are complimenting the municipal authorities on a clever piece of financing.

WINS ARCHITECTURAL PRIZE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, July 3.—The Brazil exhibit in the Pan-American architectural exhibition held jointly with the Fourth Pan-American Congress at Rio de Janeiro won the first prize of a gold medal today. Prior to the judging the American Ambassador, Edwin V. Morgan, held a reception for the delegates to the Congress, which was also attended by government officials and the diplomatic corps.

The congress is taking a short vacation. The majority arrived here today for two days. Then they will go to Bello Horizonte, which town is interesting from an architectural viewpoint, as the street plan is an exact duplicate of Washington, D. C.

FIVE NEW CARDINALS GET THEIR RED HATS

High Church Dignitaries and Diplomatic Corps Attend Vatican Ceremony.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VATICAN CITY, July 3.—In the presence of twenty-five Cardinals, all the high Vatican dignitaries, the entire diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican and a large crowd, Pope Pius this morning with the usual pomp and splendor conferred red hats on five Cardinals created at the secret consistory recently. After conferring the red hats the Pope performed the symbolic ceremony of shutting and opening the mouths of the new wearers of the purple, after which they have the right to speak in the Vatican councils.

The Pope again looked comparatively well today. It was noticed that he was somewhat pale and seemed tired, but this might have been caused by the oppressive, damp heat which Rome has been suffering from for the last week. He answered with kindly grace the cheers which greeted his entrance into the Hall of Benedictions, where the ceremony was performed.

After the public consistory, the Pope, followed by his court, retired to the Sistine Chapel, where the secret consistory was held. After shutting and opening the mouths of the new Cardinals he placed their Cardinals' rings on their fingers and then assigned them to their titular churches and the Vatican congregations of which they will be members.

Then he withdrew to his apartments, leaving the new princes of the Church to be formally admitted by their senior colleagues into the Sacred College of Cardinals. This ceremony was performed symbolically, the new Cardinals being embraced in turn by each of the old Cardinals, after praying before the altar.

Later, the new Cardinals in their Cardinals' robes descended into St. Peter's, where they worshiped at the tomb of the Apostles. Then, according to ceremonials, they called on the Dean of the Sacred College, Cardinal Vannutelli.

TO TAX FILM INTERESTS.

Australia Proposes Levy on Remittances to Outside Companies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CANBERRA, July 3.—New Australian tax proposals containing important provisions relating to the taxation of remittances sent abroad for film interests were presented to the Federal Parliament today by Treasurer Theodore in the income tax assessment bill, which received its first reading.

The measure also provides for the taxation of incomes derived from Australia by persons residing abroad, and for special taxation of insurance companies whose headquarters are not in Australia. The taxable income of any person residing outside Australia, or any foreign company, is deemed to be equivalent to 30 per cent of the income derived from Australian sources.

The taxation of film businesses is to apply not only to concerns controlled principally by foreign companies or persons residing outside Australia, but also to companies the majority of whose shares are held on behalf of foreign interests.

BARTLETT REACHES ICELAND FOR REPAIR

ARRIVES IN MIDST OF FETE

By CAPT. ROBERT A. BARTLETT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 3.—We have put in here under stress of weather and to get our radio fixed, but are now only awaiting favorable weather forecasts before sailing for Greenland. I hope that as the Morrissey sails toward Jan Mayen Island we can obtain the necessary weather and ice data from the radio station there, which will help us considerably.

We entered Reykjavik harbor this week while Iceland's capital was in the midst of its thousandth anniversary jubilations. The Morrissey sheered past the British battleship Rodney and almost under the bow of the ship which had brought King Christian and Queen Alexandrine from Denmark.

To our surpise we found ourselves in a European city with automobiles, public buildings, paved streets and—most unexpected of all—thousands of tourists from Europe and America. Our first quest was to borrow smart clothes for sightseeing so as to be in fashion.

After leaving Halifax—on Friday, June 13—we steered for my home town, Brigus, in Newfoundland, and then for Greenland. Five days out from Brigus, however, the wind began to veer to the northeast, going against the sun. There was a bad storm, which did not last long, but made the radio behave queerly, and we lost contact with the United States.

With our friends knowing that we had a radio aboard, I thought they would become anxious at our silence and that it would be better to put in somewhere where we could get our instruments fixed and report our whereabouts.

This message from Captain Bartlett is the first that has reached THE NEW YORK TIMES since the Morrissey was at sea bound for Brigus. There the schooner was fitted with new sails for the voyage into the Arctic regions.

Before the expedition, which is composed of ten men who will seek data and relics of ancient Eskimo tribes on the northeast coast of Greenland, left New York on June 5 Captain Bartlett said he would stop at Reykjavik for the celebration provided the weather was right.

Reykjavik will probably be the last civilized port of call for the Morrissey until late in the Fall. Her next stopping place, Jan Mayen, is a tiny island in the ice-filled Arctic waters just north of 70 degrees. It is a desolate spot inhabited only by one or two radio operators and a meteorological staff.

From Jan Mayen the Morrissey will sail westward through the drifting floes to Scoresby Sound, where Captain Bartlett will probably anchor her for the duration of the Arctic Summer. On the way he will take soundings and seek marine specimens for the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, the United States Fisheries Bureau and the Smithsonian Institution.

Captain Bartlett's account of the voyage to Brigus and Reykjavik, during which severe storms were encountered by the Morrissey, has been forwarded by him to THE NEW YORK TIMES and will be published in the near future.

majority of the Legislature evidenced its willingness to cooperate in bettering governmental conditions in the greater city. Its motive was then questioned and charges of partisanship emphasized. By a party vote it passed a measure empowering you to appoint a special commission to investigate the administration and the affairs of the New York City magistrates, Police Department and the Board of Standards and Appeals. For reasons stated by you this measure was vetoed.

Our attention is now called to articles appearing in the New York City press in which your failure or refusal to investigate various departments and officials charged with corruption in the New York City area are based on your disclaimer of power under the Moreland act, and according to your letter addressed to the representative of the Socialist party's public affairs committee, on your questioning your duty or right to interfere by superseding local district attorneys.

Disclosures brought to light by the Federal attorney for the Southern District of New York, in spite of his limited jurisdiction, and after failure on the part of local officials to act, have shocked the entire State and country. Surely the same reasons which motivated you in interfering in the affairs of Westchester County, Monroe County, Orange County and Green County should urge action within your authority in the counties within the city of New York.

In no time in many years has there been such a saturnalia of graft and official wrongdoing as has been disclosed within the city of New York in the last few months.

Pledge Majority Support.

We write to say to you that if you still question your power to interfere in this situation, it is entirely agreeable to us that a special session of the Legislature be called to give you any power necessary in this connection. We pledge that the majority of the Legislature will act to the end that you may be clothed with full authority as the Chief Executive of this State to rid the City of New York of dishonest and disloyal public officials. Such a session need only be very brief, and we are certain that no member of the Legislature will complain at being asked to do his duty in this matter. The need for reasonable expedition is apparent, and the cost to the State is far outweighed by the benefits which should be obtained.

Kindly give us as early a response as is possible.

Very truly yours,
JOHN KNIGHT,
J. A. McGINNIES.

Governor Roosevelt is returning from the Conference of Governors at Salt Lake City. It is expected that he will receive the letter on Monday, when he reaches Albany.

SPECIAL SESSION UNLIKELY.

COLUMBUS, Neb., July 3.—Governor Roosevelt, when informed today that president pro-tem of the Senate, John Knight, and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the Assembly had sent a letter to Governor Roosevelt asking him to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature to pass legislation authorizing an investigation by the Governor of the New York City Administration, said:

"I will be back in Albany on Saturday morning and will be very glad to confer with Senator Knight and Speaker McGinnies then. The Legislature had the power and was in a position to provide for such an investigation in the usual manner through a legislative committee, at the regular session, and the question naturally arises why they did not do it then."

While the Governor would say nothing further in advance of a conference with the two Republican leaders, there is no reason to believe that his views have changed since his action while the regular session was in progress on a measure providing for an investigation of the Walker administration through some agency of his own creation. The Governor vetoed that bill and pointed out that in accordance with every precedent, such an inquiry should be conducted through a legislative committee.

Under existing statutes, the Governor has no power to intervene, except by summoning an extraordinary session of the Supreme Court and an extraordinary grand jury, with a Deputy Attorney General superseding the district attorneys in the investigation and prosecution of any derelictions that might be brought to thesurface. But it may be stated on authority that the Governor would be reluctant to do this in the absence of pretty conclusive evidence that justice had broken down in New York City or that complications an dconflict might result from the fact that where grand jury procedure is concerned there are five separate spheres of jurisdiction within the city.

The Governor desires above all things to keep politics out of the situation. There is reason to believe that soon after his return he will invite the two legislative leaders to a friendly discussion of the situation with a view to an agreement being reached on an effective line of action.

"NIGHT CLUB QUEEN" JAILED

Mrs. Meyrick Gets 6 Months' Term in London on Liquor Charge.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, known as London's "night club queen," was sentenced today at the Bow Street police court to six months' imprisonment and was also fined $450 and costs for selling intoxicants without a license.

The Forty-Three Club, owned by Mrs. Meyrick, was raided on Monday by the police. The names of patrons were taken and her aides were questioned.

Mrs. Meyrick, one of whose daughters was married to the Earl of Kinnoull and the other to Lord de Clifford, wept as her counsel pleaded for leniency on the ground that she had persistently refused to sell liquor at the club, giving away only after determined pressure by her patrons.

The prosecutor brought out that she already had served two imprisonment terms, the last for her connection with the Sergeant Goddard bribery and conspiracy case and the first on a charge similar to the present one.

GERMANY WILL CURB FOREIGN TONE FILMS

COMPETITION ELIMINATED

Definite Quota Is Not Yet Fixed—Interest of American Firms Expected to Be Discouraged.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 3.—Foreign tone films will be admitted into Germany only in numbers large enough to fill the gap between the number of pictures theatres want to show and the number that can be produced in Germany, if Dr. Joseph Wirth, Minister of the Interior, sticks to the program he laid down today, explaining how he intends to carry out his newly received responsibility for protecting the "cultural interests of Germany" in film matters.

There can be no competition under this system, since the exhibitor will have no chance to choose which films he prefers to show but must use all available in order to fill his program.

When the former contingent law expired on June 30 and the new law transferring the regulation of the importation of films from the Ministry of Commerce to the Ministry of the Interior still had not been passed, the government effected the desired transfer temporarily by edict. Today the Reichstag's educational committee accepted a bill which is expected to come up in plenary session Saturday, when it is expected to be passed on the committee's recommendations.

The law itself will merely give the Minister of the Interior jurisdiction. The excitement which has been awakened, not only among importers of foreign films but also among exhibitors, is based on the Minister's memorandum, outlining how he intends to deal with the task.

Two of the main points in it are a definition of German film and the laying down of steps which an importer must take to get permission to bring in foreign films. It defines a German film as one not only produced in Germany, but with the director, the music composer and the majority of those connected with the production "belonging to the German cultural circle." It adds that German citizenship will not be taken as a criterion.

At present it is uncertain whether this will be used to exclude allegedly undesirable Germans as not members of the cultural circle or will be used as a loophole to admit foreigners to participation in production if the Minister considers they are eligible.

An importer must first get permission from the Ministry before he can even submit a film to the censor. It is clear that this permission to be censored will be granted only if the Minister is certain there have not been too many foreign films already approved by the censor.

The memorandum further states that it is impossible to fix a quota now—exactly the point which film producers and exhibitors are most anxious to know—since it must first be established how much room there is going to be between the number of films German companies can produce and the number which the theatres will demand.

There are some who believe that the drastic nature of the Ministry's expressed intentions is intended as a club over the heads of the conference now meeting in Paris. Others point out that the general uncertainty and the probable slowness of fixing the quota for foreign productions are likely to cause a waning of interest on the part of American tone-film interests in Paris in paying very much for the privilege of entering the German markets.

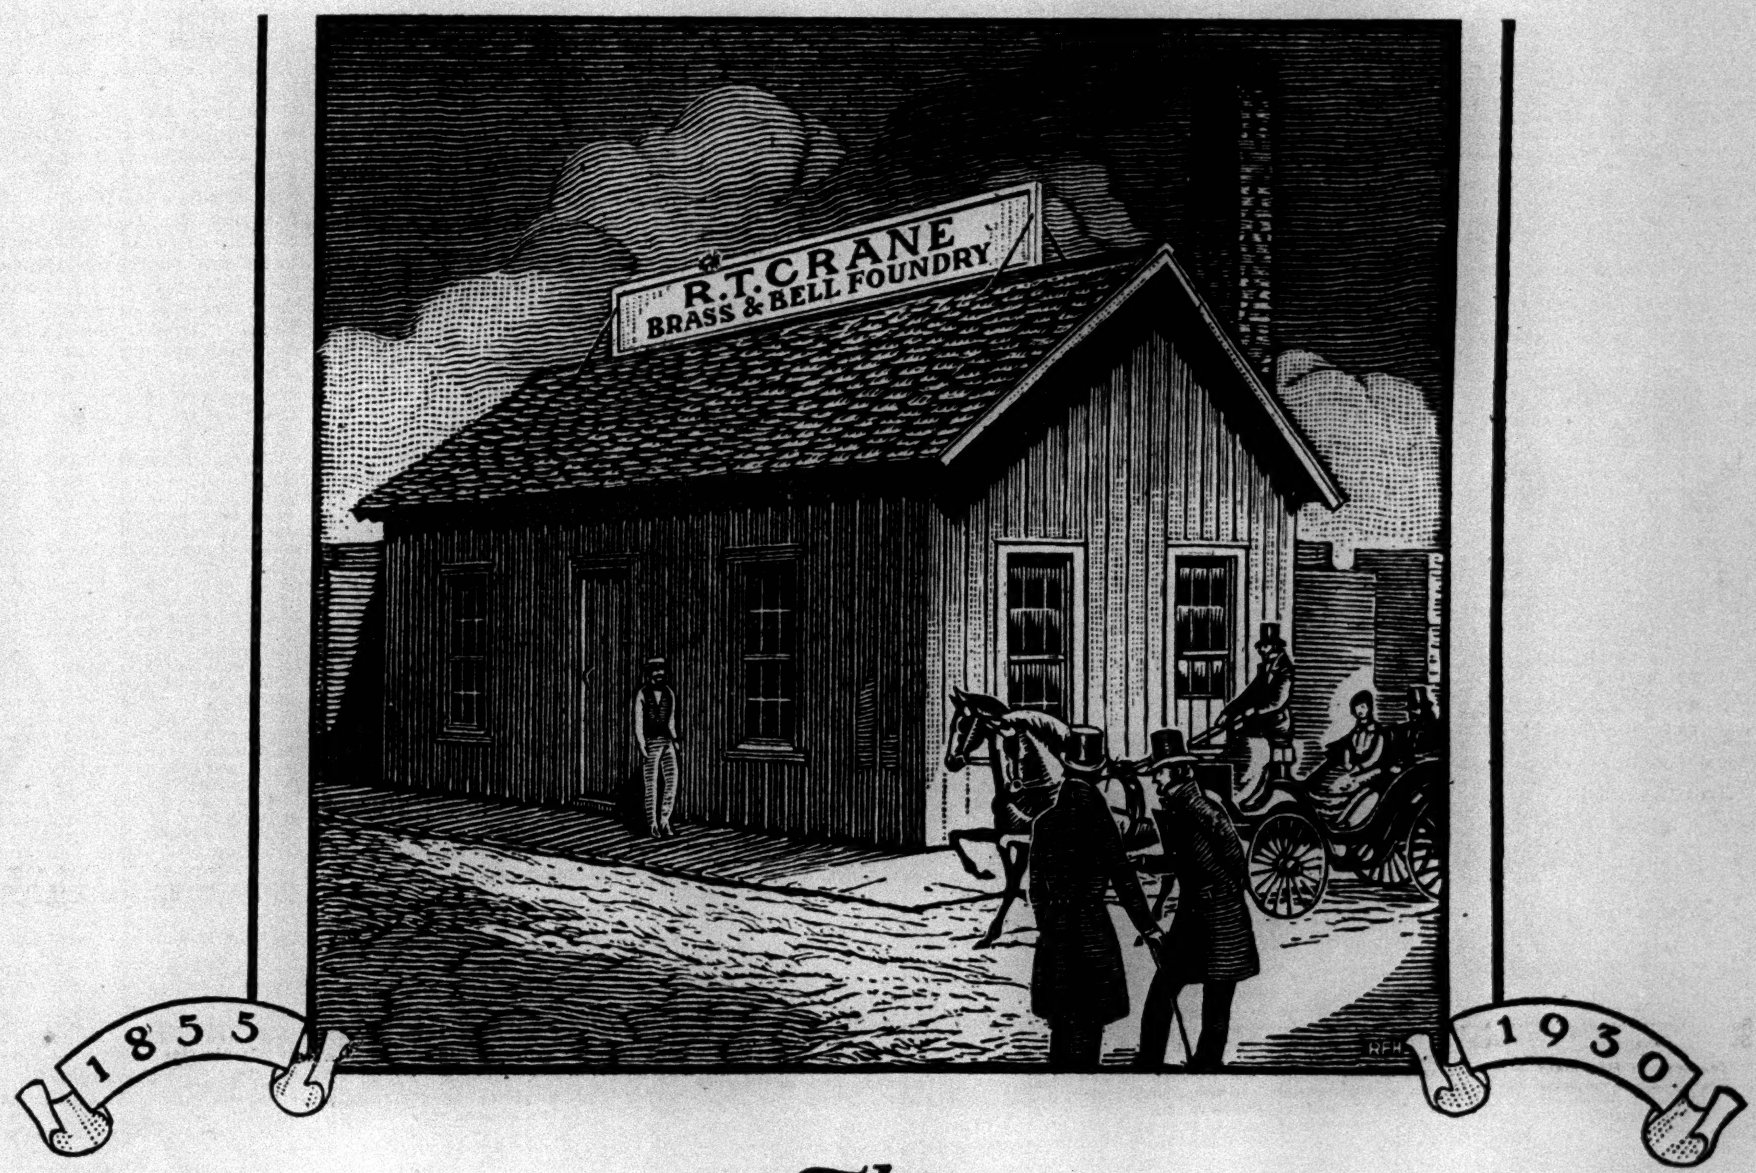
GENERAL FACES INQUIRY.

Cuba Will Investigate Semidey's Criticism of United States.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, July 3.—An investigation of the declarations reported to have been made by Brig. Gen. Semidey of the Cuban Army in regard to armed intervention by the United States in Nicaragua and in regard to Porto Rican independence will be made by the War and Marine Department.

In spite of the strict reserve observed in military circles, it is known General Rojas, Secretary of War and Marine, has ordered an inquiry into General Semidey's statements, which have been quoted in the United States and Europe. The statements are alleged to have been made while General Semidey was visiting in Porto Rico.



The 75th Anniversary of Crane Co.

It was the 4th of July, 1855. In a modest frame structure at Canal and Fulton Streets, Chicago, R.T. Crane drew from the fire a crucible of molten brass and poured his first castings. Humble in origin, a business was born destined to greatness by the resolution of the founder, a creed of powerful simplicity:

"I am resolved to conduct my business in the strictest honesty and fairness; to avoid all deception and trickery; to deal fairly with both customers and competitors; to be liberal and just toward employees; and to put my whole mind on the business."

By this resolution, steadfastly adhered to, the little structure has expanded into factories that now cover 375 acres and into branches and sales offices in 196 cities of United States and foreign lands.

The shadow of the founder, R. T. Crane, has lengthened into a globe-girdling institution with more than 20,000 employees.

The first simple castings poured seventy-five years ago have grown into more than 33,000 Crane products that serve mankind throughout the world... They serve in city homes, humble as well as pretentious, freeing families from the evils of insanitation, from kitchen drudgery, from winter's chill... They serve in rural communities, releasing farmers and their wives from the discomforts and labor imposed by the lack of running water...

They serve in industry, answering every problem of valves and piping for carrying and controlling oil, gas, air, steam, and water.

The Crane creed has been the inspiration for this service. It has been the touchstone by which every subsequent Crane policy has been tested; the secret of the trust evoked among engineers, architects, contractors, and home owners, for every product that bears the Crane name.

Yet whatever progress has been made is accounted only a beginning of a greater growth, a deeper engineering research, a broader service to mankind.

MILLARD'S PLEDGE FAILS TO WIN WETS

DRY CANDIDATE ASSURED

State Head of Anti-Saloon League Denounces Millard for Promising to Work for Repeal.

The declaration of Charles D. Millard, organization candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment failed yesterday to bring him either the support or the neutrality of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Mr. Millard's declaration also had the effect of stirring up the drys and it was virtually assured that there would be a dry candidate entered against him to make the race a triangular one.

Major Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, announced that the association would support John K. Holzworth of Port Chester, who declared against repeal at the time he announced his candidacy, when the association tried in vain to get a declaration from Mr. Millard, which he gave on Wednesday to the Westchester Voluntary Republican Committee for Repeal.

"The day after Mr. Holzworth announced his candidacy he was told that our organization would support him," Major Curran said. "We shall keep our word with vigor and with pleasure. There was never any doubt about Mr. Holzworth's belief that for the good of the country the Eighteenth Amendment must be repealed. He has been for repeal first, last and all the time, clean and straight and without any straddling or equivocation whatsoever. I hope he will be nominated."

It was learned that the officers of the association regard Mr. Millard's repeal declaration as forced by Mr. Holzworth's candidacy. The association also looks upon the candidacy of Mr. Holzworth as a chance to defeat William L. Ward, the veteran Westchester County Republican leader, who is classed as a dry and has repeatedly declared that prohibition was here to stay and should not be a political issue. The Republican organization of Rockland County, which is in the Congressional district, is said to be supporting Mr. Holzworth.

Mr. Millard in his pledge said he would work for repeal of the amendment, but did not say that he would vote for it if elected to Congress. Mr. Holzworth, expressing doubt that Mr. Millard would keep the pledge, said of Mr. Millard:

"He will do, of course, exactly as William L. Ward says, written pledge or no written pledge, and Ward is a rabid dry who has repeatedly and lately stated emphatically that prohibition is here to stay. The people of this Congressional district are entitled to have their views on the prohibition issue voted in Congress rather than those of William L. Ward."

Fred A. Victor, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, denounced Mr. Millard and said:

"If Mr. Millard has signed the pledge he is reported to have signed, he advertises himself as unfit to hold the office to which he aspires. Mr. Millard not only has repudiated the Republican platform and has rejected the leadership of President Hoover but he has given notice that he will not respect his oath as a Congressman."

The Congressional district is now represented by J. Mayhew Wainwright, a dry. It was said that the drys would certainly enter a candidate for the Republican nomination and would pick a man at a series of conferences next week.

FOR ENDING GRAND JURIES.

Philadelphia Body Says They Serve No Useful Purpose.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Recommendation that the grand jury system be abolished was made in the final presentment of the June grand jury today to Judge Harry S. McDevitt in Quarter Sessions Court.

"We criticize a system by which grand juries are obliged to function at the will of the District Attorney's office," said the report. "We can see that grand juries serve no useful purpose to the county and are a needless expense. We therefore recommend abolition of the system."

The report strongly criticized the city magistrates for overcrowding the courts with liquor cases.

"The practice of the police in raiding private homes on anonymous complaints from unfriendly neighbors and the holding of the defendants under heavy bail for the possession of trivial quantities of liquor we term farcical in view of the undeniable fact that active speakeasies are flourishing throughout the city," the report said.

LIQUOR SEIZED IN NEWARK.

Dry Agents Raid Hillcrest Club and Arrest Two Men.

One of Newark's best-known resorts, the Hillcrest Club, at 25 Hill Street, was raided yesterday by a squad of seven prohibition agents, who reported seizing a large quantity of beer and whisky and several cases of champagne.

Samuel Klein, named as the proprietor, and Fred Baer, as bartender, were arrested and released in $1,500 bail each after arraignment before United States Commissioner Joseph F. Holland on charges of sale and possession of liquor. The two men received the raiding agents cordially after seeing the warrants, escorted them through the building and served them a dinner before being taken before the commissioner.

Methodist Board Plans Dry Aid.

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C., July 3 (AP).—The board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South met in executive session here today for the announced purpose of discussing plans "to lend assistance to Federal enforcement of prohibition." Bishop James Cannon Jr., chairman, presided at the meeting. During a recess it was announced the board "viewed hopefully" the transfer of prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice.

PATROL AND RUM BOAT REPORTED IN FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—The Philadelphia Record says that machine gun bullets and one-pound shells whistled across Delaware Bay early today as the crew of a Coast Guard cutter carried on a running "artillery battle" with a speedy rum ship.

After a three-mile chase, The Record says, the powerful 45-foot cruiser, believed to have been the Helena, sister ship of the Daisy T., recently found scuttled off Cape May, sped away from its pursuers and disappeared.

"For ten days," The Record says, "a frantic search had been going on for the Helena. Early this morning a lookout on Coast Guard cutter 103, anchored just off Cape May, heard a swish of water and saw a powerful craft whiz by.

"A shell was snapped into a one-pounder and a chunk of lead went zooming out over the water. It cut sharply across the bow of the Helena. Round after round was fired from the one-pounder on the cutter. But the target was tearing through the water and so was the pursuer, which made accurate marksmanship impossible.

"A machine gun was then stripped of its tarpaulin. In another minute the rat-tat-tat of the smaller gun blended with the sharp clicks of the one-pounder. After about twenty-five belts of machine-gun bullets had been snapped through the weapon, answering fire came from the fleeing craft. Water about the cutter was spattered with lead, but the fleeing gunners did not find their mark.

"Superior speed won the battle for the smugglers. Three miles south of Bayside, information was obtained that the rum ship had sped up into Mill Creek, but careful searching by the cutter was without success.

"The Helena has been running between Delaware Bay and a point forty-five miles out at sea, where eighteen large ships, loaded with liquor, have been anchored for days. a Coast Guard plane several days ago flew out to the floating liquor warehouses and, swooping low, took photographs of the squadron."

RUM CHASER RAMS YACHT ON DELAWARE

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—The government rum-chaser No. 183, from Cape May, said to have been running without lights, rammed and wrecked the thirty-foot cabin cruiser Arbutus late last night in the Delaware River about thirty-eight miles below this city.

The cruiser, according to its owner, Arthur T. Klatt of this city, who was aboard when the accident occurred, is a complete loss, the damage being placed at $10,000.

With Mr. Klatt on the cruise, which had begun at Wilmington, Del., with Stony Point as the destination, were his wife, Mrs. Emma Klatt; their son, Theodore; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Allen, also of Philadelphia, and their 18-months-old baby, Chester Jr. None of them was injured.

"We were running along with all our lights burning brightly," said Mr. Allen today. "Suddenly out of the darkness came this big rum-chaser, absolutely without lights.

"It headed straight for us. We shouted and sounded our horn, but the next thing we knew there was a crash and a shock.

"The bow of the craft smashed into us amidships, cut into the boat deeply and crushed its ribs."

to revise their estimate to 2,500,000. Officials of the New York Central announced that over the holiday period from June 27 to July 5 the New York Central will have transported more than 1,000,000. Pennsylvania Railroad officials estimated that another 1,000,000 will have passed through the Pennsylvania Station, including hundreds of thousands traveling by the Long Island Railroad.

To accommodate the peak of the outbound holiday rush, which started in the middle of the afternoon, the New York Central ran two or more extra sections on all its westbound regular trains.

The Twentieth Century Limited went out with two extra sections. Five extra sections of the Montreal Special transported thousands to the Adirondacks. Train 65, over the D. & H. and Rutland systems, went out in four extra sections.

The New Haven Railroad ran twenty extra trains out of Grand Central. Over the holiday period the New Haven reported it would operate 300 extra Pullmans and 300 extra coaches. The New Haven ran two extra sections yesterday on all its important eastbound trains. It ran several of its New England trains that usually depart on Friday with week-enders a day ahead of time to accommodate the vacationists. The Merchants' Limited was run in two sections, one of fourteen cars and the other of twelve. The New Haven reported that every seat on the White Mountain Express had been sold out the first of the week.

"Everything is running normally, allowing for all the extra equipment we have on the road," said an official of the New York Central, "but we are holding our fingers crossed. I never saw such a crowd as we have had in the Grand Central this afternoon."

Bus lines reported that they were sending regular buses out in more than a dozen extra sections. The routes serving New England, Northern and Western New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, also lines operating in the nearer areas of Long Island and New Jersey, reported record business.

Traffic Sets Record.

Holiday traffic over the TAT-Maddux Air Lines and the associated Pennsylvania and Santa Fe Railroad also set a record, when thirty-one passengers departed yesterday from New York on the Airway Limited of the Pennsylvania to connect with the airplanes of the line at Columbus tomorrow morning.

Fifteen passengers are bound for Los Angeles or San Francisco and the others to intermediate points. Four airplanes will pick up the traffic in Columbus, two for the Pacific Coast and two for St. Louis.

Regulation of motor traffic in the Bronx will be expedited by the assignment of 100 extra patrolmen to duty on the main arteries over the week-end. Deputy Chief Police Inspector John F. Hennessey, in charge of the police in the Bronx, enlarged the traffic force at the request of District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin. Extra men will be assigned in parks and at beaches as well as at street crossings.

IDENTIFIES GAMBLER AS SLAYER OF LINGLE

CAPONE GUNMAN SENTENCED

The witness also identified a suit of Hurley's clothes as those worn by the murderer.

These garments were seized in a second raid on a hotel where the Moran-Aiello gang maintained a base of operations. The clothing was taken from Hurley's room, and directly across the hall is another room rented by Grover Dullard.

In Dullard's room the raiders seized much important data on North Side gambling and other criminal activities. In addition there were machine gun clips, a heavy-calibred loaded revolver, marked cards, loaded dice and much other paraphernalia.

Search for Zuta Continues.

In the records seized were the names of four policemen, along with 150 other names. Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's Attorney, said these 150 were "Moran payrollers."

Much of the seized data concerns the operations of the Sheridan Wave gambling club, operated by Joey Josephs and Julian ("Potatoes") Kaufman, allies of the Moran-Aiello-Zuta gang. This club continues to loom larger every day in the Lingle killing.

Much importance attaches to the identification of Hurley. Previously it had been surmised that the actual killer was left-handed and a blond. Hurley was arrested in an earlier raid and later turned loose because the raiders "had nothing on him."

Active search was being made for Jack Zuta, who, with three companions, narrowly escaped assassination in a busy street Tuesday night. In this battle an innocent bystander was killed and another was wounded.

Search also is on for Ted Newberry, at various times linked with the Capone, Moran and other gangs. He was seen in the Illinois Central tunnel at the time Lingle was slain.

Gunman and Bombers Sentenced.

Investigators learned today that the tunnel fairly swarmed with gangsters at the time of the Lingle killing, and there were intimations that it might be shown that Newberry handed the short-barreled pistol to the killer just before he stepped up behind Lingle.

Peter Von Frantzius, a gun dealer, testified before the grand jury that he had sold six short-barreled pistols to Newberry a few months ago.

The pistols were made to order, and Newberry and Frank Foster called for them. Newberry said they favored the short barrels because they could be stuck in the waistband of the trousers.

Foster, who was supposed to have owned this particular pistol, is now under arrest in Los Angeles and has been indicted for the Lingle killing. No one suspects that Foster did the killing, but he is wanted to tell, if he will, what he knows about this pistol.

Government and municipal authorities made some headway today against highly organized crime. Jack McGurn, said to be machine gunner for Al Capone, was sentenced to a year in the county jail and fined $300 for carrying concealed weapons, the maximum sentence under the charge.

Carl Oliviero and Joe Cerra, professional bomb manufacturers and members of the bombing syndicate that has demolished two score buildings so far this year, pleaded guilty today and were sentenced to eleven months each in the county jail.

Their price, they testified, was $10 to $15, but the placing of the explosives cost from $250 to $2,500, according to the peril attached and the ability of their employers to pay.

Mr. Roche seized a carload of Bugs Moran's liquor today as a result of converging trails of the killers of Alfred Lingle, and of the gangsters who attempted to murder Jack Zuta.

The liquor, valued at $20,000, was shipped here from Boston, and Mr. Roche said his information was that it came from Frank Parker of Canada.

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—Ambassador Morrow returned to Mexico City today, after an absence of seven months, to complete the tasks he laid down on Dec. 5 to attend the naval parley in London.

The Ambassador arrived on a special car attached to a regular passenger train. He was accompanied, among others, by Arthur Bliss Lane, formerly first secretary of the embassy here, who will now act as counselor.

At 7:30 P. M. the Ambassador's car backed in at the Colonia Station, where a large throng awaited. Mr. Morrow appeared on the observation platform, accompanied by Fernando de la Garza, a special representative President Ortiz Rubio sent to the border to meet him. The train carried the usual military escort.

With the Ambassador arrived James A. Garfield and John Marshal, the latter a former Assistant Attorney General. Mr. Morrow greeted the embassy staff, correspondents and others in a most cordial manner.

The Ambassador was cordially received by Mexican officialdom and residents of the American and British colonies. He looked well but patently fatigued after his long train journey, following his intensive Senatorial campaign in New Jersey. He was in good spirits and expressed pleasure at having been able to return to Mexico before taking his final farewell to carry on his campaign as Republican Senatorial nominee in New Jersey.

The Ambassador faces a full day tomorrow. First he will attend a morning ceremony at the outskirts of the city organized by the American colony in celebration of the Fourth of July. In the afternoon he will hold a reception at the embassy for the American colony, and probably in the evening will attend a dinner offered by the colony.

On Saturday the Ambassador will call on the Minister of Foreign Affairs and on Monday will see President Ortiz Rubio.

Mr. Morrow is expected to devote himself to cleaning up the question of payments for land expropriated from Americans and to the reaching of a new agreement for payment of Mexico's external debt, negotiations for which are under way in New York.

Many patriotic and civic organizations of other parts of New York City, Westchester, Long Island and New Jersey have arranged patriotic exercises.

The Associated Press reports that the celebration of Independence Day in France will have especial significanse this year on account of the presence thtere of a large number of American Gold Star Mothers. In Stockholm, Sweden, the Swedish-American Society has arranged an elaborate Fourth of July celebration in collaboration with the American Club and the entertainment committee of the Industrial Arts Exhibition now in progress. The Government of Peru has decreed the Fourth of July a holiday in honor of the anniversary of the birth of the United States.

Patriotic and memorial exercises will be held today aboard all ships of the United States Lines which are at sea. These include the George Washington, the President Harding, the Republic and the America. All of these ships, with the exception of the George Washington, have delegations of Gold Star Mothers and widows among their passengers.

An Independence Day rally was attended by men of the Bowery in the Bowery Mission last night at 8 o'clock. The rally marked the close of celebrations of Patriotic Week proclaimed by Vice President Charles G. Curtis. The exercises at the missions were conducted by Anson C. Baker, manager of the institution.

PARADE IN WESTCHESTER.

Whole County to Join in March and Service in White Plains.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 3.—While the police in the four cities today enforced regulations against the sale of fireworks, thousands of citizens flocked to adjoining villages where no restrictions are in force and laid in their supplies of explosives.

A warning against indiscriminate use of Jouly Fourth fireworks was issued here today by Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., Westchester County Health Commission. An adequate supply of tetanus anti-toxin has been obtained by the County Health Commission.

Patriotic and civil organizations of Westchester County will join in a parade in Mount Vernon and at special services at St. Paul's Church in East Chester. Commander Frank D. Kernstock will be grand marshal. United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle will be the chief speaker at the church.

11 SEIZED IN FIREWORKS DRIVE

Nine persons were fined a total of $275 by Magistrate Peter Daly in the Jamaica (L. I.) Court yesterday for the illegal sale or transportation of fireworks. A tenth defendant, accused of having attempted to bribe a policeman in connection with the sale of fireworks, was released in $2,500 bail by Magistrate Daly. A Negro youth, charged with firing a .22-calibre pistol, was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Flood in West Side Court.

Nicholas De Nonino, 43 years old, owner of a candy and cigar store at 106-10 154th Street, Jamaica, was held by Magistrate Daly on a charge of offering a bribe of $15 to a patrolman to drop a complaint of illegal sale of fireworks.

The youth held for firing the .22-calibre pistol is Albert Thomas, 16, 242 West Sixty-second Street, who was arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan law. He told the court he had bought the pistol to celebrate the Fourth and was ignorant of the law that required him to have a permit.

With two shopkeepers sentenced to five days in jail for violating the city ban on the sale of fireworks and two others under arrest, Union City, N. J., pressed its drive for a sane Fourth today. Max Ducoff, 38 years old, of 240 Summit Avenue, and Gus Stamos, 48, of 203 Forty-eighth Street, were the two storekeepers sentenced oby Recorder Modarelli.

Former President Calvin Coolidge is 58 years old today, and Lee Ping Quan, who was chef of the Presidential yacht Mayflower during the administrations of Presidents Harding and Coolidge and until the yacht was discarded by President Hoover, has sent Mr. Coolidge his annual birthday cake. Mr. Coolidge did not forget Lee Ping Quan when the latter was temporarily out of a job after the yacht was discarded. He sent him a letter of commendation which Lee Ping Quan reproduces in facsimile on the literature of his restaurant at 2,050 Broadway. And Lee Ping Quan does not forget Mr. Coolidge.

This is the eighth annual cake for Mr. Coolidge, Lee Ping Quan explained proudly yesterday. The first was baked in 1923 and served aboard the Mayflower, and the custom has been kept up ever since. But Lee Ping Quan made Presidential birthday cakes even before that, he added. For in 1922, shortly after his transfer from the torpedo boat Barry, on which he had served during the World War, he baked one for the late President Harding.

The present specimen, which was scheduled to arrive at Northampton, Mass., by express yesterday, is a twenty-pound fruit cake, eight inches high and sixteen inches in diameter. It is covered with white icing that is decorated, Lee Ping Quan explained, with May rosebuds and green leaves." And it is emblazoned:

THRONGS AT ATLANTIC CITY.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 3.—A heavy downpour of rain deluged the resort early this morning and brought relief from the extreme heat of several days duration. The sky cleared before noon, however, and preparations went forward for the reception of several hundred thousand Fourth of July visitors.

The Pennsylvania and Reading railroads expect to bring in 100,000 from New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and elsewhere. This number will be materially augmented by motor travel. Still others will come by plane, weather permitting.

With the Fourth falling on Friday, most of the visitors will remain over the week-end.

Firecrackers and other explosives are taboo. Twenty-two additional Summer policemen were sworn in today by William S. Cuthbert, Director of Public Safety.

CURTIS AT OCEAN CITY.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., July 3.—Vice President Charles Curtis was greeted by city and county officials on his arrival here tonight for the Fourth of July celebration tomorrow, at which he will be the principal speaker. The entire city is decorated for the occasion. The official welcoming party met and escorted the Vice President and his party by motor car from Pennsville, Salem County, to Ocean City.

The motor caravan was greeted by crowds in communities through which it passed on the road from Pennsville. At Millville George Higgs of Petersburg was in the front row of the crowd, and he and the Vice President shook hands and chatted for several minutes. Mr. Higgs, who is 75 years old, was a fellow-boarder with Mr. Curtis many years ago at Grandma Peppen's boarding house in Topeka, Kan. Mr. Curtis spoke briefly at a dinner in the Planters' Hotel.

CONTRACTOR YIELDS $6,339 TO ROBBERS

New Apartment House at 91st St. and Central Park West Is Scene of Payroll Hold-Up.

When he received the opportunity of "taking a ride" yesterday morning with four robbers who were interested in the $6,339 payroll he carried, William Moore, contractor for the brick masonry work on the thirty-story apartment house under construction at Ninety-first Street and Central Park West, declined with thanks.

He pulled in from Central Park West in his cream-colored sport sedan and stopped a few doors west of the new building at 9:45 o'clock. As he prepared to alight with the payroll, four young men surrounded the car and two pointed pistols at him.

"Move over," they said as one of them started to take Mr. Moore's place at the driver's seat and the other sat down at the victim's right.

"Just a minute," replied Mr. Moore, who divined the intentions of the intruders. "I'll get out; you can have it."

He handed over the money and a $2,500 check, and as his car drove off without him he headed for the office at 34 West Ninety-first Street of the Elkay Builders Corporation, owners and builders of the new building. From there he telephoned to his bank to cancel the check after suggesting that some one call Police Headquarters.

Detectives Howard Clancy and John Curry of the West 100th Street police station were assigned to the case and found, on their way to the building that Mr. Moore's car had been abandoned at the corner of Columbus Avenue, less than a block from the scene of the hold-up. After questioning bystanders they said that the thieves had escaped in a car of their own which they had parked on Columbus Avenue.

The car was taken to the police station to be examined for fingerprints and Mr. Moore went to Police Headquarters to see if he could identify pictures of any of the four in the rogues' gallery. He explained that, although Friday is his regular pay day, he was paying the men off earlier because of the holiday today.

Mr. Moore is 55 years old, lives at 231 Spuyten Duyvil Parkway and has his offices at 75 West 190th Street, the Bronx.

Three unmasked robbers held up Lucius Nobbe, member of the tiling company of Laber & Nobbe, 1,328 Broadway, yesterday while he was waiting to pay off sixty men working on the eighteen-story apartment house under construction at 770 Park Avenue, and robbed him of a payroll of $3,000. The robbers escaped.

Earlier in the day Nobbe, accompanied by his assistant, John Buschin, had collected the payroll from the main office and returned to their temporary quarters on the third floor of the Park Avenue building. They had barely entered, they said, when they were ordered to throw up their hands and turn their faces to the wall. As the order was given they felt the muzzle of a pistol being pressed into their backs, they said.

The robbers seized the money, which had been placed on the bench, but in ordering Nobbe and Buschin to face the wall they failed to notice a valuable pin in Nobbe's tie.

After the robbers had escaped Nobbe communicated with the police of the East Sixty-seventh Street station. Detective James O'Connor, assigned to the case, took Nobbe to the rogues' gallery at Police Headquarters, but he was unable to identify a possible suspect.

COX SELLS CANTON NEWS.

Brush-Moore Group to Discontinue Paper Don Mellett Served.

CANTON, Ohio, July 3 (AP).—Sale of The Canton Daily News, established ninety-seven years ago, to the Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., publishers of The Canton Repository, was announced here today by James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio and owner of The News.

The announcement said The News would suspend publication with its editions of today and that its real estate, building, circulation and other assets, said to approximate $1,000,000 in value, have been sold to the Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc.

Sale of The Canton Daily News leaves the city with only one evening newspaper, The Repository, and makes the seventh Ohio city to be served exclusively by Brush-Moore papers.

The Canton Daily News was awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1927 for its editorial fight against political corruption and crime in the Canton "jungle" section.

Don R. Mellett, the editor, was assassinated by a gangster. The editorial campaign was carried on and resulted in conviction of several persons in the Mellett murder.

RAIN MAROONS PIER CROWD.

3,000 Visitors Delayed by Downpour as Liner France Sails.

The French liner France sailed at 7 o'clock last night, pulling out from the pier just as the heavy rain began falling. Because of the rain more than 3,000 visitors to the dock were temporarily marooned as they waited for transportation from the pier.

Among those who sailed were Assistant District Attorney Brothers and Mrs. Brothers, going abroad for a Summer tour. Miss Ruth Rosenblatt, secretary to Earl Carroll, producer, sailed on a ticket paid for by Mr. Carroll, the ticket having been the stakes of a wager made by him and his secretary. Several actresses and actors and members of Mr. Carroll's staff were at the pier.

On board also was Claude P. Greneker of the Shubert theatrical organization, who sailed with Mrs. Greneker for a rest on the Continent. They expect to return in August.

PROTESTS PHONE AWARD.

French Senator Charges Terms of Contracts Were Too High.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—Protest against a practical monopoly granted to the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation by the French Government for the renovation of the French telephone system was raised in the Senate today by Senator Jean Philip, who alleged that contract after contract had been given to Colonel Hernand Behn, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph, to the detriment of French industry and on terms which were in excess of what was charged where there was competitive bidding.

Colonel Behn, the Senator said, made the French Government pay 3,000 francs a post, whereas in Italy and Holland, where the Siemens system also is employed, the cost was only 1,000 francs.

38 ARMY HORSES STAMPEDE IN BRONX

National Guard artillerymen, policemen, motorists and boys joined in a wild horse chase yesterday for more than three miles along busy Webster Avenue in the northern part of the Bronx. There were no dusty plains and whooping cowboys, but what was lacking in old Western realism the Bronx pursuers made up in zeal, and in less than two hours thirty-eight horses of the 105th Field Artillery, which stampeded in Van Cortlandt Park, were rounded up.

A nice serenity was in the air over the temporary corral established a week ago to inure the seventy-eight animals of the Second Battalion of the regiment to outdoor manoeuvring for the Summer encampment. Among them were six horses that had never been hitched to a caisson. Sergeant Frank Schaeffer and five enlisted men had little to do but ride around the enclosure, which was situated a quarter of a mile east of the Parade Grounds.

But suddenly, about 9:30 A. M., the clouds darkened, rain fell and several sharp explosions cracked out as a driver sought to start a stalled automobile on Central Avenue Most of the animals pricked up knowing ears, but the unbroken horses shied and dashed about wildly.

Horse after horse hurdled the three-foot wall into Central Avenue and soon thirty-eight of them were dashing southward toward crowded streets, policemen and traffic lights.

Sergeant Schaeffer telephoned to Captain Charles Keegan, adjutant of the regiment, in the Aldermanic Chambers at City Hall. A little later twenty-four soldiers hurried out of the armory at Franklin Avenue and 166th Street. Mounted policemen, the emergency squad of the Bronx Park station and reserves deployed along Webster Avenue, a broad thoroughfare with trolley cars, favored by the horses. Some of the more imaginative policemen brought lariats improvised out of clotheslines.

The horses came, accompanied by shouting, breathless boys. Automobilists tried to help the round-up, principally by tooting horns. Housewives pushed perambulators into hallways.

Many of the animals were lassoed, lured or coaxed into garages. The last horse was caught at 174th Street and Webster Avenue, more than hree miles from the corral.

Almost every garage along the route housed one or more horses. Finally they were led back to the armory and a count showed the Second Battalion will have all its animals when it entrains for Pine Camp at Great Bend, N. Y., on July 12, barring further stampedes.

PERU TO OBSERVE THE 4TH.

State Department Sends Message of Appreciation to Leguia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The State Department has been notified by President Leguia of Peru that, following an annual custom, tomorrow will be observed as a holiday throughout Peru, while President Leguia considers that the Fourth of July should be celebrated by all Democratic governments.

The department is sending a message of appreciation to President Leguia.

CLOUDBURST TIES ALL CITY TRAFFIC

to the south, and at Ninety-sixth Street all trains were turned back uptown.

This emergency schedule was held to for more than an hour when incomplete service was resumed.

The I. R. T. subway station at East 103d Street, which is at the foot of Duffy's Hill, one of the steepest inclines in Manhattan, was flooded in some places more than a foot deep and passengers who were unwilling to wade through the pools of water were marooned in the station for more than half an hour before it was drained clear.

This same condition existed to a somewhat less degree in dozens of subway stations throughout the city.

On the streets the surface cars were overcrowded and all traffic lines moved slowly. Drivers who had been forced to stop by blocks in traffic found difficulty in starting their cars because of wetted ignitions and the terrific rain permitted only slow driving at best.

Just as the cloudburst struck at its greatest fury a thirty-foot section of sidewalk in Houston Street, undermined by water from below and weighted down by a great pool of water in a hollow into which it had sunk, broke from the building line and fell into a forty-foot deep subway excavation. Miss Lillian Coffey 28 years old, of 45 Catherine Street, and Max Blank, 40, of 2,144 Bay Ridge Avenue, Brooklyn, who were racing for a doorway shelter at the time, were carried with it into the excavation.

Miss Coffey managed to cling to a girder about half way down in the excavation and to hold herself there while dirt and débris swept over her. Blank was carried to the bottom and was found in a half conscious condition by Fire Department emergency crews, who had descended by ropes. Both Miss Coffey and Blank suffered only superficial injuries, however, and were able to go to their homes after treatment by a Bellevue ambulance surgeon.

The excavation shoring had been so weakened that police and fire officials ordered a temporary evacuation of three buildings facing and adjoining the point when the cave-in had occurred. An emergency crew was set to work to strengthen the foundation supports. Another building, a four-story brick tenement at 120 West Sixty-first Street, was declared unsafe by a Building Department inspector because water had collected on the roof when a leader became clogged and it was feared that the weight might cause the roof to cave in. Four families were ordered out of the building.

Marooned on Park Benches.

Between thirty and thirty-five men and women, most of them with children in their arms, sought shelter in the tunnel under the transverse road in Central Park. The water poured in there so rapidly, however, that in a short time it was four feet deep in some places and the refugees were driven to stand on benches to keep above it.

Seeing their plight, Patrolmen George Hoffman and Harry Breslin of the Arsenal Station put on their raincoats and waded through the pools of water, carrying those who were marooned to safety.

More than forty telephone appeals for aid were received by Lieutenant William Beck, on the desk at the East Sixty-seventh Street police station, from property owners whose cellars had been flooded. He organized an emergency squad of ten men, which he sent out to assist those who seemed in the worst straits.

Traffic on the east side was badly tied up by the storm. More than 100 automobiles were stalled in East Fifty-seventh Street, the main artery of approach to the Queensborough Bridge, with the result that many delays were caused. The congestion was also unusually severe in First Avenue.

At the height of the storm a one-story extension in the rear of the Nash-Yorkville Sales Company, 1,749 First Avenue, collapsed from the weight of the water, which accumulated faster than the leaders could carry it off. Anthony Rosenbart, 25, a mechanic, of 3,433 Eighty-third Street, Jackson Heights, was working in the place at the time and it was feared he had been killed.

Police and firemen were summoned and dug desperately through the ruins, only to find that Rosenbart had crawled beneath one of the fifteen automobiles parked in the place and had escaped without a scratch.

The streets surrounding the Criminal Courts Building were flooded, the water rising above the sidewalk on White Street and Lafayette Street at the northwest corner of the structure. The sewers were unable to take off the water, which rolled down the incline toward the building on White and Franklin Streets from Broadway.

When the rain was falling in its heaviest volume, the gutters on the roof of the courthouse became choked and the water poured through the large, square skylight over the rotunda to the tiling on the first floor, and flowed east into Centre Street. All of the court attachés had left before the storm broke.

Patrolman Henry Blank, 32, of the Fort Hamilton station in Brooklyn, was knocked unconscious when lightning struck his traffic booth at Sixty-ninth Street and Shore Road, Brooklyn, just as he was stepping from its door. Blank was taken to the Shore Road Hospital, where he was revived and then was taken to his home at 765 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn. The booth was badly damaged.

Lightning struck a six-story elevator apartment at895 Walton Avenue, the Bronx, tearing a hole in its side near the roof and spilling a number of bricks to the ground. No one was injured and the occupants remained within the building. A representative of the Bureau of Buildings found that no serious structural damage had been caused.

A high tension wire at Mott and Dickens Avenues, Far Rockaway, was broken by the downpour, plunging all buildings along Mott Avenue for more than half a mile into darkness. The police diverted traffic from the crossing which is one of the busiest in the Rockaways, until repairs could be made. Another high tension wire collapsed at Bayside Avenue and Sheridan Boulevard, Inwood, putting out the electric lights in that neighborhood.

Many Trees Knocked Down.

In Queens, the Long Island City and Astoria sections were hardest hit, but no section of the borough was left untouched. Many trees were either struck by lightning or blown down, bringing with them electric light wires or blocking highways. All four police emergency crews were busy removing these and other obstructions, and hundreds of complaints were received by telephone by the Queensboro Electric Light Company.

Parts of Ozone Park, Astoria and Long Island City were in darkness for more than an hour. Damage from the wind was worst along Flushing Bay and in Douglaston, where trees were felled by scores.

At Police Headquarters in Jamaica it was estimated that more than 1,000 telephone calls were received during the storm. The reports were of flooded cellars, obstructed roadways, stalled street car lines and questions by persons anxious for the welfare of friends or relatives who had failed to keep appointments.

There was no interruption in subway or elevated service in any part of the borough, but street car lines were badly hit. Two washouts were reported along the line which runs from Manhattan to Jamaica in Queens Boulevard. At Continental Avenue in Forest Hills the rain poured into the open cut for the new Jamaica subway and rose until the shoring was washed away and the street car tracks caved in. Similar conditions caused a break in the line's service at Grand Avenue in Elmhurst. In both instances shuttle services were arranged and passengers were not long delayed.

Along Jamaica Avenue from 139th to 168th Street street cars and automobiles were stalled for more than half an hour until the sewers had taken up flood waters. Street-car service out of Jamaica along the central line to Hollis and Bellaire was discontinued for half an hour.

In Astoria and Long Island City store fronts were blown in and street signs were torn from their moorings. Streets were flooded there and in Flushing, stalling thousands of automobilists, who abandoned their cars and sought whatever near-by shelter they could find.

The cloudburst had less effect on harbor traffic than on that on land. The Marine Division and the Coast Guard explained that even a heavy rain affords better visibility than fog and no collisions were reported.

The five-masted schooner Buccaneer, at the foot of West Ninety-sixth Street, was torn loose from her moorings and floated out into the stream. Police boats were summoned and she was towed back to her pier.

Several thousand persons who had seen the liner France off from her pier at the foot of West Fifteenth Street, were unable to leave the pier because of the rain. The Cosulich liner Saturnia, which had got clear before the storm started, was safe on her way past Quarantine when the cloudburst fell.

U. S. DOUBLES TEAMS GAIN AT WIMBLEDON

MISS PALFREY ALSO WINS

TILDEN-TIMMER DEFEATED

By FERDINAND KUHN Jr.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 3.—Not only will there be all-American finals in the men's and women's singles at Wimbledon this year, but tonight the outlook is bright for all-American finals in the men's and women's doubles as well.

At the end of a long afternoon devoted entirely to doubles matches, the American team of Miss Edith Cross and Miss Sarah Palfrey upset the strong British pair of Miss Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, 4—6, 10—8, 6—3, to reach the semi-final round, while Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan romped through to the final against Mme. Henrotin and Mlle. Sigart of Belgium, 6—2, 6—0.

The only team blocking the way of Miss Cross and Miss Palfrey is the British pair of Miss B. Feltham and Miss M. Heeley, neither of whom has shown enough quality in the earlier rounds to reach the final tomorrow.

Allison-Van Ryn Play Britons.

In the men's doubles, two American teams already are in the semi-finals—the titleholding pair of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn and their team-mates, John Doeg and George Lott. Allison and Van Ryn can get into the final tomorrow by defeating the British Davis Cup players, J. C. Gregory and I. G. Collins, who today defeated Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus of France, 9—7, 6—3, 6—2. Doeg and Lott will have to leap a more formidable obstacle in the ex-champions, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, who defeated Bill Tilden and Hans Timmer today, 6—2, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Tilden may have ended the reign of the French tennis dynasty when he conquered Borotra yesterday, but Cochet and Brugnon showed him today they had plenty of fight and skill left. It was the story of Tilden's serves against Cochet's volleys and half volleys, and the shrewd little Frenchman came out on top.

Tilden was not in the best of form at the start and Cochet and Brugnon soon won five games. Then the prospective singles champion crashed through with his cannonball service and then took the next game as well, but the set went against him, 6—2. That tremendous service again came to the rescue in the second set, but it failed to offset Cochet's deadly volleying at the net.

Gains Point After Point.

Strolling nonchalantly about the court, Cochet picked up point after point, often plucking them from the air. The Frenchmen lost the second set, 6—4, but in the third Timmer showed signs of tiring and in the fourth they had no trouble winning after they had fought their way to a lead of 3-2.

With Borotra things didn't go so well. The joyous Basque was in a subdued mood after his defeat by Tilden, and the familiar sparkle was gone from his play. Fickle is the Wimbledon crowd. Yesterday Borotra was every one's darling. Today he was playing against a British team, and his most brilliant shots were made to silent stands. Yesterday every breath-taking recovery was greeted with thunderous applause, but today the crowd was cheering for the home players.

Collins was the mainstay of the British team today and was the steadying influence which brought it to triumph. His service and driving were faultless, while Borotra appeared listless and Boussus tired long before the end.

Bright Spot for British.

The Gregory-Collins victory was almost the only bright spot in a tournament that has been utterly disastrous for the British players. The defeat of Miss Nuthall and Mrs. Whittingstall conformed to the disastrous tradition. Miss Palfrey gave Wimbledon its first real glimpse of what she can do. She showed a fine, free, natural style of play. Her crisp volleys and long drives were equally deadly, while the English girls threw point after point away by double-faulting.

Tomorrow the first of the all-American finals will be fought on the centre court when Mrs. Moody plays Miss Ryan for the singles crown. Long before the war Miss Ryan was an important figure at Wimbledon, and the last time she was in the final was in 1921, when she challenged Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen for the title. That she is in the 1930 final is a tribute to her courage and pluck, although she is likely to find all of her experience useless against the champion.

BEMBRIDGE, Isle of Wight, July 3 (AP).—King Alfonso of Spain today again suffered defeat when Captain Norman's yacht Cutty won the eight-meter international class race in 2 hours 36 minutes 7 seconds, with King Alfonso's Hispania eighth. There were nine starters.

The King himself was at the helm of the Hispania. He motored over from Ryde, where he had stayed overnight, and was on hand early for today's race.

BOWMAN ADVANCES IN JERSEY TENNIS

CALIFORNIA PAIR TRIUMPH

Plymire and De Lara Defeat Terhune and Leventhal, 6-4, 6-3, as Doubles Tourney Opens.

Special to the New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., July 3.—Herbert L. Bowman of New York, four times winner of the New Jersey State men's singles tennis championship, continued his bid for his fifth title by defeating Earle Taylor of Austin, Texas, 6—2, 6—4, in the annual tournament today on the courts of the Montclair Athletic Club.

His victory places him in the semi-final round, where he joins David N. Jones, Columbia University star; Richard Murphy, brilliant Harvard southpaw, and Julius Seligson of New York, the Eastern intercollegiate champion and recent runner-up for the American intercollegiate crown.

In the semi-final matches scheduled for Saturday afternoon Seligson will face Murphy and Bowman will oppose Jones. The championship match has been set for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The final of the doubles, which got under way today with twenty teams entered, will be played Saturday following the singles semi-finals.

Bowman won the first set comparatively easily, chiefly because Taylor was unable to fathom his high-bounding chop stroke. In the second set the Texan spotted Bowman two games, but then caught up with him at 4-all. Bowman continued his tricky chopping of strokes and captured the next two games and the match.

A heavy rain put an end to the doubles tournament for the day, though not before the Californian combination of Harry Plymire and Jack de Lara had disposed of Maurice Leventhal, New York, and Harry Terhune, Hackensack, at 6—4, 6—3. Perrine Rockafellow and William Aydelotte are seeded first.

THE SUMMARIES.

Doubles.

BARNES, COGGESHALL WIN.

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—Bruce Barnes of Austin, Texas, seeded No. 1 in the draw, and Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines, Iowa, moved into the semi-finals of the Western men's singles tennis championship today at the River Forest Club. They will meet in the bracket Saturday.

Barnes advanced after a three-set struggle with his fellow-townsman, Karl Kamrath, holder of the Eastern, Western and Illinois State junior titles, 5—7, 6—3, 6—2. Coggeshall had too much pace on his flat drives for another Austin junior ace, Joe Bill Bralley, whom he eliminated, 6—2, 6—3.

In the women's singles Miss Clara Louise Zinke of Cincinnati defeated Miss Linne Burkhart, Chicago, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Mary Zita McHale, Dallas, Texas, eliminated Mrs. Florence Wittleder, Chicago, 6—1, 6—3; Mrs. Ruth Riese, Saginaw, Mich., outlasted Miss Louise Hofmeister, Chicago, 5—7, 6—0, 6—2; Mrs. Barbara Duffy, Cleveland, defeated Miss Marion Kronberg, Chicago, 6—0, 6—2; Miss Catherine Wolf, Indianapolis, defeated Miss Vera Trayford, Chicago, 6—1, 7—5, and Miss Ruth Oexman, Cincinnati, fought an uphill, three-set match to turn back Miss Virginia Watson, Milwaukee, 2—6, 7—5, 6—3.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 3.—Herbert Cluthe of Glen Ridge won the junior tennis championship of Northern New Jersey when he defeated Bernard Friedman of Philadelphia in a five-set struggle that took three hours to complete. Friedman led at two sets to one and 3—1 in the final set, but Cluthe finally got the match at 4—6, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2, 7—5.

Practically all of the playing was done in the back court, with long rallies following one another. Caldwell Russell of Louisville won the boys' title handily, defeating Ralph Taylor of Summit in the final, 6—4, 6—1.

WILLIAMS RALLIES TO DEFEAT MURPHY

Former Champion Within 2 Points of Straight Set Reversal in Nassau Tennis.

TRIUMPHS BY 2-6, 10-8, 6-4

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, L. I., July 3.—Two points stood between Richard Murphy, Harvard sophomore, and one of the biggest victories of his career today when the Utica southpaw led Richard Norris Williams 2d at 6—2, 5—4 and 30—15 in the invitation tennis tournament of the Nassau Country Club.

With so cool and daring a campaigner on the other side of the net, however, those two points loomed as big as a mountain for the younger player, and the experience and superb shot-making of the national champion of 1914 carried him past the crisis and on to victory at 2—6, 10—8, 6—4.

For the first set, and until Murphy stood within a point of 4—1 in the second chapter, the Harvard undergraduate had complete command of the situation. With Williams utterly unable to find his gifted touch of Wednesday, Murphy rushed through the first five games of the match, picking off the openings beautifully and maintaining the full length of the court on his forehand.

Williams Rallies in Crisis.

This state of affairs continued until the Harvard sophomore led at 3—1 and 40—30 in the second set and there it was, with the critical point of the match at hand, that the former champion began to produce his matchless half-volleys and to serve in irresistible fashion.

The battle now became in earnest, for Murphy remained dangerous even with Williams at his best, but with each succeeding game the generalship of the older player made itself felt more and more as he mixed in drop shots, cut the lines with his sharply angled volleys and forced his openings inexorably.

After losing the second set Murphy stayed on even terms to 4—all in the third, pressing Williams at every turn, but then came the deciding break in the ninth as he yielded to the former champion's dazzling placements, and the tenth game saw the end of the match.

Neer Forces Hunter.

Before Williams had extricated himself from his perilous position, Francis T. Hunter was finding himself in difficulties on the adjoining court in his match with Phil Neer of California. For the first set Neer could find no opposition to offer, but with the start of the second he found the range with his powerful forehand, and stormed the net so irresistibly that Hunter was helpless to hold him off.

Breaking through for an early lead, Neer carried it to 5—2, covering court in sensational fashion and refusing to be discouraged by any amount of punishment. It looked now as though a third set was definitely in order, for Hunter's heaviest ammunition was unavailing against the rushing attack of the other.

But, to the surprise of the gallery, the New Rochelle veteran now launched his first real attack of the day, and with his drives running the Californian from side to side, Hunter doggedly fought his way through five successive games to win the match at 6—1, 7—5.

Six Reach Quarter-Finals.

Six players were holding brackets in the quarter-finals when play ended tonight. In addition to Hunter and Williams, the occupants were Lewis White of Texas, Eddie Jacobs of Pittsburgh, Donald Cram of Vanderbilt and David Jones of Columbia.

British Deride Ruling That 'Fouls Are Fair'; Boxers There Will Not Follow New York Order

LONDON, July 3.—A chorus of derision has broken forth here as a result of the New York State Athletic Commission's decision that boxers must be protected and that foul blows will be considered fair.

The outcry is not confined to boxing circles and exceeds in violence the British comments on the Scott-Sharkey match in Miami last Winter. The consensus is that British boxers never will conform to the new rule and that the New York decision simply will result in shutting off future Anglo-American ring encounters.

"The New York method of dealing with the situation is to make a bad joke worse than ever," said The Manchester Guardian. "The most obvious answer to this astonishing decision would be to appear in the ring clad in trunks studded with sharp steel spikes. As a matter of fact, the legalizing of blows beneath the belt is really an announcement of utter bankruptcy, from the sporting viewpoint, of these heavily over-advertised encounters."

The Morning Post said the new rule had been devised especially for Sharkey and recalled that the long line of American heavyweight boxers, from Peter Jackson to Gene Tunney, had been able to reach the top without smashing the boxing code.

The Star called the decision "typical" in that it alters the rule instead of taking the trouble to conform to it. "The new game," The Star continued, "may be a good sensation, but it's not boxing. We don't send football teams to play against padded, guarded and vizored gladiators who engage in what Americans call football, and there seems no reason why our men should drop their own notions of fairness and sport to engage in a game which, in their hearts, they cannot but regard as unclean."

HAMBURG, Germany, July 3 (AP).—Max Schmeling still is suffering recurring pains from the blow that ended his match with Jack Sharkey on a foul, the Teuton heavyweight told a representative of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt on his arrival from the United States at Cherbourg. Schmeling said he would consult a physician as soon as he arrived in Berlin.

ISTALENA IS VICTOR IN REGATTA AT RYE

By JAMES ROBBINS.

RYE, N. Y., July 3.—Just a wisp of air cavorted about Long Island Sound this afternoon during the thirty-eighth annual regatta of the American Yacht Club, and of the 102 boats that started, seventeen were unable to get around the courses inside of the five hours allotted. Several yachts dropped out of their classes after drifting about, among them Floyd C. Carlisle's Class M sloop Avatar.

Some of the small racers did not have breeze enough to get out of the harbors along the Sound. Others that did get clear of the points and headlands bobbed around without headway and were not able to get up to the starting line off Parsonage Point.

George M. Pynchon's Class M boat Istalena managed to get around an eighteen-mile triangle 5 minutes 47 seconds ahead of C. D. Wiman's Simba. It was a close race across the Sound to Oak Neck, Locust Valley's water edge on Long Island, a reach to the Cows, off Shippan Point, on the eastern side of Stamford, and a run back.

Iris Triumphs Over Tycoon.

Vincent Astor's twelve-meter Iris defeated Clifford D. Mallory's Tycoon by 9 minutes and 51 seconds. The variance in time at the finish showed the vagaries and fickleness of what wind there was. F. T. Bedford's one-design eight-meter Loke came in 17 minutes and 18 seconds ahead of the Roulette III, owned by J. S. Carreau and R. P. Moeller, the second boat in that class.

Of the eight-meter internationals, Johnston De Forrest's Priscilla was 5 minutes and 13 seconds in front of O. P. Churchill's Angelita, a Pacific Coast craft from Los Angeles.

The New York Yacht Club "forties" and the ten-meters did not get home until after 7 P. M., the time limit for finishing. H. F. Whitton's Banshee then was leading the "forties" but she was 1 minute and 4 seconds outside the time limit, so could not be counted in the end.

Robin Wins in Class R.

Other winners were C. L. Farrand's Robin, in Class R; H. F. Whiton's six-meter Cherokee, A. F. Broderick's Sound Interclub Bozo, John Muhlfeld's Victory Class Flapper, R. M. Schmeltzer's Atlantic craft Flash and S. L. and B. F. Vanderveer's Star Boat Bandit II.

There was only a five-mile southeast breeze of gentle touch when a start was made at 2 P. M. from the motor yacht Ranora III, owned by Frank C. Munson, chairman of the regatta committee. Courses were changed three times by the committee. Those who sailed also included William Remsen, Eric Sproule, Roger Sherman, David Bonner Jr. and George Decker.

The wavering, uncertain air was lightest in the morning. While the yachts were struggling around the courses, with scarcely any motion at times to them, a squall threatened from the northwest. A little rain fell on the late arrivals, but this did not aid any in the way of motive power.

MISS MADISON SETS TWO WORLD'S MARKS

New Yorker Scores Close Victory at 100 Meters—Crabbe Breaks World's Mile Mark.

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 3 (AP).—Miss Helene Madison, 17-year-old Seattle school girl, established a new world's record of 1:08 1-5 in the 100-meter free-style final of the National A. A. U. swimming championships today. The old record, 1:09 1-5, was set in San Francisco last year by Miss Albina Osipowich.

An hour later Miss Madison broke the world's record for the mile, leaving the defender of both the title and the world's record, Miss Josephine McKim, in her wake. She was fifty yards ahead at the end, swimming the distance in 12 minutes 34 2-10 seconds, 14 1-10 seconds better than Miss McKim's mark established in New York in 1928.

George Kojac, N. Y. A. C., won the men's 100-meter free style title, finishing a foot and a half ahead of Al Schwartz, intercollegiate champion from Northwestern. The victor's time was 59 2-10 seconds.

The Los Angeles A. C. held team honors in the men's events at the end of the first day with 14 points. The New York A. C. was second with 5. The L. A. A. C. also held the edge in the women's events with 5 points. The New York Women's Swimming Association was second with three.

Clarence (Buster) Crabbe, Honolulu, member of the Los Angeles A. C. team, clipped 14 3-10 seconds off the world's record made by Arne Borg, Sweden, in 1925, by winning the one-mile free style race in 21 minutes 27 seconds.

U. S. TRACK STARS AGAIN WIN ABROAD

BOWEN, ANDERSON VICTORS

DUESSELDORF, Germany, July 3 (AP).—America's touring track and field athletes carried off principal honors in their second appearance in Germany today. George Bullwinkle, City College of New York; Pete Bowen, University of Pittsburgh; Steve Anderson, University of Washington, and Tommy Warne, Northwestern, all won their specialties.

Bullwinkle took the 1,000-meter run in easy fashion in 2:30.8, with Lefeber of Germany second.

Bowen, National Collegiate A. A. quarter-mile titleholder, captured the 400-meter run in 0:49.2, with the German, Danz, four-tenths of a second behind the Pittsburgh star.

Anderson, National hurdles titleholder, won the 110-meter hurdles by a neck from the Swede, Sven Petterson, in 0:14.9.

SHAMROCK V SCORES IN RACE ON CLYDE

Skillful Handling by Captain Heard Enables Lipton Yacht to Triumph Again.

GOWROCK, Scotland, July 3.—The cool generalship of Captain Heard won another race for the Shamrock V on the Clyde today. The Sir Thomas Lipton yacht slipped home only a few yards ahead of White Heather in the time of 3:55:10 over a shortened course of eighteen miles. With one day more of racing before being fitted out for the trip to America, the Shamrock V's chances have brightened considerably.

For the second day since the Clyde fortnight opened, the conditions resembled those expected to prevail off Newport when the British challenger races for the America's Cup. The weather was fine, with the wind light, and a dull morning had given way to brilliant sunshine, with only the faintest of breezes wafting around the yachts as they crossed the line.

Skelmorlie Buoy was reached with little between the four starters, but off Wemyss Bay Lulworth hugged the shore and got badly left. Around the first mark buoy Shamrock led and by the time Toward had been reached the lead had been substantially increased. It was a case of driving along Innellan shore with the green boat well ahead and Lulworth last.

White Heather was pulling up, however, and off Hunter's Quay had reduced the lead. Both White Heather and Shamrock were being jockeyed for all their skippers' worth, and on the turn around the last mark Captain Heard of the Shamrock got the weather position. The two were separated only by yards, but Captain Heard had won the race skillfully by getting the favored position. Shamrock's time was two minutes and forty seconds better than White Heather's.

At night St. Jean captured the eighth and final session, 119 to 52, in eight innings. St. Jean clicked 28 in his best cluster and Ponzi scored 20 in his best turn at the table.

Giants Will Have Ladies' Day, With Free Gate, Every Monday

The Giants have decided to follow the example of several Western clubs in the National League and have a regular weekly ladies' day at the Polo Grounds. The plan will be put in effect on Monday, July 14, when women will be admitted free. Cincinnati will be the opposing club. Ladies' day will be an innovation in New York, but the Giants believe that the success of the plan in the West augurs well for its success here, and every Monday will be Ladies' Day.

COLLE WINS TWICE IN BRITISH CHESS

LEADS FIELD BY A POINT

Belgian Can Clinch First Place by Drawing Today—Maroczy and Miss Menchik Tie.

SCARBOROUGH, England, July 3.—Scoring two victories, including one in his adjourned game from the ninth round and another in the tenth, E. Colle of Belgium tonight leads the field of twelve experts in the international tournament of the British Chess Federation by a clear point, with only one more round to be contested. Consequently, the Belgian champion needs but to draw his remaining game tomorrow in order to make sure of the first prize. Should Colle lose, then Geza Maroczy of Hungary will have a chance of overtaking him.

Colle won his adjourned game with Michell of London without further play, as the Englishman had a hopeless position. In the tenth round Colle, adopting an Alekhine's defense against Mir Sultan Khan of India, triumphed in forty-seven moves, after winning a piece in the first session of play.

Maroczy was held to a draw by his former pupil, Miss Menchik of Czechoslovakia, and Rubinstein of Poland, who is third in the race, drew with Gruenfeld of Austria. Ahues of Germany brilliantly defeated Winter of England. Drawn games were recorded in the two games played by the other four Englishmen—Yates and Sir George Thomas and Sergeant and Mitchell.

Maroczy, Hungary, drew with Miss Menchik, Czechoslovakia, in a Caro-Kann defense after 29 moves.

PRINCETON AND KENT WIN AGAIN IN HENLEY

Advance to Quarter-Finals of Thames Challenge Cup and Will Meet Today.

TIGER CREW BEATS CLARE

WRIGHT AND GUEST GAIN

Reach Semi-Finals of Diamond Sculls—Boetzelen and Collett Other Victors.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 3.—The Princeton and Kent School eights today provided the greatest thrills of this year's Royal Henley Regatta, both winning magnificently in the Thames Challenge Cup series and tomorrow, Independence Day, will row each other for a place in the semi-finals.

The excitement which greeted the American crew's performances on Wednesday, the opening day, increased today when throngs of spectators along the historic Thames course yelled as the Princeton and Kent boats swept past the finish in two glorious hard-fought races.

Princeton met and vanquished Clare College of Cambridge in the day's second event, covering a mile and five-sixteenths, in 7 minutes and 49 seconds, which was 2 seconds more than yesterday's time, although there was a much stronger wind today.

"I never like to feel too confident before a race," the Princeton coach, Gordon Sikes, said as he took his customary place in the bow of the umpires' launch to follow his crew up the course. After their race yesterday Sikes said that the men "had found themselves."

Voorhees Is Improved.

The condition of Stroke G. C. Voorhees improved today and Sikes decided to row him against the doctor's orders. Voorhees was in bad shape after the race yesterday owing to the fact that a cold settled in his lungs.

The Orange and Black boat got away to a fine start, leading Clare, but after passing the island Clare took a short lead which it maintained for nearly a mile, except for a few moments half-way near Fawley, when the crew missed a stroke but quickly recovered to retain a lead of a few feet.

From the mile post the Princeton oarsmen, spurred on by their energetic coxswain, bit by bit showed their supremacy over the other crew, which outweighed them by twelve and a half pounds to the man. This heavier weight, which put Columbia out of last year's regatta, together with the stiff breeze blowing straight down the course, made a terrific difference in the rowing.

It was a breathless finish, with both crews spurting hard past the fashionable Phyllis Court Club and the stewards' enclosures and it was impossible to tell which would first reach the finish line. Princeton kept the lead, winning by the close margin of six feet.

Princeton Victory Hailed.

The Princeton victory was the signal for the band to play the Star-Spangled Banner after the crew gave its college cheer for the defeated Clare crew.

The Kent School eight had a hard race with the Lensbury Rowing Club, winning by a half length in 7:54, although the schoolboys led most of the way. The boat with its tiny American flag just behind the coxswain got the jump at the start, but there was never more than a few feet between the two boats for the first mile.

When the mile post was reached Lensbury was seen to have a short lead, but Kent, like Princeton, made a beautiful spurt to the finish line to triumph.

The American crews thus provided the two best races thus far at the Henley and every one is anticipating their meeting tomorrow with the greatest eagerness—not only Americans, but all British sport lovers.

For Americans in England no finer Fourth of July treat could be offered than the rare spectacle of two American crews rowing against each other in this world-famed regatta on the Thames.

Both the Princeton and Kent crews have been so much admired by every one during the regatta that the only regret at the two meeting will be that one must be vanquished. Although the younger Kent crew is heavier than Princeton's 150-pounders, the Orange and Black triumphed against a heavier crew today.

Great Race Predicted.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 3 (AP).—"It will be a great Fourth of July race against Princeton tomorrow," said Father Sill, who is in charge of the Kent crew, "but I dare not speculate on the result. All we can do is hope for the best."

Both Joe Wright Jr. and Jack Guest, Canadian scullers, won their heats in the Diamond Sculls today and go into the semi-finals tomorrow. The Canadians are not meeting each other, so there is a possibility of an all-Canadian final when the premier amateur sculling trophy in the world is raced for on Saturday.

Wright, rowing for the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto, easily defeated J. G. Beresford, winning by two and a half lengths in the comparatively slow time of ten minutes flat for the mile and 550 yards.

Sportsmanship on the part of Beresford, who won the Diamond Sculls in 1920, 1924, 1925 and 1926, perhaps meant victory for Wright. The Canadian caught a crab after about 250 yards and lost two strokes, while Beresford forged ahead. Beresford saw the mishap and instead of pressing on waited on his oars for the Canadian to recover.

Guest, representing the Don Rowing Club, Toronto, had practically a walkover over Edwards of Christ Church College, Cambridge. Edwards, after rowing in crew races, had little stamina for his match with Guest.

T. D. Collett of the Leander Rowing Club and Boetzelen of the Berlin Rowing Club were the other scullers to reach the semi-finals.

SOVIETTA IS FIRST IN ASTORIA STAKES

NICOTINE IS DISQUALIFIED

By BRYAN FIELD.

George D. Widener's name was added to the list of owners who have won the Astoria Stakes when his smart filly Sovietta yesterday ran on top from start to finish of this five-furlong dash at Aqueduct, which was inaugurated back in 1902.

Despite a miserable performance in the Clover Stakes, when she was the odds-on favorite, Sovietta again was made the public choice and ran a much improved race, she never was threatened by her company, and came on smoothly to win by three lengths under 122 pounds, paying 8 to 5.

Ladana from the Rancocas Stable was the second horse, leading Chicsu by half a length. Sovietta finished in the very good time of 0:59 2-5, and earned $6,475 by the victory, which is her third in five racing starts. Eleven in all faced the starter, and there was practically no support for any other horse.

Pony McAtee was in the saddle on the Widener color bearer, just as he was in the Clover. In the Clover Sovietta finished fifth under the same weight over the same route, with Ladana the winner. However, Ladana had up only 107 pounds in the Clover and she carried 122 yesterday, which apparently was too much of a shift.

Ladana Hard Urged.

From the break at the end of the five-furlong chute, Sovietta ran first and Ladana second. McAtee never had to ask his horse to run, while Ladana was hard urged most of the way in an effort to overtake the leader. Laverne Fator was in the saddle on the Rancocas horse.

The Dominant Handicap was the secondary feature, and it brought four together over the mile and a sixteenth route, with the Newtondale Stable's Charon the winner. A close head and head duel between Chief Executive, the favorite, and Charon was waged all the way down the stretch, with the son of Cudgel being the winner despite a concession of five pounds in weight made to Chief Executive.

Captain Hook and Eddie Ahearn finished in the order named, with the winner finishing the route in 1:47 1-5. Tommy Malley, Winter riding sensation at Miami two years ago, was up on Charon, and he turned in an even ride to win by a head in a driving finish. Charon paid 8 to 5, as against 13 to 10 on the favorite.

There was a disqualification in the second race, which made the public choice the winner, to the cheers of the players. The Wheatley Stable's Nicotine, under Jimmy Burke's ride, finished first, but was set back by the stewards after Eaby, rider of Scatter, and Malley, rider of Apple Cart, claimed a foul against the winner. Apple Cart was the favorite at 8 to 5 and Scatter the second choice at 9 to 5. They finished in the order named after Nicotine.

Jockey Is Penalized.

Burke was set down for the balance of the meeting as a result of his ride. He bore over at about the three-sixteenths pole, interfering with Apple Cart, which was coming up on the inside of Nicotine. Apple Cart was caught between Nicotine and Scatter and knocked back, although he came on to be second.

There was startling improvement shown in the fifth race when George Bull's Wood God triumphed after he had been showing poor form of late. And Tony Joe, winner of his last race in smashing fashion, finished out of the money after being made the favorite. Bramabiau was second and John Cavanagh third.

CONCLAVE ANNEXES MIDLOTHIAN PURSE

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—Conclave, a 3-year-old brown filly by Friar Rock—Pow Wow, carried the colors of W. R. Coe to victory in the Midlothian Purse, the feature of a good program at Arlington Park today. Gracious Gift was second, with Cog Air third. The race was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and up, over the mile route out of the chute and was run in 1:37 2-5, equaling the track record.

Conclave, with only 90 pounds up, was away fast and quickly drew in front of Gracious Gift, increasing her lead at the stretch turn to four lengths, which she maintained to the end. Gracious Gift was taken into command right at the start, was headed by Conclave nearing the half-mile post and appeared beaten, but came again in the stretch to defeat Cog Air for the place. Cog Air, restrained to the stretch, responded gallantly, but could not menace the leaders.

A new track record for the five furlongs dash was established in the fourth race when Mrs. J. D. Hertz's 2-year-old bay filly Risque dashed home the winner of the Good and Gay Allowance Stakes in 0:59 2-5, lopping off one-fifth of a second from the record made by Beautiful Doll in the first race on yesterday's card. Risque's margin of victory was only a nose over Aunt Deb.

The winner came through in straight heats to justify his selection as favorite. Grattan McKinney, with Doc Parshall of Urbana, Ohio, in the sulky, furnished the chief opposition coming up from last to place in the first two heats. Star Etawah holds the season record for pacing, having done 2:02¾ at Toledo. Bloomer Girl, owned by Harry Todd of Lancaster, Pa., and driven by Mott, was third.

Favorites went down to defeat in the second race, a claiming pace, when Hollyrood Huner was beaten by Rhythmic Todd, driven by H. D. King. HARTFORD, Conn., July 3.—Racing the three fastest miles on any mile track this year, May E. Grattan, fourth daughter of Calumet Grattan, won the $10,000 2:12 pacing purse before a large crowd at Sage Park today, while bettering the track record of 2:05¾ made yesterday in every one of the three heats.

The chestnut mare breezed through the first heat in 2:05½ and covered the last two in even figures at 2:05 to justify the heavy support given her in the Winter books for the $25,000 Kalamazoo Derby.

Peter Patch took the 2:15 trot, Peggy's Express the 2:18 trot, and Peter the special trot. The five-day meeting will end tomorrow with the $10,000 2:12 trot as the feature attraction.

AIKEN POLO FOUR BEATS GREENTREES

KNIGHTS DEFEAT DELRAYS

Victors by 15-10 to Gain Semi-Final Round—Iglehart Brothers and Post Perform Brilliantly.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., July 3.—The Aiken poloists and Aiken Knights triumphed in the Meadow Brook Club cups polo tournament today and thus will clash in the upper half of the semi-final round on Saturday. The Aiken team, winners of the Westbury Challenge Cup, downed the Greentree four, 13 to 11, while the Aiken Knights defeated the Delray team, conceded seven goals by handicap, 15 to 10.

Aiken's victory was achieved against a five-goal handicap, yet Greentree was more severely handicapped than Aiken, for Tommy Hitchcock, brilliant Internationalist and No. 3 on the Greentree four, was absent from the line-up, still suffering from a muscle strain as the result of being injured in a game at Sands Point recently. The veteran Jimmy Cooley replaced Hitchcock, while Jock Whitney switched from back to No. 1, and Frank Hitchcock from No. 1 to back.

Mills Gets Five Goals.

Near the end of the game, when Aiken had slackened its pace, the Greentree came on more strongly, but to no real advantage. Aiken, an eighteen-goal team, played some very beautiful combination work.

E. T. Gerry, riding at No. 1, again demonstrated his fitness for that post in this speedy and hard-hitting Aiken combination. Gerry accounted for six goals, getting one in each period except the sixth and seventh. Jimmy Mills did only slightly less of the offensive work of scoring goals, landing five. Bobby Gerry and Rathborne each counted a foul.

Bobby Gerry escaped injury in the sixth period by a narrow margin when his mount stumbled and tossed his rider and then ran away. He suffered only a slight wrench of the leg and continued to ride, closing out the game with a goal in the final period.

The Aiken Knights were far superior to the Delray four. With the two Iglehart brothers and Billy Post doing most of the work and displaying a finely coordinated team play, the Aiken Knights scored almost at will, and this especially was true in the final period when four goals were rung up in rapid succession with Dunbar Bostwick, riding at No. 1, landing two of them.

Knights Have Good Team-Work.

While the Knights ran wild over their opponents, still they had to put forth a good deal of fine team work to head off the constant offensive movements of the Delray four. Stewart Iglehart, one of the candidates for the American defense team, played his usual strong game, riding with great daring and hitting with accuracy. He drove in four goals and thus equaled the day's performance of Post and Bostwick. This left only three goals for Philip Iglehart to get.

Score Three Runs in Seventh to Triumph, 5-4—Thunderstorm Interrupts Contest.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Heroic were the deeds performed by the Yankees today. They produced Babe Ruth in the flesh, performed the great man for nine innings and choked off an Athletic rally in the fifth inning to keep themselves one run in front just as a thunderstorm closed in on the battle. Seemingly with this noble effort they had carried the day.

Unfortunately, however, it was all in vain. The Athletics outrode the storm, persevered until the deluged playing field was put in some sort of shape and then cracked Henry Johnson for three runs in the seventh to win, 5 to 4. Thus the Mackmen not only repulsed the Yanks' one-day invasion of this city, but increased their margin over the Ruppert forces to three and a half games.

The Babe's appearance provided as much of a surprise for the Yankees as for the Philadelphians, inasmuch as it had been thought that the injury which he sustained in Wednesday's game at the Stadium, when he tore the nail off his fourth finger, would keep him on the side lines for at least a week. But a fingernail more or less, apparently, means nothing in the life of this singular athlete.

Finger Swathed in Bandage.

With his wounded digit swathed in a bandage, he courageously went to the post at the start and was still in the fight at the finish. He was cautiously passed by Rube Walberg on his first two trips to the plate, then hit a long sacrifice fly in the fifth, but grounded to the infield on his last two tries.

The real thriller of the day came in the fifth, which saw the Yanks hold a 3-0 lead as the Mackmen entered the lower half with storm clouds swiftly enveloping the scene. A misplay and three passes by Walberg had given the New Yorkers their first tally in the first and in the upper half of the fifth they collected two more on a quartet of singles by Byrd, Lazzeri, Gehrig and Rice.

Johnson up to this moment had not yielded a hit, though his control was not so good. But in the Athletics' fifth he was less fortunate. Two passes and an infield hit by Haas filled the bases with two out and a single by Foxx counted two. But Miller was held to an easy fly and as the storm crashed a few seconds later the day appeared saved.

Downpour Lasts Half Hour.

The downpour continued for nearly half an hour, but then the skies cleared, the field was mopped up after a fashion and the game resumed. In the seventh Johnson had another weak spell.

Henry skidded in fielding Bishop's bunt and threw wildly past first. Then came a sacrifice, a misplay by Reese on Cochrane's grounder, a two-bagger by Simmons, another annoying pass, a wild pitch and a single by Miller and the Mackmen had three runs.

That proved just enough, for Quinn replaced Walberg, and when the veteran spitballer showed signs of faltering in the ninth, in which Combs came home [illegible], Lefty Grove stepped into the breach [illegible] and Ruth, who was swinging desperately.

Police of Newark Will Censor Rooting at the Bears' Games

The Newark police, through Deputy Chief Frank Brex, yesterday decided to censor rooting at the Bears' ball park and to exclude gamblers, according to The Associated Press.

The rooting, it was announced, may go on, but must be limited to such innocuous calls as "Atta boy," or "Don't do that," and will exclude bad language.

On Wednesday some one called Al Mamaux, the Bears' new manager, a coarse name. He resented it and had the offender ejected from the stand. Police thereupon conferred with the club management and decided also to act upon a recent letter from Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, in which the baseball executive drew attention to the "detrimental presence of gamblers at baseball parks."

Eight members of the Police Department will attend the games in Newark to enforce the ruling.

BUFFALO, July 3 (AP).—The Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals inaugurated night baseball here tonight, with the visiting team registering a 5-to-4 victory before a crowd of close to 12,000 fans. Fast and snappy baseball was played, with only two errors registered, although it was the Montreal club's first experience under the lights.

Dave Danforth, veteran southpaw of the Bisons, and Griffin, Montreal right-hander, engaged in a pitching duel and it was not until the ninth inning that the Royals broke a 3 all deadlock with two runs on Urbanski's triple, Calleran's single, Barrett's error and an infield out. The Bisons scored one in their half on Mueller's double, an infield out and a sacrifice fly.

Among the baseball men present were Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs; Michael H. Sexton, president of the National Association of Professional Leagues; Hans Wagner, one-time famous shortstop of Pittsburgh; Warren C. Giles, president of the Rochester Club; James P. Sinnot, president of the Newark Club; Frank J. Donnelly, Jersey City Club president; Ernest J. Poole, Reading Club president; George M. Weiss, business manager of the Baltimore Club; J. Ernest Savard, president, and Walter Hapgood, business manager of the Montreal Club, and William J. Manley, secretary of the International League.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

WELL, the Robins are in first place for the Fourth of July and Mr. Brannick's claim of foul was disallowed. As a matter of fact, the Robins are claiming a foul against the Under-Secretary of the Giants and the evidence is with them. At the moment when Mr. Brannick was moaning that the Robins had betrayed him, Uncle Wilbert's nephews were pounding their way back into the lead. They did not do it, however, just to oblige Mr. Brannick. Far from that.

According to seers, prophets, crystal-gazers and historians, the teams that are in the lead on the Fourth of July are due to stroll off with the pennants in late September. In that case, Flatbush residents can now rush out and get in line for world's series tickets. Ebbets Field is a small park and several people may be left on the outside when the series starts inside. Beyond the matter of getting tickets, there is nothing that is worrying Ebbets Field fans. They expect to capture the first game no matter what pitcher Connie Mack starts against them.

In the meanwhile the Robins have seventy-eight games to play and if the Robin rooters have forgotten all about that, Uncle Wilbert has them heavily on his mind, beginning with two games today at the Polo Grounds, weather permitting. Uncle Wilbert has known these Giants for many years and he has never ceased suspecting them of plotting and planning dire trouble for a Brooklyn team. He doesn't entirely trust them, even on a national holiday, when all neighbors should be rejoicing and celebrating arm-in-arm, friendly fashion.

Wounded Dignity.

The Robins are not proud and haughty conquerors. Nevertheless, they have their dignity to maintain and it has been sadly wounded this season. When Uncle Wilbert, stout of heart and stouter of frame, announced in the training sector that his players were good players and his team a prospective pennant contender, what is technically known as the Bronx cheer was heard from coast to coast. John McGraw snickered. Joe McCarthy laughed out loud. Babe Ruth took pencil and paper and figured that the Robins, with luck, would finish in seventh place.

That hurt the finer feelings of Uncle Wilbert and his young men. They were disconcerted, not to say insulted and humiliated. They felt called upon to do something about it. They determined to be revenged on the scorners and scoffers.

So far, they have helped themselves to healthy portions of revenge. If they never win another game, they have enjoyed several months of laughing at those who laughed at them before the season started. But they are more ambitious and vindictive than that. They want that ultimate trophy of risible revenge, the last laugh. They hope to collect that in late September.

A Boone for Brooklyn.

In furtherance of this general plan, the Robins recently acquired the services of Ike Boone, a fellow of large proportions and generous appetite. Ike is no stranger in these parts. He once wore an oversize Giant uniform. He swings a big bat and he can hit, but like Smead Jolley, Ham Hyatt and a fellow the Braves had whose name was Bill Bagwell, he plays what might be called a stationary defense in the outfield.

In spite of the power with which they thumped the ball, Bagwell and Ham Hyatt dropped out of the National League. Donie Bush, after viewing Smead Jolley defending himself against descending fly balls in the White Sox outfield, called the former Coast League star to the bench for a while. However, he put Jolley back in again and Ike Boone has been recalled to life in the big leagues. Even as it is in the prize ring, a man who can hit is always dangerous.

Uncle Robbie's idea in getting Boone was to add power on the attack. At the same time, he should not overlook the need of a defense. If he plans to use Boone on one wing and Herman on the other, the least he can do for Johnny Frederick is to get permission from John Heydler to have his centre fielder mounted on a horse or buy him a bicycle out of his own pocket.

A Holiday Review.

The Fourth of July is only a way station on the pennant trip, but it comes at mid-season and most teams have had a chance to show what they could do or can do by the time the firecrackers start exploding. In Cincinnati, for instance, Owner Sidney Weil is not accepting applications for world's series seats at Redland Field.

After a surprising start, the Cleveland Indians hit the chute and Billy Evans has been scouring the minor leagues for aid and assistance. He seems to be intent upon building up for next year, which is one way of conceding defeat for this year. The Senators, strengthened by trades, are hard on the heels of the world's champion Athletics. Walter Johnson has been getting good pitching from his staff and Sam Rice and Joe Judge are still hitting the ball.

In spite of uncertain pitching, the Yanks are in the thick of the race and should remain there. The Tigers, Browns, Red Sox and White Sox are second division tenants and the lease appears to run for the season.

In this corner the belief is that the success or failure of the Athletics depends on Al Simmons. The pitching has not been steady but it has improved. It should be good enough to carry them to another pennant if Simmons is coming up to the plate regularly and rattling doubles and triples off the fence in the style that made him famous.

The Heydler Circuit.

Looking at the chart as it stands, the National League race would seem to be a battle between the Robins and the Cubs, but the Giants have a strong team and should make progress in their home stand. The Cardinals aren't far behind the Giants and they still have a chance to put on a brisk winning streak and make it a four-team race.

The Braves have improved, but their only ambition for this year is to break into the first division and cling there if possible. The Pirates have been ruined by injuries. The Reds and Phillies are out of it for many melancholy reasons.

The Robins, Cubs and Giants are the strong teams, and anyone who craves to name the winner should be allowed plenty of elbow room, a running start and at least three guesses.

JERSEY CITY UPSETS NEWARK IN NINTH

Wera's Single Decides Game by 10-9 With Victors Staging a Three-Run Rally.

Jersey City came from behind with a three-run rally in the ninth inning to defeat Newark, 10 to 9, at Jersey City yesterday in the opening game of the series. Wera's single off Al Mamaux scored Selkirk with the deciding run. Faulkner, who put the winning tally on base, was the loser. Each team collected thirteen hits. Windle and Shinners walloped home runs for Newark, while Dixie Walker hit for the circuit for the home team. Walker, former Yankee, also doubled.

ROCHESTER BEATS TORONTO

Wins Series Opener, 10-1, Bunching Hits Off Prudhomme.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 3 (AP).—Rochester turned back the Toronto Leafs in the first game of their series today, 10 to 1. Bob McGraw's right-hand slants were too much for the visitors, while the home club pounded out an early lead off Johnny Prudhomme, getting eight hits, including two triples and a double, in the two and one-third innings that he was on the mound for Toronto. All of the hits were bunched with enough effect for the counting of six runs.

ORIOLES DEFEAT READING.

Triumph by Score of 3 to 1 in a Duel of Pitchers.

BALTIMORE, July 3 (AP).—The Baltimore Orioles defeated the Reading Keys in a close battle today, 3 to 1. It was a pitchers' duel between Beryl Richmond and Dick Warneke, with the former allowing only six hits.

The clash was a scoreless affair until the Orioles broke the ice in the seventh, when Vince Barton walloped the ball into the bleachers to send Dalrymple home in front of him.

BOBBY JONES OFF TO DEFEND TITLE

MOTHER, FATHER IN PARTY

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Apparently none the worse for wear after his unparalleled reception upon his return from England Wednesday with the British open and amateur championship trophies in his possession, Bobby Jones, world's premier golfer, set forth yesterday afternoon for Minneapolis, where he will defend his title as American open champion next week at Interlachen.

Bobby was a passenger on the Broadway Limited which left the Pennsylvania Station for Chicago at 3 o'clock. Accompanying him were his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Jones; O. B. Keeler, his most faithful follower; Don Moe and Johnny Dawson, who were his fellow-passengers on the Europa.

Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion, who had originally planned to travel with the party, left from the Grand Central Station. He will rejoin the American champion's group today in Chicago, where Bobby plans to stop over until tomorrow.

Crowd Watches Departure.

In spite of the fact that it had previously been announced that Bobby's plans were to leave on the Twentieth Century it did not take long for a crowd to collect at the train entrance. Long before his arrival at the depot a battery of camera men set up their paraphernalia and the crowd, scenting something out of the ordinary, began to gather so that by the time Bobby's entourage arrived there was quite a gallery to watch his departure.

The young Atlantan had nothing to add to what he said upon his arrival in the city. He looked a bit less drawn than he did when he landed to be overwhelmed by an ovation such as no other golfer and few other men have ever received from a city versed in the art of paying tribute to returning heroes.

Mrs. Robert T. Jones Jr., who accompanied her husband on his trip abroad returned yesterday to Atlanta to join the children, little Mary and little Bobby 3d. She was accompanied by several other Atlantans.

St. Paul Golfer Shoots a 71.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 3 (AP).—A startling 71, one under par, made by Jock Hendry of the Town and Country Club, St. Paul, gave early arrivals for the national open golf tournament something to aim for at the Interlachen Country Club course today.

Hendry went around in that figure yesterday, going out in 35, one under par, and returning in 36. Hendry is the Minnesota open titleholder.

Gene Sarazen of Flushing, N. Y., played two rounds, shooting a pair of 76s, and thought that Interlachen was "the toughest test since Oakmont."

"And you will recall," added Gene, "that Oakmont is one course Bobby Jones never has been able to conquer."

Jones is due in Minneapolis Sunday and is expected to get in three or four days of practice before the three-day open event begins on July 10.

Honor of Being Jones's Caddy In Open to Minneapolis Boy

MINNEAPOLIS, July 3 (AP).—To Donovan Dale, 17-year-old Minneapolis caddy, there was given yesterday the greatest honor and privilege any caddy can think of—that of being permitted to carry the clubs of Bobby Jones when he plays in the National Open Tournament at Interlachen next week.

Luck, in the form of paper slips in a hat, had much to do with the awarding of that privilege. A committee at Interlachen, to settle the matter, put the names of the sixteen best caddies in a hat—and pulled the slips of paper out one by one.

THE NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

Every year shows that the popular emphasis is increasingly on the Fourth of July as a holiday. Its historic significance, its prompting of patriotic impulses, its association with memorial observances, are not forgotten. But they are more and more subordinated to the great outpourings of holiday-makers, eager to seize upon a respite in the midst of hot weather. This is especially the case when, as this year, the Fourth falls near the end of the week, so as to admit for many thousands three days at once away from work. Obviously, fair skies and a temperature not too extreme make all the difference for multitudes in availing of the greatest of all our national holidays.

Fourth of July oratory still runs in full stream, but not at such a flood as in former years. Mayor WALKER had hoped to get prominent speakers to address newly naturalized citizens at the City Hall today. But with one consent they began to make excuse, so that the ceremony was given up. Another sign of changing times will be noted in the proceedings of that ancient and honorable and purely patriotic and philanthropic society known as Tammany. It always marks the occasion by renewing its devotion to good and pure government. But today one familiar figure will be absent. Ex-Governor SMITH is not to be among the speakers. Perhaps he will send a letter, as President CLEVELAND used to do. It was one of his quiet boasts, or personal satisfactions, that during his eight years in the Presidency he never entered Tammany Hall. But this did not prevent him from acknowledging its invitations on the Fourth of July, and writing to the sachems and braves to exhort them to "consecrate" themselves once more to the upholding and strengthening of all that is lovely and of good report in our public life.

PRESIDENT AND SENATE.

Certain Senators appeared to be a little sensitive, as the session drew to a close, about the charge that they had been for months endeavoring to thwart and humiliate the President. Senator CARAWAY, for example, repelled with a fine show of indignation the frequent assertion that the Senate had been entertaining "spite" against Mr. HOOVER. This is not the word that ought to be used. The exhibition has not often been that of personal dislike or animosity, but rather of a desire or intention to exalt the horn of the Senate, to the lowering of the prestige of the President; to notify Mr. HOOVER that he must keep his place; gradually and insinuatingly to strengthen the pretensions of the Senate to be the most powerful body in our Government. Probably few Senators really wish to appear "mean" in their treatment of the President; they merely thought of making themselves more magnificent objects than ever.

Toward the end the President scored pretty heavily over the Senate. By the aid of Speaker LONGWORTH and a working majority of the Republicans in the House of Representatives he was able to kill the pension bill which Senators had asserted with a great flourish that they were able and prepared to cram down his throat, whether he liked it or not. Then recovering, after a period of astonished mortification, its second wind, so to speak, the Senate clapped on a lot of amendments to the substitute pension bill sent to it by the House. But Mr. HOOVER let it be known that if they remained in the bill he would veto it, whereupon the Senators meekly beat another retreat. They had to have something to show after all their loud professions about doing great things for ex-soldiers, so they ingloriously took what the President allowed them, trying to forget how much more it was that they had demanded.

In these later conflicts with the Senate President HOOVER has acted with a direct vigor which he had not previously displayed, and which pleased his friends as much as it confounded his enemies. His success was not unqualified. While he was able to get several of the vicious features stricken out of the pension bill, he has assented to the general principle of the service pension. This is a repudiation of the promises and the laws which were made when this country entered the World War and obviously opens the door to great abuses and extravagant largess from the Treasury in future years. Possibly Mr. HOOVER went as far as he could with Congress in its present temper. People know what he has publicly done, but are ignorant of what he may have privately resisted. At all events, impartial observers will agree that it is he and not the Senate that has had the best of it in their most recent encounters.

PROTEST OF THE GOVERNORS.

On the uncertain foundation of the Hawes-Cooper act, regulating interstate commerce in prison-made goods, the Governors at their annual conference have rested their annual protest against "Federal invasion." This is what the Governor of New York called it, and it is what Governors have been calling it ever since Chief Justice MARSHALL began handing down the decisions which changed the nature of our early system of national government. The Hawes-Cooper act, passed at the insistence of labor organizations, women's clubs and manufacturers' associations, prevents prison-made goods from remaining under the protection of the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution in States where there are local laws against their competitive sale. Another effect of it is to penalize mislabeling. While it unquestionably checks the free flow of State-owned supplies in commerce throughout the Union, giving many States like New York a new and serious prison problem, it is by no means the best example of "Federal invasion" which the Governors could have selected for attack. Though it may impair an ancient concept of our system, it rights some wrongs.

Had the prohibition issue not been so explosive a topic, it is an example of "Federal invasion" which Governor ROOSEVELT might have employed to make strong case. So seriously have Dry laws infringed upon the rights of States, that many citizens have rallied for the restoration of State control of the manufacture and sale of liquor. Maryland declined to pass a concurrent enforcement act, and Governor RITCHIE long ago pointed to the prohibition activities of the Federal Government as a complete reversal of original constitutional reservations. He did this at a former Governors' conference. At that time it was even less popular as a subject than now. But Governors are still politicians, and many of them who are not devoted Drys are not yet sure whether their constituencies have changed.

There is no doubt that the Federal Government has been washing away State lines. But the South, which once went to war to resist the process, was foremost in voting this new power to Washington. Eagerly it accepts Federal road-building money and aid—a partnership its forefathers once raised an awful row against entering. To crown the anomaly of the present-day mix-up in governmental theory, one of the authors of the prison-goods law inveighed against at Salt Lake City as "Federal invasion" is a raging States' rights man on the prohibition question: Senator HAWES of Missouri. If the Governors are consistent, perhaps Congress will be more inclined also to be so.

GOOD OLD MASSACHUSETTS.

It is always refreshing to see the majesty of the law maintained, even if the hour of triumph is postponed for 190 years. In 1740 the Great and General Court of Massachusetts passed an anti-gambling statute. It seems to have been especially directed against gambling at cards. These, with dice, were so offensive to the earlier race of Puritans that one suspects they must have been copiously indulged in, and not at taverns alone. Puritanism had pretty well petered out before the middle of the eighteenth century. Was there a relation of cause and effect between the Great Awakening, which began about 1734, and the enactment of this statute? The sense of sin had been dying out. It was now revived. The sense of other people's sins never needed reviving.

Lotteries for educational and charitable purposes continued for two generations at least. That was gambling for a good purpose. Gambling for private gain went on just the same. As in our own time, but more perfectly, the Bay State lawmakers made a law, and it slept harmless on the statute book. The first case under it was brought last year. It provides that the winner of more than five dollars at a card game shall, upon conviction, forfeit double his winnings. We don't know whether a bad loser or some ironic searcher of antiquated legislation started the proceeding, but a Boston man who had won $650 at poker was brought to justice. The poker victor was vanquished in the lower court. The State Supreme Court also has now decided against him.

One of his points, overruled on appeal, was that the law was obsolete. It had a good long sleep, but it is as fresh as ever. Outlander poker players who go to Massachusetts this Summer will please take notice. While "squealers" must be rare among amateurs of the once great American game, the sense of thrift is strong in New England. Surely the alleged "New England conscience" ought to rise from its slumbers as this act has arisen. To violate one law is to bring all law into disrespect. Mr. WILLIAM MORGAN BUTLER, clinging so stoutly after long hesitation to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act, must take new heart from this late vindication of a law hitherto unenforced.

At the siege of Louisburg in 1745 it is said that about a thousand soldiers were drunk every day. The fort was taken, but would it not have fallen earlier if there had been a prohibitory law? We have always regretted that poker was unknown to "our wise and pious ancestors." It was the game of games for them. Judging by the legendary and actual portraits, they had the perfect "poker face." Did they bring it over, or borrow it from the Tawny Salvages?

THE SURPLUS OF WHEAT.

The Department of Agriculture's survey of the world's wheat supply will do little to cheer American farmers. It foresees a period of about seven lean years in prices, and urges restriction of planting and reduction in production costs so as to meet the probable increase in foreign crops. There is no specific suggestion, as was at first indicated, that cutting down of wheat fields by Americans alone would push up the world-price. That would smack too much of the Stevenson rubber restriction plan or the Cuban attempt to limit production of sugar.

From the department's survey it is clear that there has been not only a steady increase in the acreage planted to wheat during the last decade, but that this has been accompanied by a decline in the world's consumption of the product. The only bright spot appears to be the Orient, where slowly the demand for wheat has grown. It is not impossible that this tendency will continue, as rice-eating peoples are only beginning to learn the advantages of the addition of wheat to their diet. In Japan and the Philippines, for example—two countries where rice has for ages been the staple diet—experiments with school children have shown marked benefits for those who have used wheat.

Expansion of the world's wheat acreage has apparently not ended. The department points to the fact that Russia is annually enlarging her area. While most of the wheat at present will be used for home consumption, the larger Russian wheat fields cannot but have an ultimate effect on the world's supply.

Such artificial stimuli as the purchase and retention at government expense of large amounts of grain merely defer the day of reckoning. The quantities so held will simply be added to the world's supply. A situation is thus created not unlike the Brazilian attempts to control the price of coffee by buying up the surplus. For a time it apparently works. But it results only in an increase in the quantity to be thrown on the world's market. This means lower prices.

Of the two suggestions by the department, the one that wheat be not sown except where it can be raised at a low cost of production seems sounder. It would automatically result in greater crop diversification, thus reducing the hazards of the one-crop farm. But generalizations are dangerous. The starting point is the wide dissemination of the Department of Agriculture's survey, so that farmers may have a better understanding of the problem which they face in growing wheat. Even if all the details of the forecast be not borne out, the information gathered together is in itself of distinct value. More surveys of other crops affected by world markets would be of help to the farming industry as a whole.

OUT-OF-TOWN OPERA.

White Plains and all Westchester County may well be pleased at the promise of grand opera brought to the local community house next Winter. The Metropolitan Opera Company, with all the glory of complete cast and full equipment, will give at least two performances for the suburbanites in their own home auditorium. If more people than can be accommodated during this limited engagement ask for seats, a regular opera season for Westchester will be considered thereafter. Mr. OTTO KAHN, who expressed hopes for such a plan when the announcement was made, is optimistic about the future. He thinks of the proposed season as comparable to community theatricals and opera.

To more skeptical observers the scheme seems a far cry from local and permanent attempts by a community to enjoy good musical and dramatic entertainment. The Metropolitan has made excursions to Philadelphia and other cities successfully, and there is wealth enough in Westchester to make the venture there promising. The mere novelty of having the company brought to their doors is enough to insure the success of the experimental performances with Westchester residents. But a generous response to a festival which is thus far unique does not positively forecast continuing support for a regular season.

It might more plausibly be taken as a good omen for a resident, locally provided company which would attempt opera less pretentious than that offered by the Metropolitan. Westchester might take a look at the civic opera as managed in St. Louis, where for ten or twelve years music lovers have heard old and new operettas, and where the enterprise is on a paying basis. There are, of course, details of the St. Louis opera which are quite different from the Westchester situation. The former is an outdoor auditorium, seating 9,500 and this season really filling that number of chairs. It is reported that many nights there are a thousand or more buyers of standing room. Last year money was lost, but Broadway advice was obtained for this season; and if Westchester does try anything of the sort, it should be noted that professional services are worth the cost. A large and capable chorus and even some of the solo rôles may be found among local talent, but the director, with unquestioned power over all the civic committees, should be an experienced man.

If Westchester is not satisfied with the prospect of "Robin Hood," GILBERT and SULLIVAN, VICTOR HERBERT and the light Viennese, it may look to Ravinia. That, too, is unlike our neighbor's situation in being an outdoor Summer scheme. The stars heard in the Chicago park would not be available for White Plains, and nothing so ambitious as either Chicago or Metropolitan Opera productions could be achieved. But some kind of locally managed project seems more promising than an annual visit by the Metropolitan.

ST. JOHNSBURY'S CELEBRATION.

At St. Johnsbury, Vt., Independence Day will be celebrated as usual, but the people will commemorate with even greater zest one hundred years of the Fairbanks scales, now used all round the world. The centenary exercises are to go on for three days. Without the industries established by the FAIRBANKS brothers, ERASTUS and THADDEUS, and expanded by the Fairbanks-Morse Company, St. Johnsbury would not cast so long a shadow. It is one of the most flourishing and handsome towns in New England, with its academy, Fairbanks Museum, art gallery, fine public library and two hospitals. Everybody knows that if Major JOSEPH FAIRBANKS and his 19-year-old son THADDEUS had not driven into the hamlet in a wagon from Brimfield, Mass., on a Spring morning in 1815, there might have been no industrial St. Johnsbury.

As early as 1824 THADDEUS and ERASTUS began to manufacture plows and stove-castings. ERASTUS was twice Governor of Vermont. THADDEUS took out more than fifty patents on his scales, which won medals in many international exhibitions. The brothers were fifth in descent from that JONATHAN FAIRBANKS who came from England in 1663 and settled in Dedham. The old family mansion built by JONATHAN'S brother JOHN is still one of the relics of that town. What is to be celebrated in St. Johnsbury is not only a century of inventions and manufacturing but the success of a sturdy and time-honored American family. In the beginning there was only a grist mill on the Sleeper River! Then came the building of wagons, a small iron foundry (THADDEUS doing most of the work himself), the making of cast-iron plows and stoves. It was in 1829 that THADDEUS hit on the idea of the weighing platform, crude at first but developed until locomotives and loaded freight cars in motion could be weighed by the scales. To meet the demands of all kinds of industry, and to do the lightest as well as the heaviest work, the St. Johnsbury dial scales were adapted. Also Fairbanks, Morse & Co., the name used since 1865, went into the manufacture of windmills, steam engines, gas engines, electric motors, Diesel engines and centrifugal pumps, building plants in the West as well as in the East.

So St. Johnsbury has a glory of invention and industry to celebrate, with special stress on one hundred years of building the scales. Today a grand procession led by the village band will pass through the streets, and afterward "Ye Quaint Pageant" on the lawn of Underclyffe will show the growth of weights and measures from the time of ABRAHAM to the full-orbed day of THADDEUS and the great company. In the evening will be a town meeting and "talke on High subjeks," with refreshments—later a dance for the young people. On Saturday come dedications of markers and tablets, and laying of the cornerstone of Fuller Memorial Hall. On Sunday there is to be a church meeting, with the children of St. Johnsbury in procession to the pageant grounds. And what will stand out as an example from all the exercises and observances is the honorable ambition, prodigious labors and public service of an old but always virile New England family.

EDUCATION A STATE FUNCTION.

The unanimous report of the legislative commission of the National Education Association is that "control and direction of education "must be maintained as an independent feature of each State." This is in opposition to Federal incursions. Even Congressional grants for vocational instruction have been in the past accepted doubtfully, because they fixed minimum standards and thus interfered with full State control. There has also been objection that the burden, being more widely apportioned, has come to rest more heavily upon the wealthier States, since they have thus to aid the poorer. Despite the advantage of such an equalization for the country as a whole, it would be a gravely mistaken policy to take from the States responsibility for their respective systems.

There is, however, one grant that might be made as closely as possible upon the heels of the new census —sufficient to enable the poorer States to eliminate illiteracy or greatly reduce it. With such help, covering a short period of years, every State would be able to cope with the problem alone, since thereafter universal child literacy would practically eliminate adult illiteracy, except in States where adult immigrants of foreign speech are numerous. But these are the very States which are amply able to provide for themselves.

One function the Federal Government can undertake without invading the State's prerogative or impairing its responsibility. It is that of maintaining, as is suggested by this same body, a "clearing house" for scientific research in the broad field of education—an official centre from which would issue the most disinterested and authoritative advice. When HENRY BARNARD and WILLIAM T. HARRIS held the Federal office of Commissioner of Education, they were themselves each a personal "clearing house" in a less complicated educational world. So to endow the department that it can undertake successfully the greater task of recommending educational practice based upon "substantial scientific research" is a clear duty of the National Government. When that has been done, there will be time to decide whether the head of the department, bringing into it incidentally the educational activities now distributed through the various departments, should be made a Cabinet officer. The effect upon the status of the State departments of education must have first consideration. The title of their supreme duty must not be clouded.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Resemblance Grows More Startling.

It is recorded in a dispatch from Chicago that after the shooting "a smoke screen emitted by the assailants' car helped to hide their escape." In this manner gang warfare continues to approach closer to the model of real war. Rifles and machine guns and bombs are an old story. Intelligence service has been brought startlingly close to the original, so that it is often difficult to say which master a spy is serving—difficult to say whether an individual is gangster, policeman, business man, reporter, or all in one.

Now that fugitive taxicabs in Chicago emit smoke screens to facilitate their escape, we may look hopefully forward to Capone scout planes keeping an eye on Moran bomb planes; and on the Chicago River and in Lake Michigan miniature plane carriers and submarines; and in the Loop police tanks crushing their way through beer-runner barb wire and over hijacker trenches; ultimately, a proposal from harassed civic sources for a conference between police and racketeers looking to parity in guns, even if it be too much to hope for a reduction or complete disarmament.

Swimming in City Waters.

Although issued in the interest of public health, the warning of Health Commissioner WYNNE, that the waters in and about New York are unsafe to swim in, reflects on the knowledge and efficiency of former city authorities.

The area of polluted waters includes the Hudson, Harlem and East Rivers, all of the harbor, and all the adjacent inlets and bays as far as Flushing Bay on the north shore of Long Island and Jamaica Bay on the south. In other words, all of the waters touched by the shore front of the city itself are unfit for swimming and should not be used for it by the city's children.

The reason for such a shameful state of affairs is simple: failure in the past to prevent the use of the rivers and harbors for the disposal of sewage and other refuse. True, New York City is not the only offender. The neighboring communities, all copying the example of the largest and richest city in the world, persist in draining their sewers and their factory waste into the nearest body of water.

Originally it was thought that the movement of the tides would carry the sewage away and that salt water would render it innocuous. But it would seem that the tides have not done their full duty, nor has salt been a sufficiently powerful disinfectant. As a result, whoever swims within the city area in any of the adjacent salt water does so at his own peril.

Sightseeing for $25 a Week.

Those who think $25 a meager budget for an average workaday week will gasp at the lengths to which that modest sum can be stretched under pressure of vacation needs. One Y. M. C. A. secretary has made it expand to cover a week of sightseeing in New York.

True, the allowance is for only 25-cent breakfasts and 50-cent lunches and dinners. The rent item permits nothing above a dollar-a-day room at the Y. M. C. A. But the budgeteer evidently counts on the wonders of New York to dull the sightseer's appetite, and make him regard his room as only a resting place for the night.

A typical day takes the visitor down to Battery Park for a view of New York Harbor, then to the Aquarium, then to Bedloe's Island (35 cents) for a climb to the top of the Statue of Liberty and a view of New York's downtown skyline. After lunch the tour takes in the financial district, Trinity Church, City Hall and the Municipal Building, with "another breath-taking view" from its thirty-fourth story. Then comes a carefully timed dash uptown by subway "to get a ticket for one of the largest moving picture palaces before the admission price is raised for the evening trade."

The program for the rest of the week includes two ball games, two Broadway shows, two concerts, two movies, one boat ride, a dollar's worth of Coney Island, and miles of marching through museums, zoos and parks, all within the $25 limit. The program is strenuous, but might be recommended to native New Yorkers as an education measure, or a substitute for the eighteen-day Hollywood diet.

The Bulge Was Levy.

To everybody but the convict whose escape was prevented, the latest story from Sing Sing is bound to bring a smile. Inventor of the idea that he could be sewed in a mattress by his fellow-prisoners, JACK LEVY was so bestowed—to be betrayed by the fact that his presence distinctly swelled the article beyond its normal proportions. It happened to be on the top of a departing pile, and so it was that the keeper of the last gate noticed it. When the mattress was opened the keepers began to sing, and now LEVY must go to Dannemora.

Some one might repeat to him the verse which runs:

> The bear was bulgy.
> The bulge was Algy.

Had the keepers of Troy or of Linlithgow Castle been as keen-eyed as that warder at Sing Sing, history might have been different. The Trojans realized that the wooden horse was peculiar, but the story which took them in—and induced them to take the horse in—was so thin that even keen eyes wouldn't have saved Troy, since wits were so dull. But if the English soldiers had noticed how the hay going into Linlithgow Castle was bulging, the Scots might not have been able later to win independence at Bannockburn. Probably the failure of the hay ruse wouldn't have changed history, for there was that about the Scots which persuades one that they would have finally beaten the PLANTAGENETS anyhow.

Students at Night Courses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the high-lights of the college year just ended was the increased interest shown by the working class of students. Out of the 10,000 students who attended the School of Commerce of New York University, more than half worked during the day. The evening sessions of St. John's College and Fordham University are becoming more popular each year.

This seems to indicate that interest in education is not decreasing. Rather, aptitude for knowledge is progressing, certainly at a far more rapid rate than has been outlined by the anti-present educationalists of our country.

Flag Waves Through the Night.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Driving through the beautiful Southern State Parkway here in Long Island is a great pleasure to me. But there is one thing which mars that pleasure. The American flag, which is to be seen waving from the flagstaff there, is never taken down at sunset. I have seen it there after midnight. M. M. CARETTE.

YANKEE SNAPSHOTS.

She shook her head: "Oh, no, my dear,
I can't allow you that!
I never had my picture snapped,
And I refuse to—flat!"
"Just savages and Yankees won't!"
I laughed, "So which are you?"
She answered with calm eyes and voice,
"I'm Yankee through and through!"
I promised; hid my camera then,
Alas! 'twas all in vain,
For I, like every other poet,
Take snapshots with my brain!
And when I saw her sitting in
Her fan-back Windsor chair
On Sunday, dressed in printed silk,
And quietly reading there—
And when I saw her baking beans,
Her cheeks snow-apple red,
Her eyes a pussy-willow gray,
Blue dustcap on her head—
And when I saw her picking phlox
And zinnias for me,
My brain just snapped those pictures quite Involuntarily!

I hope she will forgive me if
I keep them in my heart
And show them just to cronies
Who appreciate true art!

PROSPERITY AND WORK.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"What an outrage," said one. "I had to stand in the subway all the way from uptown." The man with gaping shoes smiled bitterly. "You are lucky. I had to walk the distance because I cannot afford the nickel."

All a matter of relativity. That came to my mind when I read THE TIMES editorial "Looking for Work" on "The Man Out of Work" in Harper's. The author of that article has just taken a tiny sip out of the bitter cup of unemployment. A very bitter sip indeed, but there are hundreds of thousands who have been forced to gulp from that cup for years. And the bitterness has settled in their hearts.

With millions out of work, and others hanging on to their jobs for all they are worth, how can the outs expect to get in again? With the constantly decreasing demand for labor they are out permanently, unless they have a specialty, or a special ability to "sell themselves." And many otherwise good applicants lack just that one ability. If in addition they have passed the "age limit," the case is hopeless.

"It is not easy to manage on a salary cut in two," you state. Again a matter of relativity. Thousands of the permanently unemployed manage to exist on next to nothing. A few dollars earned here and there; a trinket or an heirloom sold, or pawned, once in a while; an occasional part time job. A couple fretting along on ten or fifteen dollars a week. Sometimes less. Not for months, but for years. And no hope for the future.

While they can manage to keep up appearances, they keep at least their self-respect. But appearances cannot be kept up forever on next to nothing. With the last respectable suit, a remnant of better times, begins the road downward. Slow, but sure. Many men, just as good and just as able and willing to work as "The Man Out of Work" in Harper's, do not know which way to turn. Nor do they know where, when, and how their misery will end. They have the choice of the poorhouse, the gutter, the jail, or a suicide's grave.

Only today I received a letter from a well educated, refined woman asking for a job as matron in a children's home, as an advertising agent, a music critic, telephone solicitor with a suitable and pleasing voice and manner, as a social worker, &c. Rather versatile, indeed. Yet, she writes: "I love life, the birds, the trees, the beauty of it all, but without occupation I cannot carry on, yet the thought of ending life is frightful."

And we prate about progress, humanity and civilization.

The wife of "The Man Out of Work" asks for "corporate intelligence to do away with the mighty load of human misery by 3,000,000 men out of work." Where are we to find that corporate intelligence? Shall we look for it among those who frantically increase production, at the same time destroying their market by creating as much unemployment as they possibly can? Or among those who clamor for corporate intelligence while they are out of work and forget it as soon as they have a job? Or among those who led the Wagner bills to defeat?

The adventures of these bills in Congress, as well as the recent report of the Advisory Committee appointed by the New York State Industrial Commission, show once more that unemployment is a business problem which can be solved only by business. That it can be solved in individual industries has been demonstrated by H. S. Dennison, E. G. Draper, W. P. Hapgood, G. F. Johnson, H. F. Johnson, F. H. Montgomery, W. C. Proctor and a number of others, who achieved the seemingly impossible by stabilizing employment in their respective industries under the most difficult circumstances. But they had the will and the intelligence. Let them incorporate their intelligence and unemployment will soon be a thing of the past.

The others, with less intelligence, or less willingness to use it for the common good, must be made to realize that there can never be general and permanent prosperity until we have general and permanent employment. CLEMENT SCHWINGES.

HONOR TO OUR NEIGHBORS.

We Could Follow Latin-American Examples on National Holidays.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On the occasion of our national holiday, and at a time in our national affairs when the problem of developing and maintaining a state of genuine Pan-American concord is the subject of grave public attention, the courtesy and respect paid by Latin-American republics to our day of independence is a matter of pertinent reflection.

The republic of Peru, for example, celebrates the Fourth of July as being a holiday of inter-American significance, a holiday commemorative of the first American declaration of independence and therewith the genesis of the first republic to be established in the New World. Peru's own independence was not won until nearly half a century later, yet so profoundly does she identify herself with the cause of republican liberty and with the great principles which underlie it, that she joins with us in celebrating the beginnings of our country and in honoring the memories of men whose achievements made these beginnings possible.

The names of Washington, Jefferson and Adams are familiar to Peruvians. To us, how familiar are the names of Bolivar, San Martin and Sucre? And while Peruvians celebrate the Fourth of July, how many of us are aware that Peru's own day of independence is July 28? Yet when that day dawned the Union of the United States of America was already forty-five years old.

As the great North American Republic, it would not be amiss to reciprocate these respects by the flying of flags on those occasions when our fellow-American republics remember with honor their own glorious pasts.

SCHOOL FUND CRISIS PUZZLES OFFICIALS

O'Shea Says He Does Not Know Where Money to End Summer Crowding Will Be Found.

APPEAL TO MAYOR HINTED

Board, Only Source of Grant, Not to Meet Until Wednesday—Congestion Is General.

Hampered by inadequate finances and an inflexible budget, the Board of Education faced yesterday the most serious congestion problem in the Summer high schools in recent years without visible means of relieving the present overcrowded classrooms or of providing teachers for the 4,000 pupils who have been turned away.

Dr. William O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools, spent the morning in a second tour of inspection which showed him, he said, that the situation in Brooklyn and Queens is duplicated in other parts of the city. Later, he conferred with George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education.

The Summer school budget has been stretched to the limit, according to Robert J. Hubbard, who is in charge of the Summer schools. Immediate relief, Dr. O'Shea said, can come only through an emergency appropriation, but, he added, "I don't know where the money is coming from."

Such an appropriation can only be made by the board in session and its next regular meeting will not take place until Wednesday. Mr. Ryan would not say whether he planned to call a special session.

"We have decided nothing definite yet," he said after the conference. "Dr. O'Shea and I discussed the problem and made an attempt to find out just how serious it is. That is all I can say now."

Mr. Ryan also declined to estimate the sum needed to bring relief. It will take more study, he said, to determine how many extra teachers will be required to supply the needs of all the boroughs. He said he would confer with Frederick D. Chambers, chief auditor of the Bureau of Finance, in an effort to provide temporary relief.

Harold G. Campbell, associate superintendent in charge of high schools, said he had anticipated some increase in registration and so had provided a new school and twenty-five additional teachers, which had proved to be insufficient. Mr. Campbell, with Mr. Hubbard and Eugene C. Gibney, director of extension activities, also called on Mr. Ryan later in the afternoon.

It was reported that because no funds are available through the ordinary budget shifts, Mr. Ryan may appeal to the Mayor for about $15,000 with which to supply an additional thirty teachers and other items. Mr. Ryan would not discuss this angle of the situation.

The tests, in which many of those ineligible to take the Summer high school courses will be weeded out, are to be held next week, and these are expected to cut down the congestion somewhat. Registration for elementary school pupils will open on Monday.

At Jamaica High School, which is the only Summer high school in Queens, Dr. O'Shea found students standing in the aisles and at the back of class rooms. More than 500 applicants had been refused admittance. Thomas Jefferson High School in Brooklyn was running to capacity and had turned away about 400 pupils.

Erasmus Hall, Brooklyn's largest and oldest school, reported the most serious congestion. The enrolment is about 4,300 and some 1,500 applicants have been denied entrance. Principal J. Lewis Stockton reported that many of his classes included fifty and sixty pupils each, instead of the normal forty, and that a number had as many as seventy-seven.

VANDERBILT HEADS DIVISION

Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt will command the Seventy-seventh Division, United States Army Reserve, at its mobilization at Camp Dix, N. J., for two weeks beginning on Sunday, Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area, announced yesterday. Colonel Cornelius W. Wickersham will command the 153d Brigade, and Colonel Lemuel L. Bolles the 154th.

Two hundred officers from the metropolitan area will participate. Announcement also was made that ten New York business and professional men would be included among the army reserve officers of the 530th Anti-Aircraft Artillery, which on Sunday will mobilize for two weeks at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., under Major Hazen L. Hoyt of Great Neck, L. I.

OREGON TRAIL IS THRONGED

CASPAR, Wyo., July 3 (AP).—The old Oregon Trail was thronged today by youths and patriarchs bound for Independence Rock for the opening of a three-day celebration of the Oregon Trail centennial.

The largest single group present to honor the old West's trail blazers was a caravan of 200 Boy Scouts, guests of Caspar last night.

They were headed by Eagle Scouts of New York City, traveling in the oxmobile owned by Henry Ford and originally built for the late Ezra Meeker, who traveled the trail in vehicles ranging from a covered wagon to an airplane to re-establish the route.

ATTACK REPUBLICAN RULE.

North Carolina Democrats Say "Prosperity Preachments" Fail.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 3 (AP).—Attacks upon what they termed "the so-called Republican prosperity" were delivered by Governor Gardner and Judge L. R. Varser, opening speakers at the North Carolina Democratic convention today.

Judge Varser, in the keynote address, said the "Republican party's preachments of prosperity have proved a snare and a delusion" and predicted that the country would turn to the Democratic party in 1932.

Governor Gardner asserted that the Republican party had failed to provide national leadership for the United States.

EDUCATION GROUP ASSAILS TOBACCO

RADIO IS CALLED A DANGER

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 3 (AP).—The National Education Association today voiced its disapproval of tobacco advertising and any arrangement of radio broadcasting channels that does not provide education and government with a reasonable share of time on the air.

This action was taken in the adoption of a committee report on resolutions. The resolution pertaining to tobacco advertising was approved in the face of strong opposition and by so close a vote that a count of the delegates had to be taken. It read:

The National Education Association urges all teachers to emphasize the evil effects of alcoholic drinks, tobacco and other narcotics. The association condemns the fraudulent advertising of certain manufacturers in their efforts to foster cigarette smoking. It commends for use in the schools selected periodicals which do not carry tobacco advertising.

The radio resolution placed the association on record as favoring the enactment of legislation which will safeguard for the uses of education and government a reasonable share of the radio broadcasting channels of the United States.

Danger in Radio Is Seen.

While the representative assembly was approving this report, Ira W. Robinson, member of the Federal Radio Commission, appeared before a general session and called upon educators to "strike down an impending monopoly of the air by commercial interests." Radio, he said, is public property, but can become the tool of evil as much as it can be a great power for good. Which trend it takes depends upon the extent to which broadcasters are responsive to the promotion of high American ideals, he said.

Mr. Robinson did not name the group he claimed is forming a monopoly, but he declared its "power and influence is so subtle and effective as to portend the greatest danger to the fundamentals of American republican government."

"The doctrine of free speech must be preserved," he said. "The use of the air for all and not merely for the favored few ... The average man has the natural right to speak over the air as well as listen to others."

He commended those commercial stations which have extended their facilities for educational purposes.

The radio resolution was adopted without any debate in the representative assembly, but that pertaining to tobacco advertising caused some heated discussion. An amendment was offered from the floor to strike out the portion condemning the use of periodicals which carry such advertising.

The amendment was seconded by William R. Ward of Trenton, N. J. When the count of the vote showed only a small majority against the amendment Ward asked for a roll-call by States. This prompted more discussion, and it was ruled out of order.

Dry Law Is Supported.

The report of the Resolutions Committee was adopted with but few changes. The association reaffirmed its stand for vigorous and impartial enforcement of the prohibition law and added an amendment that instruction be given in the schools for its support.

The annual plea of the National Educational Association that a Federal department of education be established, with a secretary in the President's Cabinet, was renewed in a resolution on education and the Federal Government.

The commercial use of child labor was condemned as economically unsound; recommendation was made that Congress prohibit the transportation of obscene literature in interstate commerce as it does in the mails; universal enactment of teachers' tenure bills and retirement system legislation was urged, and Congress was called upon to provide financial aid to the States in meeting a serious educational emergency in the rural areas.

Willis A. Sutton, Superintendent of Schools at Atlanta, Ga., was elected president of the association tonight to succeed Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle of Lincoln, Neb.

Militarism Is Condemned.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, July 3.—In an address before the National Conference on Student Participation in School Government, Richard Welling, a New York attorney, advocated abolition of military music used for recruiting and directly tending to glorify war and military instruction in public schools.

"Nothing helps recruiting like a handsome full dress uniform," he said. "It seems an almost necessary decision to make a show of glamour, tinsel, music and marvelous alignment ... ignoring ... none of these baits ... civilian is first attracted ... one hour after he is ordered front. * * *

"When children are ordered out to march the psychology is war and it has no proper place in the public schools. At an early age a boy's ideas are formed on an outworn European military standard and his own creative formation of his own character is halted, in fact, handed over to a military autocrat, while he learns with servility to take orders under a code which has no place in education for democracy."

REPORT ON RECALL TABLED.

Detroit Council Files Charge Against Signatures Assailing Mayor.

DETROIT, July 3 (AP).—The City Council today declined to listen to a report by Thomas C. Wilcox, Police Commissioner, on his department's investigation of signatures on petitions asking the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles.

The clerk of the Council started reading the report, which charges that about 60 per cent of 3,292 signatures investigated were questionable. He was interrupted by a motion that the report be "filed" and this was agreed to.

The 3,292 signatures investigated by policemen were among 110,000 attached to the petitions filed with the City Clerk.

Use of policemen for this work was attacked by one Councilman, Dr. John S. Hall, who charged that "it is peculiar that, while crime is flourishing and law violators are rampant, we seem to have so many police officers available for the purpose of ringing people's doorbells and rousing them from their beds to throw them into jail."

He also presented a letter from the district superintendent of police in Jerusalem dated Oct. 1, 1926, which granted the Jewish beadle at the Wall permission to bring campstools there.

RULES AT ARLINGTON WAIVED FOR WILEY

War Department Allows Monument to Be Inscribed, 'Father of Pure Food Laws.'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—In recognition of the unusual public service of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who died Monday at the age of 85, and as a courtesy to his wife, a daughter of the late General John C. Kelton, War Department regulations governing memorials in the National Cemetery at Arlington have been waived to permit the grave of the health expert to be marked by a monument inscribed with the words, "Father of the Pure Food Laws."

This decision, hurriedly reached on the eve of the funeral of Dr. Wiley, caused a last-minute shift in the plans which had been made for the burial in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Dr. Wiley served as private and corporal in the 137th Indiana Volunteers in the Civil War and frequently had expressed a wish to be buried in Arlington. Army regulations, however, prohibit the erection of any but a plain stone of standard design to mark the graves of enlisted men.

Because of this fact, and of her desire to erect a monument in keeping with Dr. Wiley's prominence and inscribed with the title so often given him in life because of his pioneer work in establishing the Federal food and drug inspection service, Mrs. Wiley decided to have the burial at Rock Creek rather than at Arlington.

When this became known hurried consultation took place in the office of the Quartermaster General, after which a message was sent to Mrs. Wiley assuring her that no restrictions would be imposed on her plans for a memorial, and late that afternoon, with a group of army officers, she visited Arlington and selected a plot in the old Civil War section, known as the "Field of the Dead," where the body of Dr. Wiley was laid to rest yesterday with full military honors.

ROOSEVELT FINDS STATES 'IN REVOLT'

PREDICTS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Sentiment for Democratic Policy of States' Rights Strong in Republican Ranks, He Says.

By W. A. WARN.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., July 3 (with Governor Roosevelt returning from Governors' Conference).—State home rule will become an issue in the national campaign two years hence and will figure largely in the Congressional and legislative elections this Autumn in many of the States, in the opinion of Governor Roosevelt.

The Governor, now on his way home, said today that in his opinion the widespread protest against Federal interference in State affairs, voiced at the Governors' conference, could not fail to arouse countrywide interest and response.

Governor Roosevelt, himself a consistent contender for States' rights or, as he expresses it, State home rule, was frankly amazed at the extent to which this traditional Democratic policy has taken hold in Republican States and the bluntness with which the Republican spokesmen for such Commonwealths at the conference hurled their challenge in the face of a growing tendency of Federal usurpation of State functions.

"Governor Dern of Utah was not far wrong when, in one of his speeches he recalled the Boston Tea Party, for that was the dominant spirit of practically every discussion involving the relations between the States and the Federal Government."

Rallying Cry Raised.

Governor Roosevelt's prognostication is in accord with the views expressed by a great many other Governors from States in the Rocky Mountain region and further west which are more immediately affected by the Federal interference against which practically one voice the Governors' conference raised its protest.

Not only the West is concerned, for it was demonstrated that Federal interference extended to such fields as taxation, regulation of prison industries and marketing of their products, matters of concern to every State. Again and again, in the course of the discussions, some Governor would sound the rallying cry for concerted action by the States to repel the Federal invasion of fields in which he felt the States should be supreme.

It was the further consensus that Governors, especially those from Western States, would return home prepared to make the most of the impetus given to the State home-rule protest through the voicing of verbal protests that were a daily feature of the discussions at the conference.

The fact that State home rule is directly involved and closely interwoven with the general trend of thought in relation to liberalization of the prohibition law is likely to lend vitality and give momentum to the State home-rule issue, in the opinion of Governor Roosevelt.

Calls Sentiment Unanimous.

Governor Roosevelt is returning from the second conference of Governors he has been attending highly impressed with the usefulness of those gatherings.

What Governor Dern of Utah said in one of his speeches, that Governors who have attended one conference always return for others, was "perfectly true," Governor Roosevelt said.

"My personal hope is that the next Governors' conference, wherever it is held, will witness an attendance not of the Governors from one-half of the States, but of Governors from three-fourths of the Commonwealths," he said.

"The one outstanding feature of this year's conference was the practically unanimous sentiment which came out, and not on one topic, but on all the topics discussed, that the time has come for a clearer and more definite delineation of governmental functions as between the Federal Government on one hand and the governments of the States on the other.

"It was given practical application in relation to the eleven domain States, and I am very certain that Eastern, Southern and Middle West State Executives received perhaps for the first time an appreciation of the development problems of those States where anywhere from one-fourth to three-fourths of the State land area remains under Federal jurisdiction.

Conflict of Jurisdiction.

"This effects, of course, their own home rule right of developing their own agricultural lands, their own mines and oil lands, and especially their own water-power resources, on which important topic for some reason little was said at the conference.

"In other discussions the conflict of jurisdiction was brought forcibly to the attention of the conference in relation to the control of prison labor, development of unemployment insurance and old age security, the overlapping of methods of taxation and Federal aid to State projects where such aid really comes in the form of bribery to induce States to take up projects which have caught the fancy of some bureau official at Washington. It is, of course, distinctly the States in the end that the bribe is borne by taxpayers of the States affected."

Governor Roosevelt said he regarded it as of utmost significance that the protests voiced by Governors against Federal infringement on State functions represented every part of the United States.

"It was in no sense sectional, it did not follow partisan lines," Governor Roosevelt said. "Democrats, Eastern Republicans and Western Progressives joined in asserting State home rule which, as a result, by now is a very definite national issue.

"While the Governors' conference never had it in power to take action on any proposal, it was perfectly clear to me that every Governor will go back to his own State and proclaim what is a well-known doctrine of modern American government.

"The next result, I hope, will be two-fold—first, a greater willingness on the part of State Legislatures to act in terms of State home rule, and, second, a clearer viewpoint on the part of the Congress to be elected this Fall, when they discuss Federal measures which in any shape, form or manner seek to extend Federal jurisdiction and Federal interferences."

Discuss Unemployment.

ZION LODGE, Zion National Park, Utah, July 3 (AP).—Readjustment of economic conditions is necessary for the solution of the present unemployment situation was the consensus of the National Governors' Conference at a session held here this afternoon.

The party of Governors and other notables arrived here early this afternoon after a sixty-one-mile bus trip from Cedar City, Utah. The Governors recessed their meeting in Salt Lake City yesterday and left last night for a tour of the national parks in Southern Utah and Northern Arizona.

The Governors also agreed today the immediate solution of the unemployment problem probably would be a shorter working day and week.

Census Figures Show Yonkers Has 4,483 Unemployed, White Plains 774.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 3.—Census figures for the four cities of Westchester County, given out by Supervisor James F. Arbuckle here today, showed that the average of unemployment for the four cities was less than 3 per cent of the population. The highest unemployment percentage was found in Yonkers and the lowest in White Plains. The unemployed in the four cities totaled 8,819.

A statement accompanying the figures said that they listed as unemployed those who on April 1 were able bodied, out of a job, and looking for work. Unemployment figures for the entire county were promised early next week. The figures follow:

VERMONT'S GAIN 6,762 IN THE LAST 10 YEARS

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 3 (AP).—A population of 359,183 for Vermont was reported by census officials today. The State gained 6,762 since 1920 and 75,531 in the past century.

Seven of the fourteen counties showed gains. Chittenden County added 3,668 for the greatest number. All the counties of more than 5,000 population showed gains. The most striking loss in the decade was in Rockingham, with a loss of nearly 1,000 on the 1920 population.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3 (AP).—Latest estimates, with three-quarters of the census complete, indicate that the census will show Philadelphia to have a population of 1,980,800. One of the four major districts into which the city was divided is yet to be totaled.

In 1920 Philadelphia had a population of 1,823,779.

CITY CENSUS NEARLY ENDED

The census of this city, showing a loss of approximately 400,000 for the Borough of Manhattan, will be completed with the announcement of the total figures for the First Assembly District of the Bronx, according to a statement made yesterday by Ernest W. Bradbury, supervisor of the Twenty-fifth Census District. Mr. Bradbury expects to be able to make figures for the city public within the next few days.

The recent announcement by Supervisor Bradbury that the Second Assembly District of the Bronx had registered a gain of about 90 per cent over the 1920 figures bears out the prediction of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce and affiliated organizations that the loss in the Manhattan population will be met by a considerable increase in the Bronx.

ASK WRIT IN GARMENT ROW.

Brooklyn Manufacturers Seek to Enjoin Governor's Commission.

An order to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued to restrain Governor Roosevelt's Commission, the cloak union and others from interfering with the affairs of the Brooklyn Ladies' Garment Manufacturers Association was argued before Supreme Court Justice Druhan in Brooklyn on Monday, it was learned yesterday. The request was made by John H. McCooey Jr., son of the Brooklyn Democratic leader.

The papers allege that the Brooklyn concerns are bound by the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers Association, the Manhattan group, without trial or hearing.

SHAREDRYDERGAINS, BAILEY NOW ADMITS

He Had Previously Denied It Required Dividing Losses—Counsel Clashes With Bankruptcy Referee.

Frank Bailey, 65-year-old banker and director in twenty-one important corporations, resumed his testimony yesterday concerning his association with Harold Russell Ryder, 35-year-old money maker in the stock market and spender on Broadway.

In the presence of the records of orders, agreements and other transactions, Mr. Bailey conceded these would seem to show that he shared profits with Mr. Ryder in the year which preceded the market crash last Fall, after which he exacted from Mr. Ryder a "restitution" of $2,000,000 which Mr. Ryder has already sworn he lost honestly for him in the market "with as much more of his own."

According to the explanation already given by Mr. Ryder, under oath to the attorneys for his partners and to the attorneys of the firm of Woody & Co., which he admitted looting in order to satisfy Mr. Bailey's claim, the association between Mr. Ryder and Mr. Bailey was a joint trading account in which they should have shared losses as well as profits.

Mr. Bailey, who denied any such understanding in his previous testimony, did not make it clear yesterday just how the account operated and Samuel H. Kaufman, examining counsel for the Irving Trust Company as temporary Federal receivers, did not press him. Mr. Kaufman simply put in evidence the records of one transaction after another, which had been studying since Mr. Bailey produced them last Monday under subpoena of Federal bankruptcy referee Henry K. Davis.

The examination is to be continued next Tuesday, when Mr. Bailey is directed to produce more comprehensive records, so that his memory may not leave him uncertain as it did yesterday.

Referee and Counsel Clash.

The hearing was marked by clashes between Mr. Bailey's counsel, Alfred T. Davison, and Referee Davis, who presided under special commission from the Federal District Court. Mr. Bailey's counsel was cautioned by the referee upon complaint of examining counsel that he was signaling to the witness. Then he was ordered back to his seat when he undertook to step over to the witness stand to help Mr. Bailey, who was struggling to explain the meaning of some of the records of his transactions with Mr. Ryder.

Punctuated by raps of the referee's gavel and his orders to Mr. Davison to "Be quiet," the examination proceeded and Mr. Bailey's difficulty in explaining the records increased.

He was asked about a sale of 1,000 shares of United States Steel in September, 1928, as a profit for which the record showed Mr. Ryder transmitted to him $312.50 as the profit on half that number.

"Did you make a claim for the profit on the other 500 shares?" Mr. Kaufman asked.

"I don't recall any such claim being made," said Mr. Bailey.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Kaufman, "you know that Mr. Ryder sold the 1,000 shares and you received half the profit?"

"I can't recall every transaction two years ago," said Mr. Bailey.

Admits Receiving Sums.

Mr. Bailey admitted receiving $855 from Mr. Ryder in September, 1928, as half the profit on 3,000 shares of Cerro de Pasco, and also sharing $49,900 on their dealings in C. E. Stone stock; as well as a joint transaction in July, 1929, whereby Mr. Ryder and Mrs. Bailey jointly purchased 2,000 shares of Lehigh Valley Coal Company.

He finally conceded that the records he had produced seemed inadequate and "full of a lot of inaccuracies," which he would try to remedy by next Tuesday.

CHEMIST ENDS LIFE BY DRUG IN HOTEL

Frederick L. Childs, 60 years old, a retired chemist of Grand Rapids, Mich., was found dead at 9:30 A. M. yesterday in his room at the Hotel Lexington, Lexington Avenue and Forty-eighth Street. Edward McCaffrey, the house detective, entered the room with a pass-key after repeated knocks had failed to obtain a response.

McCaffrey called Dr. S. B. Ross, the house physician at the Hotel Roosevelt, who said Mr. Childs had taken an over-dose of a sleeping potion.

Detectives listed the case as a suicide. Letters in the room indicated that financial troubles were the cause of the suicide.

CITY BREVITIES.

Sentence was suspended by Magistrate Murphy in the Tombs Court yesterday on Anna Manusky, 33 years old, of 983 East 181st Street, and Anna Rollins, 22, of 2,204 Church Avenue, Brooklyn, women Communists, after a hearing on disorderly conduct charges growing out of the demonstration of about 1,000 Communists in front of the British Consulate at 44 Whitehall Street last Saturday.

A party of humanitarians from Spain, now staying at the Hotel Martinique and about to tour the chief cities of this country, visited the Ellin Prince Speyer Hospital for Animals yesterday to get ideas for the animal hospital they hope to establish in Madrid.

THREE SHOT DOWN IN DETROIT STREET

Two Dead, One Injured Are Declared to Be Gangsters From Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 3.—One man was killed, another fatally wounded and a third seriously injured when an unknown assailant stepped up to the sedan in which they were waiting in front of the La Salle Hotel at 6:30 P. M. today and fired five shots into the car.

The automobile bore an Illinois license plate, and the victims were believed to be Chicago gunmen who had been put "on the spot" through a fake telephone call.

The dead men are William Cannon, 28, and George Collins, 28, both of Chicago.

The wounded man is Mike Stitzel, 30, also of Detroit.

When the murderer had emptied his gun, he returned to the hotel lobby, crowded with people, and is believed to have made his escape through the Woodward Avenue entrance.

Each of the murdered men had a gold badge with the inscription "Private Detective." This led officers to believe that they were engaged in hi-jacking blind pigs.

Chicago Connection Is Confirmed.

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—After questioning the "girl friend" of one of the victims, Chicago police were convinced that the fatal shooting of two men and the wounding of a third in Detroit tonight was a sequel to the bitter warfare now waging between rival Chicago gangs.

The three men are said by the police here to be members of the Morgan gang, and they believe the men fled to Chicago to avoid questioning in connection with the investigation of the killing of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Guy B. Hurlbut, a special investigator of economic conditions for the brokerage house of Munds & Winslow of 25 Broad Street, fell or jumped from the tenth-floor window of his apartment in the Rhinecliff Court Apartments at 788 Riverside Drive at 6:47 A. M. yesterday. J. A. Hunter, the night telephone and elevator operator at the building, heard the crash of the fall and found the body on the sidewalk.

Mrs. Hurlbut, the widow, said her husband must have fallen to the street in opening the window. A representative of Munds & Winslow, who praised Mr. Hurlbut highly, also described it as an accident.

He said that Mr. Hurlbut, a member of the American Bankers' Association, had many friends among prominent bankers.

But Assistant Medical Examiner Robert C. Fisher said after examining the scene that since there was a balcony before the window with a thirty-seven-inch railing an accidental fall was practically impossible. He declared he had learned that Mr. Hurlbut "was in Wall Street" and "had been acting queerly for the last four weeks."

RUNAWAY BOY CHAINED AT HOME BY MOTHER

New London Youth Fastened to Chair or Bed for Three Years When Not at School.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 3.—The practice of Mrs. Anna R. Dunmire of chaining her 12-year-old son, Clifford, to a chair by day and to his bed by night, as a means of keeping him from staying away from home until late at night, was the subject of an investigation started here today.

According to information already obtained, the boy has been chained the greater part of the time when not at school, for the past three years. On being questioned, his mother said this was the only way she could keep the boy from staying out late at night.

The situation was brought to official attention by F. E. Burdick, a Scout executive, when the latter checked up on an application for the boy to attend a camp this Summer, despite the fact that he is not a Scout.

Mr. Burdick went to the Dunmire home and found Clifford sitting on a box in a back entry with the chain padlocked around his left ankle and fastened to a rocking chair in the kitchen.

The youth appeared to be perfectly satisfied with the situation and proudly related his ability to get about the back yard with chained leg and even to pick up the chair and run with it, if the occasion demanded.

The leg on which the chain was fastened appeared to be much more developed than the other one.

The mother said that she has to support her two small sons by her earnings in a lunch room and could not watch the run away. Her other son, she said, gave her no trouble.

NEW POLICE SQUAD TO STAY

Investigators of Traffic Homicides to Be Assigned to All Boroughs.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced yesterday that the vehicular homicide squad, which was organized as an experiment, about two months ago has proved so useful that he has determined to make it permanent. The squad has been operating only in Manhattan, but similar squads will be organized soon in Brooklyn and the Bronx and later on in the other boroughs, the commissioner said.

In its first month the squad found defective brakes on thirty-two automobiles out of ninety-seven involved in accidents, Mr. Mulrooney revealed. In five of these cases defendants have been held for the grand jury. It was pointed out that before the squad was organized defendants frequently contended that mechanical defects to their cars had developed while the cars were in the possession of the police. The squad is prepared to combat such claims.

RAYMAN SAYS VAUSE COUNSELED COURAGE

Columbia Company Secretary Tells of Appeals to the Ex-Judge for Aid.

DESCRIBES $400,000 CRASH

W. Bernard Vause, former Kings County judge, the only one of seven defendants on trial for mail frauds and conspiracy who has shown any sign of shaken nerves, was described yesterday by a government witness as a leader who had always counseled coolness and courage on the part of his associates when they were faced with financial disaster and possible imprisonment. The witness, Abraham Rayman, told Federal Judge Coxe and a jury that even as Mr. Vause had advised him and others to "fight on," he had, in the same breath, warned them: "Don't mention anything about me."

Rayman, one-time secretary of the now defunct Columbia Finance Corporation, who has pleaded guilty to the indictment on which Mr. Vause and the others are being tried, described the assumption of control of the corporation by Arthur H. Montgomery, an ex-convict, who obtained the leadership on the strength of an alleged telephone conversation with "Barney Vause" who, Montgomery was reported to have said, had promised to help out the crashing Columbia Finance by producing $25,000 in cash.

Sought Advise From Vause.

Rayman, who was permitted by United States Attorney Tuttle to tell his story in his own way, dealt largely with the failing fortunes of the Columbia Finance Corporation shortly before its $400,000 crash in the latter part of 1929. As disaster came nearer and nearer, according to the witness, he and his associates went time and again to see, or to attempt to see, Mr. Vause, to whom they looked for counsel and later for protection from the law.

In the Autumn of 1929, Rayman said, when there was only $60,000 in the treasury of the corporation, he called on Mr. Vause and informed him of the situation, telling him also that the officers and directors were much worried. He testified that Mr. Vause had advised him not to worry, but to return to the office and keep the business going, as money would continue to come in and they would "get by all right."

Finally when the treasury was empty, Rayman said he again sought Mr. Vause's counsel and once he quoted Mr. Vause as having said:

"Don't worry. Go back to your office like a soldier and fight. Nothing terrible is going to happen. If there were a fire would you jump out of the window to save yourself? When the government sends soldiers to the battlefield it gives them ammunition. Well, you have ammunition."

Entrance of Montgomery.

Came then the recital of the entrance of Montgomery into the tangled affairs of the Columbia Finance Corporation. Following his "fire and ammunition" interview with Mr. Vause, Rayman said, he talked the matter over with Solomon Cruso, former president of the corporation, who has also pleaded guilty to the indictment and testified for the government.

The night of the talk with Cruso, the witness continued, Michael Eisenstein, a bail bond broker and friend of Mr. Vause, came to the office of the corporation, was told of the situation and said he knew a man who could help out. He telephoned to Montgomery, the witness said, and that night at 11 o'clock they met Montgomery by appointment in a Broadway restaurant.

"Montgomery asked us how much money we needed," Rayman testified, "and I told him we had to have $36,000. He said he would call up 'Barney Vause.' When he returned from the telephone he said he was going to let us have $25,000 right away. The next day Montgomery said he would be able to make the corporation solvent, but that we must turn over all our stock to him and place him in full charge. We did this and he became the boss of the company."

Mr. Tuttle finished his direct examination of Rayman and Nathan D. Pearlman, chief of defense counsel, began his attack upon the witness's credulity. Rayman admitted he had not told "the whole truth" to the State Attorney General's representative, or to Assistant District Attorney Thomas F. Kane. He could not be made to admit that he had "lied" to save himself. He insisted he had not told the whole truth at that time because he had believed Mr. Vause would help him out.

THIEVES GET $6,000 JEWELS.

GLEN HEAD, L. I., July 3.—Jewelry valued at $6,000 was stolen from the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sloane of High Farm, Glen Head, Tuesday night, police of the Syosset precinct revealed today. Mrs. Sloane is the former Katherine E. Ingalls.

While the Sloanes were dining out an intruder removed the jewelry from a dressing table on the second floor. Three servants in the house reported they heard nothing during the night. Mr. Sloane discovered the loss in the morning.

Among the articles reported stolen were a pearl stickpin, two diamond pins, a diamond bar pin and two rings. A set of cufflinks, said to be worth $5,000, was overlooked.

The servants, Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson and Frieda Just, were questioned by County Detective James Farrell today. The thief is believed to have entered by way of an open front door, Farrell said.

WINS MARBLES TOURNEY.

Mamaroneck Boy Gets Loving Cup in Westchester Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., July 3.—Twelve marbles champions of various sections of Westchester County met in a special arena at Playland today for the final contest to decide who should receive the Westchester title. A crowd of 800 cheered the contestants.

Rocco Fraioli, 12 years old, of Mamaroneck, won the Loving Cup donated to the victor by a group of county newspapers. The runner-up was Albert Giuseppe, 13, of Ossining. Albert went home with a loving cup donated by Playland and a silver medal to go with it.

SENT TO PENITENTIARY FOR WATCH SMUGGLING

Solomon Rubman and Two Others Sentenced for Conspiracy Involving $950,000.

The tears and hysterical plea for mercy of Mrs. Mary Rubman, wife of Solomon Rubman, secretary and treasurer of the Federal Mail Order House and the Superfine Watch Company, 561 Broadway, failed yesterday to save her husband from serving eighteen months in Atlanta Penitentiary. He was sentenced by Judge Henry W. Goddard, with two other officials of the same firms.

Rubman, Paul Rabkin, president of the companies, and Joseph Y. Pearlman, had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging conspiracy to smuggle watch cases and watch movements valued at $950,000 into this port from Switzerland, defrauding the government of $300,000 in duties.

Judge Goddard had sentenced Rabkin and Pearlman to two years each in Atlanta. He just finished imposing the eighteen-month sentence on Rubman, when Mrs. Rubman, tears streaming down her face, made her way to the bench.

"My husband's a good man," she sobbed. "He was led into by the others. He was just a poor sap for them."

Judge Goddard explained as kindly as he could that the sentence would have to stand.

LAST-HOUR REPRIEVE KEEPS 3 FROM CHAIR

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., July 3.—Three men who were to have gone to the electric chair in Sing Sing prison tonight to pay for the murder of a Buffalo restaurant proprietor received reprieves of two weeks each from Acting Governor Lehman at 9:55 this evening, only an hour and five minutes before they were to have been put to death. The men were Alexander Bogdonoff, Max Rybarczyk and Stephen Grezchowiak.

Governor Lehman telephoned Warden Lewis E. Lawes that he had decided to give the condemned men the extension of time in order to permit further study of Bogdonoff's statement that he alone was guilty and that the other two had had no part in the murder and hold-up. Bogdonoff has insisted his accomplices were Chicago gunmen whose names, however, he has refused to divulge.

SENATE VOTES SHOALS PLAN

Norris Joint Resolution for Sale of Power to Cities Is Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Senate today passed, without debate and without a record vote, the Norris joint resolution directing the Secretary of War to sell power generated at Muscle Shoals to municipalities as well as to private concerns. The joint resolution now goes to the House, where its chances for adoption are regarded as doubtful.

The measure is similar to a simple resolution, offered by Senator Black of Alabama and adopted by the Senate last week declaring it to be "the sense of the Senate" that the Secretary of War should sell Muscle Shoals power to municipalities.

WILL BAR 'FADDISTS' IN APPEALS INQUIRY

Two Persons Sought by Brower in Connection With Gasoline Station Permits.

Deluged with requests by various groups for the appointment of certain persons on his proposed citizens' committee to investigate the activities and duties of the Board of Standards and Appeals, Mayor Walker said yesterday he would not announce the personnel of the body until next week.

The great number of requests for appointments, he asserted, had convinced him of the necessity for taking more time in forming his committee. He declared he "must be very careful," as he wanted the most efficient committee he could get, and at the same time had no desire to "affront" any person or group.

Although he did not say he intended to have a committee made up wholly of experts in matters that come under jurisdiction of the board, the Mayor made it clear that he wanted men of great experience and of "the highest type" only.

"I want no faddists or theorists," the Mayor declared.

Two developments marked District Attorney Brower's inquiry into the circumstances under which permits for gasoline stations in Brooklyn were issued by the Board of Standards and Appeals. Mr. Brower said that he had examined Frank Green, a Negro contractor alleged to have made a false affidavit in connection with one proceeding. He announced also that John J. Dorman, Fire Commissioner, had conferred with him in connection with the commissioner's investigation into the acts of Charles W. Jannicky, Deputy Fire Commissioner, in a gasoline station proceeding.

The proceedings the District Attorney is investigating involve premises at Thirteenth Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, and at Sixty-fifth Street and Stilwell Avenue, Brooklyn. In both cases the permits were revoked by the courts. Affidavits produced in the proceedings before the Board of Standards and Appeals said that gasoline tanks had been installed on the properties prior to the enactment of the prohibitory ordinance of July, 1925, but witnesses testified later that such was not the case.

Green, who is said to have installed tanks, made an affidavit that was characterized in the court proceedings as false. District Attorney Brower announced at the outset of his investigation that he was searching for Green to question him about his affidavit, but was unable to find him. A process server in a civil action found him, however, and Justice Cropsey committed Green to jail for contempt of court in a wholly separate case.

Mr. Brower said Green had talked freely to him, but that he had been unable to determine whether he would prosecute the contractor until he had questioned another witness. This witness, he said, was a man named Israel Miller, who also had disappeared.

LETS I. R T. KEEP UP ELEVATED FARE SUIT

fare above the fare fixed by contract No. 3, and the elevated extension certificate, or in which any prayer is made for any review of action taken by the Transit Commission, or its successors, denying an increase in fare above the fare fixed by contract No. 3 and the elevated extension certificates, or refusing to take jurisdiction over an application for such increase."

The other important clause struck out by Justice Ingraham was in the list of conclusions of law submitted by the city, and the Transit Commission. It referred to the ten-cent fare application of the company for its elevated lines, and referred to it as being "in violation of the order of this court of Feb. 14, 1928, and in contempt of this court."

Untermyer Discounts Ruling.

Samuel Untermyer, special counsel to the Transit Commission, said at his Summer place in Atlantic City last night, that he did not attach any importance to Justice Ingraham's action, taken by the Judge before he left on vacation. Mr. Untermyer, who is credited with the winning of the five-cent fare case before the United States Supreme Court, said that he had disapproved of the two clauses himself. However, they were contained in the proposed findings of fact, findings of law, and the proposed decrees submitted by the Transit Commission on behalf of the city to Justice Ingraham.

In transit circles the fact that the city obtained only a modified decree was not regarded as militating against the city's chances of preserving a five-cent fare on the subway lines. However, experts have always privately conceded the Interborough's chances of obtaining a ten-cent elevated fare to be far brighter than those of getting a seven-cent fare on the combined system.

If Justice Ingraham had not struck out the two clauses, the company would have been restrained from prosecuting its ten-cent fare application for the elevated lines until the subway fare case had been finally decided by the State Court of Appeals.

Subway Appeal Now Open.

The filing of the judgment and decree yesterday had the additional effect of permitting the company to proceed with its appeal in the subway fare case also.

Following the decision of the United States Supreme Court, throwing the seven-cent fare suit back to the State courts, the city and Transit Commission proceeded before Justice Ingraham to attempt to obtain an injunction restraining the company from trying to abrogate the five-cent fare clause in its contracts with the city.

Justice Ingraham rendered a decision favorable to the city on Feb. 28. The decree entered yesterday made that decision final as far as he was concerned, and counsel for both sides can prepare for the appeal to the Appellate Division, and then to the Court of Appeals. James L. Quackenbush, general counsel to the Interborough, stated last year that his company had no intention of carrying the fight beyond the highest State court. The case in the State courts has been carried on by William L. Ransom, special counsel to the company.

The findings of law, contained in the document filed yesterday, as well as making final the injunction against the company from raising its fare to 7 cents on the combined system, gives the city the right to apply at any time as may be necessary for further injunctive relief against the Interborough.

The elevated fare suit, with which the Interborough is free to go ahead as a result of Justice Ingraham's decree, was brought on Feb. 18 of this year. It had brought its application first before the Transit Commission, and after hearings were held the Transit Commission dismissed the proceedings on Sept. 18, 1929.

In February it obtained from Justice Bijur a writ of certiorari, opening the way for review by the Appellate Division of the Transit Commission's decision. The ten-cent elevated fare case was brought under Section 49 of the Public Service Commission law, while the company's application for a seven-cent fare on the combined system was brought under Section 29. The dismissal of the subway fare application by the Transit Commission on the grounds that it lacked jurisdiction to entertain an application for an increased fare, started the fare litigation that took the city and company through the Federal courts to the Supreme Court of the United States and then back to the State courts.

FIGHT 24-STORY HOTEL.

Property Owners Get Writ to Review East 38th St. Permit.

Property owners in the neighborhood of 106-114 East Thirty-eighth Street, owned by the Town Hall Construction Company, obtained an order yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Lydon directing the Board of Standards and Appeals to show cause on Monday why their affirmance of a building permit granted to the Town Hall Company by the Superintendent of Buildings for a twenty-four-story apartment hotel should not be reviewed and set aside.

The plaintiffs include Beverly R. Robinson of 111 East Thirty-eighth Street, Tompkins McIlvaine of 113 East Thirty-eighth Street, Harriet E. Devoe of 59 Park Avenue, Elsie S. Williams of 308 Lexington Avenue and the Murray Hill Association. They contend that the plans should have been submitted to the Tenement House Department instead of the Superintendent of Buildings, and that they call for a structure 281 feet high, whereas buildings in the block are limited to 108 feet. They also contend that the designs for the building indicate that cooking is to be permitted in the pantries in the apartments, which last, they assert, makes the building subject to the Tenement House Department.

The plaintiffs also allege that the present plans are merely an amendment of a previous design calling for a building thirty stories high with a tower instead of the pyramidal shape now planned.

BROOKLYN MAPPING CROSSTOWN ROAD

STREET WIDENING INVOLVED

Highways Bureau Finishing Survey of Recommendations of Regional Planning Committee.

Surveys for a crosstown motor highway through Brooklyn to connect interborough traffic arteries proposed by the Regional Planning Committee, and for a continuous automobile parkway from the Williamsburg Bridge through Brooklyn to the Sunrise Trail are being completed by the Brooklyn Bureau of Highways under the direction of Borough President Hesterberg's office, it was learned yesterday.

The proposal for another artery from Williamsburg Bridge was prompted by the traffic congestion at the Brooklyn end of the bridge, it was said. In order to alleviate this condition Mr. Hesterberg ordered studies to determine whether the roadways of South Fifth Street and Bushwick Avenue could be widened to 100 feet or more.

Should this plan prove feasible, another large approach to the bridge will be created. Thus motorists who come from Manhattan by this route will be able to turn into South Fifth Street and thence into Montrose Avenue, which already has an 80-foot roadway, and thence into Bushwick Avenue to Pennsylvania Avenue and Linden Boulevard and so into the Sunrise Trail and into Amityville, L. I. This would mean that there would be a 25-mile automobile highway from Manhattan into Long Island which would handle a great volume of traffic.

At present Bushwick Avenue and South Fifth Street are too narrow for the traffic that would flow over such a road.

Bushwick Avenue between Montrose Avenue and Myrtle Avenue is 80 feet wide and beyond Myrtle Avenue is 120 feet wide. These figures, however, include the sidewalks, which are abnormally wide, it was said. If properly managed, Bushwick Avenue could thus be widened to provide for an enormous volume of traffic. By widening South Fifth Street another feeder could be added to those streets which now take the traffic from the bridge into what is now a comparatively narrow Bushwick Avenue roadway.

Most of this traffic, it was said, at the present time must squeeze through the heavily congested portion of Broadway and thence into Montrose and Bushwick Avenues. The latter is not now considered capable of handling very much more traffic than it already bears. By widening it an excellent roadway would be constructed which would lead directly into the 100-foot roadway of Pennsylvania Avenue. This would make a new main motor highway through Brooklyn possible.

Mr. Hesterberg also ordered the Bureau of Highways to make plans for a crosstown boulevard which would lead from the proposed entrance of the Staten Island vehicular tunnel in the Fort Hamilton section and connect with both the Bushwick Avenue project and the other two interborough traffic arteries which were proposed by the Regional Planning Committee of New York last Summer.

Such a boulevard, officials at the Brooklyn Borough Hall said yesterday, would link the triborough bridge, for which appropriations already have been made by the Board of Estimate, with the vehicular tunnels running from Thirty-eighth Street, Manhattan, into Queens and Brooklyn. The triborough bridge, for which plans already have been completed, will connect the latter two boroughs with the Bronx. All of these proposals were urged by the Regional Planning Committee's report.

The boulevard connecting the triborough bridge, the proposed Thirty-eighth Street and the Brooklyn-Staten Island vehicular tunnels with each other and the direct highway running from Williamsburg Bridge into the Sunrise Trail would become one of the most important highways in New York City. It would serve as a connecting link between all the five boroughs and other parts of Long Island, it was said.

F. L. PRENDERGAST RESIGNS

Frank L. Prendergast, for five years secretary to the Commissioner of Public Works of Manhattan, sent his resignation yesterday to Borough President Miller, effective July 15, in order to become director of public relations with the Fox Film Company, because, he said, the new post offered a larger salary than the [illegible] he is receiving.

For most of the time Mr. Prendergast has been secretary Joseph Johnson was commissioner. On May 21 the latter resigned to take an executive position with Fox Films, and through Mr. Johnson's invitation the younger man will go with the same company.

Mr. Prendergast's father, Joseph F. Prendergast, was Tammany leader of the Twenty-fifth Assembly District, later the Tenth. He is said to have done much toward making George W. Olvany alderman and is credited with having started the Tammany State leader on his climb in politics.

PAY TOO HIGH, HE QUITS JOB

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 3.—John S. Roth, Tax Commissioner, resigned today because he figured he was being paid too much.

"I have not the nerve to draw $3,500 for twelve months' work and only give the city about six months of actual work," he said. "This job should be a part-time proposition or combined with another job."

Sweetser Heads Wet Athletes; Joins Group Seeking Repeal

Jesse Sweetser, former national amateur golf champion, has joined the ranks of the militant wets as head of an athletic division to be organized by the Crusaders, Inc., an organization devoted to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, it was announced yesterday.

"Any one who has spent as much time in locker rooms as I have knows that the nineteenth hole nowadays has stymied many an otherwise promising golfer," said Mr. Sweetser, in explaining the athletic viewpoint on the subject.

Persons interested in athletics are also interested in temperance, Mr. Sweetser explained, and are therefore eager for a change from the present system of control "under the intemperate guise of national prohibition." Mr. Sweetser will have charge of the enrolling of golfers, tennis players, polo players and all other athletes in New York City, Westchester and Long Island.

ENDORSED FATHER'S NOTES

Is Hopeful of Getting New Start and Rebuilding $2,000,000 Fortune—Wife Blames Labor Troubles.

Raphael Cioffi, until recently a prosperous Bronx builder, has failed for more than $1,000,000 and has taken a $5.50 a day job as a subway guard, it was revealed yesterday with the disclosure of a petition in bankruptcy listing his liabilities as $1,044,363 and his assets as nothing.

Cioffi up to a year and a half ago was in business with his father, Carmine Cioffi, a prominent contractor and builder, and they amassed a fortune of more than $2,000,000 in Bronx apartment houses only to see it dwindle and vanish, mainly because of trouble with labor leaders, according to the younger Mr. Cioffi's wife.

He faces foreclosure on his home at 990 College Avenue and disposition of the $1,000,000 bankruptcy claims which grew out of his endorsement of notes when his father's business began to fail. But according to Mrs. Cioffi he is confronting the prospect cheerfully and, hopeful of salvaging something from the wreckage, looks forward to leaving the subway and starting all over again.

The story of the rise and fall of the Cioffi family has been revealed in testimany taken before Peter B. Olney as referee in bankruptcy, before whom Raphael Cioffi is expected to appear as a witness to swear that he has no funds to meet his $1,000,000 liabilities.

Owned Many Buildings.

This testimony disclosed that Carmine Cioffi came to this country from Italy as an immigrant and as a building contractor extended his activities to the point where he owned several dozen apartment houses in the Bronx.

Raphael went into business with his father and as their affairs prospered Carmine Cioffi, Inc., and the Retorno Company were formed, each wtih a capitalization of only $1,000. The operation of these companies resulted in the father and son accumulating more than $2,000,000 in buildings and real estate holdings a few years ago. Carmine served as president and owned four-fifths of the stock and Raphael, the secretary-treasurer, owned one-fifth.

At this point the family encountered difficulties. Property values began to recede slightly and vacant apartments increased. Coupled with this, according to Mrs. Carmine Cioffi, were the difficulties with the labor leaders. The father and son were engaged at that time in putting up more new buildings.

"The union officials," she added, "would say everything was all right and the men would be on the job, and then there would be one kind of trouble or another and the work would be held up sometimes for as long as three or four months."

With considerable investments tied up in the new buildings these delays caused serious impairment to the assets of the two companies. Carmine Cioffi tried to stem the tide, and Raphael, who had installed himself in an imposing home at 990 College Avenue, also attempted to meet the situation.

Creditors began to press their claims and the Cioffis began giving notes pledging personal assets. Raphael signed more than $1,000,000 in notes as endorser.

Then the crash came and the Irving Trust Company was appointed receiver. Raphael found himself with practically nothing except three shares of worthless stock.

Company Has Only $12,000.

Harry J. Stein, attorney for the two corporations and Raphael, said yesterday that the two companies had only about $12,000 to meet the creditors and he asserted that Raphael had nothing at all. The bankruptcy petition listed the principal creditors of Raphael as the Empire City Savings Bank, $245,000; Equitable Trust Company, $160,000; Lawyers Mortgage Company, $135,000; William Henry Barnum & Co., $150,185.

Raphael moved out of his College Avenue home with his wife and family when the bankruptcy came and got the job in the subway, and Carmine began to search for some way to rehabilitate the family fortune.

"Mr. Cioffi," said Mrs. Carmine Cioffi, "failed in an honest way. You know sometimes people when they fail they have plenty left for themselves, but Mr. Cioffi failed honestly and he has tried to square up with everybody. I hope we can get something out of it all. Mr. Cioffi is well known here in the Bronx and has always had a fine reputation, and he is going to try to start ahead in business again."

THOMPSON ESTATE PUT AT $85,000,000

MUSEUM TO GET MINERALS

Natural History Institution Also Receives Funds for Room and to Add to Collection.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 3.—The widow and daughter will receive the bulk of the estate of the late Colonel William Boyce Thompson, mining engineer and banker, who died at his home in Yonkers on June 28. The will, filed today in Surrogate's Court here, disposes of an estate estimated by associates of the late Colonel Thompson at $85,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The only outright public bequest is in the disposition of Colonel Thompson's collection of minerals and carved stones, which are left to the American Museum of Natural History with the provision that the collection shall remain at his residence as long as his widow and daughter reside there, unless permission to remove it is given in writing by the latter.

The collection is to be designated by the museum as "the Boyce Thompson mineral collection." The will provides a fund of $20,000 to the museum for preparation of a room or building to house the collection and another fund of $50,000 for the purchase of additions to the collection and for its maintenance. These sums are to be paid within a year.

Gifts Exceed $3,000,000.

The amount of the estate was designated in the petition for probate merely as "more than $200,000," but the specific items total more than $3,000,000. Of this sum $2,000,000 constitutes a trust fund, the interest of which is to be paid to the widow, Mrs. Gertrude Hickman Thompson, or the daughter, Mrs. Margaret Schulze, as long as either of them remains at the residence at 1,061 Broadway, Yonkers.

Other trust funds totaling $180,000 are set up for four relatives. Thirteen employes, former employes and relatives receive bequests amounting to $206,000 in all.

The residue of the estate is to be divided into two equal parts, to be held in trust. The income of one half is to go to the widow and after her death to the daughter. The income of the other half is to be paid to the daughter, and after her death to the widow, if she is still living, or to the children of Mrs. Schulze, Theodore Schulze Jr. and Boyce Thompson Schulze, both of 1,061 Broadway, Yonkers. The codicil providing for the disposition of the residue was dated March 1, 1930, and the will itself was dated Jan. 24, 1930.

If any portion of the residue is at any time otherwise undisposed of the will provides that one-half shall go to Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H., which shall also receive the second half if Colonel Thompson's brother and sister are not living.

Lamont One of Four Executives.

Colonel Thompson appointed as his executors four friends: Thomas W. Lamont, the banker, of Palisades, Rockland County; Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher of 16 East Seventy-third Street; Fred Searles Jr., a business man, of 15 Cortland Street, New Rochelle, and Percy Bullard, a lawyer, of 960 Fifth Avenue. If any of these are unable to serve, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow is asked to serve as substitute executor.

The trust funds set up are: $500,000 for Joseph E. Thompson, brother, of Phoenix, Ariz., with a surviving life estate to his sons, Joseph E. Thompson Jr. and William Boner Thompson; $200,000 for Mrs. Mabel T. Filor, sister, of West Haverstraw, N. Y.; $40,000 for Harriet A. Gray, 7 Tangawild Avenue, Bronxville, and $40,000 for Maud Lyon, cousin, of Seattle, Wash., who also receives a legacy of $10,000.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Thompson, sister-in-law, of Phoenix, Ariz., receives an outright gift of $100,000.

Smaller bequests are as follows: $25,000 to Henry E. Dodge, 8 Slocum Street, New Rochelle; $10,000 each to Cornelius Kelleher, secretary, Yonkers; Anna M. Loughlin, Granada Hotel, Brooklyn; Frank W. Holmes, 25 East Lincoln Avenue, Mount Vernon; David E. Thomas, 1,618 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, and Arthur Smith, East Ely, Nev. Those receiving $5,000 each are: Alice M. Garretson, 3,311 Parkside Avenue, the Bronx; Mary Alexander Booth, North Avenue, New Rochelle; Rose Haub, 268 Fair Street, Paterson, N. Y., and Thomas McKenzie, 935 Park Avenue. To George S. Melville, 1,061 Broadway, Yonkers, $1,000 is given.

S. F. Clark Estate to Widow.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 3.—Mrs. Mary Cookman Clark of 902 North Broad Street receives the residuary estate of her husband, Sigourney Fay Clark, who died on June 23. His will was probated here today. Mr. Clark, who was a descendant of Abraham Clark, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was at one time assistant purchasing agent for the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Several bequests of personal effects are made to two daughters and other relatives. The daughters are Mrs. Elizabeth C. Plunkett of Adams, Mass., and Mrs. Rebecca C. Cookman of 909 Bradrod Street, Pomona, Cal.

G. W. Saunders Will Filed.

The will of Goddard Weld Saunders, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Saunders of New York and Chicago, filed yesterday, leaves all of his estate, of undetermined value, to three public institutions. The American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art get $5,000 each and the residue goes to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The testator, a member of the Yale Club and other societies, who died on June 11, made no provision for two aunts and five cousins, his only surviving relatives.

Operation Forbidden by Mother Saves Boy; Law Invoked When Parent Refuses Consent

Despite the protests of his mother that God gave her her son and if the Lord wanted him back surgery should not be allowed to interfere, a 13-year-old boy was operated upon at a Brooklyn hospital last week and saved from almost certain death, it was learned yesterday from Justice Peter B. Hanson of the Children's Court and Superintendent Charles H. Warner of the Brooklyn Children's Society.

Justice Hanson and Mr. Warner would not reveal any information that might lead to the identification of the mother or the boy because of the secrecy imposed by statute upon Children's Court matters. They said that it was the first occasion upon which the sections of the Children's Court act which allow a child to undergo an operation by court order, even against the wishes of the parents, were used.

The boy, it was explained, developed pleurisy last January. His mother, said to be a widow in comfortable circumstances, nursed him constantly, but he grew steadily worse. The matter was called to the attention of Justice Hanson and Mr. Warner in the hope they might do something to convince the woman that surgical aid for her son was imperative.

Justice Hanson, it was said, looked up the law and found a section permit'ing the Children's Court, after a hearing, to order an operation on a child, against the parents' will, if the child were one classed as "neglected" by the statute. Another section, he found, classed a "neglected child" as one whose parents refused medical or surgical aid.

A hearing was ordered and the boy's mother appeared. She told Justice Hanson that she had taken every care of the boy, but her faith in the Lord would not allow her to agree to an operation. She said she felt she had no right to complain if the Lord called upon her to give back the boy to Him.

Five physicians testified that an operation was imperative and that unless it was performed the boy would almost certainly die. Justice Hanson signed the order and the boy was taken to a hospital, where the operation was performed upon his chest. Mr. Warner said yesterday the boy was reported to be recovering.

REALTY MEN BACK $21-A-ROOM HOMES

EXPECTS REPORT SOON

Borough President Declares Subcommittee Will Recommend Sites for Buildings.

Borough President Miller of Manhattan said yesterday that he had received a large number of endorsements from prominent real estate men and real estate boards throughout the city for his plan for providing apartments at $21 per room per month for middle-class or "white-collar" workers. At the same time the Borough President said that within the next few days he expected a report from the subcommittee of the committee of twenty-five builders studying the plan.

The members of this subcommittee, Mr. Miller said, were Clark C. Dailey, G. Richard Davis, Thomas Crimmins, Louis W. Abrons, David Tishman and Alexander M. Bing. The Borough President said that he had met about a dozen times already with this subcommittee and that their report was nearly complete.

"All of the members of the subcommittee have taken a great interest in this project and in making their report," Mr. Miller said. "I expect that in this report they will recommend sites that are in their opinion especially adapted for this type of apartment."

Borough President Miller announced his plan for reasonable rate apartments last May and said then that its aim was to solve the acute problem created in Manhattan by the continued erection of business skyscrapers, accompanied by a steady decrease in the resident working population, forced to seek living quarters in the other four boroughs.

COMMISSIONER TO HAITI ORDERED WITHDRAWN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—In harmony with recommendations by the Forbes Commission, which investigated conditions in Haiti for President Hoover and favored civilian representation at Port au Prince, Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, who has been American High Commissioner to Haiti since 1922, will be withdrawn immediately after the inauguration of a new President to succeed Eugene Roy in the Fall. He will be succeeded by Dana Munro, present chief of the Latin-American Division of the State Department, as Minister.

General Russell has been granted a leave of absence, effective immediately, but will return to Haiti in September to remain until the inauguration. The new President is to be selected by the Congress which is to be elected by popular vote this Summer.

The State Department also announced today that President Hoover had selected Carl Colvin, State Supervisor of Vocational Education in Illinois, to succeed Dr. George F. Freeman as head of the Service Technique of Haiti. Dr. Freeman's resignation took effect yesterday. The service he headed was criticized in the Forbes investigation on various grounds of policy.

Some of the charges leveled against the service were that through qualifications it set up for scholarships in the schools unrest among students was encouraged, leading to the revolt last December.

Mr. Colvin was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1912 and has since been identified with agricultural and vocational education in that State.

MIDDLE AGE SOCIETY UNDER STATE'S FIRE

An investigation by the State of the National Association for Middle-Aged Employes, Inc., an organization started last December with a nation-wide program for the relief of mature unemployed workers by a campaign of propaganda and education, will begin next Thursday, it was announced yesterday by Robert P. Beyer, Deputy Assistant Attorney General. Hearings to determine whether the association, which claims among its sponsors men prominent in public life in New York and other States, should be dissolved, will start at that time, Mr. Beyer announced.

The association began with the announced purpose of breaking down the barrier raised by many employers against middle-aged workers and named James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany and treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, as its first president. Mr. Gerard resigned two weeks after his acceptance of the office, severing his connection with the association without explanation.

Mr. Beyer, in announcing last night that he would "thoroughly investigate the association," declared that "if the charges I have heard are true, somebody's going to jail."

The State's investigation follows closely one instituted in May by Deputy Commissioner James W. Kelly of the Department of Welfare. The founder and executive director of the organization, William Henry Roberts, and according to Mr. Kelly its only active officer, besides Augusta Crandall Hughston, organization secretary, retorted to the investigation by charging that he had been "harassed for months by Mr. Kelly." He added that the organization's only purpose "is the humane one of making a place for middle-aged men in industry."

Mr. Beyer, however, revealed yesterday that he had received a complaint from J. A. Smith, general agent of the Buffalo office of the American Credit Indemnity Company of New York. Mr. Smith forwarded to the Attorney General a copy of a typewritten letter he had received from the association above an alleged facsimile of the signature of Mr. Roberts.

This letter made an appeal in behalf of the purposes of the organization and solicited the purchase from it of carbon paper at $1.50 a box, Mr. Bezer said.

Mr. Beyer also has in his files, he announced, a circular of the organization, which lists the names of its sponsors, advisory board and committee of governors. At least three of those listed as sponsors have disavowed knowledge of the association and have informed Mr. Beyer that they had not given permission to Mr. Roberts to use their names, the deputy said. These men, he said, are Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer, Sheriff Robert L. Moran of Bronx County and Frederick O'Byrne, Commissioner of Jurors of New York County.

Mr. Roberts and the majority of those listed on the organization's literature could not be reached last night for comment.

Meets Tuttle and Ameli Aides to End Bureau's Strained Relations.

Indication That Police Will Work With Him Seen in Transfer of Prisoners.

In an effort to establish friendly relations between the prohibition bureau of this district and the offices of the Federal prosecutors in Manhattan and Brooklyn—relations which have been at least strained—Andrew McCampbell, new prohibition administrator, conferred last night with Federal Attorney Tuttle and earlier in the day with assistants of United States Attorney Ameli of Brooklyn, who is on vacation.

Unlike his predecessor, Maurice Campbell, who went out of office last Monday charging that the Federal prosecutor in Manhattan had not cooperated with his bureau for political reasons, Mr. McCampbell, genial Kentuckian, who began service with the government as a letter carrier, announced that he expected to get along well with Mr. Tuttle.

That announcement came after he had arranged to dine with Mr. Tuttle as the latter's guest at a place kept secret. There seemed no doubt at the end of the administrator's conference in Brooklyn that he was satisfied with assurances of cooperation he had received.

Tuttle Tells of Agreement.

Following the supper conference Mr. Tuttle gave out the following statement to newspapers:

"Mr. McCampbell and I had a very satisfactory conference and agreed thoroughly as to methods of cooperation. He impresses me as a man who, while standing strongly for the enforcement of the law, proposes to use only such means as are within the law and the Bill of Rights."

Mr. McCampbell began his third day as administrator by explaining that he had no illusions concerning the magnitude of his job.

"I shall try to enforce the law to the best of my ability in a legal manner," he said, "I ask the cooperation of officials and all citizens who believe in law enforcement." He added that he was still "feeling his way" in his new post.

An indication that this cooperation might be offered came during the day, which was simply routine for the raiding staff under Deputy Administrator Hanson. Three men, who had been arrested late Wednesday by the police, were held by Magistrate Ford in Jefferson Market Court for hearings July 10 on a charge of forging revenue stamps. They are Robert Mottur, 64 Lincoln Road, Brooklyn, and Samuel Isaacson, 40 Lincoln Road, who were held in bail of $2,000 each. Magistrate Ford held Frederick Boehle, who said he lived at "113 Scheley Street," without bail.

Four others were arrested in the same raid on the offices of the Dysam Printing Company, 127 West Twenty-sixth Street, where, in addition to forged revenue stamps, Detective Joseph Healy discovered whisky and gin labels, an embossing machine and 250 plates. These men were turned over to Mr. McCampbell's agents. They said they were Albert Sarno, 401 East 115th Street; Anthony Leonardi, 133 Columbia Street, Brooklyn; John Hibben, 1,053 Simpson Street, the Bronx, and Dina Schwartz, 1,642 President Street, Brooklyn, said to be the owner of the printing plant.

Held on "Smoke" Selling Charge.

Another instance of cooperation between Mr. McCampbell and State and city officials was seen in Essex Market Court, where Magistrate Rosenbluth held Isadore Kovins, proprietor of a hardware store at 1 Cooper Square, arrested by police on a charge of selling "smoke," or denatured alcohol, to derelicts, in bail of $500 for trial in Special Sessions.

Prior to his arraignment on the specific charge of maintaining a nuisance, Kovins was freed by Magistrate McQuade, who said that there was no evidence as charged by the District Attorney's office in still another complaint, that he had caused the death of Daniel Buckley, one of more than thirty-five persons who have died here in the last two months after drinking poison liquor.

After Mr. McCampbell had left his office at the old Appraisers' Stores building his agents arrested three men in as many raids. Those arrested were Richard Roland, proprietor of an alleged speakeasy at 369 Greenwich Street, where agents said they seized ale, beer and whisky. The agents then went to the top floor of the same five-story building, which also has an entrance at 189-91 Franklin Street, and found what they described as the speakeasy's storage rooms in the office of the Pementine Company and made an additional seizure.

At another office building at 800 Eighth Avenue the same agents arrested Tony Thelma, the janitor, who sold them a bottle of gin, they said, for $2.

The third raid, staged at 103 Pearl Street, Port Chester, N. Y., resulted in the arrest of Nicola Genoese and the seizure of six bottles of alleged liquor.

Before visiting Mr. Ameli's office, Mr. McCampbell went to the office of Deputy Administrator William C. Nolan. He and Mr. Nolan, James J. Donovan, chief assistant prohibition administrator, and J. H. Propper, Mr. McCampbell's chief legal adviser, then talked things over with James E. Wilkinson, J. Bertram Wegman and Herbert H. Kellogg, Assistant United States Attorneys.

While the conference was in progress Federal Judge Mortimer W. Byers ordered the reinstatement of a near-beer permit for the Interborough Beverage Company, 28 George Street, which had been revoked by Major Campbell. Judge Byers said that there was no proof of Major Campbell's statement that a large quantity of real beer had been removed from the brewery in 1929.

Eighteen persons, seized in seven raids by prohibition agents Wednesday night, were arraigned in Brooklyn before Commissioner Epstein, who held all in bail of $2,000 each for hearings on July 26. They were charged with possession and sale of whisky and maintenance of nuisances.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 3.—"Bobby," watch this reception they are going to give you here. In New York it was with bands and speeches. Here it will be with "brassies" and "niblicks." Meeting Jimmy Walker ain't like meeting "the Haig," and Grover Whalen and his Gardenia ain't like Horton Smith and his "putter."

These birds are practicing for you, but they all fear you as much as they admire you. I saw the course today, the holes look awful small to me. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

P. S. Tell the fliers to be sure and stay up till Saturday morning. I will be out and go up with 'em again.

WOMEN'S THREATS CLOSE SPEAKEASY

PATROLMAN AT ENTRANCE

Federal Cases Against Three Are Speeded—Mrs. Wallace Jubilant Over "Victory."

The women officers and members of the Parent-Teachers' Association of Public School 36, St. Albans, Queens, probably will not have to fulfill their threat to begin picketing on Monday a speakeasy opposite the school because the proprietors closed the resort yesterday.

The bar, beer pipes and other fixtures and the beverages were removed in a large truck; the concealing curtains in the windows were raised, and the place was stripped bare, according to Mrs. R. L. P. Wallace, the retiring president of the association, who began the campaign against the speakeasy.

Deputy Inspector Thomas W. Mullarky of Queens assigned a policeman to patrol the entrance to the place yesterday. He was instructed to accompany inside any person who entered and thus prevent him from buying illegal liquor. Apparently, however, the policeman had no occasion to perform this duty and served instead to keep the sidewalk clear of curious passers-by.

Assistant United States Attorney J. Bertram Wegman, in charge of the prohibition division of the Federal Attorney's office, ordered information filed yesterday against the three men arrested in Federal raids on the alleged speakeasy, at 187-06 Central Avenue, St. Albans. The men will be notified to appear before Federal Judge Clarence G. Galston in Brooklyn on Monday for pleading.

Mr. Wegman's action speeds the trial of the defendants, whose hearings were originally set for July 10 and 11. The defendants are George Willmarth, bartender, of 133-30 222d Street, Laurelton; Fred Neumann, part owner, of 87-25 123d Street, Richmond Hill, and Lawrence McSorley, bartender, of 118-44 233d Street, St. Albans.

Mr. Wegman said that if the men were convicted he would institute padlock proceedings. He said that the police raided the place on May 17 and arrested one man, who was dismissed by Commissioner Epstein on the ground that the raid constituted an illegal search and seizure.

Mrs. Wallace, who served two years in jail in Manchester, England, for her activities in the suffrage campaign when she was an aide of Emmeline Pankhurst, and who has been fighting the speakeasy since its opening two months ago, was jubilant yesterday over what she termed "a victory."

WIFE SUES RICHARD T. DYER

Richard T. Dyer, Princeton graduate of 1911 and son of the late Richard Nott Dyer, who was for many years chief counsel for Thomas A. Edison, was sued for a separation in the Supreme Court yesterday by Jane Komray Dyer on the ground of abandonment and non-support. The suit was disclosed when Justice Lydon signed an order directing that the defendant be served by mail at his present residence, Villa Firenza, Montigny sur Loing, France, on the ground that he has been absent from this country for two years and does not intend to return in the near future.

George Gordon Battle, attorney for Mrs. Dyer, said she is now in Paris opposing an action for divorce brought there by her husband, and that until they separated the Dyers lived with his mother at 106 Prospect Street, East Orange, N. J. They were married on July 3, 1919. The complaint alleges that in April, 1928, the defendant "expelled the plaintiff from his residence and has refused to permit her to return," and since January last has refused to provide for her. He is worth $$300,000 and has an income of $10,000, it is alleged.

FIRST POLICE OUTING SET.

3,000 East Side Children and Mothers to Have Trip Tuesday.

The first of the series of Police Department outings for poor children will be held next Tuesday when 3,000 children and mothers from the east side will board an excursion boat at the foot of Market Street, East River, and sail up to Bear Mountain. Two police matrons, a police surgeon and part of the police band will accompany them and supervise the distribution of free refreshments.

In accordance with his announced intention of keeping the outings "strictly a department party" Commissioner Mulrooney refused offers yesterday of financial assistance to the fund from three bankers and two other wealthy friends. The outings will be held twice weekly until Aug. 28.

CITY TAX VALUES UP $1,000,000,000 IN YEAR

MOSTLY IN REAL ESTATE

Manhattan, With an Increase of $682,000,000, Leads Boroughs in the Gains.

BROOKLYN COMES SECOND

Levy on Franchises $564,000,000—Tax Exemptions for Whole City $5,118,884,005.

New York City taxpayers were assessed more than $18,000,000,000 this year for real estate and personal property, according to figures made public yesterday by the Department of Taxes and Assessments. The figures reveal an increase of more than $1,000,000,000 over 1929.

Manhattan, whose increase in taxation amounts to more than $682,000,000, has a greater increase than that of the other four boroughs combined. Tax exemptions for all boroughs this year amount to $5,118,884,005.

Following Manhattan, whose taxpayers this year have been assessed for more than $9,000,000,000, Brooklyn is second. This borough's assessments total more than $4,300,000,000, an increase of more than $179,000,000 over last year. Queens was third both in increases and totals. Queens was assessed more than $2,000,000,000, which is more than $148,000,000 above last year's figure.

The increases in the realty tax amounted to more than $1,000,000,000 compared with a $68,000,000 increase in personal taxes for the five boroughs.

Explanation of Increases.

In explanation of the huge increases in property taxes which have come in spite of the economic depression of the past year, officials of the department said that real estate was the last thing to be affected by economic variations, but that it was also last to recover.

These increases, it was also pointed out, had not followed the shifts in population in the city. Manhattan, for instance, which has had less population increase than Queens, has increased more than all the other boroughs in increased taxation. This was explained by the fact that there has been proportionately greater building activity in Manhattan than in the other boroughs. Many of the buildings in Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx, it was said, came under the tax-exemption legislation of 1920, when the New York State Legislature attempted to overcome the housing shortage by encouraging the building of homes.

Queens, however, has shown a greater and more sustained increase in taxation and realty values since 1900 than any of the other boroughs, officials at the department explained. The increases in this borough since that time have risen more than 2,000 per cent, while Brooklyn's total has gone up more than 600 per cent.

These percentage increases, it was said, indicated a proportionately greater developmental progress of these two boroughs. Thus Brooklyn and Queens, each of which greatly exceeds Manhattan in area, have been gradually pulling up in their economic development because Manhattan's progress is gradually becoming limited by space.

Manhattan Leads in Exemptions.

The tax exemptions include properties owned by churches and the Federal, State and city governments. Manhattan is in the lead with a total of more than $2,000,000,000. Brooklyn is second with tax-exempt property worth more than $1,000,000,000, and Bronx followed the other two with exemptions worth more than $573,000,000.

The tax on franchises owned by the various corporations operating public utilities and the similar enterprises amounted to more than $564,000,000, this year's assessments show. This is an increase of more than $28,000,000 over 1929. The tax on the real estate of corporations, which includes the actual properties of the public utility corporations, such as the trolley cars, runs up to more than $390,000,000 for the five boroughs. This is an increase of $15,233,700.

AMERICAN SCHOOL IN FRANCE HAS FETE

MANY NOTABLE VISITORS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, July 3.—Maurice Ravel, eminent French composer, was honored here today by the American School of Music, which is celebrating the tenth anniversary of its existence at Fontainebleau Palace. M. Ravel himself arranged the program for a festival of his music and directed its execution by students and professional artists who came to the music school for the occasion.

In the audience were Walter Damrosch, heading the American delegation for the anniversary celebration; Francis Rogers, chairman of the American committee for the school; Harry Harkness Flagler and other prominent Americans and a large number of distinguished French musicians and invited guests, as well as 300 students of the school and many former students who came to participate.

M. Ravel, who is one of the most noted French musical leaders and who has lectured to the students in the American school, received a great ovation when the festival opened in the Salle du Jeu de Paume in the palace, where the school has classrooms and quarters. The French master himself accompanied the singing and quartet renditions of his compositions. Beveridge Webster, young American pianist, who has attended two sessions at the Fontainebleau school, was chosen to interpret "Gaspard de la Nuit," three musical poems. His performance was evidently thoroughly pleasing to the composer.

Luncheon Given for Composer.

Madeleine Grey, vocalist, charmed the audience, composed principally of teachers or advanced students of music, by her vivacious singing of a varied selection of songs Mr. Webster was at the piano, with André Aselin as violinist and Tony Close, 'cellist, in the last number, which was a spirited trio.

Prior to the festival M. Ravel was honor guest at a luncheon given in the school refectory. Dr. Damrosch and his three daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Harkness were others attending.

In the evening, at a banquet attended by François Poncet, French Under-Secretary of Fine Arts, Dr. Damrosch recalled the origins of this American school, which he helped to found ten years ago and which has steadily grown and prospered. The school, he said, was an outgrowth of classes formed in France in the World War to give American military musicians training in French music. The American military bandmasters were trained with such success by French instructors that it was decided to establish a permanent school in which civilian American students could hear and study French music under great French teachers and composers.

Honoring Saint-Saëns Today.

The French Government cooperated in this plan and turned over the Louis XV wing of the palace at Fontainebleau for the uses of the school. Many famous French teachers, conductors and composers became interested in its work.

An American committee, under the direction of Francis Rogers, was formed for the selection of students, mainly among teachers, artists and advanced students. The school does not compete with any American institution, since the instructors are all French and its sole purpose is to give instruction in French music.

The historic background of the school as well as its setting in the midst of the Forest of Fontainebleau has attracted more and more students to the course given only in Summer between June and October. The school session this year will begin immediately after the anniversary festival, which will close tomorrow with a program in memory of Camille Saint-Saëns, who was one of the founders of the school and who at the opening made an address and played his own works.

The artists for tomorrow's program will be Isidore Philipp, pianist; Paul Bazelaire, 'cellist; André Pascal, violinist, and Yvonne Gall, soprano.

Ravel's Work Well Known Here.

Maurice Ravel, the distinguished French composer, was born in the Lower Pyrenees in 1875. Among his compositions which have achieved outstanding success both in musical circles and with the general concert-going public are "Daphnis and Chloë," which the New York Symphony Orchestra, under Walter Damrosch, played in Paris at its first European concert some years ago, and "Bolero," which was played in New York under Arturo Toscanini last season and recently in Paris, with the composer in the audience, receiving a sensational reception. The violinist Paul Kochanski played his "Tzigane" here in recital, and the Musical Art Quartet his string quartet last season. In 1929 he toured the United States, appearing as conductor, pianist and composer in the principal musical centres.

Camille Saint-Saëns (1835-1921) visited this country in 1906 and 1915. It was in 1915 that he wrote the elaborate "Hail, California," dedicated to the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

The French Government in 1921 appointed him honorary head of the School of Music for American Students, established in Fontainebleau.

The bracketing of these two famous names is especially interesting, in that each stands out as the most original orchestrator of his age in his country.

German Opera Conductor Has a Son

BERLIN, July 3 (AP).—Mrs. Ruth Goodrich Kleiber, formerly of Los Angeles, gave birth to a son today. She is the wife of the conductor of the Prussian State Opera.

Stamford Players to Open July 14.

The Stamford Playhouse will open a Summer season of eight weeks on July 14 with a production of Rachel Crothers's comedy, "Let Us Be Gay." Edith Wakeman Hartley, who formerly operated the Stamford Theatre, will head a cast which will include Beatrice Hendricks, Gavin Muir, Alden Chase and John Buckler. Bayard Veiller and Deems Taylor are on the playhouse board of directors.

MALL MUSIC TONIGHT TO HONOR NAUMBURG

Pilzer Will Conduct Concert Sponsored by Sons of Donor of Park Band Stand.

The second Naumburg open air concert of the season will be given this evening on the Mall at Central Park, while the Goldman Band takes a one-day rest. The program will be played by a symphony orchestra conducted by Max Pilzer, who is a former concert-master of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and a concert violinist.

The first Naumburg concert was played on May 30 by the Kaltenborn Symphony Orchestra, with Franz Kaltenborn conducting, and marked the opening of the Summer concert season in Central Park. The expenses for four similar concerts given during the Summer are contributed by Walter W. and George W. Naumburg, sons of the late Elkan Naumburg, donor of the band stand on the Mall. The other concerts will be played on July 31 and on Sept. 1.

The tentative program announced yesterday by Mr. Pilzer, a few selections of which he said might be changed, is as follows:

MAY SUE OVER BERT LAHR.

George White, Through Counsel, Refuses Aarons & Freedley Offer.

Arbitration of the dispute between George White and Aarons & Freedley over the services of Bert Lahr, at present principal comedian in "Flying High," was refused yesterday by William Klein, attorney for Mr. White. This was regarded in theatrical circles as indicating that the controversy will probably be taken into a court of law.

In a letter to Joseph P. Bickerton Jr., counsel for Aarons & Freedley, Mr. Klein said there was no provision for arbitration in the agreement between Aarons & Freedley and the comedian, and that he would not recognize Mr. Bickerton's request for such means of settlement. In contracts issued by the Actors' Equity Association, arbitration is stipulated for disputes, but, according to Mr. Klein, the Lahr agreement with Aarons & Freedley was not signed on an Equity form. Mr. White asserts he has an Equity contract with Mr. Lahr for the engagement of "Flying High."

Equity officials said yesterday that they had no jurisdiction in controversies between producers and Equity members in which the contracts did not specifically stipulate arbitration. Yesterday afternoon the organization had not received the Aarons & Freedley application for arbitration. Mr. Bickerton last night declined to comment on the dispute.

RAIN HALTS OPEN AIR OPERA

For Second Week Company at Starlight Park Is Unable to Appear.

For the second time in two weeks an open air performance of an opera at Starlight Park Stadium in the Bronx, was prevented last night. Last week a performance of "Rigoletto," which marked the opening of the season at the park, was halted in the middle of the second act by a sudden downpour. "Il Trovatore" was scheduled to be sung last night as the second opera of the season but a thunderstorm and heavy rain an hour before the time of opening, automatically canceled the performance.

Maria Valle, artistic director of the Free Open Air Grand Opera Company, which is giving the series of operas on Thursday evenings, announced last night that "Il Trovatore" would be given tomorrow evening. "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" will be given next Thursday evening, he said, and a full performance of "Rigoletto" will be presented later in the Summer.

HOPPER CRITICIZES TALKIES

Veteran Actor Calls Them a Novelty That Never Will Supplant Stage.

While talking pictures as a novelty may offer some competition to the legitimate theatre, they will never supplant the stage, in the opinion of De Wolf Hopper, veteran actor, who spoke yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the New York Rotary Club in the Commodore.

Mr. Hopper recalled many incidents of his long career and described his work in a sound picture recently. He found the work in the talkies "appalling," he said, and in the blinding lights and the intense heat he "lost all fear of death."

"I don't think for a moment that the talkies will ever rival the stage, except for a fleeting moment," he declared. "The talkies will never supplant the theatre until you prefer canned goods to fresh. They are a great art, which has its function, but the stage, after all, is the place."

HOLIDAY HAMPERS TICKET PLAN TEST

But Second Day of Tryout Finds League Head Optimistic on Move to Curb Speculators.

BROKERS DEFER VERDICT

Some Hold System of Allotment Must Be Revised When Busy Season Arrives.

The second day's tryout of the theatre ticket distribution plan by Earl Carroll's "Vanities" found Harlow D. Savage, executive secretary of the League of New York Theatres, still optimistic as to the success of the project, when it becomes officially effective on July 21.

"Everything seemed satisfactory today," Mr. Savage said at his home last night. "I heard reports of speculation and tried to trace them down. Of course, we can't stop the 'diggers' from trying to get seats to sell at fancy prices. The present trial is a voluntary one on the part of Mr. Carroll, and what machinery we have to eliminate speculation will not operate until the plan goes into effect everywhere on the 21st. But I really think it's going to work out fine, and I think that some of the skeptics are beginning to feel that way, too."

Although some of the brokers asserted again yesterday that their ticket allotment was too small, Norman Carroll, manager of the "Vanities," said that, as a result of the rain and the exodus of theatre-goers from the city for the Fourth of July holidays, 123 of the 400 seats assigned to the agencies had been returned, some of which were disposed of at the box office.

Brokers said last night that the combination of holidays and the weather made it difficult to tell just how satisfactory the league's ticket allotments were proving.

Bascom, Inc., which gets the second largest allotment of tickets, reported that the forty-eight seats it received were sufficient for its demands, and that the plan seemed to be satisfactory. Tyson Company, Inc., which gets sixteen tickets a performance, said that so far the plan had worked out very smoothly, but that the holidays made it difficult to tell what the normal state of affairs would be.

On the other hand, the Louis Cohn Theatre Ticket Service, which is assigned 3.6 per cent of the seats given to the agencies, complained that it could not get enough tickets to supply the demand, and that its allotment contained too few front row locations. The Arrow Ticket Service said it had sold its quota late yesterday afternoon and was looking for more tickets. Other agencies with small allotments told about the same tale. The manager of one of them asserted that the league would have to make some adjustment in its percentage schedules by July 21 or devise another plan of handling the tickets.

The box office men of the New Amsterdam Theatre also reported that so far the plan seemed to be working out all right, although one treasurer there said that because of the holiday it was a poor time to put it into operation.

TO PLAY IN 'MR. GILHOOLEY'

Maire O'Neill and Arthur Sinclair to Have Leading Roles.

Maire O'Neill, Irish actress, has been engaged by Jed Harris to appear in "Mr. Gilhooley," Frank Elser's adaptation of the Liam O'Flaherty novel, in which her husband, Arthur Sinclair, will also be seen. Both Miss O'Neill and Mr. Sinclair last acted on Broadway in 1927 with the Irish Players in productions of "Juno and the Paycock" and "The Plough and the Stars," under the management of George C. Tyler. The cast of "Mr. Gilhooley," which will begin a fortnight's tour on Sept. 15 in New Haven and Atlantic City, will include Helen Hayes, Dorothy Walters, Barry McCollum, John Butler, P. J. Kelly and Ralph Cullinan. The play is scheduled to open Sept. 30 on Broadway.

CHICAGO NO LONGER 'BROKE'

Strawn Says City Is Back on Feet—Relief Committee Quits.

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—The Chicago Governments, after several months of financial stress, today were back on their feet. Silas Strawn today announced dissolution of the relief committee organized last Spring when city employes, school teachers and others went without pay because of lack of funds.

"The governments should now be able to get along by themselves," Mr. Strawn said.

A resolution was adopted by the Council yesterday extending the gratitude of the Council to Strawn "for his untiring and unselfish efforts" in the city's behalf.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Donald Ogden Stewart, author of "Rebound," has been engaged to write the book of the new Joe Cook show which Morris Green and Lewis E. Gensler will produce in association with the Erlanger office.

Armida, Mexican actress, now appearing at the Palace in Gus Edwards's act, and Paula Trueman, remembered from "The Grand Street Follies," will be in the cast of "Corned Beef and Roses," in which Fannie Brice will appear. Rehearsals are due to begin early in August.

"Jungle Love" will end a three weeks' preliminary tour in Asbury Park tomorrow night. At the producer's office it was reported yesterday that the play would be considerably revised before another production in about eight weeks.

The Friars Club will give a "Road Show" in Asbury Park tomorrow night and repeat the performance in Atlantic City on Sunday. George M. Cohan, Walter C. Kelly, Lester Allen, Arthur "Bugs" Baer, Georgie Price, Lew Hearn, Dave Stamper, James Barton and the Mandel Brothers are among those announced to take part.

"No Retreat," a play by Moss Hart, co-author with George S. Kaufman of "Once in a Lifetime," will be placed in rehearsal today at Southampton, L. I., where it will be presented by the Hampton Players on July 16.

The "Bare Facts" revue of the Triangle Theatre, Greenwich Village, will begin a tour of Long Island towns on Monday.

Michal Michalesko, Jewish actor, has taken over the Prospect Theatre in the Bronx. He intends to open it in September with a season of dramatic and musical productions.

WERBA IN BANKRUPTCY; THEATRE CHAIN CLOSED

Failure of Operator in Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island Attributed to Depression.

Louis F. Werba, manager of a group of theatres in Brooklyn, Queens and on Long Island which, for the past two years, have presented legitimate shows before or after their Broadway runs, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court late yesterday. His failure was attributed to the effect of the economic depression upon the theatrical business.

The petition set forth that Mr. Werba was unable to meet his obligations. It was said last night that schedules, which were not filed with the petition, are being prepared and should be ready the first of next week. It was said also for Mr. Werba that he is willing to turn all his property over to creditors.

He held leases until a month ago on Werba's Brooklyn Theatre, on Flatbush Avenue; Werba's Flatbush Theatre, Church and Flatbush Avenues, and Werba's Jamaica Theatre, Jamaica Avenue and 175th Street. He no longer holds a lease on any theatre, it was said, but he has an interest, as booking agent, in the Boulevard Theatre, Northern Boulevard and Eighty-third Street, Jackson Heights; Castle Theatre, at Long Beach; Brighton Theatre, at Brighton Beach, and the Fox Playhouse, at Great Neck, L. I. All of these theatres except the Brighton Theatre are now closed, but the houses at Long Beach and Great Neck are scheduled to open soon.

Mr. Werba was represented by Rubien & Bregoff, 1,440 Broadway, as counsel. Offices are maintained by Mr. Werba in the New Amsterdam Theatre Building, 214 West Forty-second Street.

H. E. TALBOTTS HOSTS AT COSTUME PARTY

Rain Alters Plans for Circus in Garden but Carnival Is Staged Indoors.

Special to The New York Times.

OLD WESTBURY, L. I., July 3.—Rain, with a thunder and lightning accompaniment, slightly altered the plans tonight of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Talbott and Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Alexandre, who were playing host at the home of the former in this village to 450 guests at a costume ball.

The gardens had been transformed into a circus ground, but several quick changes to garage, stables and verandas made the party possible in spite of the storm. Tents held the side shows and wild animal exhibits, many of the latter being discovered to be guests stuffed into skins.

The rôles of barkers for shell games and cane ringers, clowns, painted circus women on ponies and performing animals were taken by guests, members of the Summer colonies of the North and South Shores.

Music for dancing and typical circus fare added to the hilarity, even though the original plan was abandoned.

JULY 4 PROGRAMS ON RADIO FOR NATION

CAPITAL FETE OVER WEAF

WNYC to Carry Independence Day Concert in Central Park Mall—N. B. C. Cuts Patriotic Music.

Several Independence Day celebrations and programs are listed for broadcast on the radio today. Among the speakers to be heard are Vice President Charles Curtis of the United States, Senators Royal S. Copeland, Robert F. Wagner and Simeon D. Fess. Several musical presentations, with only a "Fourth of July flavor," will be on the air from local stations.

Because of a new policy of the National Broadcasting Company, George Engles, vice president and general manager of the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau, which furnishes the artists for N. B. C. presentations, announced that programs will merely be "flavored" with patriotic music, and most of them just the same as on any other day. A recent survey, he said, had indicated that "too much music or continuity based on any one holiday soon becomes monotonous."

Listed among the programs to be heard today is the Annual Independence Day celebration of the Society of the Tammany, which will be broadcast at 10 o'clock this morning over WNYC and the WABC coast-to-coast network from the Great Wigwam, Union Square. Senators Copeland and Wagner are to speak.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Vice President Curtis will be heard over WABC's coast-to-coast chain as he speaks on "The Inspiration of the Republic" at Ocean City, N. J.

At 12 o'clock noon over WABC's network will be heard a patriotic concert played by the Marine Band at Washington, picked up from the Washington Auditorium. During the presentation James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, will be switched into the radio chain from Mooseheart, Ill., to give his "Fourth of July Message."

At 9:30 P. M. a Fourth of July celebration at Washington will be heard over WEAF's coast-to-coast chain, during which Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio will speak on "The George Washington Bicentennial Celebration of 1932." The Marine Band will play. The ceremony will be picked up from the Sylvan Theatre.

The Independence Day concert at The Mall band stand, Central Park, by the Naumberg Symphony Orchestra, will be broadcast at 8:30 o'clock tonight over WNYC. Maximilian Pilzer will conduct.

At 1 P. M. today over WABC a sketch entitled "The Spirit of Independence" will be broadcast from the WABC studio, and at 10 o'clock tonight a "Pageant of Freedom" is scheduled by the same station. At 9 o'clock tonight WGBS will broadcast a talk by S. Gregory Taylor on "America's Contribution to Greek Independence." At 10:30 P. M. over WOR a talk on "The Importance of American Citizenship" will be presented by Harold Fields.

WOMAN WRITER IS HELD.

Miss Katherine Littleton Accused of Getting $75 Here by Fraud.

Miss Katherine Littleton, 36 years old, who said she was a writer and lived at the Hotel Martha Washington, was arraigned in West Side Court yesterday for petty larceny and as a fugitive from justice. She was released in bail of $2,000 by Magistrate Flood for a hearing on July 17.

The larceny charge was brought by Rudolph E. Berg, manager of the Hotel Royalton, 44 West Forty-fourth Street, who alleged that on May 18 she had borrowed $75 from him after telling him she was to inherit $35,000, and had not returned the money.

The other charge is based on an indictment in Alleghany County, Pa., which alleges that Miss Littleton, posing as the owner of a Pittsburgh house, received four radio sets worth $1,664 from M. J. Sartory, Pittsburgh radio dealer, last February.

BORGLUM TO UNVEIL HIS HUGE WASHINGTON

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 3 (AP).—The colossal figure of George Washington, carved in granite on the face of Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills, will be unveiled tomorrow as the first step in the completion of Gutzon Borglum's sculpturing of a huge national monument.

At noon on Independence Day a large American flag will be withdrawn, revealing Borglum's gigantic head of Washington, sixty feet from on the scale of a man 450 feet tall.

Mr. Borglum, Governor W. J. Bulow, Doane Robinson, former State Historian, who first proposed the Rushmore Memorial, and President C. C. O'Harra of South Dakota School of Mines, are scheduled to speak at the unveiling on the mountainside, in the heart of the Black Hills.

Washington's head is the first of four figures which Borglum plans to carve on the granite escarpment of Mount Rushmore. Already some drilling has been done on the face of Jefferson, while figures of Lincoln and Roosevelt are to complete the work.

Calvin Coolidge has started to write a brief history of the United States to be carved on the mountainside near the monument. Dr. O'Harra, geologist, estimates that the monument will withstand ravages of time and erosion for 500,000 years.

See Attempt to Disprove Monopoly Charge—Public Expected to Benefit From Step.

The Radio Corporation of America announced yesterday through O. S. Schairer, vice president in charge of patents, that it is about to issue supplementary licenses to all of its present receiver licensees covering the superheterodyne circuit, the patents of which it controls.

A meeting is scheduled to be held on July 9, at 10 A. M., at 75 Varick Street, which engineers of the various licensees are invited to attend.

"This comes as a thunderbolt to the radio industry," said a representative of one of the licensees yesterday. "Most of the manufacturers have their production schedules completed for this season. They plan to have their new sets on the market about Aug. 1. The new license comes too late for this season. The move seems to indicate that the Radio Corporation is taking further steps to show that it is not a monopoly as far as patents are concerned. Heretofore, the RCA licensees have not had access to the popular superheterodyne circuit."

An official of the Radio Corporation said that the superheterodyne receiver had always been considered the most efficient radio circuit because of its sharpness of tuning and marked sensitivity, which aid long-distance reception. For this reason it has been held as an exclusive RCA product. The superheterodyne was heralded in 1922 as the first revolutionary change in radio design and vacuum tube application since broadcasting was introduced to the public. Thousands of the sets were sold in the first year. They require only an indoor loop on top of the cabinet, doing away with the outdoor antenna.

It was learned yesterday that the RCA had perfected a superheterodyne circuit employing screen-grid tubes. The sets will be built in the RCA-Victor plant at Camden, N. J., where a larger manufacturing force is now being assembled.

END CASINO BROADCASTS.

WEAF and WJZ Say Crowds at Park Cafe Marred Programs.

Broadcasting of the music from the Central Park Casino has been discontinued over the WEAF and WJZ networks because it has been found difficult to establish satisfactory microphone pick-ups when the Casino is crowded with patrons, according to the National Broadcasting Company. An NBC representative also said the Casino orchestra was frequently late for its period on the air. The microphone wires were removed last Friday.

Broadcasting from the Casino originally began because Reisman's orchestra, playing there, is managed by the NBC Artists' Bureau.

New Browns Lead Hosiery Colors.

Twelve shades will be featured on the Fall hosiery color card to be issued shortly by the Textile Color Card Association, it was announced yesterday. Browns and beige hues are outstanding on the new card. Of particular importance is the rose brown called Acajou, which blends with the mahogany brown hues, such as Salvador brown, which are expected to prove a high-fashion note for Fall. Promenade, a medium neutral beige, is held likely to prove one of the most popular of the new tones, owing to its harmonizing quality. For evening hose the card features caresse, a blush tint.

June Silk Use Off Sharply.

Approximately deliveries of raw silk to the mills during June totaled 29,396 bales, the smallest since February, 1924, when the deliveries comprised 29,604 bales, according to figures issued yesterday by the Silk Association. Imports fell below those of May by a small amount, the total arrivals comprising 22,369 bales. The average monthly imports for the six-month period were 34,647 bales, approximately 16,000 bales below the average for the same period in 1929. Storage stocks were the smallest since August, 1926, the total being 28,450 bales, with 16,300 in transit on July 1.

Customs Protests Show Gain.

Both the number of protests received and those decided by the United States Customs Court during the fiscal year which closed June 30 showed a substantial increase over the fiscal year 1928-29, according to the annual report issued yesterday. Protests against rulings by customs officials filed with the court last year totaled 69,686, as compared with 64,821 in the year preceding. The number of decisions handed down in such cases was 61,750, as against 46,733 in 1928-29. According to court officials, the year was one of the busiest in the history of the court.

Men's Slip-On Gloves in Demand.

The advance buying of men's gloves for Fall, which has just been completed, indicates that the slip-on style of short glove with side vent will be an outstanding item for Autumn wear, it was reported yesterday. For ordinary business wear London tan is expected to be the most popular shade. Formal afternoon dress will call for the slate mocha glove, while pigskins will be prominent in motoring and sporting activities. Marked attention is now being given to goatskins. The advance business already booked is about equal to last year's at this time, but a greater increase is anticipated for stock orders later in the season. Very little revision in prices has been made.

Plain Shirtings Sought for Spring.

Orders for shirting fabrics now being placed for Spring business indicate that the plain-colored cloths are being demanded by retailers, plain materials will enjoy the greatest favor, it was stated yesterday. Only plain-colored cloths are being purchased in [illegible] to make the shirts now retailing from $1 to $1.50 worth purchasing. Prices on shirting fabrics have declined about 25 per cent since last year, and producers are operating on a short margin of profit, it was said. The drastic curtailment of production taking place is expected to benefit the trade materially.

Boy's Aviator Suit Designed.

A boy's aviator suit has been designed by the style service of the Boys' Wear Institute and will be manufactured by a large sporting goods house to retail at between $4 and $5, it was announced by the institute yesterday. The suit is made of white gabardine and khaki, with elastic webbing on the ankles, cuffs and belt, and is intended for boys between the ages of 13 and 18. Plans are being formulated to tie up the merchandising of the suit with the various boys' glider and aviation clubs throughout the country, it was said.

Christmas Orders Delayed.

The dilatory tactics being followed by retail stores in placing orders on Christmas items, such as toys, greeting cards, &c., are storing up trouble for both stores and producers, selling agents complained yesterday. Many of the buyers have put off their purchases until September. Manufacturers, uncertain of the possibilities of business in the Fall, are refusing to make up merchandise in advance. A comparatively small volume of orders in the Fall, so selling agents, will be sufficient to clog the distribution machinery and make deliveries uncertain.

Anthracite Orders Fall Sharply.

Sharp decline in the amount of tonnage purchased in the anthracite market was noted this week, Saward's Journal will say today. The flurry of buying which developed around the middle of last month has died out and the market is again at a standstill as far as new commercial business is concerned. Unless some unexpected element appears to change the situation dealers expect business for the balance of this month. An upturn in buying is looked for in the bituminous market shortly after the holiday. Consumers are said to have orders after the Fourth.

Glass Demand Reported Erratic.

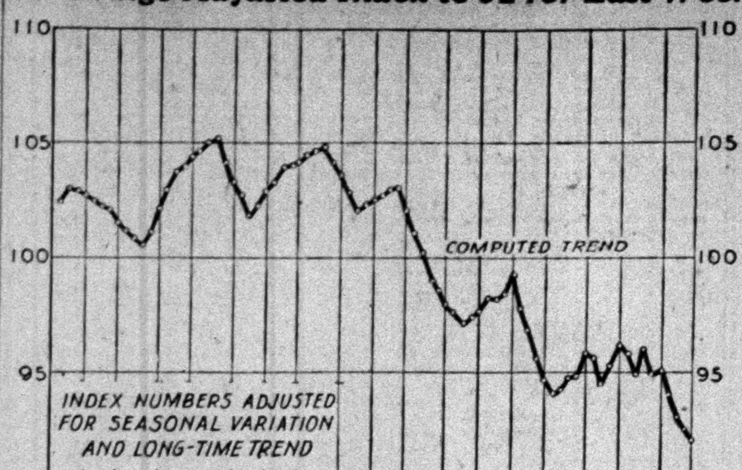
Glass the demand for flat glass is erratic, the current volume is not up to that of the corresponding period of 1929, The American Glass Review will say today. Production continues at a good rate and probably exceeds present demand in all branches. It is believed there is a lack of confidence in the outlook, a better for a sustained demand for flat glass for building purposes during September, October and November. Prices of window glass continue firm. Some glass production is down in this branch, as in window glass, and buying is dependent on consumer production.

Gray Goods More Active.

Increased demand for gray goods appeared yesterday and a fair volume of sales was reported in the market. The activity strengthened prices, but no advance was recorded. A large number of inquiries were received by mills, but in several instances the volume of goods was [illegible]. In standard printcloths, or 38½-inch 60-48s were quoted at 4¾ cents and on 38½-inch 64-60s at 5¼ cents. The 39-inch 68-72s were filled at 6¼ cents. In 39-inch 80 squares at 8 cents for delivery and 7½ cents for July shipment and 7¼ for later delivery. Sheetings were in good demand.

Other business news is printed on Pages 26 and 27.

Electric Power Production in Further Drop Brings Adjusted Index to 92 for Last Week



Electric power production for the week ended June 28 showed a still further decline from the corresponding week last year, having amounted to 1,790,000,000 kilowatt hours, as against 1,795,000,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week and 1,825,000,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended June 29, 1929.

The decrease from the preceding week was contrary to the usual seasonal tendency, and the adjusted index of electric power production, paralleling the declines already reported in automobile production and steel output, has fallen to 92.0, which compares with 92.5 (revised) for the week ended June 21 and 102.9 for the week ended June 29, 1929.

A revision in the electric output figures for the week ended June 21 has necessitated a revision in the adjusted index of electric power production for that week and also in the combined index of business activity which, on the revised basis, now stands at 90.1.

A Stable Industry
Despite the peaks and valleys which continually recur in the business cycle, there has never been a year since the inception of the industry, about forty-seven years ago, when the annual gross receipts of the electric light and power companies of this country have shown a decrease.
We recommend the bonds and preferred stocks of well-established electric light and power companies for conservative investment from the standpoint of stability of earnings, liberal yield and the degree of security afforded.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Traders for the decline yesterday took advantage of the traditional pre-holiday weakness of the stock market to administer a vigorous pounding to certain sections of the list. The result was a general sagging movement throughout the day, punctuated by sharp reactions in a few vulnerable issues. News of the day was hardly of a nature to stiffen opposition to the decline in prices. The grain market was weak as a reflection of the Agricultural Department's unpalatable analysis of the wheat situation.

Trading was again at a reduced pace, although slightly more active than on Wednesday. Apart from those shares which appeared to be the objects of concentrated selling, the market suffered more from the apathy of buyers than from force of liquidation.

The brokers' loan report of the Federal Reserve Bank, issued after the close, confirmed the previous day's report of the New York Stock Exchange in showing a reduction to levels not witnessed for nearly three years. This week's decline of $197,000,000 in the total of loans made by local member banks to brokers and dealers brought the sum of such borrowings to $3,219,000,000, the lowest figure since Sept. 7, 1927, when loans amounted to $3,206,000,000.

The liquidation of brokers' loans as indicated by both the Stock Exchange and the Federal Reserve figures has now extended to greater lengths than at any time since the market first broke, last October. The Federal Reserve totals show a drop of $3,585,000,000 from the record high of $6,804,000,000, reached last Oct. 2, a reduction of 52.68 per cent.

The statement of the twelve banks of the Federal Reserve System combined showed an expansion of $105,114,000 in outstanding Federal Reserve credit for the week, a circumstance which helped to explain the ease with which the money market has passed the strain of the mid-year settlements. The major part of the increase occurred, as is usual, in the New York district, where the recent reduction in the bill-buying rate resulted in an expansion of $45,636,000 in holdings of bills. The holiday currency demand was reflected in a drop of $65,765,000 in the gold holdings of the system and an advance of $29,383,000 in Reserve note circulation.

The report on the world outlook for wheat published by the Department of Agriculture made no bones about the surplus condition existing in that market. "While improvement is expected over the low level of prices in the past month," the report stated, "the present prospect is that world wheat prices during the next [illegible] years will average appreciably lower than in the past seven years." Yesterday's grain market apparently disregarded the forecast of an improvement over present prices and took its cue from the other and less cheering portions of the report. Losses on the day ranged from 1¼ to 1⅝ cents in wheat, with proportionately smaller drops in corn, oats and rye. July wheat finished at 90⅝ cents, a decline of 1⅞ cents.

The cotton market was lower on good weather reports and easier cables from Liverpool. The market [illegible] to feel the influence of the softer [illegible] in wheat [illegible]. The [illegible] market was 1 to 14 points lower at the finish, but local spot cotton was unchanged at 13.60 cents.

The money market felt the familiar effects of the pre-holiday easing reflected in the ability of banks to lend funds on call with the assurance of not having to make good until the Clearing House reopens tomorrow. The official call rate dropped to 2 per cent after a renewal of 2½ per cent and outside funds went at 1½ per cent.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED FOR PATERSON PAPER

To Take Over Press-Guardian, City's Oldest Daily—Future Plans Undecided.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., July 3.—The Paterson Press-Guardian, the oldest of the three daily newspapers here, [illegible] placed in the hands of receivers today on the application of counsel for the New York Staats-Zeitung, the largest creditor. The question of future publication will be decided after a conference of the directors to be held over the week-end. No edition will be issued Saturday.

The Press-Guardian is a combination of the Paterson Guardian, founded in 1837 and The Paterson Press, founded in 1863. It was purchased in July, 1929 by the Ridder Brothers, owners of The Staats-Zeitung, The Journal of Commerce, The St. Paul Dispatch and The Long Island Daily Press, Jamaica, N. Y. The Ridders transferred their interest in The Press-Guardian to their employes several weeks ago. The present owners of record are Charles [illegible] Whidden, president and treasurer; [illegible] Krahmer, vice president and managing editor, and Chester M. [illegible], secretary.

The only other evening paper here is the Paterson Evening News. [illegible] by the Ridder Brothers, in connection with an article published after the Ridders purchased the Press-Guardian. The suit is pending.

The receivers, who were appointed by Vice Chancellor Lewis, are Henry Parmelee, Paterson banker, and [illegible] H. Van Cleve.

The New York Stock Exchange membership, exclusive of rights, of William Burrows Jr. has been transferred to Theodore H. Price Jr. of [illegible] Burrows & Christie, it was announced yesterday.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Business will be suspended in all financial centres of the United States today in observance of Independence Day. The shutdown, so far as the security and commodity markets are concerned, will extend to Monday. The banks will reopen tomorrow as usual, but business otherwise will be curtailed sharply. The greater part of the financial community will be away until Monday.

Stocks Decline Moderately.

On the eve of the three-day shutdown on the security and commodity exchanges, stocks were subjected yesterday to moderate pressure and prices were reduced anywhere from a fraction to 9 points. Transactions on the Stock Exchange totaled 1,384,250 shares, slightly more than on the day before. Trading was of the colorless variety that usually precedes a holiday. There was the customary evening up of commitments, and speculators apparently were reluctant to take on new contracts. Sentiment was influenced to some extent by the decrease of more than $1,000,000,000 in brokers' loans in June, but the market was unable to hold its firm undertone longer than two or three hours. Prices declined slowly but steadily throughout the afternoon, and at the close there were sizable losses in Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, American Can, J. I. Case, Gillette Safety Razor, Eastman Kodak, Worthington Pump and Westinghouse Electric.

Another Low Loans Record.

The drop of $197,000,000 in brokers' loans this week brings the total to $3,219,000,000, the smallest figure since Sept. 7, 1927, when such loans amounted to $3,206,299,000. The present total of brokers' loans is $109,000,000 less than the lowest point previously touched in the reaction from last Fall's market break, which was $3,328,000,000, recorded on Dec. 24, last. A decline of $3,585,000,000 in brokers' loans has taken place since the record high of $6,804,000,000 was reached last Oct. 2. Since June 4, the loans have fallen $882,000,000 in four successive drops.

"Red Chip" Popularity.

Among investment trust executives there is reported to be a growing enthusiasm for that class of security which, while it does not rate inclusion in the so-called "blue chip" class of stocks, represents a seasoned, promising company and is at a price where the yield is good. This class of stock, which has been designated by some of these executives as the "red chip" group, is reported to have been bought more for long-term investment than for a quick appreciation.

Federal Reserve Statements.

The recent reduction of the bill-buying rate of the Federal Reserve Bank has resulted in bringing substantial offerings from banks and dealers, this week's report of the local bank of issue shows. Holdings of bills bought in the open market jumped from the insignificant total of $10,157,000 last week to $55,793,000, a gain of $45,636,000. The firmer tone in money brought about a rise of $10,468,000 in discounts, while holdings of "governments" went up $20,124,000, largely, it is presumed, as a result of sales contracts. The effects of the increased currency demand in preparation for today's holiday-making were reflected in a drop of $75,083,000 in total gold reserves and an advance of $389,000 in outstanding Federal Reserve notes. For the system as a whole discounts were up $28,908,000; bill holdings, $55,172,000; government securities, $18,983,000, and total bills and securities, the measure of Federal Reserve credit, rose $105,114,000. Gold reserves fell $65,765,000 and Reserve note circulation rose $29,383,000.

Pre-Holiday Market.

There was pre-holiday short selling yesterday instead of pre-holiday profit-taking; pre-holiday irregularity instead of pre-holiday firmness, and pre-holiday dullness instead of pre-holiday activity. Aside from these considerations, however, the market was a typical pre-holiday market.

Lending "Stage Money."

The ease in call money yesterday was accounted for by the fact that the banks were able to lend for a full day without having their accounts at the clearing house debited for the amounts of the loans. The reason is that there will be no clearings today. As one banker remarked: "That wasn't real money in the market; it was just stage money." The phenomenon of a sharp relaxation in money rates in advance of a bank holiday is familiar. Whatever a bank gets for its funds the day before a holiday is so much "velvet" since the money does not have to be put up until the next business day.

An Event of Dog Days.

Just as the stock market was closing yesterday, ticker watchers saw a long string of rising quotations in a low-priced issue appear on the tape. The stock showed an advance of more than 20 per cent on the run-up, and students of the tape exhibited surprise at the occurrence, since the general market was rallying only feebly at the moment. A weary ticker watcher noticed the string and, turning to a bystander, said: "Some of the dogs seem to have caught hydrophobia."

Trust Assets Lower.

With publication of investment trust reports for the period ended on June 30, Wall Street is seeing approximately what it had expected—sharply decreased assets, resulting from the decline in securities prices recently. At the end of the March quarter most of the trusts showed increased assets over the end of the year, and it was believed that a recovery, in this respect at least, was under way. Now they are back in practically the same position as at the end of the year.

MONEY.

Thursday, July 3, 1930.

Money market experienced one of those quiet trading sessions usual on the eve of an extended week-end, with conditions [illegible] about the same as those of sessions of the past week. On the Stock Exchange standing loans were at 2½ per cent, followed by a cut to 2, for new funds, at midday, while Street money loaned at 1½. Except for a small amount of 90-day money at 2½, there was little interest evinced in other maturities. Commercial paper and acceptances were dull and steady.

CALL VACUUM RIVAL OF SOCONY GASOLINE

SIX DISTRIBUTERS HEARD

Competitive conditions in the marketing of petroleum products were again described as keen by witnesses testifying yesterday at the hearing before Fred L. Williams, special master, in the suit brought by the government to prevent the merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company. Six witnesses, who were independent distributers and marketers of gasoline and other oil products in New York and New England, were called by the government and completed their testimony.

John Harlan Amen, special assistant to the Attorney General, questioned the witnesses as to the competition in their respective areas between the Standard of New York and Vacuum. Their testimony was generally that some competition did exist, especially in the sale of lubricating oils, but only to a minor extent in the distribution of gasoline, and that in the western part of New York State. The government contends that competition will be seriously diminished if the proposed merger is consummated.

William J. Burns, vice-president of the Doyle Gasoline and Oil Company, distributers of Texaco products in the Rochester area, testified that if a substantial marketer reduced prices it would force all others to make similar reductions as an economic necessity. He added, however, that instances are rare in which the Standard Oil Company of New York does not make the initial price change.

The witnesses have been examined by counsel for both sides in a manner to bring out the highly competitive conditions in the marketing of gasoline and motor oils. These witnesses all of whom have been called by the government, under examination by counsel of the defendant companies, have, without exception, agreed that there is an intense struggle for business in the marketing end of the industry. The object of the government, it was said, has been to draw proof that Standard of New York and Vacuum are engaged in this struggle not only against other companies, but against each other.

Other witnesses examined were: Van E. Tyler, sales manager of the Goodyear Wende Oil Corporation at Buffalo; Charles E. Buchman, secretary of the Refiners' Distributing Corporation, also of Buffalo; Aubrey W. Maxim, owner of several service stations at Cumberland, Me.; Frank G. Rohr, chairman of the Marine Union Oil Company at Rochester; Harry C. Erickson, a distributer for Beacon Oil at Jamestown, N. Y.

The hearing adjourned until Monday morning. It is understood that several independent distributers and some executives of the large marketing companies in New York and New England have been subpoenaed by the government to testify next week.

FUEL OIL TO YIELD GASOLINE

New Processes of Refining Expected to Utilize Low Grades.

One outstanding development in the petroleum industry in recent years is the shifting in the position of fuel oil from an unavoidable by-product of refining to that of a potential source of gasoline, according to the National Industrial Conference Board, which has just made an analysis of world energy production for the years 1914-29.

The report points out that under refining methods in use in 1914 only 20 per cent of gasoline was obtained from a barrel of crude oil, while in 1929, as a result of improvements, the gasoline content realized from a barrel of crude oil was nearly double that of 1914. Although betterments in the older refining methods have contributed somewhat to the larger gasoline recovery, the report states, the greater part of the increase has resulted from changed refinery methods, including the wide use of the cracking process.

If all the heavier oils produced were subjected to the cracking process, the Conference Board believes the total gasoline recovered might rise to above 60 per cent. A new process of gasoline extraction known as "hydrogenation," which is being tested commercially, may further increase the proportion of gasoline obtainable from crude oil, it is said. Those responsible for the development of this method contend that by its use the larger part of the crude oil could be turned into motor fuel, the report says.

AGREE TO OIL RESTRICTION.

Producers in Hobbs Field, New Mexico, Reconsider, It Is Said.

Oil operators in the Hobbs field, New Mexico, who recently objected to limitation of the output of the field to the capacity of the pipe-line outlet have reconsidered their action and the way is now open for an early agreement on restriction, according to reports yesterday from Houston. The tentative market outlet of the field is placed at 35,000 barrels daily. The oil is to be piped to the West Texas area and thence to the Gulf Coast.

Producers in the Yates field, Pecos County, West Texas, have agreed to restrict the field's output to 100,000 barrels daily from 110,000 barrels, effective as of July 1. They also have agreed on a further extension of six months in the proration agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 3.—The United States Gypsum Company of Chicago announced today the purchase of the No. 2 plant of the American Welding Company at Warren, Ohio. It will move its metal lath division there and also transfer equipment from its property recently purchased from the Northeastern Sand and Metal Company at Jeannette, Pa.

Pittsburgh Bank Deposits Gain 10 Per Cent in 3 Months

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 3.—Pittsburgh people have $71,008,979 more on deposit in the twelve leading banks of the city than they had three months ago. A 10.3 per cent increase was told by the bank reports of condition on June 30.

The twelve banks had total deposits of $765,338,392, as compared with $694,329,413 reported by the same banks at the last calls, on March 27.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company today petitioned the District of Columbia Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to require the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate, ascertain and report the true value of its property and specifically to include its terminals in New York City and Boston.

Through Choate, Hall & Stewart of Boston, and Harleigh H. Hartman of Washington, the company charges that the valuation of its properties made by the commission as of Jan. 14, 1930, was fixed at only $256,400,000. This, the company sets out, did not include $4,650,000 for working capital, or any valuation of the terminals and approaches.

It is further asserted by the company that since the Grand Central Terminal is located in the heart of New York City, and South Station, Boston, also is centrally located, both are very valuable. Allegation is made that if the proper allowance is made for the real value of those two buildings, for the franchises of the carrier in the tracks and its other interests, that a much larger valuation would be given the property of the company.

The company admits that it uses the Grand Central and the South Station terminals jointly with the New York Central Railroad, but asserts that it is entitled to ascertainment of the valuation for the protection of its rights.

The company declares that there is no appeal from the decision of the commission, and asserts that because of the continued refusal of the commission to revalue the property, irreparable danger will result to the company.

DROPS SIX-TRACK PLAN.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 3.—City Engineer Thomas E. Collins was notified today by the Pennsylvania Railroad that the company would not widen its right-of-way through Elizabeth in connection with its electrification program. The cause of the abandonment of the plan to run six tracks through the city was an award of $290,828.75, made last week in condemnation proceedings for the purchase of eight parcels of land in Trinity Place and Pennsylvania Avenue, needed for the project, according to J. M. Nicholson, assistant engineer for the New York zone of the railroad.

Speaking for the railroad, Charles M. Myer, real estate agent, said the plans for the electrification of the system from New York to Philadelphia would be carried on without change.

"We are simply going to retain our four-track system through Elizabeth as it is at present, north of the Broad Street station," Mr. Myer said. "The reason for this is the exorbitant award made by condemnation commissioners last Thursday for eight pieces of land owned by Nathan Finke. The railroad's appraisers gave us a figure of $56,000 for thirty-foot strips of each of the eight properties. The railroad was willing to pay a fair price, but we are not willing to be held up."

STUDIES DROPPING TRAINS.

New Haven May Substitute Buses for Non-Profitable Locals.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 3 (AP).—As a part of its general policy to effect economies wherever possible, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has under consideration a plan to withdraw local trains that do not show a profit and substitute buses, it was said at the general offices here today.

No through trains between New York and Boston will be taken off or affected by the change, a spokesman said, and it was learned that comparatively few local trains would be dropped. One of the changes planned, it is understood, is the substitution of buses on the New Britain-Berlin line for electric cars now in operation after 6 P. M.

Reports that a 10 per cent curtailment of service, both local and through, was imminent were denied.

ENGINE SHIPMENT DOUBLES

PHILADELPHIA, July 3 (AP).—The total shipments of the Baldwin Locomotive Works for the first six months of 1930, it was made known here today, were more than double those for the first half of 1929. The figure this year amounts to $17,470,000, against $8,589,000 in the corresponding period of 1929.

New business booked in June fell off, although it was still slightly larger than new business in June, 1929. Unfilled orders on July 1, 1930, amounted to $14,830,000, compared with $14,130,000 a year ago.

PHONE SERVICE SOON ACROSS THE PACIFIC

FIRST LINE TO OAHU, HAWAII

Simultaneous Connection With at Least One Other Point to Be Made —Far Eastern System in View.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has applied for a permit to erect a short-wave radio-telephone station in California as a step in its plan to extend transoceanic radio telephone service into the Pacific region.

The proposed station is designed to connect the United States with various countries on the Pacific and with its island groups, as radio telephone stations are equipped in the distant countries. As the demand for service develops, it was announced yesterday, Bell System telephones will be connected with one after another of the Far Eastern nations through a combination of overland and oversea telephone transmission.

The first regular service planned will be provided to the island of Oahu, in the Hawaiian group. It is expected that by 1932 all subscribers of the Mutual Telephone Company of Honolulu, on that island, will be within voice range of the United States.

Preliminary arrangements were made in a series of conferences between T. G. Miller, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and J. A. Balch, president of the Mutual Telephone Company, who came to New York for the purpose. The radio facilities at the Hawaiian end are to be provided by R. C. A. Communications, Inc.

At the outset the telephone company is planning an installation which will permit it to give service simultaneously to Hawaii and at least one other point in the Pacific Ocean. Telephone officials of other Pacific points have expressed an interest in the service proposed, and it is probable that direct connections in time will be established with Australia, Japan and other important Far Eastern countries.

Engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Bell Laboratories have been investigating for some time various sites on the Pacific Coast to determine the best location for the new radio station. Several sites are now under consideration, and field strength tests are being conducted to select those which prove most suitable for the transmitting and receiving stations.

Upon selecting the right locations, the work of erecting and equipping the two stations will proceed rapidly. The construction cost, including purchase of land, manufacture of apparatus, erection of buildings and radio towers and installation of equipment will cost more than $1,000,000.

Although in 1885 the longest telephone line was 240 miles, the charter granted to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in that year included the following paragraph:

"And it is further declared and certified that the general route of the lines of this association [A. T. & T. Company], in addition to those hereinbefore described or designated, will connect one or more points in each and every city, town or place in said State and in each and every other of the United States and in Canada and Mexico, and each and every of said cities, towns and places is to be connected with each and every other city, town or place in said States and countries; and also by cable and other appropriate means with the rest of the known world."

FINDS TRADE GAINING IN PARTS OF EUROPE

N. L. Amster Reports Few Tariff Complaints in France, Germany and Czechoslovakia.

N. L. Amster, a director of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, who recently returned from visiting Germany, France and Czechoslovakia, said yesterday that in his opinion business in those countries was on the upgrade.

"Although a few exporters registered some complaint about our new tariff law," said Mr. Amster, "none of them felt the question was very grave or that it would materially lessen the interchange of trade between their country and the United States.

"What occurred to me as peculiar on my return here was to find a greater note of pessimism than in any part of Europe that I visited, despite the fact that this country is overburdened with wealth. The only seeming justification is that we have an oversupply of copper, wheat, cotton and other basic commodities, but we also have ample cheap money, all of which spells an overabundance of wealth. A particular point that should be borne in mind is that the manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer is understocked rather than overstocked, so that the present depression in the stock market and elsewhere is merely psychological.

"This will change as soon as people come to their senses and securities which have been dumped on the market by frightened, uninformed and distressed sellers irrespective of value have been picked up by strong investors and investment institutions. It does not require a vivid imagination to see a tremendous comeback in the value of these securities in the not far distant future, as soon as the general public realizes that nothing more than an overoptimistic indulgence on the bull side has had its reactions."

DENIES NEWSPRINT RISE.

Canadian Manufacturer Expects No Price Changes.

QUEBEC, July 3 (Canadian Press).—"There is no reason to say that there is a further rise impending in the price of newsprint," declared Colonel J. H. Price, president of Price Brothers, manufacturers of newsprint, today when questioned regarding the action of the United States Federal Trade Commission in recommending to the Senate the further development of the Alaskan mills to offset an impending rise in the price of newsprint.

"It seems to me that the further development of the mills in Alaska is only a natural move," Colonel Price commented.

FOREIGN TRADE LOSS FELT IN ALL MARTS

RUSSIAN PURCHASES RISE

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The decline in exports and imports in the first quarter of 1930 was general in its application to America's leading markets and chief sources of supply, according to an analysis for the period issued today by the foreign commerce department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"As compared with the exceptionally good trade in the first quarter of 1929, exports to more than four-fifths (84 per cent) of our chief markets and imports from more than two-thirds (71 per cent) of our chief suppliers were lower in value in the first three months of this year," says the chamber.

"A somewhat better showing," the statement continues, "was made when the first quarter of 1930 was contrasted with the foreign trade figures for the corresponding period in the years previous to 1929.

"The extent of these declines in the foreign trade of the United States is a reflection of the world-wide business recession, with low commodity prices and purchasing power.

"Although the 'Big Five' of our customers—United Kingdom, Canada, Germany, France and Japan—maintained the same ranking as a year ago, the decline in our sales to each country was severe, ranging from 10 per cent for France to 26 per cent for Germany.

"Exports to the United Kingdom fell 17 per cent; to Canada, 23 per cent, and to Japan, 24 per cent.

Exports to Russia Gain.

"On the other hand, our exports to Soviet Russia increased $31,000,000, 228 per cent greater than a year ago. Half of the striking gain was due to increased purchases of agricultural machinery, particularly tractors, purchased for Spring planting. Large purchases of other kinds of machinery also figured to a great extent in the increase.

"Exports to Mexico increased $3,457,000, or 12 per cent. Purchases by New Zealand were slightly greater than a year ago.

"None of the other thirty leading markets made increased purchases.

"Gains were recorded in sales to the Irish Free State, Algeria and Tunisia and French Africa; Mozambique, Honduras, Bermuda, Persia and Canary Islands.

"The losses in some of our most important markets were as follows:

"In Europe—Italy, actual decline, $10,740,000, or 25 per cent; Netherlands, $10,557,000, or 27 per cent; Belgium, $9,535,000, or 27 per cent; Spain, $6,459,000, or 27 per cent; Denmark, $5,109,000, or 30 per cent; Sweden, $4,348,000, or 27 per cent; Norway, $1,653,000, or 24 per cent.

"In Latin America—Argentina, $21,695,000, or 38 per cent; Cuba, $8,347,000, or 23 per cent; Brazil, $18,330,000, or 53 per cent; Chile, $128,000, or only 1 per cent; Venezuela, $3,864,000, or 27 per cent; Panama, $289,000, or 3 per cent; Colombia, $10,397,000, or 60 per cent; Uruguay, $3,058,000, or 35 per cent; Dutch West Indies, $2,631,000, or 33 per cent; Peru, $3,055,000, or 39 per cent.

"In Asia—China, $8,380,000, or 26 per cent; Philippine Islands, $5,471,000, or 22 per cent; British India, $3,333,000, or 21 per cent; Dutch East Indies, $6,112,000, or 43 per cent.

"In Oceania—Australia, $11,632,000, or 30 per cent.

"In Africa—British South Africa, $5,256,000, or 33 per cent.

Imports From Philippines Rise.

"Suppliers with larger sales to the United States in the first quarter, as shown by our import figures, were the Philippines, Colombia, Dutch West Indies, Sweden, Peru, Belgian Congo, Norway, Russia, Guatemala, Finland, Honduras, Irish Free State, French Africa, Irak, Mozambique, Yugoslavia and British and French Oceania.

"Imports from the Philippines increased $1,996,000, or 7 per cent (sugar); those from the Dutch West Indies, $845,000, or 5 per cent (gasoline); Colombia, $3,298,000, or 14 per cent (coffee), and Sweden, $2,265,000, or 19 per cent (wood-pulp, paper).

CLEVELAND, July 3.—Charging the Northern Ohio Power and Light Company with conspiracy to ruin its business, the Akron, Kenmore and Barberton Bus Lines today filed suit here for $1,000,000 damages.

Defendants include officials and employes of the Northern Ohio Company and a former employe, Forest L. Statler of Akron, who, the petition alleges, was commissioned by that concern to go to work for the bus company at the same time that he was working for the traction interests.

The petition avers that "at the instance and direction of the defendants, and in furtherance of the aforesaid conspiracy, the defendant Statler maliciously fomented trouble among the plaintiff's employes, placed quantities of carborundum dust and emery dust in the motors of various buses of plaintiffs and put baking syrup in the oil pans, let air out of the tires of buses, placed tacks and nails in specially prepared molds at bus stops, all for the purpose of destroying plaintiffs' equipment, interfering with their business, and so discouraging plaintiffs as to force them to sell their said competing business to the Northern Ohio Power and Light Company at a grossly inadequate price."

DEFENDS TRUSCON STEEL.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 3.—Julius Kahn, president of the Truscon Steel Company, today issued a letter to shareholders in which he said the present prices of the company's stock on the New York Stock Exchange did not represent the real value of the shares. Earnings in May, he said, had been the largest for that month in the company's history with one exception.

"Earnings of June promise to be excellent," he continued. "Satisfactory orders are booked far ahead. Some departments are working day and night. I have no doubt that by the end of July our entire year's dividend requirements will have been fully earned, and we will be adding to our surplus. The earnings of this year will equal the average of the past five highly profitable years.

"It seems ridiculous to those informed on the subject to think of a few sales of hundred-share lots out of a total of 650,000 shares at preposterously low prices determining the real value of all the stock."

RAILS LEAD RISES IN DOMESTIC BONDS

Activity was restricted in the listed bond market yesterday. Leading domestic issues closed substantially higher, particularly high-grade railroad bonds. Foreign bonds were irregular, but advances and declines were about evenly distributed. United States Government bonds were lightly traded, with final prices up 5-32 to off 6-32.

Unusually heavy trading in the new German International 5½s of 1965 marked the dissolution of the syndicate that recently bought the issue. The bonds, which have held at 90, the price at which they were offered, opened yesterday at 88¼, subsequently touching 89⅜ and finishing at 88⅞, off 1⅛ points. The closing cash price was 91¼. Both South American and Continental issues were very irregular. Bolivian issues were steady, following the recoveries from the year's lows made on the two previous days.

Although the usual long list of domestic bonds figured in the trading, the individual issues enjoyed a uniformly small turnover. One exception was the issue of National Dairy Products 5¼s of 1948, which held unchanged at 96¾. Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s of 1960 were actively traded, yielding ⅜ point for the day.

One feature was the appearance on the tape of several issues in which trading is infrequent, and in some instances the prices were considerably lower than the previous closing quotations, with a few touching new lows for the year.

In the industrial group, sugar bonds showed some irregularity. Eastern Cuba Sugar 7½s dropped 3 points to a new low of 60, while Manati 7½s held unchanged at 41½ and Vertientes Sugar 7s moved up a point. Oil bonds were steady to firm, but steels and rubbers inclined toward irregularity.

Call for Tenders of Bonds.

White, Weld & Co. have called for tenders of city of Cordoba (Argentina) 7 per cent external sinking fund gold bonds of 1927, due in 1957, to exhaust $33,617 held in the sinking fund. Bonds must be tendered at prices below par by July 21.

Retires $500,000 of Stock.

Interstate Department Stores, Inc., has retired $500,000 of its 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock callable at 110, it was announced yesterday. This amount is more than $400,000 in excess of the 3 per cent reduction required to be made by Dec. 31, 1930, and leaves the outstanding preferred stock at $2,250,000. By retiring this amount of preferred stock an annual saving of $35,000 in dividends is accomplished.

BROKERS' LOANS OFF $197,000,000 IN WEEK

A decline of $197,000,000 was shown in the total of brokers' loans announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The drop carried the figures to $3,219,000,000, the lowest since Sept. 7, 1927, when such loans amounted to $3,206,299,000. The loans are now $3,585,000,000 below the record high of $6,804,000,000 reached on Oct. 2 last, which is a decline of more than 52 per cent. The lowest level previously reached, following the stock market break, was $3,328,000,000 on Dec. 24 last.

All three classes of lenders reduced their accommodations to the market. Loans for the account of out-of-town banks fell $59,000,000, those for the account of non-banking lenders dropped $83,000,000 and loans by local member banks for their own account were off $54,000,000.

A net shrinkage of $7,[illegible]0,000 in investments was shown, holdings of Government securities having fallen $18,000,000 while holdings of other securities were up $11,[illegible]00,000.

As a result of the recent reduction in the bank's bill-buying rate, combined with the month-end tightening of money, increased offerings of bankers' bills were brought to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York this week. The bank's statement shows an advance of $45,636,000, bringing the figure to $55,793,000. Outstanding credit of the local Reserve Bank is now $309,733,000.

Reflecting the increased demand for currency prior to the holiday, gold holdings of the bank dropped $75,[illegible]3,000 and Federal Reserve Note circulation advanced $389,000. Deposit liabilities were up $12,910,000. The reserve ratio dropped from 88.9 per cent to 81.2 per cent.

TWO BANKS ACQUIRE RECIPROCAL HOLDINGS

Through an interchange of shares the Transamerica Corporation and the Union des Mines, a leading French industrial bank, have each acquired reciprocal holdings in the other, it was announced yesterday by Elisha Walker, chairman of the Transamerica Corporation. The conclusion of the negotiations was announced in Paris by M. Jouasset, managing director of the Union des Mines.

Officials of the Transamerica Corporation will be invited to become members of the directorate of the French bank, and officers of the latter institution will similarly be asked to join the board of Transamerica. The statements of M. Jouasset and Mr. Walker emphasized that while the reciprocal holdings are substantial, they constitute only minority interests.

This acquisition by Transamerica is regarded as presaging further developments, bringing the Transamerica Corporation into closer relationship with outstanding European industrial and financial enterprises.

BIG BANK PLANS REPORTED.

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—Programs of bank acquisition which will affect a large part of Western Pennsylvania are under way, it has been learned. The Mellon group, the most powerful in the city, is steadily acquiring key banks in important cities and towns. The Hillman interests also are active. Each group is working independently an dthere is no evidence of friction. Each has a security corporation which will hold the stocks of acquired banks.

Unconfirmed reports are that the Mellons plan the acquisition of at least fifty banks, but the only deal announced has been the purchase of a one-third interest in the Butler County National Bank and Trust Company at Butler. Negotiations are known to be pending with several banks at other points.

The Hillman group's plan is said to include about twenty-five banks, most of which are in or near Pittsburgh. The plan provides for acquisition of minority interests, although in some cases control has been obtained.

Connecticut's Insurance Revenue.

Receipts of the Connecticut Insurance Department from taxes and other charges during the fiscal year ended on June 30 exceeded $1,000,000 for the first time, it was announced yesterday by Colonel Howard P. Dunham, State Commissioner. The receipts were $1,034,611, compared with $980,085 in the preceding year.

BANK CLEARINGS OFF 17.3 P. C. FOR WEEK

DECLINE SHOWS INCREASE

New York City Figures Down 19.4% to $7,762,000,000—11.5 Drop for Other Centres.

Bank clearings in the past week show a somewhat greater decline than in preceding weeks, in part due to an irregularity in the comparison with the earlier returns, according to Dun's Review, which gives as the total of bank clearings for the week at all leading cities in the United States $10,807,071,000, which is 17.3 per cent lower than the total in the corresponding week of last year. In New York the Review says clearings were $7,762,000,000, or 19.4 per cent less than last year, while for the centres outside of New York the aggregate of $3,045,071,000 is a reduction of 11.5 per cent from last year. Commenting upon these reductions the Review says:

"The week this year and last includes only five business days. The current week's return covers only two days of the heavy July settlements, whereas a year ago there were three days, and the difference on this account represents a considerable sum, as very large quarterly and half-yearly amounts accrue at that time. In consequence of this, nearly every city shows smaller clearings this week."

Clearings for the week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., and average daily bank clearings for the last three months, are compared herewith.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

FRENCH STOCKS DECLINE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—Although there was a slight further reaction in British funds, the stock market as a whole was fairly cheerful today. Continued improvement in the sterling dollar rate was one favorable factor, while the firm tendency in Wall Street at the close yesterday influenced industrials. The 3½ per cent conversion loan was £78 11-16 and the war loan £103¼.

Internationals improved, but the best prices were not maintained until the close. International Nickel finished at $25½, Hydro-Electric at $40½, Radio Corporation at $36⅛ and Brazilian Traction at $40⅞. His Master's Voice Gramophone and Columbia Graphophone were both lower on the day.

Directors of Cables and Wireless, Ltd., announced tonight they were satisfied the company will pay the full dividend on the 5½ per cent cumulative preference stock for 1930 on the due dates. The announcement is expected to allay anxiety among the holders of $115,000,000 worth of stock, which, following the report by International and Imperial Communications, Ltd., touched £75, but recovered today to £80. Further recovery of the stock is expected tomorrow.

Among the oils Canadian and Mexican Eagles advanced to 11s 7½d and 12s 10½d, respectively. The results of the two companies in the past year are regarded with much favor, the accounts showing profits more than double those of the preceding year. Other oils changed only slightly.

A further large amount was repaid today by the Bank of England after which credit was fairly plentiful, with daily renewals at 2 per cent and fresh overnight loans at 1¾. The bill market again was distinctly firm, with 2¼ per cent now the effective working rate for three-month bank bills. Sterling exchange on New York advanced to $4.86 7-16—$4.86 9-16.

Dullness Lowers Paris Prices.

PARIS, July 3.—The Bourse was irregular today, but so little trading was done that few offers were sufficient to force down price levels generally. That the public continues wary of stock transactions is indicated by the listless sessions and by the fact that bank deposits continue to increase.

The Bank of France's deposit sheet this week shows a rise of 795,000,000 francs, while circulation jumped by 1,107,000,000 to a total of 72,593,000,000 francs. Gold reserves, due mainly to purchases in London, advanced by 47,000,000 to 44,052,000,000. The proportion of gold reserves to obligations totaling 87,952,000,000 is now 50.09 per cent.

Rentes were quiet but slightly firmer, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.20; 1918 4s, 100.85; 1920 amortizable 5s, 133.40; 1928 5s, 102.60; 1920 6s, 102.05; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.47.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 3.—The Boerse was further depressed today by unfounded reports that leading German shipping companies would not declare dividends at the end of the calendar year. North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American lost 5 and 6 points respectively, before a denial of the rumor brought a slight recovery.

The weakness in shipping stocks affected other groups unfavorably, causing the potashes, electricals, minings and chemicals all to decline 2 to 3 points. Salzdetfurth was the day's heaviest loser, with 9 points down. The Boerse closed more cheerful, but the losses in most cases were not regained.

PESETA DROPS AGAIN DESPITE BANK MOVE

WOULD HOLD GOLD RESERVE

Financiers Believe 2,448,000,000 Will Protect Paper Better if Kept Intact.

MADRID, July 3 (AP).—The peseta slumped again today to 8.90 to the dollar or 43.10 to the pound, although leading bankers of Spain had met yesterday to consider means of restoring balance to the financial situation.

It was learned today that the conference of bankers felt it would be wiser to preserve the 2,448,000,000 pesetas gold reserve in the Bank of Spain as a part guarantee of paper money rather than to establish the gold standard by putting it into circulation.

The bankers also attributed part of the exchange slump to heavy investments abroad in the past fifteen years by Spaniards, which the bankers are reported desirous of having the government restrict.

Officials of the Bank of Spain concurred in the belief that the present depreciation was a psychological problem rather than a material one, attributing much of the present situation to confused political conditions resulting from the overthrow of the Primo de Rivera dictatorship.

The Government today launched the first of a series of moves to bring up the peseta by publishing an official decree offering Spaniards facilities for contracting loans to meet obligations in the payment of bonds contracted during the month of November, when a domestic gold loan was launched.

Well informed observers said today that while Santiago Alba, discussed as a possible Liberal Premier, might desire that position, he did not care to immediately assume the task because of the confused political and financial situation and possibly would not accept before October, if then.

There has been little indication thus far that the Berenguer Cabinet might change to more liberal construction.

AUSTRIA SEEKS $65,000,000.

New Loan Will Be Marketed Soon, Say Reports Received Here.

The new Austrian loan which probably will be offered soon in the principal money centres of the world will total about $65,000,000, according to word received here yesterday. The American portion will approximate $25,000,000 and will be offered by a group headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. Earlier reports had indicated that the loan would not be offered until Autumn.

The London portion of the loan, according to the latest advices, will be marketed by a syndicate headed by Morgan, Grenfell & Co., and including Baring Brothers, N. M. Rothschild & Co. and J. Henry Schroeder & Co. Other portions will be offered in Paris, Rome and probably a block of the bonds in Holland.

In the late Spring, when Johann Schober, the Austrian Chancellor, visited Paris, London and Rome to discuss the loan with the various governments, the amount spoken of was $100,000,000. At that time it was agreed that the loan should be held over until the German international issues had been disposed of.

The weekly gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed imports of $1,115,000 up to Wednesday night, no exports and no changes in earmarked gold. The imports were made up of $1,004,000 which came from Colombia and $111,000 chiefly from Latin America. The Reserve Bank received yesterday $170,000 in gold from Brazil.

BANK STOCKS ACTIVE IN COUNTER TRADING

Morning's Losses Largely Recovered in Afternoon—Insurance Issues Quiet, Prices Mixed.

Interest in the over-the-counter securities market yesterday was confined largely to the bank stocks, in which trading was fairly active and fluctuations irregular.

Many of the bank stocks were under pressure in the morning with sizable recessions in prices. The greater part of the morning's loss in this group was made up in the afternoon dealings, however, and the closing prices showed only moderate declines. Among the stocks in which there was a fair amount of pre-holiday trading were Central Hanover, Chase, Guaranty, National City, Bankers, New York Trust, Corn Exchange, Chemical, Manhattan and Manufacturers.

Trading was light in the insurance group and price movements were mixed. The features of this department were Aetna Fire, Aetna Life, Central Fire, Industrial of Akron, National Casualty, Occidental, Automobile, Great American and Independence. Losses and gains were about evenly banlanced.

Industrials, utilities, chain stores and communications shares were quiet and price movements were unimportant.

H. L. CLARKE ABROAD TO ADD TO UTILITIES

FORMING A NEW CONCERN

Chase Securities Reported Interested in Projects of Utilities Power and Light Corporation.

The $400,000,000 Utilities Power and Light Corporation, which has public utility properties in the United States, Canada, Nova Scotia and England, is planning to acquire holdings in utility companies operating on the Continent of Europe, it was learned yesterday.

Harley L. Clarke, president of that corporation and also of the Fox Film Corporation, is in Europe and is expected to bring to a conclusion discussions for the formation of a new public utility holding company in Central Germany in cooperation with German bankers.

The Chase Securities Corporation, bankers for Utilities Power and Light, is reported to be associated with Mr. Clarke in his projects abroad.

Interest of the American group is expected to centre first in the Leipzig area. It is reported that a $15,000,000 holding company may be formed to acquire large interests in German gas and electric companies, among which the Thueringer Gas Gesellschaft and affiliated companies are mentioned in dispatches.

The reported plans of Utilities Power and Light follow the formation less than two years ago of the Greater London and Counties Trust, Ltd., which controls nine large electric companies operating in various industrial and residential sections of England, including areas in and surrounding Greater London. The trust in turn is controlled by Utilities Power and Light.

This further entry of American capital into European public utility development will, when consummated, add considerably to the amount of money invested directly or indirectly in this manner in recent months. Among the more active groups have been the Harris Forbes-American Founders interests, the Volpi-Bonbright-Field-Glore interests and other groupings. In addition, American banking and industrial groups have added heavily in recent months to their connections with electrical manufacturing companies in many European countries.

In general the policy followed by Americans abroad regarding utility organizations has been to acquire only minority holdings and to contribute capital and experience, as the foreign companies so far have not progressed so much as similar concerns in this country.

Mr. Clarke is considered one of the most active utility executives in the country, although his interests extend into other fields, principally the motion picture industry. As head of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., he acquired for it control of the Fox Film Corporation a few months ago, and arranged the refinancing of the motion picture organization.

TRADING ON CURB DULL AND PRICES IRREGULAR

Trading on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday was only slightly more active than on the preceding day, with the turnover less than 450,000 shares. Closing prices reflected the irregularity that marked the greater part of the session.

Utilities closed with quotations mixed. Associated Gas and United Gas were higher, while Electric Bond and Share, Niagara Hudson, American Superpower and United Light and Power closed lower for the day. Cities Service declined, as did Gulf, Vacuum, Humble and Ohio Oil. Standard of Indiana closed unchanged. Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line was higher.

Among the industrials, St. Regis Paper and American Cyanamid closed higher, along with Ford Motors, Ltd. Investment trusts and holding companies were virtually unchanged from the preceding day.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company System reports for five months ended May 31 net income of $6,248,249 after taxes, depreciation and charges, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $2.34 a share earned on 1,789,075 common shares. This compares with $6,455,093, or $4.73 a share, earned on 930,000 common shares in the five months ended May 31, 1929.

WHEAT PRICES FALL IN LIGHT OPERATIONS

CHICAGO, July 3.—Good scattered rains over the Northwest and failure of Liverpool to show a full reflection of Chicago's advance on Wednesday, combined with a general evening up of trades for the holidays, lowered wheat prices today in a comparatively tame trading market. The close was around the lowest of the day, with net losses of 1½ to 1¾ cents.

One set of brokerage houses with Eastern connections was bullish and increased holdings, while another group that was bearish on crop conditions and the large movement in the Southwest covered shorts to even up. July wheat closed at 90⅝ to 90¼ cents, September 93⅞ to 93¾ and December 99¾ to 99⅞.

Marketing of new wheat in the Southwest continues heavy, with almost 2,000 cars received at leading points. Loadings on the Santa Fe Railroad are steadily increasing, ranging up to about 2,000 cars a day. Since June fifteen loadings on that system aggregated 17,400 cars. This wheat is being taken by millers, exporters and elevator interests. Being bought at low prices it is not hedged.

Traders Foresee Better Crop.

The general disposition of most traders is to raise their ideas of Winter wheat production to around 550,000,000 to 575,000,000 bushels, with some even higher. French crop news was mixed, ranging from a deficit of 64,000,000 bushels last year to a carryover of 40,000,000 bushels as a result of last year's heavy crop. Export business was reported light.

Primary receipts were 1,303,000 bushels, a week ago 760,000 and a year ago 696,000. Shipments respectively were 1,270,000, 1,332,000 and 1,371,000 bushels.

Favorable weather for corn over a large area, with most Iowa corn reported knee high and a good average stand throughout the majority of the leading States, led to selling by recent buyers and a net loss of ⅜ to ¾ cent.

Country Offers Little Corn.

Country offerings are light. Farmers are too busy in the fields to market grain. July showed a little tightness and closed at 75⅝ cents, September 74½ and December 68½.

Primary receipts of corn were 560,000 bushels, a week ago 325,000 and a year ago 1,733,000. Shipments respectively were 571,000, 480,000 and 429,000 bushels.

July oats dropped to 33½ cents, the lowest in recent years, with a rally to 34⅛ at the close, a net low of ⅜ cent. September closed at 36 cents, with December 39¾ to 39½, shorts being the best buyers.

Trading in rye was mostly in changing from July to September. Cash deliveries on July were small, with the close at 84 cents, off ⅝ cent. September lost ⅝ and closed at 52 cents.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

SAY WHEAT PRICES WILL REMAIN LOW

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Legge of the Farm Board said in radio addresses today that the farmer must bear the responsibility for any more "back-breaking" wheat surpluses.

"We of the Department of Agriculture and the Farm Board offer you the basic facts of world supply and demand," the Secretary said, "and the final decision is yours.

"It is yours to say whether you will produce another back-breaking surplus or whether you will be curbed by the most accurate facts man can muster. No power exists to compel you to do or to forbear doing exactly as you please."

The address preceded departure of the Secretary and Farm Board Chairman for a series of meetings in the heart of the Winter wheat belt.

"For several weeks now," said Mr. Hyde, "wheat prices have been uncommonly low. You have seen the market sag under the pressure of accumulated world supplies. We do not expect to see wheat prices remain as low as they have been during the past month. Nevertheless, the present prospect is that world wheat prices during the next seven years will average appreciably lower than in the last seven years."

Mr. Legge said the world wheat situation was not one that offered hope for early improvement of return to the American wheat grower if he continues to produce so much wheat that the price for all his crop is determined by the part he must sell in the world market.

CANADA'S GRAIN PROSPECTS

Bureau of Statistics Reports the Season Generally Backward.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3 (Canadian Press).—Generally throughout Canada the crop season is backward, and in many of the important agricultural regions moisture has been limiting both stands and growth, according to the weekly crop report issued today by the Bureau of Statistics. Conditions have changed slightly for the better in the prairies, but soaking rains will be needed this month.

The specialized wheat producing regions in Central Saskatchewan and Southern Alberta are not receiving enough moisture to enable them to recover from previous damage by drought, wind and cutworms. Moisture is needed to fill the Winter wheat. Cutworm damage, the heaviest for some years, is now confined to scattered late-sown crops. The wheat crop, which was seeded more than a week earlier than last year, is generally more backward. Straw will be short.

Manitoba conditions are favorable and good crops are almost assured in most districts. Only the southwest corner reports need of rain.

Saskatchewan conditions vary greatly. Improvement is noted in some regions of the north and east, while the central and southern districts, more specialized in wheat production, are still complaining of drought. The rains are barely able to keep the crop up to average promise.

Alberta crops show a tremendous variation, from virtual failure to the promise of bumper crops. The central area has been too severely damaged to be greatly relieved by the recent showers, and the important southern area has deteriorated considerably in the last two weeks, with the present moisture situation cited as critical. Favorable reports come from the northern and Peace River districts.

Grains Going Lower, Cutten Says.

TORONTO, Ont., July 3 (Canadian Press).—Grain prices have not yet hit bottom and will continue to fall, according to Arthur Cutten of Chicago, who gave his opinion in the board room of a local brokerage house today. He was here with his brother on the way to Guelph, Ont., his native town.

$80,000,000 POWER PLAN.

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—An $80,000,000 hydroelectric development in the Cheat River section of West Virginia is planned by the West Penn Power Company. The program will cover ten years and will be carried out through a subsidiary known as the West Virginia Power Transmission Company.

Eight projects are on the program. All have been approved by the West Virginia Public Service Commission. Originally it was planned to spend about $115,000,000 on thirteen projects, but this was reduced to $80,000,000 for eight undertakings.

COTTON PRICES EASE AS TRADERS EVEN UP

ACREAGE ESTIMATE GROWS

In view of the closing of all American futures markets today and until next Monday, trading on the Cotton Exchange here yesterday was generally quiet and devoted largely to evening-up of scattering accounts. This was reflected by rather irregular fluctuations, but prices were generally lower, owing to a favorable view of current crop progress and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

The old October contract sold off to 13.26c and the new to 13.01c, while the new December declined to 13.14c. Closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest on new crop positions. July was relatively easy at the start, owing to the circulation of a few notices, but the decline was checked by covering or trade buying at 13.40c, and the price rallied later to 13.50c, closing at 13.49c. The general market closed steady, net 1 to 14 points lower.

Another private crop report was issued, placing the decrease in acreage at 2.7 per cent and estimating the area under cultivation at 45,775,000 acres. This was the largest acreage forecast so far issued, but it had little effect on the market, which is looking forward to the government's acreage figures on next Tuesday.

Easier cables and the favorable view of the weather were the factors chiefly emphasized in connection with the declining tendency, and the opinion in some quarters was that the outlook is for a yield of more than the ten-year average per acre, owing partly to a belief that there will be less damage by the boll weevil.

AUTOMOTIVE EXPORTS FALL.

Value in May Totaled $31,618,047 to $37,443,661 in April.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Automotive exports in May were valued at $31,618,047, as compared with $37,443,661 for April, the automotive division of the Department of Commerce said.

The reduction was "in keeping with the slackening in manufacturing activities of the chief producers in this country, and, while the number of units shipped during May were considerably lower than for the corresponding month of last year, the ratio of exports to production showed a slight increase.

Shipments for the first five months of 1930 were valued at $172,978,489, as compared with $299,399,551, $213,770,339 and $190,616,428 for the January-May periods of 1929, 1928 and 1927, respectively.

Canada, Japan and Belgium were the three leading passenger car markets during May, with the other leading purchasers generally showing a falling off in demand.

METAL TRADE DULL DESPITE PRICE CUTS

A pronounced lack of buying had the effect of cutting copper prices to 11½ cents during the past week, according to Metal and Mineral Markets, and tin, zinc and silver prices followed the decline without arousing any buying activity. Lead was the only non-ferrous metal that held firm. The survey says in part:

"Large copper producers continue to stand firm at 12 cents, but the majority of bookings during the week went through at the lower figure. The future of prices seems to rest entirely on whether the demand at concessions from the 12-cent price will be sufficient to absorb the offerings of custom smelters. Foreign call has not been sufficient to take much of the pressure off the domestic market.

"Lead shared the quiet demand of the other non-ferrous metals and total sales did not exceed one-third of the preceding week. Consumptive demand during May and June indicates that approximately two-thirds of July requirements have already been booked, leaving only about 16,000 tons to be ordered during the current month.

"Zinc business has been very quiet, despite the efforts of producers to meet customers' wishes by cutting the price to 4.10 cents, St. Louis. At current levels, several producers have withdrawn from the market, and yesterday no one seemed willing to sell below 4.15 cents, at which price several carloads of prompt metal were booked.

"Practically no change has occurred in tin, although the price registered a net decline of ⅞ cent during the week."

CREDIT BUREAUS PLANNED.

Plans for organizing and financing nationally affiliated credit bureaus in every important city of the country are to be submitted at a conference of the Allied Building Construction Industries in Chicago on July 22 and 23, according to Edward J. Harding, a member of the ways and means committee of the organization and assistant general manager of the Associated General Contractors of America.

One of the plans worked out by the committee contemplates the raising of a revolving fund through the participating national associations, the fund to be used to train field men and organize the local units, and which would be repaid when the local bureaus became self-supporting. An alternative plan would utilize the services of staff members of the various participating associations in promoting the local bureaus and placing them soundly on their own resources.

Each plan provides for a managing director of credit bureau promotion to guide and coordinate the efforts of the field men and their relations with the Bureau of Contract Information, Inc., at Washington, which is to serve as a national clearing house of construction credit information.

Poultry.

LIVE.

Of the 43 freight cars in or due yesterday all were unloaded and 6 additional cars are due today. No poultry will be unloaded July 4, but cars will be unloaded Saturday. Trading in fowls was only fair Thursday and an early effort to force a higher market proved unavailing. Freight broilers were barely sustained though leghorns had good sale. Receipts of express poultry light, trade quiet and market generally steady and without much change.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

DEAL IN EAST 48TH STREET

Richwald Realty Corporation Buys Fifty-Foot Property—Tall West Side House Leased.

The real estate market reached a low mark for the week yesterday. Brokers, operators and other realty interests were evidently preparing to take advantage of the week-end holiday. The offices of the Real Estate Board of New York and the New York Real Estate Securities Exchange will be closed today and tomorrow.

Most of yesterday's activity was in financing, reflected in a large volume of mortgage loans. Instruments recorded in the Register's office showed details of new financing on several Manhattan holdings, many of the loans being placed at 6 per cent. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announced that it had financed properties throughout the country with loans totaling more than $5,000,000. This was by far the largest sum placed by the company in recent weeks.

The New York Title and Mortgage Company advanced loans totaling more than $10,000,000 on properties in the New York area.

Contract awards for new building and engineering work in the metropolitan area during June amounted to $80,324,900, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. This is a decline of about $16,000,000 from the total in May. In June, 1929, the total was $84,810,000.

The property at 153 and 155 East Forty-eighth Street, having a frontage of 50 feet, was sold by Mary Lyons to the Richwald Realty Corporation, Waldemar F. Timme, president, a deed filed in the Register's office yesterday showed. The seller took back a purchase money mortgage for $82,500, due July 1, 1933, at 6 per cent, and subordinated to a first mortgage of $100,000.

Several leasehold transactions were announced yesterday. The lease involved the ten-story Morleigh Apartments at 72, 74 and 76 West Sixty-eighth Street. The property was leased by the Patchogue Holding Company, August Elmer, president, to the Bromey Realty Corporation. The building contains ten apartments and occupies a plot 60 by 102 feet. The lease is for twenty-one years and carries an option to purchase. Irving H. Wolfe & Co. acted as brokers in the transaction.

In Brooklyn, the four-story building at 727 McDonough Street, near Broadway, in the Bushwick section, was sold by Mamie L. Madigan to an investing client of Friday & Lehmann, brokers. The building accommodates eight families.

The two-story building at the southeast corner of Kent Avenue and South Fourth Street was leased by the [illegible] Building Company to I. Spitz for the storage of bags and core flour. The James B. Fisher Company and Charles G. Keller acted as brokers in the transaction.

The twenty-one-year lease of the building at 154 West Fifty-sixth Street, Manhattan, held by the 150 West Fifty-sixth Street Corporation, Jerome A. Kohn, president, for the term to Dec. 31, 1948, at a yearly rental of $35,000, has been surrendered to the fee owner, Eunice B. Gray of Greenwich, Conn.

Frank Kobovetz sold a four-story structure at 1,454 First Avenue to Charles Divisek, who intends to remodel it for his occupancy. The plot is 20 by 78 feet. A. Karhan & Son were the brokers.

HOLIDAY CLOSINGS SLOW UP BUSINESS

SOME RETAIL TRADE GAINS

Seasonal or holiday shutdowns, with caution continuing in all trades, accentuated dullness of business in the last week, according to the weekly business reviews. Warm weather and buying for vacation needs were the main causes of trade activity, and this was confined chiefly to retail concerns.

Dun's Review says in part:

"As usual, July and the second half of the year opened with business coming more closely under the influence of seasonal restraints. Holiday interruption, plant shutdowns and inventorying have tended to repress activities, but these factors had been discounted and are without special significance.

"Throughout the Summer general commercial conditions should be appraised with allowance for the operation of forces that are common to the period, and such elements mainly make for comparative dullness. Readjustments now in progress should ultimately form a basis for a new economic advance, but more time will be required for the transition to be completed, because of its widespread ramifications.

"Another month's statistical indices throw further light on the extent of the trade contraction, while the continued fall of commodity prices also is a reflection of the altered status of supply and demand. As measured by Dun's compilation, the decline in wholesale quotations was at an accelerated rate during June, and the recession in some markets has reached a point at which it is felt that buying should be stimulated. Prospects for future business are being gradually strengthened by the movements that are bringing production and consumption into better balance.

Textile Outlook Improves.

"After more than a half year of readjustment, some textile interests view the outlook more hopefully. Inventories, where completed, have mainly shown low stocks in converting and distributing circles, and there is an increased disposition to anticipate a larger demand."

"Warm weather and buying for vacation needs have been the chief contributors to activity in trade, this mainly at retail, whereas wholesale and jobbing trade have tended to quiet except for the usual mid-year sales to close out seasonal goods. Industry has reflected quieting down either for the period of the holidays or for longer curtailments earlier planned. In the iron and steel trade the first half of July is likely to see a good deal of idle machinery, advance notice of this being given by a further definite slowing down to about 60 per cent of full operations, this comparing with about 95 per cent ruling before the holidays a year ago, when a record half year's output was being scored.

Lumber Market Is Quiet.

"Another industry in which there is promise of considerable quiet, for a while at least, is lumber, where present capacity is reckoned at from 50 to 60 per cent of normal, this being true alike of North Pacific and Southern mills, which have had an unsatisfactory half year because of the restriction of new building of a sort to absorb lumber in quantity. The quiet noted last week in the textiles, hosiery and furniture trade has been accentuated by the week's holidays. Leather is reported firmer in New England, where rather more activity along women's novelty shoe lines is reported.

"The general run of crop and weather reports has been favorable except for cotton and corn, needing rain, and for too dry weather for corn in parts of the Central West."

TO POSTPONE ACTION ON KLAN AFFILIATION

Senate Campaign Expense Group, However, Interviews Baldwin, Its Special Investigator.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—No immediate action will be taken by the Senate campaign expenditures committee concerning W. H. Baldwin, its Illinois investigator, who yesterday was found to have been formerly a high official of the Ku Klux Klan, Senator Nye of North Dakota, chairman, announced today after a private meeting of the committee.

Mr. Baldwin appeared at this meeting, but no word of the committee's interview with him was made public. Action on the information, the chairman said, will be deferred pending the return from his home of Senator Dill, another member of the committee. Senaor Dill will be present at the committee's hearings in Chicago, which will begin on July 14, and may return to the capital before going there.

Meanwhile, before going to Chicago, the committee expects to clean up its work in connection with the Pennsylvania primaries, Senator Nye said. Hearings will be held next Wednesday, if Congress is meeting, but if it is not he said it is probable that the scene of the hearings will be shifted to some city in Pennsylvania closer to the sources of information.

ADMIRAL HOUGH SHIFTED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Rear Admiral Henry H. Hough, who has been a member of the General Board since 1928, was ordered today to the Panama Canal zone as commandant of the Fifteenth Naval District, succeeding Rear Admiral John R. Y. Blakely, who has been ordered to the General Board.

Lieutenant Walter R. Jones, aide to President Hoover, left Washington today, at the expiration of his tour of shore duty, to go to sea aboard the Hatfield. He has been on duty for two years in the office of Naval Intelligence, Navy Department, and is being relieved by Lieutenant L. H. Perry.

CUNARD LINE MARKS 90TH YEAR TODAY

Greeting to Aquitania Will Be Only Observance of Ocean Travel Record.

FIRST SHIP SIDE-WHEELER

The Cunard Steamship Line will be ninety years old today, and will confine its observance to greeting the liner Aquitania at its pier at West Fourteenth Street in accordance with the regular schedule of business affairs.

The Aquitania is 868 feet 7 inches long, 97 feet beam and 49 feet deep and her gross tonnage is 45,647. The first Cunarder was the Britannia, a wooden side-wheeler of 1,154 tons which depended principally on primitive coal-burning engines aided by a spread of sail when the wind was favorable.

The Britannia left Liverpool on July 4, 1840, on the first trip in the Cunard service to the United States and Canada. The ship had an indicated horsepower of 740, compared with the 67,000 indicated horsepower of the Mauretania, which today is the speediest ship of the Cunard fleet. There were only four ships flying the Cunard flag when the Britannia started and their total gross tonnage was 4,616, whereas the Cunard fleet today totals 479,474, or more than 100 times that total, divided among twenty-four ships. The latter figure is confined to the North Atlantic service and includes the ships of the Anchor Line and the Anchor Donaldson Line, both of which are owned by the Cunard.

Steamship lines flying the flags of many nations have followed in the wake of the Cunard Line in establishing services to the United States, but the Cunard has led in many developments of the service. A partner in the firm experimented with the screw-propeller steamship in 1849 and the result was the launching of the first single-screw Cunarder in 1862.

The first electric lights to be installed on a ship were fitted into the Servia when she was launched in 1881 and Guglielmo Marconi and his assistants performed several experiments on the Lucania in 1901, aiming to perfect communication between land and sea. The result was permanent installation of wireless apparatus on the Lucania.

Development and modernization of the Port of Newark are being retarded by free railroad lighterage across New York harbor, which New Jersey is seeking to have abolished, Raymond J. Dempsey, Superintendent of the Port of Newark, testified yesterday at the continued hearing in Newark before Earl M. Steer, Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner.

Mr. Dempsey said that more than $50,000,000 had been expended on the Port of Newark, of which $15,000,000 was by the city, and that the city planned to spend $50,000,000 more to improve the port. New marginal docks, six 1,200-foot piers, a switching railroad and a new inshore channel are among the proposed improvements, he said.

Similar railroad rates to Newark and to New York prevent the former from getting the benefit of its facilities and investments, because ship operators find it more advantageous to go to Manhattan and Brooklyn, according to the superintendent. He added:

"We have constructed facilities suitable for the direct transfer of freight between steamship and railroad cars, while Manhattan and Brooklyn cannot provide such facilities at normal or reasonable costs. Such transfers at Newark, on general merchandise, exclusive of costs of switching service, cost approximates 50 cents a ton, and at Manhattan and Brooklyn $2.75 a ton owing to the expensive lighterage.

These three witnesses testified to the effect of free lighterage on freight rates paid by their organizations: Charles A. Rubens, general manager of the Hudson Wholesale Grocery Company of Jersey City; Arthur M. Granzen, president of the New Jersey Merchandise Warehousemen's Association, and John M. Zachara of the Cornish Wire Company of Paterson.

Hiram C. Todd, Deputy Attorney General of New York, called upon Mr. Zachara to identify the copy of a telegram which he, as traffic manager for the Magor Car Corporation of Clifton, N. J., sent Governor Larson on June 21, 1929, expressing opposition to an additional lighterage charge on New York and asking the Governor not to commit the State to any action for such additional lighterage. It developed that a year ago Mr. Zachara was in favor of free lighterage, but changed his views.

The ship-to-shore mail plane service plans of the French liner Ile de France remained undecided yesterday. The ship carried an amphibian plane when she left Havre and Plymouth for New York, but at the offices of the line at 19 State Street it was said that the plane might take off and head for Boston or fix its goal at New York.

The decision will rest with the commander of the Ile de France and the pilot of the plane, who will advise the New York office when the decision is made. The line plans to expedite its mail service and is uncertain as to the best route. The plane is equipped with a Lorraine motor of 450 horsepower and has a speed range of 90 to 150 miles an hour and a cruising range of about 350 miles.

ASSERTS CONTRACT BINDS STEEL BOARD

UNION TO STAND ON IT

Resolution to Discontinue Efforts to Patch 25-Year Dispute Is Denounced by Leader.

The International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers will insist that the contract negotiated with the Structural Steel Board of Trade is a legal agreement and must be observed by the New York steel erecting employers, it was declared yesterday in a letter to the employers by P. J. Morrin, president of the union.

Mr. Morrin charged that the resolution made public by the employers on July 1, announcing that all efforts to make an agreement are discontinued was "in flagrant violation of honest business ethics and practices and a gross violation of law."

In his letter Mr. Morrin enclosed an agreement made on May 12, 1930, between W. J. McCain, general secretary of the union and Charles L. Eidlitz, chairman of the employers' board, to the effect that they would negotiate a settlement of their difficulties and refer all matters still in contention by May 14 to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as sole arbiter. In accordance with the agreement, the iron workers striking on the jobs of Starrett Brothers & Eken were to be returned to work.

In this connection, Mr. Eidlitz, it was said, produced a record from the minutes of his association showing that he was fully empowered to negotiate an agreement. Subsequently, on May 14, Mr. Green gave a decision on the four points referred to him, "thus concluding and constituting the contract agreed upon by Messrs. Eidlitz and Morrin," and which was signed by the union officers and Mr. Green on May 2, 1930.

However, the Structural Steel Board of Trade, said Mr. Morrin, in violation of the agreement made by Mr. Eidlitz "demanded certain interpretations of the language used by the abitrator as well as modification of and additions to portions of said contract," notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Eidlitz had reported to his board that the contract was a satisfactory one. At a meeting held on May 23, 1930, Mr. Eidlitz's report was "accepted" by the employers' board, but on May 29 R. B. Thomas, attorney for the employers, demanded that the contract be interpreted and modified.

On the same day Mr. Morrin telegraphed to Mr. Eidlitz, saying the union was intent on carrying out its agreement and that "any attempt to alter, change or amend the agreement or the decisions of the arbitrator, which were to be final before the execution of the agreement" would be not only unwise but unwarranted.

The employers replied on June 5 by advising Mr. Morrin that they had referred the proposed agreement back to the labor committee. Since June 6, Mr. Morrin added, repeated efforts have been made by the employers to obtain an interpretation and modification of the contract.

Finally, said Mr. Morrin, he was advised on July 1 that the Structural Steel Board of Trade had "repudiated" the contract. He concluded by insisting that the contract was legally valid and must be put into effect by the employers.

BAR'S CHARGES UPHELD.

Charges of unprofessional conduct made by the Brooklyn Bar Association against Morris Carl Schneidkraut, a lawyer with offices at 60 Court Street, Brooklyn, were confirmed in a report submitted yesterday to the Appellate Division in Brooklyn by Referee Harrington Putnam.

Mr. Putnam found that Schneidkraut had "repeatedly and knowingly violated the penal law and the canons of professional ethics." No recommendations were contained in the report.

Schneidkraut's case was one of the last of several to come before the Appellate Division as the result of the Brooklyn Bar Association's ambulance chasing investigation. Meier Steinbrink, Kings County leader, and Mortimer W. Byers, who later became a Federal Judge, represented the Bar Association, and former Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Welby appeared for Schneidkraut in the proceeding.

The report said the lawyer had withheld from clients sums of money due them through settlements of lawsuits, and that in one instance he had brought suit for personal injuries against the Brooklyn City Railroad Company in behalf of Joseph Williams, when actually, it was charged, Williams had not been injured and did not know the suit was being brought. It was further alleged that the defendant refused to produce records of payments received in litigations, and that he declined to answer questions in the proceeding on the ground that it might "tend to degrade or incriminate him."

YONKERS BOY LONG ADRIFT.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 3.—After being adrift for thirty hours in Long Island Sound following the failure of the motor in his 16-foot launch, Peter Jacobson, a Yonkers (N. Y.) boy, was rescued yesterday by the yacht Caretaker, which was at this port today.

The master of the Caretaker, Charles Wyberg of Groton, sighted Jacobson's launch far out in the Sound, east of Port Jefferson, L. I., with Jacobson frantically waving his shirt, and took him on board.

Jacobson's boat had broken down while he was bound from New York to Greenport, L. I. He had been without food or drink during the entire time that the launch had been drifting. He had neither chart nor compass and was running without lights.

Grocery Clerk With Same Name Opposes Norris in Senate Race

LINCOLN, Neb., July 3 (AP).—The Republican primary contest for selection of a candidate for United States Senator in Nebraska went into a jumble today after a second George W. Norris, a Broken Bow grocery clerk, filed his candidacy.

Senator Norris's followers, C. A. Sorensen, who is acting for the Senator, said, in the absence of any legal precedence in the State, will ask for a mandatory court order compelling a distinct designation between the two candidates by manipulation of names or initials.

Sorensen charged that politicians opposed to Senator Norris had induced the second Norris to enter the race for the purpose "of muddling up the situation."

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—Senator Norris, told that a man with an identical name had filed against him in the Nebraska primary, said:

FENCE AT SEA GATE CURBS RESORT PLAN

Another clash between the residents of Sea Gate, the exclusive residential section of Coney Island, who have defended their property from encroachments for more than thirty years, and intruding interests was revealed yesterday in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. Justice Druhan signed a consent injunction restraining the Coney Island Steamship Corporation and its president, Edward C. Turner, from the further sale of securities.

The order was signed on the motion of Deputy Assistant Attorney General Abraham N. Davis of the State Bureau of Securities on the consent of Mr. Turner, who said that his differences with the Sea Gate Association, Inc., had been settled.

The Coney Island Steamship Corporation operates passenger steamers cruising between Manhattan and its large pier on Norton Point, adjacent to Sea Gate property. The steamship company owns about 200 feet of beach near the pier, Mr. Turner said, but no right of way to the property. The only access to the beach and pier is by means of the B. M. T. line which runs trains directly to the pier, through the Sea Gate section, by an understanding with the association.

Mr. Turner explained that the steamship corporation had desired to improve its waterfront land with a restaurant, a dancing pavilion and concessions, and that it had decided to float a $60,000 stock issue. With this in mind the company issued a prospectus which was sent to many prospective investors, advertising that these contemplated improvements were being or would be constructed.

According to Mr. Turner, when the association learned the plans of the steamship company it erected an eight-foot wooden fence along the western end of the Sea Gate property, effectually barring ingress or egress from the pier except by means of the B. M. T. This fence was extended from Poplar Avenue, about 300 feet from the point, to the B. M. T. tracks near Fifty-first Street, it was said, and was built within the last two weeks.

The fence prevented the importation of materials, Mr. Turner charged, and the dancing pavilion and other concessions could not be built as was promised in the prospectus. For this reason, he said, and at the complaint of the Sea Gate Association, the Attorney General had taken up the matter, holding that false or misleading statements had been made in the prospectus.

A spokesman for the association painted a different picture of the steps leading to the injunction, saying that the prospectus had advertised that the colony's waterfront would be opened to he public.

In further expressing the association's viewpoint, it was said that the association was "always glad to cooperate with the B. M. T." and that the fence had been "built up to B. M. T. property."

Mr. Turner said that last Sunday the fence had caused the spoiling of about $200 worth of ice cream because it had prevented the steamship company from bringing in any ice in which to pack the cream. He added that the shares of stock sold for $20 and that only nine persons were listed as buyers. The Attorney General's office refused o comment on the injunction.

MINISTER INDICTED IN EXTORTION CASE

Herbert Warren Hunter, 53 years old, of Hudson, N. Y., a Protestant Episcopal clergyman without any present charge, and B. Leo Schwartz and Edward W. Drucker, lawyers, are under indictment in an alleged attempt on May 29 last to extort $75,000 from William E. Willard, an investment broker of Bronxville, N. Y., with an office at 25 West Forty-third Street. Mr. Willard and his lawyer, Joseph F. Curren of 160 Broadway, alleged in a grand jury investigation that the demand for the money was made in the Commodore Hotel under threat the clergyman would expose the broker unless he acquiesced to the payment.

Mr. Willard, according to Assistant District Attorney Hastings, who presented the evidence to the grand jurors, denied criminal charges the clergyman was alleged to have included in a statement presented to Mr. Curren at the time the demand was made.

The clergyman was released in $1,000 bail recently on the same charge by Magistrate Dreyer in the West Side Court and will be arraigned in General Sessions next Monday with Schwartz and Drucker for pleading to the indictment. General Sessions Judge Donnellan released the two accused lawyers in $1,000 bail each, following the filing of the indictment.

The broker told Mr. Hastings that the clergyman was employed as a stock salesman by him last year. It was further alleged that Schwartz and Drucker, representing themselves as the clergyman's agents, called on Mr. Willard in his office last May 14 and told him of charges they said Mr. Hunter was ready to make against the broker, accusing him of the criminal offenses.

Mr. Hunter, it developed, while pastor of Trinity Church at Renovo, Pa., in 1925, had married the broker to Miss Ethel Van Ness of Clinton, N. J. Among the charges the accused lawyers spoke of, it also was alleged, was one that Mr. Willard had issued worthless checks on his honeymoon and another that he had stolen the $4,000 automobile in which the couple traveled.

The broker was alleged to have referred Schwartz and Drucker to Mr. Curren, the Willard lawyer. Schwartz and Drucker, it was further alleged, presented a statement, partly in the clergyman's writing and the remainder typewritten, in which, it was charged, Mr. Hunter also demanded $3,500 to repay to customers to whom he had sold alleged worthless stock received from Mr. Willard, and another $25,000 "for damages" to the clergyman.

In the magistrate's proceeding, Schwartz, who appeared as counsel for the clergyman, declared that the attempted extortion charge, lodged then solely against Mr. Hunter, was a subterfuge to circumvent contemplated litigation in the Supreme Court as a result of the clergyman's employment by the broker.

MOONEY DECISION EXPECTED MONDAY

Governor's Action in Pardon Plea Is to Follow Supreme Court's Opinion in Billings Case.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Governor Young will make public tomorrow morning the recommendation of the State Supreme Court on the pardon application of Warren K. Billings, convicted with Thomas J. Mooney of participation in the Preparedness Day bomb outrage in 1916. The Governor's decision on both the Mooney and Billings pardon pleas is expected in a few days.

The Governor communicated with Chief Justice William H. Waste late today and then said that the findings of the seven justices of the Supreme Court would be announced simultaneously at his offices at Sacramento and at Los Angeles in the morning.

"The Governor stated over the telephone from Los Angeles that he had received the report of the Supreme Court and that he would confer with Lieut. Gov. Carnahan on Sunday and announce his own decision on both the Billings and the Mooney cases on Monday or shortly thereafter," Chief Justice Waste said.

COLLIER WINS DAMAGE SUIT.

$1,500,000 Action by Union Car Advertising Co. Is Dismissed.

A damage suit for $1,500,000 against Barron G. Collier, the Eastern Advertising Company, one of his agencies, and the late Gilbert Elliott, president of that company, by the Union Car Advertising Company, was dismissed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Townley. The suit was brought on the ground that the Boston Elevated Railway Company had agreed in 1925 that if the Union company submitted a higher bid for the exclusive advertising privileges on the Boston lines and proved its financial ability to carry out the contract, it would get the rights on the Boston lines for fifteen years.

The complaint alleged that the Union company bid $7,080,000, or $1,600,000 higher than the next bidder, but that through a conspiracy between the defendants and as the result of false statements about the plaintiff and its officers, the plaintiff did not get the contract, causing the loss sued for.

In their answer, the defendants set forth that in 1925 the Union company sued the Boston Elevated in the Federal court in Boston and that a judgment was given in favor of the railroad company on the ground that the chairman and general manager of the Boston lines had no authority from the board to make the promise to the plaintiff, and that for other reasons the agreement was not binding.

NEW SAGAMORE HOTEL ON LAKE GEORGE OPENS

The Sagamore is of Colonial design and is built in the shape of a cross, accommodating 350 guests. The hotel is operated by the Abbott Hotels Corporation under the personal direction of Karl P. Abbott and is owned by the Sagamore Lake George Realty Corporation, and is situated on the highest point on beautiful Green Island.

The new Sagamore has many facilities for outdoor sport and recreation—the Sagamore golf club, swimming pools, bathing beach and tennis courts. A special feature has been made of horseback riding, with mounts brought from the Kirkwood Stable at Camden, S. C.

The interior of the hotel is luxuriously appointed, with spacious lobbies and verandas, lounge and dining rooms. To the left of the lobby is the American plan dining room, seating 500 guests. This room is glassed in on three sides from floor to ceiling and has five large historic paintings on the north wall of the room depicting early American scenes.

Below the American plan dining room is the early American grill and stockade. One enters here and has to pass the block house, the log fort to the pioneers' cabin, thence into the grill itself, seating 300, who may dine à la carte, and where ample dancing space is provided.

D. B. BURNHAM DIES IN GARAGE AT GOSHEN

New York Sportsman Was Working on an Automobile When Stricken.

Special to The New York Times.

GOSHEN, N. Y., July 3.—Daniel B. Burnham, New York sportsman, who for a quarter of a century had taken an active interest in trotting horses, often training them himself, was found dead at 8 o'clock this morning in the garage of the house which he had rented for the Summer, expecting to move in on Monday. The cause of death was given as heart disease.

Mr. Burnham had backed a car partly out of the garage and was proceeding to run water into the radiator from a hose when he fell dead. The body was found nearly two hours later by a delivery man.

Mr. Burnham was born in New York City June 30, 1873, a son of Gordon W. Burnham and Hannah E. Blodged. His father had heavy holdings in the American Brass Company and New York Elevated Railroad. His wife, who was Alice Robertshaw Sunderlin, and two sons and a daughter survive him. The latter are John of Philadelphia, Daniel Jr., at home, and Mrs. Helen Clouse of Waterbury.

The body was sent to New York City, where the funeral will be held Saturday morning. Burial will be in Greenville Cemetery.

FUNERAL FOR RED TODAY.

The funeral of Gonzalo Gonzalez, Mexican Communist who was shot and killed by a patrolman at Lenox Avenue and 113th Street on Monday night, will be held this morning from the Harlem Communist headquarters at 308 Lenox Avenue. A large group of party members plan to stage a demonstration.

Gonzalez was shot when a patrolman attempted to disperse a crowd that had gathered for a protest demonstration against what was called the "murder" of Alfred Levy, another Communist, by the police. The body of Ganzalez has been lying in state in the Harlem Communist headquarters.

Police Inspector Archibald McNeill announced that seventy-five patrolmen and five sergeants would be kept on reserve in the West 123d Street station during the funeral services. He said that no patrolmen would be stationed along the line of march, but that the men would be held in readiness to keep order at the proposed demonstration at Fifth Avenue and 110th Street if necessary.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—A preliminary report on the death of Gonzalo Gonzalez, a Mexican, in a fray with Patrolman O'Brien of New York early this week was received at the Mexican Embassy here today from the Consulate General in New York.

Embassy officials said the report would be supplemented later by a detailed statement.

DONLON IN SANITATION POST

John P. Donlon, chief clerk of the District Attorney's office, has been appointed secretary of the Sanitary Commission, effective immediately, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. William Schroeder Jr., chairman of the commission. At this post Mr. Donlon succeeds Terence F. McKeever, who resigned Monday to become a member of the Board of Assessors.

Mr. Donlon's salary as secretary of the Sanitary Commission will be $7,500, which was the same as he received as chief clerk of the District Attorney's office. For eight years Mr. Donlon was confidential secretray to District Attorney Joab H. Banton, Mr. McKeever at that time being chief clerk. Upon the assumption of the duties of the office in January by District Attorney Crain, Mr. Donlon moved up to the chief clerk's position, while Mr. McKeever went to the Department of Sanitation.

Prior to Mr. Crain's assumption of his new office it was generally predicted that Donlon would get the secretaryship of the Sanitary Commission.

The new secretary was at one time managing editor of The Evening Telegram. His newspaper career was a long one. He served on Troy and Albany papers and for many years was on the old New York Herald. He is a member of the National Democratic Club and of the Amsterdam Democratic Club.

WESTCHESTER HAILS OPERA EXPERIMENT

DETAILS STILL UNFORMED

Touring Repertoire Probably Will Be Used—County Leaders Support Kahn's Project.

Inspired by the plan of the Metropolitan Opera Company to establish regular opera seasons in the city suburbs, a plan which will receive its initial experimentation with the production of two operas in White Plains next December, the Westchester County Recreation Commission, of which Mrs. Eugene Meyer is chairman, began preparations yesterday for the event.

The operas are to be produced at the Westchester Recreation Centre, the new $1,000,000 community house and theatre in White Plains.

While Otto H. Kahn, chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera House, had nothing to add by way of detail to his previous announcement concerning the new plan, prominent residents of Westchester County greeted it with enthusiasm as the beginning of a new era in carrying art to the people of the suburban communities, who because of their geographic location find it difficult to partake of the art life of the metropolis.

Touring Repertoire to Be Used.

Mr. Kahn would not reveal the particular operas to be presented, pending further development of the plans, which call for the establishment of a regular Westchester County opera season for 1931-32 if the experiment scheduled for December at White Plains proves successful. It is believed that the operas to be presented at White Plains will be chosen from the touring repertoire of the Metropolitan, which consists of "Traviata," "Aida," "Cavaleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci" and "La Boheme," a reporetorie necessarily limited by out-of-town facilities. It is possible, however, that because of the comprehensive equipment and large stage of the Westchester Recreation Centre the experiment there may develop on a larger scale.

In welcoming Mr. Kahn's announcement, Mrs. Meyer agreed that the time has come for decentralization of art if the greatest possible number of people are to enjoy it. She said that the Westchester County Recreation Committee will give the fullest support to Metropolitan's experimental plan in the hope that it may become permanent and be extended to other suburban communities. The suburbs, she said, are eager to develop their own art life, not only in opera but also in the theatre.

In the latter connection she declared that a school of dramatic art will be established this Summer at the Westchester Recreation Centre, an institution which, it is hoped, will stimulate greatly the little theatre movement in the suburbs.

Also Favors Gillmore Plan.

Mrs. Meyer spoke also with approval of the plan proposed to theatre managers by Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity Association, for the establishment of "suburban nights" in New York theatres to accommodate residents of the suburbs. Under this plan the curtains would go up at 7:15, thus enabling suburbanites working in the city—and this includes a majority—to attend the theatre and get home early.

The plan has won the approval of Lee Shubert, Winthrop Ames, Lawrence Langner and Maurice Wertheim, directors of the Theatre Guild, and other managers, according to Paul Dullzell, executive secretary of the Actors' Equity Association. Mr. Dullzell said that the before-mentioned managers and others have agreed to introduce the "suburban nights" experiment next September.

Among those who greeted the Metropolitan's plan for Westchester County was Felix M. Warburg, who has a home at Hartsdale.

"As a member of the Westchester County Park Commission and the Westchester County Recreation Commission," said Mr. Warburg, "I am looking forward to the experiment which the Metropolitan Opera Company is to make. I hope it will succeed and lead to a Summer season of opera as in Ravinia Park, Chicago, which has brought happiness and enjoyment to so many people."

Mayor Lauds the Plan.

Mrs. Paul Revere Reynolds, another member of the Recreation Commission, said:

"The Recreation Commission will do everything it can to make a success of the Metropolitan performances. This is a great step in bringing the right kind of recreation to the people and in making recreation a community thing."

Mrs. Reynolds commented with satisfaction on the Metropolitan's plan to have a generous number of low-priced seats for the performances.

Frederick C. McLaughlin, Mayor of White Plains, said:

"To have grand opera in our splendid new community centre is a great step forward in our recreation program. It is a piece of wonderful good news. I am sure it will be greatly appreciated by the people of the county."

CONCERT ON THE VOLENDAM

Holland-America Line Begins Sailing—Night Series.

With the departure of the Holland-America liner Volendam last night, a series of sailing-night concerts was begun, to be given at the sailing hour on all ships of the line. Officials of the company announced yesterday that throughout the Summer, every Holland-America liner would sail after a concert program and deck dancing for first-cabin passengers.

Last night's concert began at 9 o'clock and accommodated departing passengers and their guests until shortly before the liner was scheduled to depart for Plymouth, Boulogne and Rotterdam. The concert opened with the national anthems of the United States and Holland, during which passengers stood at attention.

DISHONESTY OF CLERK LAID TO OPERATION

Probation Bureau Reports Man Sentenced for Theft Had Led an Exemplary Life for 25 Years.

George Fred Williams, 53 years old, who lived with his wife and grown son and daughter at 348 Fingerboard Road, Fort Wadsworth, S. I., was sentenced to Sing Sing for from one to two years by Judge Donnellan in General Sessions yesterday on a plea of guilty to the theft of $2,260 from his former employers, the Sterling Watch Co., 150 Nassau Street.

Williams had been employed by the concern for five years as a messenger and prior to that for more than twenty years by R. H. Hoe & Co., printing press manufacturers, at 504 Grand Street. But, according to a probation report, after an operation in a Staten Island hospital last January, Williams shook off the regularity which had characterized his whole life and sought a more adventurous career.

The sedate home life he had led, the report continued, had been accompanied by meticulous honesty in his employment, but, on recovering from the operation, "he lost all sense of regard for the welfare of his family and his suppressed emotions were given a free rein."

This resulted in the theft of the $2,260 he had been sent to deposit in a bank. He took a young woman with him to Washington and later journeyed alone to Greensboro, S. C., where he became part owner of a swimming pool with another woman.

This venture resulted in a financial loss and then he visited St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit, where he surrendered to the police on June 25 and was brought back to the city to face a grand larceny indictment.

WESTCHESTER ALTERS ITS PARKWAY RULES

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 3.—A new set of traffic rules for use on the Westchester County parkways, just adopted by the county park commission, is expected materially to expedite traffic and to aid in the elimination of accidents, it was said today.

One of the most important changes forbids the use of the parkways to pedestrians, except at crossings or in the case of an emergency. At crossings, however, where there is no traffic signal or officer, the pedestrian has the right of way and traffic must stop at the pedestrian's signal.

In the past, parking has been permitted on the parkways, except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The new regulation forbids vehicles to stop on any drive longer than is necessary to allow persons to enter or alight, except at places specially designated for parking and in cases of emergency.

Bicyclists are forbidden on the parkways under the new regulations, except to cross, and horseback riders are to be kept exclusively to bridle paths. No bright headlights are to be permitted except when the lighting system is not in operation on a particular drive. "Hitch hiking" is forbidden, as park officials believe this practice is particularly dangerous. The "full stop" order which previously had been enforced under a State law at parkway entrances and exits has not been incorporated in the new regulations. The same regulations are to be in force for hand signals as are effective in New York City. All complete turns in the parkway are forbidden within 200 feet of the end of a one-way drive.

SINGS AGAIN IN CHOIR LOFT.

Anna Case Gives Concert in Church Where She Once Was Soloist.

Special to The New York Times.

NESHANIC, N. J., July 3.—Anna Case, operatic soprano, returned to the scene of her earliest triumphs tonight and sang for the home folks.

Under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society, Miss Case appeared at the Reformed Church here and rendered a number of her best known selections from the choir loft where she had once served the church as soloist. It was her first concert there since she became a noted singer.

The church was thronged with those who had driven many miles over country roads to hear the singer. Many of those in the audience had known Miss Case as a child. Among those present were her mother from South Branch, who lives at the remodeled, vine-covered homestead where Miss Case spends many of her week-ends and vacations.

YOUNG STOWAWAYS CAUGHT

HAVRE, France, July 3.—Two young American stowaways aboard the French liner Ile de France were turned over to the immigration authorities when the ship arrived here today from New York. They will be sent back to the United States on the first ship departing from this port.

Miss Yolande Palmer, 23, a stenographer, and Paul Hoeber, both boarded the ship with visitors' cards at the French Line pier in New York and hid until the ship was well out at sea. Both explained they wanted to see Europe but could not pay the passage.

BROKERS, BANKRUPT, BLAME STOCK DROP

RECEIVER IS APPOINTED

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard appointed yesterday the Irving Trust Company receiver in bankruptcy for Broomhall, Killough & Co., Inc., dealers in bank and insurance stock, at 115 Broadway, who, in a voluntary petition for the action, listed liabilities of $731,000 and assets of $532,000.

The petition was filed by Goldmark, Bennitt & Cohen, attorneys, at 165 Broadway, in behalf of Allen Broomhall, president of the company, who said he was a creditor of the defendant to the extent of $18,000, representing his unpaid salary.

Mr Broomhall swore in an accompanying affidavit that the company was unable to pay its debts in full; that a receivership should be appointed for the benefit of creditors; that the company has in various banks large loans in which there are or may be equities, and that the appointment of a receiver would make possible the conserving of the firm's additional assets.

The company, the affidavit states, occupies expensive and commodious offices. The receiver, it is added, may find it advisable to surrender these, thus forestalling liability for their use, and also to dispose of the office furniture.

"It may be necessary," the affidavit continues, "for the receiver to retain certain employes, who should be hired at once to insure availability. Employes no longer needed should be promptly discharged.

"As the result of curtailment of loans, some checks of the defendant corporation have not been paid, and demands have been or will be made for the payment thereof."

Directors of the firm are Mr. Broomhall, Edgar Sheppard, Lee C. Shepard and Joseph W. Vermilye, secretary. The company was organized in 1927. The petition states that the company will file a schedule of assets and liabilities in a few days.

A spokesman for the firm ascribed its losses to the sharp decline in bank stocks and other unlisted securities in the last two months.
